If there were any alternative, fiction dies particularly attractive. If any recollection of the human mind is preserved after the change, it would be downright misery. When we look at animals and every (well, we do) we tend to attribute to them all the intelligence and human qualities of an adult human being, combined with their own advantages of speed or appear to us. But that is silly: man has the most elaborately developed nervous system of all animals and is the only animal, so far as we know, that is capable of abstract thought.

Animals are particularly defenseless against the fear of age, which man is not. An old horse is more likely to end up with a "lower-back pain" than a man, and he has no means of relieving it. The sum of pain is part of his physical makeup. And a cat, though it has the reputation of being able to see in the dark, actually sees no better in the dark than a human being; it has the disadvantage of seeing rather worse in full daylight than we do. Further, both cats and horses have acrimotchromacy, or colorblindness, as a matter of fact, have the type of vision enjoyed by one-eyed humans, with consequent poor judgment of perspective. The remarkable judgment of distance shown by cats is the result of a type of muscular development which human beings also have, but not use so much because they depend on their superior eyesight.

To live without consciousness of past or future may be attractive to us, but we would not like to act. To purchase the digestion of a horse at the expense of having to live on hay and oats would be a poor bargain. To possess the reflexes of a cat at the cost of having the tiny perceptions of a cat (two-thirds of a cat's brain is the reverse of what we have) an animal being aware of it) seems a one-sided arrangement.

Upon the whole, if you have the luck to be human, it is best to be content with the cards you can do with the riches you possess.

Retired Folks Who Want to Move Must Make Decision on Their Own

By THOMAS COLLINS

"How do you decide," a businessman wants to know, "whether to stay where you are or move away when you retire?"

His name is Robert J. Schweiker, and he will retire on Sept. 1, 1958. "Mama and I have worked out most of the other problems," he says. "But every time we start discussing where we'll live we run into a dead end. Good and bad are on both sides. Can you give us some advice that is practical?"

The best practical advice you can get is to make the decision alone without any influence from friends or neighbors. A neighbor without the courage to get outside the city limits will tell you a hundred good reasons to stay away from the palm trees. An old friend who retired to a Colorado mountainside will urge you to follow him, because he wants somebody to keep him company.

So, taking your own counsel, apply the following hints to fit your circumstances. And you'll come up with an answer.

WHY YOU SHOULD MOVE:

1. If your friends and social life are tied up with your business and you sell out and you want to stay because you don't want to lose them, move. You can't keep them after you retire. They'll rush on in their same busy way, and you will watch from the sidelines. And you may grow bitter.

2. If you cannot maintain a standard of living your friends expect, move. You can't be apologizing the rest of your life for your shiny pants and old car, or for declining invitations to set shows and play golf.

2. If the loss of your position and the importance and prestige that went with it are going to gnaw away at your pride, move. There are a thousand little towns that still think a city man with a pension is important.

4. If you just want to, move. The Lord knows you've earned it by staying alive and working until 65. It's a reward that's yours for the taking.

1. Friends will not be easy to keep. A strange attraction draws Arizona, California and Florida will try to help you. But your new acquaintances will not be there on account of the assurance of the faces back on the street where you lived.

2. The cost of things in a strange place will worry you. The cost of housing and taxes that can determine is advance. But you'll have to discover what all the little things cost — things like yogurt, linament, and rheumatism pills. At home, if the carburetor on your car breaks, you know a fellow around the corner who'll fix it for $2. If you get sick, Old Doc Smith will charge you $5 for a call as long as he has to live in town, you're a stranger. And if you've got a tie on, you're not.

3. At home you know what the problems are — and how to dodge them. The heat, the cold, the rain, the blizzards, the insects, the weeds, the hill and ditchers, the bores — whatever it is your home town has you know about and how to live with it. But in a strange town . . . when it thunders or intermittently weird planets are the floors at night? And then there is trouble. At home you know where to get help. In a strange town, how to call police, whom to call when your child is making mischief, how to borrow $20. But somewhere else?

4. Don't move when you retire, you probably can't come back. Your housing has been the household treasures of your lifetime. You may have more money for modern costs than most people have. A way of life, if it seems to be making you down, go. And not to the same place.

Whatever you decide, my best advice to you — apart from making up your own mind — is don't hedge on your bet. If you decide to stay, travel far and wide for a few months. If you decide to move, rent — don't sell — your house and possessions for at least a year.

Use Snow Tires Or Chains for Winter Driving

By EUGENE MILMOE

In preparing for the worst winter driving conditions, slippery road hazards become the first concern. Some car owners dust off the tire chains and keep them handy in the trunk, while others prefer to ride on snow tires until mild weather is in season.

For better traction and braking when the going is rough on glare ice and hard-packed snow, tire chains just can't be beaten. They are much cheaper than a pair of snow tires, too, but they have their disadvantages. Most motorists find chains a nuisance to put on and take off, they are noisy and they give suspensions and tires a beating.

Snow tires, though not quite as efficient, are generally preferred today. With the tires mounted on the rear wheels, the motorist is always ready to meet tractionless conditions in ice or snow, slush, mud, etc. If driving conditions are really bad, chains can always be mounted over the snow tires.

L.L. asks: "Why so much emphasis on weight in the new engine? I always thought the idea was to keep a cool running engine, not a hot one."

(A) Heat energy is needed to keep the engine running efficiently. Temperatures ranging from 176 to approximately 195 degrees are considered most desirable because they help the engine work easier and vaporization of raw gas and minimize formation of the corrosive and sludge-building by-products of fuel.

K.F. writes: "At idle speeds, my 1932 engine misses and shakes instead of running smoothly and quietly. Once in a while it even stalls on me. A competent mechanic checked me the following: carburetor, choke, fuel pump, coil, battery, spark plugs, points and wiring. He also looked for air leaks due to bad gaskets, and then tightened up the engine mounts. Something is causing this roughness, but I can't find it yet. Can you? The mechanic now suspects the valves."

(A) A sluggish or leaky valve condition may well be the trouble.

R.Q. asks: "How to prepare for winter, I had the engine oil and grease changed, permanent antifreeze put in and a new winter thermostat installed. Should I change to hot spark plugs, too?"

(A) The type of driving you do, the weather, should determine the most efficient spark plug heat range for your car. Generally, hot plugs are needed if you do considerable or constant short-run, slow-speed driving.

From N.H.: "While driving back from the country at 30-35 m.p.h., the generator red warning light on the dash suddenly came on. The engine gradually got very hot and probably would have overheated but, luckily, I reached home before it did. This happened just a few days ago. I haven't used the car since. Do you know what caused it?"

(A) Fan belt trouble, evidently. Check to see if it has loosened up or snapped.

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

'Jeep Trails Through Utah' Thrills Lovers of Travel

Local travelogue enthusiasts were taken on an imaginary tour of one of the most colorful and bizare areas of the United States Tuesday night when Stan Midgley, well known photographer and humorist, presented his latest film, "Jeep Trails through Utah" in the Collegiate Auditorium. This film was the second of the current Kiwanis Club "World Travel and Adventure Series."

In addition to viewing popular tourist attractions such as Bryce and Zion Canyons, Mormon temple; Salt Lake City, Monument Valley, the audience was also treated to scenes almost unknown to the average tourist. These included such natural wonders as Arches National Monument, natural bridges, prehistoric Indian cliff dwellings, Goblin Valley, Cathedral Valley and the Flaming Gorge. Mr. Midgley graphically illustrated his point that if a tourist expended a little extra time and energy to get to these out-of-the-way places, he would be well rewarded by breathtakingly beautiful and unusual sights.

Mr. Midgley, better known as "the Mark Twain of the camera," narrated his film with his own famous brand of good humor. Before the film started he told the audience the reason he chose to travel by jeep instead of his usual mode of conveyance — a bicycle — was because it would be "too hard peddling through the deep, shifting sands and high mountains" he expected to encounter.

MONUMENT VALLEY

In his film travels through Utah, Mr. Midgley took the sub-jeeps first, to Monument Valley, where he "stopped off" at Harry Goulding's Trading Post and Fort Stark, an abandoned movie set for the movie, "She Wore A Yellow Ribbon." He then explored much of the 1,000 square miles of canyons, rock formations, cliff dwellings and desert. Pictures of Navajo Indians tending their sheep and weaving blankets were shown. Mr. Midgley explained the blankets, woven in traditional patterns, are woven so tightly they are almost waterproof.

Several natural bridges were shown including the world's largest which is 261 feet across and 250 feet high. Mr. Midgley explained that natural bridges are hewn out of cliffs by rampaging rivers.

Mr. Midgley and his jeep, "Gutless Gus," then crossed a desolate desert and arrived at the town of Moab, population of about 1,000, in the centre of the uranium country, and near the muddy Colorado River.

Views of Onion Creek Gorge, so narrow he could just barely get his jeep through, Double Arch, 185 feet in height, the Parade of the Elephant rock formations, "The Three Gossips" (looking remarkably like three old women having a gossip session) all carved by Mother Nature, were seen.

The narrator informed there are 85 arches in Arches National Monument, each blasted by the severe sand storms prevalent in this region. A view of the Fiery Furnace, a half-mile labyrinth of canyons, seen in the middle of the day and at sunset, was breathtaking.

NATURE'S ODDITY

The trail then led up narrow, twisting roads from a hot desolate desert to snow-capped La Salle Mountains. Snow can be seen at an elevation of around 9,500 feet. Mr. Midgley explained, and snow-cups (like stalagmites) are prevalent. These are formed when the hot sun, shining straight down, melts cuts into the thick walls of ice or snow.

Other interesting and unusual sights included Cathedral and Goblin Valley, filled with unusual rock formations towering 500 to 700 feet in height. Cathedral Valley was re-discovered about 6 years ago when a plane crashed there, he said.

Both are excellent places for people with imagination. Goblin Valley is the funniest place in the country, with its sandstone schmoos, turtles, elephants, dogs, parade of bed-bugs, bed-bugs and other characters (depending on your imagination), all carved by Mother Nature.

These areas have not, as yet, been invaded by civilization, according to Mr. Midgley, they are destined to become popular tourist attractions in the near future. Anyone wishing them is apt to "laugh himself silly," he said.

The audience also viewed the unusual antics of Crystal-Geyser in action. The world's only cold water geyser spouts 100 feet into the air every hour and 10 minutes. It was supposed to be an oil well, he explained.

Also on the agenda was Salt Lake City with its four white marble Mormon Temples, Salt Lake Beach, where one can relax and read a newspaper while floating on one's back, and Wasatch Mountains in summer, with trout streams, colorful flowers, cascading waterfalls and clear lakes.

The film ended with beautiful autumn scenes of mountains with fresh-fallen snow, yellow aspen and finally of leaves falling from the trees and carpeting the ground.

A second film "short" was also shown and narrated by Mr. Midgley. This was a colorful filmed account of last year's Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, Calif. The views of beautiful and imaginative floats contain from 50 to 60,000 flowers apiece, the colorful bands, majorettes, native costumes, crowds and celebrities delighted the audience. Midgley's skill with the camera and his humorous narrative style combined to make this travelogue one of the most enjoyable programs presented.

Mr. Midgley is a graduate of Princeton University, who made a hobby pay off. He worked as an industrial chemist for eight years but his skill with a camera and an urge to travel led him into the travelogue field.

He entered his first movie, with Bob Knight

Shooting Home Movies ...With Bob Knight

What all the shootin's been about . . . what all these movie-making columns have been about . . . the acquisition of a series of movie records that you can enjoy . . . to their fullest. And so far we've been talking pretty much about cameras and film — yet perhaps the most important factor in true movie enjoyment is proper projection. For this is indeed the proof of home-movie pudding.

Any good movie camera and even the least expensive, these days, is good . . . plus the use of good movie film . . . and you've a splendid collection of color-and-action pictures. But how will you see them and savor them depends in large part on how much your projection equipment can reproduce what you have recorded on that thin ribbon of movie film. Your movies cannot be bright if your projector fails to put enough light in back of them. They cannot be detailed if its optical equipment is faulty. They cannot be fully pleasurable if your projector wheezes and sputters. In fact, if you must exercise the option, you'll do well to concentrate on the camera rather than on the projector.

ADEQUATE EQUIPMENT

This doesn't mean a necessarily heavy investment in projection equipment. But it does suggest a modern projector that will fill the screen size of your choice with crisp and colorful images. Please note the phrase "screen size". For you should have a movie screen. Window shades . . . a sheeting . . . a patch of wall . . . just won't do — unless that wall is a pure, flat white. Any tint on a makeshift screen and the face will the tint or color on your film. And if your "screen" is porous . . . if any of the projector's light penetrates it to appear on the far side . . . you can bet your bottom dollar that you've lost just that much snap and sparkle on the viewing side.

You should to repeat . . . have a good and adequate screen. It needn't cost much. Given the least expensive of today's projectors will fill a screen two to three feet wide and if that's not enough for you for your viewing audiences, there's your projector and screen combination. If it doesn't or so folks are to see your movies, however, you'll need a brighter projector and a larger screen — and there are 8mm projectors now on the market that will fill a screen five feet wide, and 16mm projectors that will throw your movies to a width of ten feet, or even larger.

COMEDY EFFECTS

Another fine feature about modern projectors . . . and again, even with many of the least expensive, is their versatility. For they'll not only show your movies with the same pace and faithfulness you saw in your camera's finder when you shot them, but they'll also halt to screen a still of any desired movie frame, and also reverse the progress of the film for review or for comedy effects — and even speedy and corny though it may be, there's nothing so certain to send an audience of youngsters rolling about the floor than seeing a pair of them jumping backwards over a fence, or bounding out of the water feet first, and landing — kerplunk — on the diving board.

Home-movies shows, too, are usually intimate, informal affairs. A time to relax . . . let down your hair a bit . . . have some fun among friends or family. There's no need or obligation to align chairs and audience in rigid array. Far better to have your viewers sink into sofas . . . or toss a pillow on the floor and tuck their knees under their chins.

And even your choice of reels to your viewers. Family movie records are unbeatable film fare — for the family. But not always for friends. This, perhaps, is the time to show a vacation reel . . . a travel film . . . a sports movie. And, 8mm or 16mm, there are now professionally produced rental films available . . . at the photo dealers. Comedies, Adventure, Spectacles; Big sports events, a little suspense-police . . . a little foresight . . . and every home-movie show can be a mighty exciting exciting event. As for strictly family reels — you just can't see or show them often enough.

Editor's Note: This concludes the series of articles on Shooting Home Movies written by Bob Knight.

Proper Care for Your Geraniums

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The geraniums which bloomed so well for you all summer can bloom again next year. They can also be used to multiply your stock of bedding plants.

Having brought them in before severe frost you may now enjoy a little more color from them if they are allowed to open their buds which are already set. Keep them in a sunny window and water sufficiently until bloom has faded.

Cut off the tips of all branches. Four to five inches is a good length. Make the cut just below a leaf node. Remove the lower two leaves. Let the cut surface dry for half an hour. This hardens the surface and seems to encourage rooting. Dip the cut surface in rootone, or rooting hormone powder, then in sulphur. The sulphur will discourage fungus disease spores. The old plants should be then trimmed back, and given just enough water to keep the plants from wilting. Fertilizer should not be given on the dry side. They are resting until spring when they will again be ready for the garden. You can begin feeding them and giving more water in March.

PLACE IN POTS

The cuttings should be placed in two-inch pots, or use an eight-inch pot and put several cuttings. Place a piece of broken pot over the hole and use sharp sand, vermiculite, or spaganum moss as the growing medium. Place a small stick in the center and water by filling this. The water will seep out into the other pot and keep the cuttings moist. Place in a sunny window but not direct sun. It will take about three weeks for roots to form. At that time pot on in two-inch pots. Use a good top soil, or buy special potting soil and add a small amount of vigora. When the pots are filled with roots the plants may be moved into three inch pots. Grow in these pots until time to transplant the garden. The more roots the better.

It takes six months or more from cuttings to blooming plants. The long growing period makes them expensive for the florist to grow. If you want geraniums to bloom indoors through the winter you must take cuttings in July. Grow them in two-inch pots in the garden, later transplanting to bloom in five pots. The pots must be filled with roots before the plants will begin to set buds.

They need a good light window and regular feeding with liquid plant food. Ammonium sulphate will take the place of liquid manure. Use one half an ounce dissolved in one gallon of water. Stir until disolved. Use every two or three weeks.

FOUR MAIN GROUPS

There are four main groups of geraniums. The show types, ivy leaved, scented leaved and the zonals. The large flower cluster types which we usually buy for bedding out plants are really pelargoniums. The zonals make fine summer bedding plants, too, but do not produce as many flowers. Martha Washington will bloom only in cool conditions.

A geranium leaf will root if you will take a small shield shaped slice off the stem with it. The crotch at the base of the leaf will send out roots if treated as the stem cuttings. These will take longer to grow into blooming plants but it is worth waiting for, as especially handsome zonal, or the unusual color or type of peranium.

Wedding

DYLKE — LAROCHE

TRENTON — Shirley Ann Laroche and LAC Ronald Dylke were united in marriage last Saturday in a pretty wedding performed by Rev. Neil Walsh, at 6 Repair Depot Chapel, RCAF Station Trenton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Laroche, Kaled Drive, Middlebury Park, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Dylke, of Calgary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a ballerina length dress of brocaded organza with matching accessories. The matron of honour was Mrs. Arthur Lipscombe, friend of the bride.

The best man was Mr. Arthur Stevenson.

The wedding reception was held at the bride's home on Kaled Drive, the bride's mother received the guests.

Y's Menettes Plan Projects

The Y's Menettes Club of Belleville met Tuesday evening at the home of Audrene Moore-man. The chair was taken by president Mary Scharman. Minutes were read by Hazel Thomas. One hour was devoted to the business portion where the main subject under discussion was future projects which included a rummage sale later this month and a prospective cooking school in February.

Joan Massey and Eleanor Terejko were welcomed to the club by the president. After the business portion of the meeting was adjourned by Jean Flindall. Mr. Max Waddell, president of the Belleville Y's Men's Club, introduced Mr. Hawley Hamilton, president of the Y's Men's Club of Cobourg, guest speaker. Mr. Hamilton is a professional chef and took as his theme for the evening "Food for Thought and Fun." The speaker stated how unconscious and assiduous the housewife's chore of preparing three daily meals can be, but by the end of the evening his intrigued audience realized that with little effort it could be a lot of fun.

To conclude the evening, petite fours, which Mr. Hastilon demonstrated the procedure of icing and decorating were served with coffee. Thanks were extended to the speaker by Norma Clarke.

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Mark Drouin has one qualm about her new duties as wife of the speaker of the Senate.

"I don't know how I will be able to remember all the new names," the petite and vivacious Mrs. Drouin told a reporter.

Her life as the wife of a Quebec City lawyer was changed in early October, when her 55-year-old husband was appointed to the Senate and made speaker of the upper chamber.

The dual appointment came as a "complete surprise," she said, but she added that she is an "enthusiastic person," who can adjust quickly to new surroundings.

DAUGHTER AT SCHOOL

The mother of 13-year-old Julie who is at school in Quebec, Mrs. Drouin said the Senate appointment has sparked her daughter's interest in history and economics.

Mrs. Drouin tried to spend each weekend in the Quebec City home where an orphaned niece and newphew also live.

She said she is a housewife who hasn't time for hobbies, but still enjoys reading — "mostly current, not for publication."

"I even wrote a novel when I was 14," she said. "But I had to hide it because I was at a convent then. It was a love story and the nuns were very strict."

She shares an interest in drama and the arts with her husband, who is a founder of the Theatre du Nouveau Monde in Montreal.

Annual CWL Tea Bazaar Has Christmas Theme

Despite inclement weather crowds thronged St. Michael's Academy auditorium Thursday afternoon for the annual St. Michael's Catholic Women's League tea and bazaar.

The large hall was decorated in a Christmas theme with baskets of red crepe paper poinsettias and pine boughs and other festive decorations. A Christmas carol was played softly prevailed, aided by the gleeful shouts of numerous children who thronged in after receiving their lucky luck at the fish pond and to look over the dolls, (one with a complete bridal outfit), doll clothes, children's books, toys, and other home articles. Their parents, however, found they could shorten their shopping as much as possible by patronizing the many well-filled booths, laden with fancy work, baby clothes, lamps, plants, aprons, groceries and other useful or decorative items.

A welcome innovation to the bazaar was the tray-setting service conducted by the 6th St. Belleville Girl Guides and Brownies, under the supervision of Mrs. Jack Goyer, Mrs. P. Hamilton and Mrs. G. Walsh.

HOMECOOKING TEMPTING

The homecooking table, temptingly laden with pies and tarts by Mrs. Joseph Cassidy, cupcakes, doughnuts, date squares, tarts and fruit cakes, did a thriving business. In the cake department, there were many attractively decorated cakes, and some in unusual shapes, but few in particular caught the eye — that of a Santa Claus face complete with coconut whiskers and red frosted nose and cap. It was made by Mrs. J. Vinkle, and was realistic enough to be beautifully decorated angel food with a violet corsage on top, which was made by Mrs. Ann Robinson. Those in charge of this booth were Mrs. J. Boyle, Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. T. Mascaro, and Mrs. Duggan.

The fish booth, heaped with aprons of all varieties for all occasions, from colorful cotton prints for everyday to fancy nylon and organdy for parties, was also quite popular. This booth was convened by Mrs. E. Brown, Mrs. C. Casey and Mrs. T. Scanlon.

The fancy work table, featuring afghans and doilies, cushion work luncheon sets, table cloths, pot holders, place mats, embroidered articles, tea towels, smoked rugs, cloth shopping bags, and felt Christmas stockings, drew in crowds of Christmas shoppers. Those working in this booth were Mrs. Kenneth Bland, Mrs. J. Ethier and Mrs. A. Wardhaugh.

The novelty booth, also popular with those seeking useful and unusual Christmas gifts, displayed such items as jewellery, table lamps, potted plants, figurines, carving sets, children's books, dolls and boxes of Christmas cards. Conveners for this booth were Mrs. K. Soden, Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. McCallum and Mrs. A. Meagher.

The baby and doll clothes booth, featuring dainty overalls and shirts, flannelette pyjamas (sizes 1 1-2 to 3), embroidered baby jackets, children's mitts, knitted bonnet sets, etc., was convened by Mrs. L. Reed, Mrs. Cooney and Mrs. Derraw.

The candy table, loaded with delicious fudge, maple cream, fondant, chocolate-marshmallow squares and chocolates, was presided over by Mrs. Gene Callaghan, Mrs. J. O'Connor and Mrs. Joseph O'Connor.

Jams and jellies booth, offering home-made relishes, chutneys, honey and fruit jams, was convened by Mrs. O. Forrest, Mrs. J. Stone, Mrs. F. R. Ross.

FISH POND POPULAR

The fish pond, a popular place for the children, was in charge of Mrs. Clancy and Mrs. Faulkner.

Mrs. J. Waters and Mrs. Hebert, in blue and white streamered booth containing a Lady of Fatima shrine, was set up in the middle of the hall. Religious books and scapulars could be purchased.

The tea room was convened by Mrs. J. Perrault, Mrs. D. Monaghan, Mrs. Lawrence and A. McRae, Mrs. J. V. Boyle, Mrs. Mrs. Mrs.

GOOD MANNERS

SIGNING CARD ENCLOSED WITH WEDDING PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I got a host any engraved personal cards, and we really have little use for them. When we send a wedding present from a store and are given a plain white card to enclose with the present, how should I write our names on the card — "Mr. and Mrs. John Ross" or "Mary and John Ross"? — The "Mrs."

If you write your names only, "Mr. and Mrs. John Ross" is correct . . . the same form as the names would be engraved on personal cards. But if you also write a message (which would, I think, be and look more natural and gracious for this informal card) you would sign your informal names to the message. For example: "With love and every good wish for your happiness, always. John and Mary Ross." (Since you will be signing the names, you courteously write your name last.)

TIPPING FOR BREAKFAST-SERVICE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When one is staying at a hotel for a week or two, and breakfast is served in the room each morning by a waiter, should one tip-be given to the waiter each morning, or at the end of the stay?

2. About how much should this tip be?

3. I have been told that if the guest wishes to, he may, instead of giving the room waiter the tip write a note on the bottom of the bill stating the amount of the tip he wishes given the waiter. Is this correct information? — E.M.

1. You should tip the room waiter each time he brings the breakfast tray.

2. The amount of the tip depends somewhat on the elaborateness of the breakfast check . . . but the tip for breakfast-service should be generally 15 cents, possibly 20 cents for just coffee or tea and toast.

3. Yes . . . this is correct information.

A TEEN-AGE INTRODUCTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and I would like to ask you a question, please. I am a 16-year-old girl. When I am introduced to a older woman, should I extend my hand to shake hands with her as I say "How do you do"? — Ann

No, You should wait for the older woman to offer her hand.

NAME FORM FOR REMARRIED WIDOW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow and will soon be married to a widower. I am uncertain as to how I should use my present married surname in my new name. Today a close friend told me that I am supposed to use this name in the middle name. Please explain. — E.

After your marriage your dress all parts of the name of your first husband. Your second husband's name will then be your name, with the title Mrs.

TO ASK FATHER OR STEPFATHER TO GIVE HER IN MARRIAGE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in a few months, and I have a very serious problem as to who is to give me in marriage at the church ceremony. My mother and father were divorced five years ago, both have remarried, and I live with my mother and step-father. I have talked over my problem with several friends who say it is my father's place to give me in marriage, even though he and my mother are divorced, but two or three other friends insist that I should have my step-father give me in marriage, as I have lived with my mother and stepfather since the divorce. My father and I are good friends, and I see him every three or four weeks, (what again, is my mother's wishes).

Sometimes I dine with him and his wife at their home or in a restaurant, and sometimes he and I lunch together in a restaurant which is quite near both his office and mine. I am very devoted to my stepfather, and am indeed most grateful to him. My mother has told me that if I ask my father to give me in marriage, she will not approve and that I will hurt him. I am positive that if I don't ask him, it would hurt him very much, and this I don't want to do. I am quite sure that my stepfather would understand if I were to ask him to have my own father give me in marriage. I have not yet told either my father or stepfather about this procedure, but I imagine my mother has talked it over with my stepfather. Please advise me, for I need help. — Bride-to-be

I do hope that you can convince your mother that customarily, when the bride's mother and father are divorced, the bride's father gives his daughter in marriage, unless the bride does not wish this, or unless there is some very special reason why he is not a reasonable plan. And I do hope you can convince her that on such an important day in the

Mrs. G.A. Gliddon Can Look Back to Beginning of WI

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. G. A. Gliddon of Stoney Creek, Ont., can look back to the very beginning of the Women's Institutes in Canada.

She was a teen-ager when the WI was formed 52 years ago in the village near Hamilton. Now she's a spry 75, and a charter member of the WI, but she says she can't take any credit for getting the first Institute established.

At 15, the former Maude Harvey was too young to attend the WI evening meetings, although her mother—herself unable to attend—had paid for her daughter's membership.

But in the years that followed, Mrs. Gliddon took an active part in Institute work. She was a keen debater and also served as pianist at meetings.

Mrs. Gliddon was the only one of the five living charter members to attend the first national convention of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada held here recently.

She gave delegates something to think about when she took the platform to say that not all the credit for the first WI should go to the acknowledged founder, Adelaide Hoodless. There would not have been any WI at all if it had not been for the hard work of its first officers and members, she said.

Anyone glancing through the history of the Women's Institutes would note that founding honors go to Stoney Creek farmer Erland Lee, she explained. He was a Farmers' Institute member, and asked Mrs. Hoodless to speak to the farmers' group.

Mr. Lee and his wife were staunch supporters of the fledgling WI. Gliddon recalls about the women's organization expressed by Mrs. Edith Rose, then Ontario superintendent for the Farmers' Institutes.

Mrs. Gliddon explained that WI members in Stoney Creek had undertaken a letter writing campaign by Mr. Hodson to Mr. Lee, in which the former suggested it would be a good idea before women in an independent institute group could be admitted to one in which Mrs. Gliddon could say with a chuckle, addressing delegates gathered at the meeting: "Now isn't that some joke!"

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

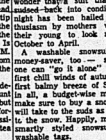
IT'S SNOW-SUIT SEASON FOR THE SMALL FRY

Comes rain, snow or winter wind, this little darling's all set.

Any mother who has tried to keep a houseful of small-fry looking smart and well groomed in winter knows that one of the greatest investments is warm gravity. the washable snowsuit.

What with daily dampings in the snow, grime collected between snowfalls, and lots of activity — this day-in, day-out item takes a lot of punishment. So it's no wonder that a suit that can be sudsed-back into condition overnight has been hailed with enthusiasm by mothers who judge their young to look nice from October to April.

A washable snowsuit is a money-saver, too — since just one-piece "go it alone" from the first chill winds of autumn to the first balmy breeze of Spring. All in all, a budget-wise mother will make sure to buy a snowsuit that will take to the tubs as readily as to the snow. Happily, most of the smartly styled snowsuits carry washable tags.



Those made of nylon or Orlon outer shells and linings and lofts are most certainly washable. There is a great selection of these — and even those of Orlon fleece to nylon suits in taffeta, twill, or a blistered crepe. Those made of cotton poplin, treated for water repellency, are equally washable. Many of the quilted linings of Intercel or dynel which are as satisfactory as they are cozy, and linings of celanese jersey or some equally soap-happy fabric.

Washability, of course, even includes pretty trim. Many of the smartest suits have "fur" collars made of either Fiber E or dynel. Both are supremely washable and will come back to their original fluffiness when dry. Even the leather trimmings can be dry, however, so allowance should be made for rescue.

Suits of nylon or Orlon should be draped on a hanger to dry, not wrung. People should be wrung very lightly to avoid creasing the fabric, then hung smoothly to dry. Hand smoothing and finger-pressing of seams, hems, collars, and cuffs will then make ironing unnecessary.

Life of his, as well as her, daughter, she should be big-sized and enough to make every effort to put past difficulties and differences in the background, and be cooperate with your natural wishes and your father's natural desire to give his daughter in marriage.

Since you are obviously on such good terms with your father, seek him quite often, and apparently enjoy having this happy relation-ship with him. I cannot feel that your mother has the right to deny your father this natural honor of giving you in marriage as you have chosen to do. Under the circumstances, it is not your step-father's place to give you in marriage . . . and your mother should not urge this, nor should your friends.

"Sleep all day if you want to — but pull your legs in."

Mrs. Elliott Addresses Eastminster United Women's Federation

The president, Mrs. J. Kuntze, welcomed those present and then called on the secretary, Mrs. T. Illey, to read the minutes of the previous meeting. Following Mrs. G. Maybee to give the financial report.

Everyone was reminded of the Dr. Thomas Preaching Mission at Bridge Street United Church Nov. 17 to 24. Mrs. Kuntze followed with a prayer.

The Coronation Club of Bridge street Church have extended an invitation to the Eastminster Women's Federation to join with them at their regular meeting Nov. 27.

Mrs. Neil Britton, literature secretary requested those interested in receiving the Missionary Monthly to contact her.

The Thank offering was received by Mrs. S. Hoard and Mrs. A. Hallech.

Mrs. J. Schurman's group took charge of the devotional period. Mrs. Brodie assisted by reading the Scripture.

Mrs. J. Williams introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Brooks Elliott of Toronto, president of the Women's Missionary Society of Belleville Presbytery. Mrs. Elliott spoke on Christian love and sacrifice. Mrs. A. Duffy thanked the speaker for her very interesting and inspiring message.

Mrs. Schurman's group served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

No Presentation For Debutantes After Next Year

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth ruled Thursday that palace presentation ceremonies for debutantes will be discontinued after next year. Instead, the sovereign will hold additional parties on the spacious palace lawns to enable more persons to be her guests.

This marks as presentation at court as less formal than the palace ceremony. About 250 British and Commonwealth girls now make their curtsies to the Queen and Prince Philip at each presentation, either at Buckingham Palace of Holyroodhouse, Edinburgh.

Critics have denounced the presentations as snobbish and outmoded. They urged the Queen to modernize her court.

Although the decision to drop next year may be a blow to debutantes, it undoubtedly will be welcomed by the staffs of Commonwealth high commissioners in London, who have the tricky task of deciding each year who will be lucky enough to receive one of the prized invitations.

Last year more than 400 Canadians were among those invited to garden parties at the palace and 44 Canadian debutantes made their curtsies before the Queen.

A business has developed over the years of "schools for debs" in which society women rehearse their charges in deportment and curtsying in the art of curtsying.

The practice started in the 16th century.

QUESTION :

. . . I find that I am in need of little constructive help. My pastor women's organization expressed to Mrs. Ross Beech, the Ontario superintendent for the Farmers' Institutes.

Mrs. Gliddon explained that WI members in Stoney Creek had undertaken a letter writing campaign by Mr. Hodson to Mr. Lee, in which the former suggested it would be a good idea before women in an independent institute group could be admitted to one in which Mrs. Gliddon could say with a chuckle, addressing delegates gathered at the meeting: "Now isn't that some joke!"

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Daniel G. — My wife's pace is too much for me.

Shirley G. — I'm miserable when I'm forced to sit still.

Daniel G. — My wife is what is known as a "community leader." She is active in church and charitable work. On top- of that, she is unofficial personal adviser to all the people she's fed up. She is constantly on the go. Every minute we spend at home, she has the children and me addressing envelopes and licking stamps. She runs the house like a streamlined factory with all of us "doing our bit" like so many cogs in a machine.

I can't say we don't have a family life. She even arranges family meetings and manages to squeeze in romance. What I object to is the pace. It's getting too much for me in my old age.

Shirley G. — I once asked a doctor why it was I seem to have to be doing something all the time and he said I just have a tremendous abundance of energy. All I know is I love to do things and feel miserable when I am forced to sit still.

Dan can't complain I neglect him or the children. Everyone admits I'm just plain efficient. I don't see what right he has how I manage to get so much done.

Dan was always the type to sit down after tea and read the papers at home or to just listen in comfortably. He's not a participator in things, just an observer. What attracted him to me in the first place because I can't stand to be left out of the middle of things. Maybe that's why I married him. I'm sure I thought I could get him to give up his solitary habits. Maybe I can yet.

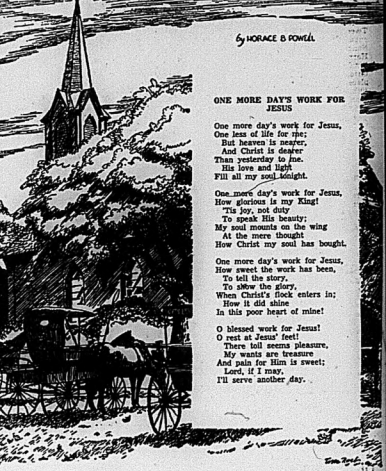
The Council: No, it can't be wrong to do things for others — but others should be in large enough world to include a husband.

It appears to us that quiet, non-participating Dan was attracted by Shirley's warm, outgoing nature and would continue to love her for it if Shirley had not gotten carried away by her own energy. Dan thinks Shirley lacks a fragment of the dehris whirled around in a cyclone—that, in his deeper objection is to the position he now occupies in Shirley's whirlwind. Dan's much space can there be for him when Shirley's going and going?

Shirley's kind of energy is needed in this world, but she should realize those who sit and read the papers or just listen in comfortably can have a contribution to make. If she can get herself to stop organizing the universe for a few moments, she may find her husband has much to offer her besides economic security and a life of operations. She needs to learn it is as blessed to receive as to give.



A PLASTIC STRAW in your baby's cup may help a great deal at weaning time. He won't get the idea at first, even though he knows how to suck. But this intriguing intermediate step may interest him in forgetting his bottle. Keep the bottle out of sight while the cup is being offered, though.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B POWELL

ONE MORE DAY'S WORK FOR JESUS

One more day's work for Jesus,
One less of life for me;
But heaven is nearer,
And Christ is dearer
Than yesterday to me.
His love and light
Fill all my soul tonight.

One more day's work for Jesus,
How glorious is my King!
'Tis joy, not duty
To speak His beauty;
My soul mounts on the wing
At the mere thought
How Christ my soul has bought.

One more day's work for Jesus,
How sweet the work has been,
To tell the story,
To show the glory,
When Christ's flock enters in;
How I'd did shine
In this poor heart of mine!

O blessed work for Jesus!
O rest at Jesus' feet!
There full every pleasure,
My wants are treasure
And pain for Him is sweet;
Lord, if I may,
I'll serve another day.

When Anna Bartlett Warner gave this favorite devotional hymn to the world, shortly after the middle of the nineteenth century, she called it "The Song Of A Tired Servant".

The "tired servant" was the Rev. Benjamin Adams, a minister friend who in a letter one day to miss Warner told of being physically weary at the end of an unusually trying day but spiritually happy because of what he had accomplished for Christ.

The hymnist had echoed his testimony of joy in pastoral service in nearly every verse of her hymn, and especially in the third stanza:

"One more day's work for Jesus,
How sweet the work has been,
To tell the story,
To show the glory,
Where Christ's flock enters in!
How it did shine
In this poor heart of mine!"

Miss Warner, a sister of the authoress, Susan Warner, was born in 1820 at Martlaer, New York, near West Point. She edited and published several volumes of hymns and many of her songs, like the one here reviewed, are still being sung. She wrote many hymns, and especially the third stanza:

"And," says the writer of "Protestantism," "it is to the feet and all the hosts Israel loved her. And Mary Bartlett Warner's simple art if she were alive today would delight in this great handful of memories."

The festival in honor of the event will be held in the church of the Church, probably at Bethlehem, or Bethlehem of Mary's church in Jerusalem 543. There it was called "The Feast of Virgin Mary Mother God into the Temple." By the seventh century festival it spread to parts of the West, it was not until 1585 that the Gloria Vi made it a great feast.

Story of St. Elizabeth's Roses

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Tuesday, Nov. 19 — There is a lovely story about the saintly Elizabeth of Hungary, whose memory is honored today. So lavish in her charities to the sick and the poor that her husband often worried about whether there would be enough left for the royal pair themselves to live on. Elizabeth finally found it best to tell all of her charities was away before going on her merciful errands.

Once when the Prince, whose name was Louis, was off visiting friends on a hunting trip, Elizabeth saw her chance and started off with her apron filled to the last in the palace — to give to a peasant family. As she trudged along, she wondered what to say Louis, returning a day early.

There was no way of avoiding him. The best she could do was to try to hide the loaves. So she put them under her cloak, not so much because she feared the Prince as because she wanted to protect the peasants got the bread But of course Louis saw her. He was curious and when she demanded to know what it was, "Roses!" said Elizabeth. It was the first and only lie she ever told.

Then she was covered with roses! Louis, seeing something wasn't right, took the cloak, looked apart, and — out tumbled a large array of roses! God had seen to it that Elizabeth should not have a lie on her conscience.

Life probably was not easy for Elizabeth's great concern for the sick once led her to bring a leper home and put him in the bed normally occupied by her and Louis. The Prince, of course, was furious — but when he angrily yanked the covers off, there before his eyes lay the figure of the crucified Lord.

It is said that Louis came to be indulgent of his wife's excessive goodness. In time, her understanding her, but deeply loving her, he finally came to the point where he would say, "Her charities will bring upon us the divine blessing."

It is this Elizabeth for whom so many St. Elizabeth's Hospitals are named, because of her tireless care of the incurables in her own principality.

She died on Nov. 19, 1231, at the age of 24, and so great was her reputation for piety that she was canonized only four years later.

LETTER:

I have received so much help from you that I'd like to pass on some to you: 1) Add 1 tbsp. corn syrup to shortening in cookie and chewy squares for extra keeping quality. 2) An egg or two beaten with milk powder and corn oil bread recipe. After first rising use less flour to make sweet cinnamon rolls or other sweet bread, the other two-thirds first rising period. 3) Not food exactly but timely: Bull rushes, if dipped in boiling water and allowed to cool will last all winter and not turn into fluffy seed balls. I make a mixture now enough of double aluminum foil for this. 4) Best results from frozen vegetables are when they are thawed at room temperature, put them in a pan with a little piece of butter, salt and pepper, and no water, heat to boiling and serve immediately. Do not boil or cook for more than one minute. O McD.

Hello again and thanks. I have visions of many a Mary in the bull rushes. . . . .

Saw Only 2 Afghan Women In Year's Stay in Country

EDMONTON (CP)—Mrs. T. W. Peters looks back on a year spent in Afghanistan as the wife of an expert with the UN Food and Agriculture Organization, as a rare experience.

"Our first impression flying from Karachi," Mrs. Peters said, "was of a stark and rugged country, with beautiful snow-covered mountains but with rock, mud and no trees below, like the moon.

"Kabul, the capital, is on a 6,000-foot plateau ringed by mountains to the north. The houses are built of mud behind mud walls.

It was at Kabul that Mrs. Peters lived with her husband and their four children. Mr. Peters, a member of the University of Alberta soils department, was one of 12 FAO experts in Afghanistan among a group of about 60 United Nations personnel. Mr. Peters was technical adviser on irrigation to the government.

STILL SECLUDED

Mrs. Peters said she saw just two Afghan women during her stay.

"The women are chattels and live in purdah. They stay at home behind closed walls. The only congregate in the tea shops, sell silver and copper and Persian carpets, or trade carcual, on Persian lamb."

Mrs. Peters said the greatest problem in Afghanistan is that of health.

"Birth out of 10 children die because of poor health conditions. There is no sewage system—you can see one person washing a camel in a stream, another washing and farther downstream someone drinking. There are no telephones and few doctors."

The western women were warned to wear suitable clothing, and not to travel without escort. Her greatest adventure, she said, was a trip through the Khyber Pass to Peshawar in Pakistan, the old hill station of the British army. "I had read my Kipling, and was not disappointed the old forts in the pass, the British army regimental plaques high in the walls, and the sentry posts," she said.

With no railroad or bus service available, she hitched a ride through the pass with a United Nations truck.

Provinces Expect Larger Slice Of Direct Taxes on Personal, Company Incomes From Govt.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The provinces' struggle for a bigger slice of a $3,000,000,000 tax pot may soon pay off with some federal concessions by the Progressive Conservative government.

The provinces, facing an increasing cost burden, may get a larger slice of the direct taxes on personal and corporation incomes but also higher federal subsidies or equalization payments.

Federal-provincial negotiations revise a tax pact that has been in effect less than a year will be initiated at a conference of government leaders here Nov. 25-26. They may be concluded at another conference of premiers early in the new year.

EFFECTIVE APRIL 1

It is understood concessions granted to provinces would be made effective with the new fiscal year next April 1 and likely would be embodied in a formal federal budget which may precede a new general election in 1958.

What new formula will be adopted has not yet been completely decided. The central government will wait to hear first what the provinces may suggest. But Prime Minister Diefenbaker has made an election promise to boost the payments and some experts feel this will result in a general increase in the federal tax reductions.

Current tax - sharing arrangements embody two major features. One is the tax formula plan. The other is the federal subsidy or equalization payment to bring the per capita direct tax income of the less wealthy provinces up to the average of the two wealthiest—Ontario and British Columbia.

The tax formula allows the provinces to levy taxes equal to 9 per cent of the federal levy on personal incomes, nine per cent of taxable corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties without increasing the burden to taxpayers.

REDUCE FEDERAL LEVY

In other words the federal government reduces its levy by this amount so that there are no added charges to taxpayers. The provinces can collect their own taxes or have the federal government do so on a rental or fee basis.

All provinces except Ontario and Quebec have rented all their direct tax fields. Ontario has rented personal income tax but collects her own corporation income levies and succession duties. Quebec collects all her own taxes.

These various concessions are related to cost the federal treasury about $630,000,000 a year.

Some experts said a boost in the tax formula will be accompanied by an increase in the equalization subsidy to maintain some form of balance among the wealthy and the less wealthy provinces. The over-all cost to treasury may rise by some $200,000,000 a year.

THREE DEVELOPMENTS

They see at least three major developments arising out of any new concessions granted the provinces:

1. Municipalities may get larger grants from the provinces and thus be able to hold the line on the rising burden of taxes thrust on property owners.

2. More road, sewer, water, hospital and school construction may be undertaken, increasing the supply of jobs for a growing Canadian labor force.

3. There may be a weakening of federal fiscal control over the economy.

Over the years, more and more Canadians have been settling in towns and cities. The demand for municipal services has increased. The Gordon economic commission has estimated that in the next 25 years municipalities may require $100,000,000,000 for housing and other construction.

REPEATED APPEALS

Municipalities repeatedly have appealed to the provinces for more aid. In turn the provinces have besieged Ottawa.

Federal-provincial battles over tax sharing are woven through history. Originally the central government sought to appease the provinces with the provision of fixed subsidies. But no sooner was the ink dry on these confederation pacts when the provinces clamored for more money.

Ottawa gradually gav ground. In wartime tax rental pacts and in post-war agreements, the provinces got increased concessions.

The central administration argued that it also faced increasing responsibilities for a growing Canadian population — in defence, social welfare payments such as pensions, financing of the public debt and costs of an expanding civil service.

CONCERN AT OTTAWA

Federal administrators declared the granting of increased tax concessions to the provinces would dangerously reduce federal fiscal control over the economy. There would be less room for manoeuvring to reduce or increase taxes to fight recession or inflation.

Nevertheless ground was given. Under the constitution, both levels of government have equal rights to the direct tax field—personal and corporation incomes and succession duties. But provinces have consistently refused in recent years to impose any major income tax of their own, fearing the reaction of electors faced with the prospect of having to pay two heavy taxes, federal and provincial.

Rather, the trend has been to feel that the central government give ground on direct tax levies, allowing the provinces to take over the vacated area.

The Week's News

By The Canadian Press

The pattern of the new clash between Russia and the United States became clearer this week. It was obvious that they sought in a special way to match each other in the eyes of the world.

President Eisenhower in a speech to the American people called for more stress on science and education in general. He was severe in his demands for more spending and emphasis on education to catch up with Russian advances.

At the same time the U.S. Air Force staged "show the flag" exercises, including a record-breaking trip to Argentina and also a stop hop to the Philippines.

In Moscow, Nikita Khrushchev rode the tide of recent Communist successes. He declared that the U.S. hasn't got the same kind of lethal long-distance rockets as the Russians, and "you won't have them soon."

TOUGH KRUSHY

Khrushchev was at his best at a cocktail-social reception and threw out among other remarks an invitation for President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles to visit Russia, where they would be welcomed as "dear friends."

The Russian Communist chief also gave out with the theory that Britain is a satellite of the United States, but then apologized for the remark and said he didn't mean it.

Khrushchev intimated that the fact Prime Minister Macmillan had visited Eisenhower instead of the other way around meant that the British are taking their orders from the Americans.

He then told an offended British reporter ". . . If I say anything offensive to your nation I apologize and am ready to take it back."

DOG DIES

Much of the Russian confidence was based on the sensational success of their Sputniks. But a note of sentiment was interjected when it became clear from Soviet reports that the dog, Laika, had died in the space mission.

TUNISIAN AIMS

The United States and Britain announced shipments of small arms to Tunisia despite bitter French objections.

The decision dealt a heavy blow to the young governent of Felix Gaillard and also placed strains on NATO.

President Habib Bourguiba has spoken out several times to ask for arms in the light of tur bulence in the Middle East and it had been feared that Tunisia would turn to Russia for arms unless they were supplied by the West.

DEFENCE TALKS

The commander of the U.S. Strategic Air Command declared in Paris that his outfit is ready with nuclear weapons to go into operation within minutes against an aggressor.

Gen. Thomas Power told a parliamentary meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization:

"The planes are on the runways loaded with nuclear bombs. The crews sleep nearby. We are increasing the number of planes on the alert . . . the planes can be off in 15 minutes."

CANADA'S VIEW

The Canadian delegate at the NATO meeting in Paris—Charles Camdon — said that European members of NATO should be armed with tactical atomic weapons for use in a "limited" nuclear war.

His ideas seemed to follow the current trend of thinking among other countries in the Atlantic alliance.

Camnon predicted that in the event of an all-out nuclear war, Russia would begin by attacking the U.S. and Canada.

He called for the pooling of scientific and technical talent of all NATO countries.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TORONTO — Professor Farina, whoever he is, has crawled back under his stone of anonymity. He has had his say and defended his statements with the sacred old trite excuse of being misunderstood by his critics. He went to lengths to do this. He had the services of one of this town's topflight reporters to air his case.

And in the doing he loosed an extra barb or two in his balderdash charges that sports does nothing for youngsters or anyone except breed "sadism, theft" and whatnot.

Somebody in this Ontario Minor Hockey Association should have invited this unknown, self-styled "author, sportsman, athlete and big league official" to its annual conclave.

He would have learned that the world of sport, especially the kind organized for youngsters, is not confined, nor should it be judged by what happens within the four borders of his world, the north, south, east and west boundaries of the city in which he lives.

Farina would do well to shake loose the dust of the cloistered halls and get out into the clean fresh air of the countryside. He would see city playgrounds and parks operated under fine supervision. He would see minor sport operated under aegis of such fine parent bodies as the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, the Ontario Baseball Association, the Ontario Lacrosse Association and similar organizations.

He would see kids and parents, too, who would by far steal a base than a purse, and dodge a highcheck rather than duck a policeman. He would see places where juvenile delinquency is not rampant, thanks to organized sport and the guidance of so latterly criticines.

He should have moved among the men, as we did today, from all parts of the province, gathered in friendly conclave on hockey and what it means to the youngsters of Ontario. He would have heard how some 24,000 kiddies are playing and enjoying their favorite winter sport with a minimum of untoward incident. He would have seen and met the men who would throw his charges back at him. He would have been enlightened.

And he would have seen the presentation of the famous Honor Award of the OMHA, justice finally rendered to a man judged as rendering the outstanding service to minor hockey. He would have met the winner, Thomas Hyde of Brantford, following the banquet held here at one o'clock today in the King Edward Hotel.

He would have heard how Mr. Hyde operates his own team as well as a school league of ten teams which he has done for the past ten years. He acts as manager, coach, time-keeper, goal judge or in any capacity in which he is needed.

And he would have heard the testimonial written by the principal of Dufferin public school, which reads: "Mr. Hyde has coached a hockey team for our school for many years. The members of his teams like him so much that hockey is the outstanding sport at our school. He gives freely of his time, before nine, after four and on Saturdays. Mr. Hyde is a man of character and discretion and constitutes a healthful control over the boys. I would deem that a man who has done so much for hockey and for sports in general and for making better men out of boys should be seriously considered for such an award as you make."

How about that, Professor Farina!

RUGGED SKID!

Kingston manager Dick Allan and coach Bun Cook studied the Eastern Senior "A" league schedule with more or less scratched eyes the other day. What they saw they could scarcely believe, but there it was in black and white, sealed and delivered. They discovered that over the period from November 23 to December first, seven eleven days, their rejuvenated CKLCs will go to the hockey mat nine times. Breaking this part of the schedule down, the CKLCs will play five games in six days, three of them on foreign ice. In the nine games they meet Belleville, Cornwall, Pembroke and Whitby twice and the Canadiens once.

But Messrs. Cook and Allan have some consolation. It happens that Farina and the league in the possible exception of Whitby and Ottawa, have a crushing schedule all right with the long hauls being an important factor.

Gordie Bell Closes Door While Entire Club Sparkles; Goals Are Evenly Divided

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville McFarlands came through with one of their best all around performances of the year before a season's record crowd of 2,531 fans here last night to defeat last year's Allan Cup champions, the Whitby Dunlops, 4-1. The decisive victory boosted the McFarlands into sole possession of first place in the OHA Eastern Senior "A" League with 12 points, two ahead of second place Kingston.

The Macs were one step ahead of the Dunnies all night despite the presence of coach Sid Smith on the Whitby bench and former Kitchener star Jack McKenzie in the lineup. The second period was the big one for Ike Hildebrand's charges. The clubs battled through a scoreless first session with Gordie Bell, in the local end, "Long John" Henderson in the Whitby cage, turning in stellar efforts.

But it took the Macs just 57 seconds of the middle period to burst Henderson's goose egg. They added another pair and led 3-0 by the fourteen minute mark. The Dunlops finally beat the sensational Gordie Bell at 17.10, but Belleville regained their three-goal margin before the period ended and played smart defensive hockey over the final twenty minutes for the well deserved victory.

GAGNON GETS MARKER

Wayne "Wiener" Brown and Gerry Goyer paced the winners' pointwise, each scoring once and adding an assist. Coach Hildebrand, the all-star centre iceline, picked up one assist. Barton Bradley and "Bep" Guidolin, playing his first game before hometown fans since signing with the Macs this season, triggered the other goals. One assist each went to Russ Kowalchuk, Jean-Paul Payette and Floyd Crawford.

Bus Gagnon fired the lone Whitby marker and was awarded Bobby Attersley and Harry Sinden.

The game was a clean one for Jack Shropshire handing out but eight minutes in the penalty box. Duplops collected five of these and had one goal scored against them while playing two men short.

Defenceman Bob Paul, recently of Kitchener-Waterloo paired with Floyd Crawford on the Mac defence with Keith Montgomery sitting this one out. Keith McDonald was also dressed but did not see action.

The clubs started fast in the second period and Attersley broke in on Bell in the early seconds only to have his drive speared with a good glove save. The Macs roared back up ice and Gerry Goyer brought the cheering crowd to its feet when he tipped in a pass at the goalmouth from Ike Hildebrand. Wayne Brown had started the play.

Gordie Bell came up with the big save when he stuffed the first goal when Jack McKenzie broke in on his defenceman to pull the cool custodian to one side but was robbed by a terrific save. The Macs relaxed, continued to outshoot the desperate Dunlops and upped the score to 2-0 at 4.20. Barton Bradley beat Henderson on a quick snap shot from 30 feet directly in front of the net. Russ Kowalchuk and Crawford assisting.

Somewhere in the next victim of Bell's puckstopping wizardry, beaten alone at the crease while Russ Kowalchuk got a pass at the other end of the ice, Gerry Goyer slipped that disc to Wayne Brown on a faceoff just inside the Whitby blueline and the "Wiener's" drive beat Henderson to the far corner at 13.31 for a 3-0 lead.

FINALLY HIT PAYDIRT

But Gagnon finally hit paydirt for the Dunlops at 17.10 with Kowalchuk off for elbowing when his slapshot from the left wing beat Bell, Attersley and Sinden drew assists. Sinden and Gagnon drew penalties for slashing and boarding, both at 17.46 when Russ Kowalchuk was bounced into the end boards. The big winger's skate went completely through the boards and he lay prone on the ice. His mates rushed to free him and he skated off under his own power, apparently unhurt.

Sinden and Gagnon were still in the sin bin when the Macs tallied their final goal at 19.01. "Bep" Guidolin started the play, passed to Payette who fired at Henderson, and banged home the rebound sweeping across "Long John's" doorstep.

Henderson turned the Macs back in the opening minutes of the game, making fine saves on Russ Kowalchuk and Goyer, Menard and Bradley also broke in close but could not find the net with hard drives. Bell turned aside Attersley's labelled blast as play ranged from end to end while Goyer and Hildebrand had Henderson at their mercy at one point only to shoot by the corners twice, Kowalchuk and McBain drew the only penalties of the period with neither causing damage.

The Dunlops, hungry for goals in the third, had a great opportunity when Guidolin was thumbed for holding at 1.38. The Macs played heads-up hockey all the way and when Gordie Myles finally got through to Bell, his stellar was kicked out. The winners had little trouble in killing the penalty.

While the McFarlands leaned

GORDIE BELL
... Shut the Door

toward defensive hockey in the third to protect their lead, they still tested Henderson and were his excellent saves kept the score at 4-1. The Dunlops never gave up until at 19.01 when Alf Treen was penalized for boarding Guidolin, killing their last hope.

The entire McFarland club played an excellent brand of hockey, hustling and backchecking at every play. The Dunnies, too played good hockey but were beaten by a better club on the night's play.

Belleville's next start will be Tuesday night when Cornwall Colts supply the opposition here.

Gump Worsley Whole Show in Providence Win

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley came up with a strong stint in the first start for Providence Reds as they upended Buffalo Bisons 9-1 Friday night in an American Hockey League game.

The capable little netminder, who had the best goals-against average in the National League at the time he left New York Rangers, had no shutout until Larry Wilson beat him with a 35-footer midway in the night while each team was two men short at 6:40 in its final period.

Worsley had 46 saves to 34 by Larry Lumley.

Rookie Bill Sweeney and veteran Paul Larivee paced Reds' attack with two goals and two assists each. Bruce Carmichael, Eddie Shack, Jimmy Bartlett and Billy Toppazzini were the other scorers.

Hamilton Cubs St. Mikes Win Away Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Cubs and St. Michael's College Majors scored one-goal victories in away-from-home games Friday night and each moved up a notch in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings.

Hamilton edged Barrie Flyers 3-2, after spotting them a 2-0 lead, and St. Michael's banged in a sudden-death goal in overtime to lay to beat Guelph Biltmores 1-0.

Hamilton's win put them in a second - place tie with Toronto Marlboros. St. Michael's went up to fifth place, one point behind Peterborough. St. Catharines tops the standings by three points.

COMPLETE COLLAPSE

Hamilton's winning goal was scored by rookie Don Wilcox at 16:36 of the third period, during which Barrie completely collapsed. Harvey Brydson had put Flyers in front with a goal midway through the first period and Adam Moreland made it 2-0 in the second.

Hamilton roared back in the third. Jerry Sullivan and Stuart McNeil fired home the equalizers.

At Guelph, it was a wide-open game under the lack of scoring. Erratic shooting kept the nets clean until Jack Costello fired in a rebound goal at 16:36. St. Michael's after three minutes and 14 seconds of overtime.

It was the third straight loss for the cellar-dwelling Guelph team.

Weekend action sees Marlboros at St. Catharines and Barrie at Guelph tonight, while in a Sunday doubleheader at Toronto Marlboros clashes with St. Michael's and St. Catharines tackles Marlboros.

Grey Cup Fever Hits Canadian Flyers in Europe

METZ, France (CP) — Grey Cup fever has hit Canadian airmen stationed in Europe, but it won't reach its peak with the Canadian classic scheduled at Toronto Nov. 30.

Understanding any prior claims from beauties representing Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union cities back home, the airmen Friday picked Joyce Hamelin, 21, a belle of Montreal's portal from Vancouver, as their own Miss Grey Cup. And today she will reign over 24-hour festivities, including a traditional East-West football game.

The occasion is the RCAF air division's third annual Grey Cup game, which will win for them all the hoop-la of the real thing back home.

Chuck wagons, convertibles and floats will be included in the opening parade. Cheerleaders, majorettes and cheerleaders will add to the spirit.

Runner-up in the Miss Grey Cup competition that attracted 5,000 soldiers was Cpl. Mickey McCormack, 22, of Fort William.

REPLACES GADSBY

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Rangers have called up Ralph Keller, a 21-year-old defenseman from Saskatoon - St. Paul Regals of the Western Hockey League as a temporary replacement for injured Bill Gadsby. Keller will report here for Sunday's game against Montreal Canadiens.

Gadsby is in a hospital recovering from a sprained back. It is not known how long he will be out.

Books Make Montreal Als 5½-Point Favorites in Game

MONTREAL (CP) — The books have made Montreal Alouettes 5½-point favorites to take Hamilton Tiger-Cats here today in the first game of a two-game, total-point Big Four final, but TiCats coach Jim Trimble doesn't see it that way. "It's not going to be easy but we're going to win," he said Friday night.

"We'll have to fire all our guns, of course. We figured Ottawa would be tougher opposition in the finals than Montreal because the Alouettes had so many injuries. However, off Wednesday's game in Ottawa we now feel that Montreal's out our way."

"Over the season Ottawa's tough defense hurt us more than Montreal."

HOLD HOUR DRILL

The TiCats arrived here by train Thursday night and drilled in light togs for an hour Friday on McGill University's upper campus, near McGill stadium, site of the game. Als staged a double-barreled workout at Westmount Stadium.

The game was scheduled for 4 p.m. EST under a forecast of fair weather. A capacity crowd of 22,984 was expected.

TiCats were fielding a full team, but coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker of Als wasn't so fortunate — missing from the lineup was injured Ronnie-Jim Wells, who fractured a rib as Montreal whitewashed Ottawa 24-10 Wednesday, and Ted Elsby, top Canadian lineman, attending his father's funeral.

CURCILLO ON OFFENCE

Trimble listed a lineup that indicated he will rely on the offensive import Tony Curcillo on offence. Curcillo, a former Ohio star, scored against Als. He posted Curcillo as alternate quarterback behind Bernie Faloney and a big middle fullback and halfback.

His five league games against Montreal have been heavy, outscoring Alouettes 79-75—Curcillo 39, Faloney and Hamilton's other working out of a linebacker position.

Coolie Gilchrist was almost a certainty for more of a defensive role at right inside linebacker. He arrived with the club Thursday night, squashing rumors that he'd be missing because of a walkout.

The second game of the playoff series will be in Hamilton next Saturday.

ENTER FINAL

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Collegiate edged Stamford Collegiate 9-7 Friday night in the Niagara District entry for high school football championship. The sudden-death playoff victory put St. Catharines into a two-game, total - point series with Saltfleet High School for the Southern Ontario Secondary Schools Association title. The first clash is Tuesday at Stoney Creek with the return game here Friday.

Sarnia Sailors In Hassle With Arena Com.

SARNIA (CP)—The executive of Sarnia's senior hockey club announced Friday it will sue the Sarnia Arena Commission for breach of contract and will also seek an injunction to prevent the commission from denying use of the arena to the team.

This executive action by Sarnia Sailors, who play in the Senior "A" series of the Ontario Hockey Association, was prompted by a wrangle Thursday night between the Sailors' executive and the commission.

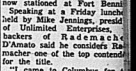
A Sailors' spokesman said "members of the commission refused Thursday night to honor the Sailors' tickets or view the books prior to the Sailors' first home game."

Sailors' treasurer Eric Colbert said a commission member handed Sailors' president George Ludgate a letter denying the use of the arena to Sailors in future.

It is understood the commission and Sailors' executive have been at loggerheads for some time over the advance sale of tickets and a $250 debt which the hockey club has owed the commission.

Patterson May Take Rematch With Rademacher

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, says there is a strong possibility of a rematch between his champion and Olympic king Pete Rademacher next year.



Continuing his battle against the International Boxing Club, D'Amato was in Columbus to look over Jim Boyd, light heavyweight Olympic champion who now stationed at Fort Benning. Speaking at a Friday luncheon held by Mike Jennings, president of Unlimited Enterprises, backers of Rademacher, D'Amato said he considers Rademacher one of the top contenders for the title.

"I came to Columbus for two purposes," said D'Amato. "One to see the fine people of Columbus who backed an equally fine fellow Pete Rademacher—and see Jim Boyd."

Asked when Patterson would make a defence of his title D'Amato said he would make a statement around the first of the year. The champion's manager refused to name whom he thought was the top contender for the present time, but later calls the fighters listed by the National Basketball Association as "so called contenders."

NHL Season's First Six-Game Weekend With Back to Back Fixtures Could Mix Loop Up

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The battles at the top, middle of the standings, Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey League take on a hectic pace in the season's first six-game weekend.

The teams play home - and-home series, a quirk that happens only one other time this season, the weekend of Dec. 7 and 8.

In today's games, Montreal Canadiens are at home to New York Rangers, Toronto Maple Leafs to Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks to Detroit Red Wings.

The pairings are the same Sunday night, with the home teams switched.

BEST ROAD TEAMS

Montreal and New York, the teams with the best road records, tangle with Rangers in striking distance of first place. Montreal is three points better but two players worse as a result of injuries to Jean Beliveau and Don Marshall Wednesday night. Both Beliveau and Marshall Bill Gadsby, out with an injured back.

Canadiens have seven of a possible 10 points on the road, Rangers 10 of 18. Both teams have been solid at home.

Canadiens said Friday night they may call up Claude Provost, former Hab centre, from Montreal Royals of the Quebec League for tonight's game. They may not need him but are a bit to some extent.

Belleville's Junior "B" hockey club, that name Belleville Lumbert-Rollins Construction Juniors, makes its initial start of the season tonight with a visit to Trenton.

The newly-formed Eastern Ontario Junior "B" loop swung into last night with Kingston at Peterborough. Each club will play 24 games apiece. Four new teams are entered, Trenton, Kingston, Belleville and Smiths Falls.

The Belleville squad, strictly home-bred, will follow up tonight's fixture with a home opener here Monday night at 8.00 p.m. Peterborough will supply the opposition on Monday night and the locals will be facing a real test. The Petes have a working agreement with that city's Junior "A" club and are expected to set the pace in this loop.

Jack Gilby, a returnee from last season's squad, is the captain, will share the goaltending duties with Bill Moxam. Moxam played midget and Industrial league hockey here last year.

Manager Richards announced that five defencemen will dress for tonight's encounter; they are Gord Irwin, Jerry Mann, Art Culloden, Pat Sinclair and Gordon Tillotson. Three forward lines will be working in the opener. They will consist of Dennis Kerrulish, Charlie Rowbotham, Gary Rowbotham, Don Wood, Bernie Jack Truman, Jim Brennan, Jack Wright, John Brennan and Jack Gill.

Other players who are still bidding for jobs include Jack Elliott, Ron Bishop, Frank Cris, Gary Goyer and Jim Campbell. Leo St. Denis, counted on as one of the club's mainstays, is recovering from an operation and will be lost to the club for some time.

Richards stressed the fact that the club is a long way from set and lineups are still open and many changes may be made before the season opens. He said he was satisfied that they have some good players but is still upset with a winning combination.

Hartney Named Horse of Year By Racing Form

TORONTO (CP) — Hartney, six-year-old gelding owned by Col. K. R. Marshall of Toronto, Friday night was named Canada's horse of the year in a poll conducted by the Daily Racing Form. Hartney was the first Canadian-bred foaled outside Ontario to win in the seven-year history of the poll.

The medium-sized solidly built gelding by Fairmond from Allsmay was foaled May 22, 1951, at the Carberry, Man., farm of the late R. J. (Jim) Speers.

Hartney was purchased as a yearling by Frank Conklin of Toronto and the colt was sold in August, 1953, to Col. Marshall for $7,500.

Hartney now has a lifetime record of 34 victories, 13 seconds, and four thirds in 64 starts and earnings of $59,685. He is holder of the Canadian record for 6% furlongs with a time of 1:16 set Oct. 12 this year at the New Woodbine track in suburban Toronto.

E. P. Taylor, Toronto sportsman-industrialist, has won the award twice before and when the award was established. He won with Bull Page in 1951, Cool Jet Queen in 1952 and Queen Ova in 1954.

Reigh Maple, owned by Mrs. Gordon McMacken of Toronto, won in 1953. In 1955, the three-year-old of Mrs. Ethel Walker of Larkin Maloney won the award and last year it went to Canadian Champ, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto.

Dissension Seen In Australian Davis Cup Squad

BY WILL GRIMSLEY

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The Australian Davis Cup squad is torn by dissension as a result of the selectors' move in splitting up established doubles teams for the South Australian tennis championships starting next Thursday in Adelaide.

Accused of getting panicky after veteran southpaw Mervyn Rose and Mal Anderson had upset Australia's top duo of Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser in the New South Wales doubles final, the selectors ordered Rose teamed with Cooper and Anderson with Fraser for next week's tournament.

MUST PLAY TOGETHER

"The whole position is farcial," said Rose. "How can they expect a pair to develop into a first class combination if they don't have matches together? I have no doubt that Anderson and myself could develop into the world's best combination. But to do this we must be free to play together."

Cooper today won the New South Wales singles championship, defeating Fraser 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 in straight sets in the service.

The women's single crown went to Jenny Arnold of Australia who upset Angela Mortimer, British Wightman Cup star, 6-4, 10-8.

MAY HURT CHANCES

Fraser's one-sided defeat may have jeopardized his hopes of retaining the challenge round late next month.

Dennis Talbert, United States Davis Cup team captain, said he saw nothing to get excited about in the Australian squad but the changes were merely exploratory.

Harry Hopman, captain of the Aussie squad, has maintained a disdainful silence on the matter.

Although Cooper said after his match with Fraser that he had not lost any of his best tennis, he added: "I'm well satisfied and believe I can reach the heights in the next few weeks. Neale was not at his best."

Jackson Urged To Quit Ring By Commission

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission has urged heavyweight Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson to retire voluntarily from boxing because of the beatings he absorbed in his last two outings.

The durable, awkward New York contender has been a frequent lament from both heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson, last contender Eddie Machen last Wednesday night. He was stopped in the rounds each time.

In answer to questions from reporters, commission chairman Julius Helfand said if Jackson doesn't retire voluntarily within a reasonable time, the commission will evaluate his physical ability. That means he would have to undergo tests by the commission's medical advisory board.

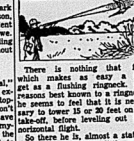
Cross-Firing in Wing Shooting

Last fall, shortly after the opening of the ruffed grouse season, a delivery boy pulled his truck into our driveway. While he was unloading parcels to carry them into the house, he asked me whether or not it was feeling and ringneck pheasants in my four-acre bush. I assured him that it was and asked him about his shooting luck.

"We were out opening day," he replied. "Found plenty of birds. Had shooting at seventeen roosters."

COMES TOO THIN



Trouble is, very few stocks of "average" pheasants will do that for you. Most shotgun combs are too thin, at least they are for me. On two of my guns I remedied this fault by installing cheekpieces on the combs, one of leather and one of wood.

About the handiest gadget you can have on a shotgun to keep you from cross-firing is a center bead on the rib. Barely do you wear the same amount of clothes when you're afield. You dress according to the weather, and one wool shirt, more or less, will change the position of your cheek against the comb.

When this happens, more often than not you will cross-fire. In short, you will point the front bead to the left but, your eye, without losing out of alignment with the rib, will take a larger view to one side or the other of the target.

In the majority of books and articles dealing with wing shooting, all too little is said about this and little is difficult to understand. More birds are missed each season because of this one fault than are missed because of all other faults combined.

If you have a newer gun this year, check that thickness at comb and have a center bead installed on the rib of your gun. Cross-firing is indeed a curse among the finest shooters but it is an easy thing to cure. Follow these simple suggestions and see if it doesn't pay off in fewer missed birds.

Sudbury Wolves Winless Streak Extended to 8 Games

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Belleville McFarlands took over the lead in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division standings Friday night as they dumped the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops 4-1.

In an OHA Northern game, Sudbury Wolves hit a winless streak extended to eight straight games as Chatham Maroons edged them 4-3 in overtime. Gerry Goyer, Wisner Brown, Barton Bradley and Ron Golden lit got goals for Belleville while Bus Gagnon scored for Whitby.

TWO-POINT EDGE

The win put Belleville two points ahead of Kingston, Owen Cornwall and Whitby, the next three teams.

Fine goaltending by Chatham's Don Head made the difference in the OHA - NOHA battle. He stopped 44 shots.

Defenceman Danny Blair scored Chatham's winning goal midway through the overtime period. Ted Foreman had two goals for the Maroons while Jim Connelly added another. For Sudbury, Bradley got any two goals and George Senick one.

Chatham's win left them in a third-place tie with North Bay. Sault Ste. Marie heads the league by three points over Kitchener. Windsor and Sudbury are separated by one point for the last two places.

Heavy weekend action is in store with Whitby at Pembroke and Ottawa at Kingston tonight in the eastern division while in the OHA-COHA match Sarnia at North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie at Kitchener.

Sunday the Soo squad moves to Windsor while Whitby visits Cornwall and Ottawa is at home to Pembroke.

WINS FEATURE RACE

TORONTO (CP) — Faultless Maid, ridden by Norman Leid, scored a feature win at New Woodbine race track, the Evaso Purse. Owned by Dr. W. R. Wesley, Faultless Maid registered her fifth victory and 15th time in the money in 21 starts.

She took the lead from Silly Lily on the final turn and was never headed by the fast-finishing debutante by a half length, Silly Lully hung on to finish a distant third.

Shearwater Fliers Ready to Take On Brantford

HALIFAX (CP) — Shearwater Fliers host Brantford Foresters tonight in their do-or-die battle today against Brantford Tiger-Cats for the Canadian Intermediate football championship.

The Shearwater men promised mild weather with some sunshine for the 2 p.m. game time and a fair-to a capacity crowd.

Martlimers, visualizing a Dominion championship game here next Saturday, are banking heavily on Jack Myers who represent the naval air station at nearby Eastern Passage.

Bob Garside of Brantford said he wasn't selling Fliers short, but they played much football for that." Shearwater coach Moose Bates was tight-lipped about predictions.

The two teams, managers and football officials met for the first time Friday night at a reception tendered by Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia.

Blood-Smeared Gene Fullmer Given Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—"Give me a title fight any day. This kind is do or die real war."

Blood-smeared Gene Fullmer was talking to reporters in his dressing room Friday night after winning a narrow decision over unranked Neal Rivers. The 10-round Madison Square Garden bout was so close that one official called it a draw. The other two officials voted for Fullmer.

"This was tougher than fighting for the championship," said Fullmer. "The pressure was just as great but not the reward. I had everything to lose and he (Rivers) had everything to gain."

Marv Jenson, Fullmer's manager, said he'd see to it that the former middleweight king, who held the title for four months earlier in the year, gets another crack at the crown, now held by Carmen Basilio.

Referee Mark Conn (64) and Judge Artie Aidala (63-61) scored the bout for Fullmer and Judge Bill Recht had it even (64-2 in rounds and 64 to 64 in points).

Fullmer, 195½, won the final round of the bout and tried to clinch it without ever Rivers, 157, who is billed out of both Las Vegas and Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Both boys will be sidelined because of cuts. Fullmer needed eight stitches over the right eye and four on the scalp. The Weber City, Utah., strongboy will be or the shelf for six weeks. Rivers needed five stitches for a cut around the left eye.

Edmonton Eskys and Bombers Ready for First Tilt in Peg

WINNIPEG (CP)—It will be cloudy and cool here tonight when Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first game of their Western Interprovincial Football Union best-of-three final series.

The weatherman says snowflurries should end before kickoff time at 8 p.m. CST and northeast winds will clock at 15 miles an hour.

Eskimos won the regular season schedule and got a bye into the finals but Bombers, who finished second, have been the more determined Calgary Stampeder team 28-16 in a hard-hitting two-game total-point semi-final series.

The Bomber-Stampeder round, which was played in the city of Winnipeg handily, turned out to be a tough round for officials as William-Oak Bay, B.C., Western final playoff next Saturday.

The Bombers' men promised mild weather with some sunshine for the 2 p.m. game time and a fair-to a capacity crowd.

Bob Garside of Brantford said he wasn't selling Fliers short, but they played much football for that." Shearwater coach Moose Bates was tight-lipped about predictions.

The two teams, managers and football officials met for the first time Friday night at a reception tendered by Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia.

Ron Stewart Of Golden Gaels Wins Award

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Stewart, versatile halfback from Queen's University Golden Gaels of the Senior Intercollegiate Football League, Friday was named winner of the Omega Award as the most valuable player in the Canadian College ranks. The award was presented for the first time this season.

L. P. Lamarche, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association, said Stewart was selected by vote of the players, coaches and managers from the other teams in the league, McGill, Western and Toronto.

The trophy is a full-size silver football resting on three silver goal posts. Each winner will receive a wrist watch.

Giants Need Help To Force Tie For First Place

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants and Detroit Lions will be content to settle for improved chances of winning conference titles in the National Football League Sunday as the season hits the eight-game mark with four to go.

Both teams are in second place, Giants in the Eastern Conference and Lions in the Western. Each has an opportunity to move into a first-place tie.

Detroit meets San Francisco 49ers on its home field and a victory would enable it to deadlock the western conference pacesetters. The 49ers, with a 5-3 record, currently hold one game leads over Lions and Baltimore Colts.

Giants (5-3) face Philadelphia Eagles while Cleveland, leading the Eastern Conference with six victories in seven starts, take on the Redskins in Washington.

In other games, Baltimore will be at the Chicago Bears and Los Angeles clashes with Green Bay at Milwaukee. Chicago Cardinals and Pittsburgh Steelers are not scheduled.

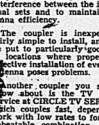
TV NOTEBOOK

By John Wetllaufer



What with more and more families becoming two — set households to avoid hassles over "who watches what" on TV, the question arises: Can two TV sets operate off one outdoor antenna?

The answer is yes, if a television accessory known as a two-set coupler is used. The coupler is necessary to forestall interference between the individual sets and to maintain antenna efficiency.

The coupler is inexpensive, fairly simple to install, and can be put to particularly good use in locations where proper and effective installation of even one antenna poses problems.

Another coupler you should know about is the TV repair service at CIRCLE TV SERVICE which couples fast, dependable work with low rates to form an unbeatable combination. When your set gives trouble you can't go wrong by calling CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St., to get it right. Phone WO 8-4791; in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

Perry Como Triggered Age Of the Singer in Television

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — The guy who started it all has some advice for the 16 other singers who have TV shows this season. Says Perry Como: Get yourself some good writing.

There can be no doubt that Perry triggered the age of the singer in television. Last season he got an assist from Dinah Shore, but hers was not a weekly show. It was Perry who stood up against the giant, Jackie Gleason, two years ago and in his own easy manner eventually pushed him over. The age of the comics was finished.

"I don't see how all of us singers can survive," Perry observed during a rehearsal break. "Seventeen singer shows on the air! Something's got to give.

"I can see what's going to happen: Next year we'll all be off the air and the comics will take over again."

SOME CASUALTIES

Not likely. But it's certain that some of the singers will be casualties. If they follow the advice of the master, they'll take the money for lavish sets and costumes and put it into writing.

"I can't emphasize that too strongly," said the crooner. "I'm convinced that if we've had success it's due to the writing. Some of the things that Goodie Ace will write for us are just fabulous. They're not obvious thing. We don't bring guests on and let them go right into their specialties.

"We find things to do with them. Next year we'll do more. Things you might not expect. For that reason, stars seem to enjoy playing our show."

SNARK CARRIES

The pilotless-swept-wing bomber, capable of speed exceeding the speed of sound, flew from Cape Canaveral, Fla., test centre to a point 1,500 miles away in Australian Island in the South Atlantic.

Although it flew at an altitude of 45,000 feet, the announcement said, this was far below the missile's maximum capability.

To prove the capability of its guidance system, the missile was deliberately launched off-course. The report added that the Snark demonstrated its ability to use evasive tactics.

Here is how the USAF described the flight:

Prior to the launching orders from a ship a self-contained, non-jammable guidance system. Following a massive take-off the Snark bored into the sky and in the early stages of flight passed beyond the curvature of the USAF's missile station at Cape Canaveral.

Beamed to stations in the West Indies, the missile arched over picket ships. Finally, in a terrific strike precisely monitored by the new station at Ascension Island, it delivered a warhead into a tiny ocean target.

SETS 50 FIRES

CHICAGO (AP)—A 19-year-old boy, who told police he wants to be a fireman when he grows up, has admitted, police said, setting 40 to 50 fires in the last 18 months. Police estimated that damage caused by the fires the boy admitted setting amounted to at least $200,000. One fire caused the death of Mrs. Anna Kessie, 70.

NO FILM

MILAN (AP)—Countess Wally Castelbarco, daughter of the late Arturo Toscanini, said when told of an idea for filming the life of the great conductor: "We prefer the very thought of talking about a movie version of my father's life."

"We stopped the car to listen and then we heard a tremendous crash as the plane hit the earth, and we saw a red glow from the flames," he said.

The two women survivors, a Mrs. Case and her daughter Sheila, remained in a nearby farmhouse. They said passengers had been aware of trouble since the takeoff.

"We talked among ourselves wondering why we were still flying instead of making some effort to land," Mrs. Case related.

"We realized the crew must also have been worried because we never received instructions or any indication our safety was in doubt.

"All of us had our belts fastened when we crashed. The plane was in flames when we crashed.

"There was no panic. We were all too confused."

Mr. Case and her daughter groped in darkness to reach a door of the plane. Bits of their clothing were still burning when they reached the farmhouse.

The 15 survivors included three who walked away from the tail section uninjured.

An eyewitness to the crash said one man was engulfed like a torch. He was screaming as he dragged him through the grass."

Rescue workers did not tell her her husband lay dead only a yard away.

STEVENSON MEMORIAL

BOURNEMOUTH, England (Reuters) — A garden memorial to Robert Louis Stevenson has been opened on the bombed-out site of the house in which he wrote two of his most famous stories, The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and Kidnapped.

FORCED OUT

LONDON (CP) — Harry Foot won the British stock car championship at West Ham Stadium. Vic Morrow of Vancouver was in second position three laps from the end when he had to retire after an entanglement with another car.

ALMOST SKUNKED

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP)—A local hunter had a flock of ducks lined up for a good bag when a skunk tripped out beside him. "I had to shoot before he did," said the hunter. Total bag of duck hunter: one skunk.

If your child is born today . . . The very pretty child born today is the type who will appeal to everyone to such an extent that they will always endeavor to make his or her life easier, far easier than that of others. Teach progeny early that the finest things are always those which are earned by own efforts. TIGHT MONEY.

The central bank lending rate — the basis and other financial situations—had dropped on Thursday to 3.99 per cent from the high of 4.33 last August. The U.S. federal reserve board rate took a spectacular plunge with a one-half per cent Thursday night to three per cent from 3½, effective in four of its America districts.

WALL STREET AFFECTED

Enthusiasm swept through Wall street. Stocks in the U.S., Canada and Britain rose Friday, easier. They had hoped and expected the U.S. rate to drop but apparently there had been some hesitation in the U.S. They claimed that Canada took the lead. She started the decline first.

Now it appeared that both Canada and the U.S. are swinging back to the "easy money" road, confident they had beaten inflation and ready to support an economic stimulation. The question is whether that confidence will spread to business itself.

Some federal economists felt Canada's central bank had acted soon enough. They said the high interest rates had been maintained too long and that the Canadian economic dip, first in farming sector, may continue until late in 1958.

A YEAR AFTER

The argument of these authorities is that the Canadian economic decline will go toward the end of 1958, a year after the tight-money clamps were imposed. They claim further that this was the time for easing up. But the central bank continued its grip. Soft spots began to appear in the economy. Exports of some basic raw materials dropped. Plant layoffs increased and talk has started of unusually heavy winter unemployment.

With a decline in interest rates and likely increase in the money supply, industries and governments may be encouraged to increase borrowings for new capital projects.

Some economists suggest there will be a significant rise next year in borrowings by provincial municipalities for new hospitals, roads, streets, schools, water supplies and drainage.

ISSUE OF NEW

Mr. LaCroix, who has refused to follow his party's stand on other occasions, presented his proposal at the start of the sitting. The previous evening he had battled with Paul Martin (L—Essex East) for the right to speak first, and won.

In the lunchtime adjournment the Liberals considered their position at a hastily-organized caucus meeting and in the afternoon Mr. St. Laurent announced in the House that his party would support the government—a stand he took at the start of the throne speech debate a month ago.

When the votes came just before the weekend adjournment at 6 p.m EST, 117 members were present. Although the CCF and Social Credit parties were close to 2,500 apple trees.

FRANCE LEAVES NATO MEETING

In Paris, Pierre Schneiter, above, chairman of the French delegation to the NATO assembly, led his group out of the meeting when Britain and the U. S. decided to send arms to Tunisia. France has charged that Algerian rebels are receiving supplies from Tunisia, but Britain and the U.S. say that Tunisia can obtain all the arms they wish from Communist Czechoslovakia and therefore are doing no harm in selling machine guns and rifles to the Tunisians.

full strength, 64 of the 105 Liberals and 40 of the 111 Conservatives were absent.

With the voting over, the throne speech debate closed with no opposition shown to a Conservative motion which in effect called for the confidence of the Commons in the legislative program of the Minority Conservative government.

BEGAN IN OCTOBER

The 10-day debate began Oct. 16 but was adjourned at midway point for a long period to permit passage of government legislation.

On Monday the Commons starts debate on the first of several formal supply motions which will open the way for Commons consideration of government estimates for spending the current fiscal year which began last April 1.

Prime Min. Green indicated the government hopes to end the current session by Christmas, a little more than five weeks away, and start a new session early in 1958. Besides several government legislative measures, the House still has to approve some of this year's spending program.

Despite renewed opposition from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Donald Fleming, Green refused to state whether there will be a formal budget this session.

Earlier, a great deal was said on the flag issue during the debate. Benoit Robert (Red — Kamouraska) suggested a design which has been advocated by the League for a National Flag: A red and white flag centred by a green maple leaf.

POLITICAL SCRAP

Most of the day's debate, however, was a continuation of the political scrap which had marked much of the throne speech debate.

Mr. Martin, former Liberal health minister, said the government is "drifting."

He described it as a "do-it-yourself" government of well-meaning individuals having a prime minister who felt that he alone could bring Canada back to normality.

Referring to Mr. Diefenbaker's promise to shift by 1958 five per cent of Canadian importing from the U.K. to the U.S., Mr. Martin said this should be done to disturb Canadian exports to the U.S.

The Liberal speech dealt as recklessness and irresponsible a claim by Finance Minister Fleming that the threat of inflation had been checked.

GOVERNMENT REPLIES

Mr. Green, closing out the debate, replied to both of them.

He said Mr. Argue likes a mixed economy, government, and thought the CCF could hold a gun to the head of industry. He said this showed the futility of having four parties in Canada. It was a sad state of affairs when two small minorities could hold up government.

Turning to Mr. Martin, Mr. Green said the Commons shouldn't pay too much attention to the former health minister's speech because it was not typical of the Liberal leadership at next January's convention.

Canada had a trade deficit of $1,200,000,000 with the U.S. and it was strange that Mr. Martin would criticize government efforts to reduce it.

CROWDED CITY

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The Indian government is studying the possibility of moving 200 industrial satellite towns around crowded Delhi—to reduce congestion in the capital. Population has grown from about 500,000 in 1947 to nearly 2,000,000 today.

PARATROOPS CHEERED IN ALGERIA

French paratroopers head the armistice parade through the streets of Algiers, observing the 39th anniversary of World War I. There was no real violence but students and settlers shouted "down with Lacoste (French resident general) and his reforms."

About 50 of the noisy demonstrators were arrested and Robert Lacoste announced he would have their draft exemption status revoked. The reform bill would give Moslems equal voting rights with the Europeans. People cheered the marchers. Paratroops have been notably active against national liberation front terrorism.

Late Friday, a device described as a small test vehicle was first fired at the U.S. space centre at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The device was not identified, but an informed source said it was small.

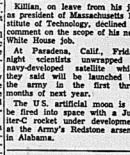
It was the second Canaveral firing in two days. A Bomarc guided missile was tested there Thursday. The Bomarc is an anti-aircraft weapon.

Discussing the proposed new space chief post in the defence department, McElroy said he hopes the position can be filled within a month, either from civilian or military ranks.

He added that the job, which has not yet been given a definite title, will involve the management of what he termed "upstream" type projects such as the anti-missile missile, and military applications of space vehicles.

CURTAIL RIVALRY

One purpose of the action in establishing the job was to curtail rivalry among the U.S. armed services, McElroy said. The new manager will have authority to "pull together" experts from the various services, who then would work directly under the defence department rather than for their particular service branch.



McElroy's reorganization announcement came only a few hours after Dr. James R. Killian had sworn in President Eisenhower's scientific-military coordinator.

Killian, on leave from his job as president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, declined to comment on the scope of his new White House job.

At Paradena, Calif., Friday night scientists unwrapped a navy-developed satellite which they said will be launched by the army in the first three months of next year.

The U.S. artificial moon is to be fired into space with a Jupiter-C rocket under development at the Army's Redstone arsenal in Alabama.

DREAM COME TRUE

The dream of Canada's Gratien Gelinas, actor, playwright, producer and director, is coming true. Gratien looks from backstage of a model of La Comedie Canadienne, a theatre to be opened in Montreal in January. He is affectionately known as Ti-Coq (The Little Rooster) or Fridolin, names of characters he created and made famous. Audiences will see dramas, comedies, fantasies and musicals at La Comedie Canadienne, in both French and English, written, directed and acted by Canadians. (CP Photo).

Genuinely Canadian Theatre To Be Opened in Montreal Just 1 Year After Announcement

By GERRY FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — A pint-sized actor named Gratien Gelinas—his professional stature is a good deal smaller than his five-foot, three - inch frame — announced last January that the time had come for a genuinely Canadian theatre.

He had no money, no sure prospects for raising any, and no building.

Instead he had faith that "God will provide his little theatrical birds with a decent nest, if they help themselves a bit." And he had a dream of a Canadian theatre that began soon after he gave up the security of an insurance job in 1937, with a wife and "a child and a half," for the precarious lives of the stage.

TO OPEN IN JANUARY

In January, just a year after his bold announcement, Gratien Gelinas plans to welcome patrons to La Comedie Canadienne, a theatre like no other. Audiences will see dramas, comedies, fantasies musicals, products of Canadian writers in both languages, directed and acted by Canadians. In a way it's the end of the line for Mr Gelinas—The Little Rooster has come to roost.

"I want to give the rest of my life to develop this—to add a little something to what I hope eventually will be our national theatre," he says.

At 46, Gelinas, actor, playwright, director and producer, is French Canada's most beloved theatre personality. He is known affectionately as Ti-Coq (the little rooster or fridolin, after characters he created and made famous.

Ti-Coq is a French - Canadian concept, an illegitimate, who returned from the war to find his girl married to a stay-at-home. His Gelinas' characterization of the pachetic youth endeared him to audiences who saw him first in revues, then in a full - length play and finally in a film still playing in Quebec. An English version of the play was successful everywhere but New York.

FRIDOLIN WAS FIRST

But Fridolin came first, born on the airwaves when Mr. Gelinas started his career in 1937 by writing a series of radio shows around himself.

Fridolin, a whimsical, slingshot toting waif in a hockey sweater and knee-pants, became the central character in Mr. Gelinas' stage revues, The Fridolinades and Fridolinades.

Mr. Gelinas has two loves—his family and the theatre. Of his six children, three are already aiming at theatrical careers.

His only daughter, Sylvie, 21, is studying letters and dramatic arts. The oldest boy, Michel, 18, is studying commerce with a view to theatre administration. Yves, 18, still at college, spent last summer with a mobile children's show.

Mr. Gelinas' pretty wife, the former Simone Lalonde, "did some work on stage, in the radio and in movies," her husband said.

"She never wanted to go back on the stage, but she know about it."

TV HELPS THEATRE

Television has helped the theatre in some of age in Canada, as a career and as an art form, Mr. Gelinas says.

"Television has created a demand for dramatic writers and made dramatic writing a full-time job. "I think Canadian writers are essential if we are to have a theatre worthy of the name."

That is where La Comedie Canadienne will come in. The theatre is the old Gayety Theatre of burlesque fame, more recently a movie house known as Radio City.

Mr. Gelinas' plans to make it "the home of Canada's dramatic copyright," the place where French - and English -Canadian playwrights meet. Appropriately the theatre, with accommodation for 1,000, is near St. Lawrence Boulevard, dividing line between the predominately French - speaking east and English - speaking west ends of Montreal.

THE STRATFORD INFLUENCE

The stage is designed for effective presentation, not lavishness, and features include a removable forestage to bring actors nearer the audience, novel entrances and new lighting arrangements.

The design was influenced by the stage at Stratford, Ont., where Mr. Gelinas played Charles VI in Henry V and Doctor Calus in The Merry Wives of Windsor last summer.

Mr. Gelinas' efforts to create La Comedie Canadienne began to take shape last spring when Premier Duplessis promised him $25,000 a year for at least four years.

Then Wilfrid Gagnon, chairman of a brewery (Dow) arranged to buy the Gayety for $250,000 and lease the theatre to Mr. Gelinas for a low rental with an option to buy later. Workmen are still busy with renovations, expected to equal the cost of the theatre, before completion in December.

RITUALISTIC SLAYING

BOMBAY (AP)—Police today accused a 18-year-old girl of leading six older female relatives in the ritualistic murder of her 45-year-old father and the subsequent cooking and eating of the victim's flesh. They had been studying witchcraft under an old woman, now dead.

"HOW TO TEST A HOUSE PLAN"
Here in eight easy steps is how you can test a house plan for room arrangement.
Take a clipping or tracing of your house plan and with a pencil or pen, mark the paths taken in each of these incidents.
1—Johnny comes in breakfast and then goes out to play.
2—Johnny's father is forced to use the bathroom.
3—Mom takes the bed clothes from the beds to the laundry.
4—Pop brings wood in for the fireplace.
5—Johnny skins his knee and runs for the medicine cabinet in the bathroom.
6—Pop cutting the lawn in the back yard needs something out of a pocket of a suit in the bedroom closet.
7—Mom is making the rounds when a delivery boy arrives.
8—A neighbor comes to borrow some plates in the dining room buffet.
And so on — NOW, if the pencil lines have NOT marked up the living room like a crossword puzzle, the house plan room arrangement is good.

Mounties Capture Two Suspects In Blind River Killing

Arrested Near Sudbury On Tip From Farmer

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police inspector will fly to Saskatoon tonight to bring back two men suspected of the holdup and slaying of bank manager J. J. Walter Bridges in Blind River, Ont.

Acting Chief Inspector Ward Kennedy of the provincial criminal investigation branch said he is satisfied the men are a truck driver and his 17-year-old son for whom warrants were issued last week.

The warrants charged Fred Montgomery, alias John Cooper, 46, with, 4th, and his son, Rodney, 18, murder in the Oct. 9 shooting. Police said both were from the Parry Sound district and both had distinguishing scars on their heads.

Inspector Kennedy said the arrests were "the same as easy as the men we were looking for." The youth had not admitted his identity, but was satisfied he is Rodney Montgomery." The elder Montgomery "pretty well identified himself.

GOES TO RCMP

Both were arrested in the Delmas area "when making a call" in Saskatoon, after a district farmer who had seen a description of them went to the RCMP in Saskatoon.

The farmer was suspicious of two strangers who had been working on a nearby farm for the last month.

Police arrested the older suspect in the area where he was working. The younger man slipped out of the barn and got to a post-office miles away where he was tracked by an RCMP dog.

Officers said the younger man was carrying a rifle but did not attempt to use it.

Rewards of $27,500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayers were posted earlier today by the Canadian Bankers' Association's department.

Bridges, 50, a native of Strathclair, Man., was shot down in the bank during a holdup attempt by two men who wore horse-neck sweaters pulled up to conceal the lower parts of their faces.

The men followed a messenger into the bank at gunpoint before they opened and shot Bridges and felled Bridges with a .44-40 rifle as he stepped out of his office to investigate.

FLED WITHOUT MONEY

Their stolen car was later found abandoned at Foleyet, 55 miles west of Timmins, where they apparently fled to a boarded a westbound transcontinental train.

Provincial J. L. Needham, in charge of the investigation, flew to Blind River to confer with another officer. They will leave tonight to take the suspects from Saskatoon to Sault Ste. Marie.

FM'r MONTGOMERY TO RETIRE FROM ALLIED COMMAND

Served British Army 50 Years as Officer

LONDON (Reuters) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Britain's brilliant Second World War military commander, plans to retire as allied deputy supreme commander in Europe in September, 1958.

Montgomery, the slim, sweat-ered commander of the British North African campaign, also has been active in service with the British Army after 50 years as an officer.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) announced the retirement of Montgomery's 70th birthday Sunday to make room for promotions.

Montgomery often has been reported wanting to quit his command post. But commanders have asked him to stay. British field marshals ordinarily have not retire.

Montgomery became deputy allied commander in Europe in 1951. He played a key role in the organization of SHAPE and made frequent visits to member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, inspecting troops and troops and prodding governments to fulfill their NATO commitments.

SORELY MISSED

Gen. Lauris Norstad, European supreme commander, said his services to NATO have been "unforgettable" and he will be sorely missed."

"Both in Western Union from 1951 to 1951 and at SHAPE from 1951 and 1957 his tremendous skill and his great wisdom have made the greatest contribution first to the planning and later to the buildup of military forces in Europe."

West Germany's foremost active soldier, Gen. Adolf Heusinger, paid tribute to him as "certainly one of the great soldiers of the last war."

Pineau Will Press French Objection to Arms Shipments

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Christian Pineau will tell United States today to press the U.S. government to halt French objections to sending British arms shipments to Tunisia.

His departure came amid such precautions as the posting of armed patrols at the U.S. and British embassies Sunday night to guard against any demonstrators angered by the shipments. Unofficial sources in London said Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd is expected to discuss the and U.S. State Secretary Dulles in Washington.

Lloyd is expected by some to make an announcement later today in the House of Commons.

"The aim of my trip is to ameliorate things, to limit the damage," Pineau said before his departure.

It is necessary to think of the existence and the strengthening of the Atlantic pact. . . We insist on finding a system which will assure the solidarity of NATO in all fields."

The foreign minister said he will tell Dulles about "the unanimity of the (French) government and show him how lively the reaction of public and parliamentary opinion has been about the delivery of arms to Tunisia." Pineau is scheduled to see Dulles Ir. Washington Tuesday.

Informed sources said Pineau will call for an end to the arms shipments and full U.S. support for France in revolt-ridden Algeria.

Dulles most likely will refuse to give any guarantees which in effect would give France control over U.S. relations with Tunisia, a former French protectorate.

Although the United States may support France in the forthcoming United Nations debate on Algeria, the informants said, it is unlikely Washington will extend unconditional support for the French in Algeria.

Justice Locke Leaves Bench On Counsel's Motion

Move Is Unprecedented In Canada's Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice Charles Locke, Jr., in a scene unprecedented in the Supreme Court of Canada, withdrew from the bench after Toronto lawyer Lewis Duncan made a motion for him to be excluded from an appeal.

Mr. Duncan, whose motion took not only the bench but his law associate, Toronto lawyer Walter Williston, by surprise, rose as the case involving a will was called.

Giving no reason for asking Mr. Justice Locke to withdraw from the case he said only that his appreciation of the administration of justice it would not be served by Mr. Justice Locke sitting on the case.

DENIED DAMAGES

The appeal is by Miss Kathleen Lahay of Cobalt against a decision by the appeal division of the Supreme Court of Ontario denying her damages for breach of contract arising from the will of Dr. William Eli Brown of Cobalt.

The defendant is Mrs. May Adelene Brown, the doctor's third wife, who married him eight months before his death in 1954.

Miss Lahay says she was promised the doctor's estate by Mrs. Brown. Mr. Justice W. F. Spence in the trial division had ruled against Miss Lahay.

The five judges, obviously shaken by Mr. Duncan's motion, retired briefly and then Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin said they had decided to excuse Mr. Justice Locke.

Mr. Williston, thunder struck at his forehead with his hand, said to the chief justice: "I can't carry on. I can't carry on."

Mr. Duncan interjected, said simply "You cannot let me down now, Walter."

He declined to spell out for reporters his reasons for objecting to Mr. Justice Locke.

Twenty minutes later the five judges returned to the courtroom and the chief justice announced:

"The court has considered the unprecedented situation that has arisen. None of us knows of any reason for the remarkable statement made this morning and no reason has been advanced by counsel for the appellants to continue."

Mr. Justice Locke, his face flushed, rose in voice quivering, said "I, however have something to say.

"I do not know you, Mr. Duncan, I have never met you before, but I have known my life, I have no feeling of any kind toward you.

"I know nothing about the case we are about to hear. But since I have been asked to take this stand I decline to sit in this case. I withdraw."

Mr. Williston then asked permission to address the court.

"I should like to say that I had no previous intimation of the motion being made, and by appearing in the case I do not wish it to be taken as in any way endorsing or concurring in the motion."

Chief Justice nodded curtly in acknowledgment and said the court would withdraw to consider.

Catholic Press Has 4 Problems Says Editor

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — A Catholic priest and newspaper editor listed four problems which must be overcome if the Catholic press is to exert an influence on public opinion.

Monsignor J. G. Hanley of Edmundston, N.B., Catholic Register, addressed delegates to the English-speaking Catholic Social Life Conference, which Sunday night began discussion on the social impact of radio, television, the press and motion pictures.

Msgr. Hanley said that at present "as far as the press is concerned, the influence of the Catholic press is negligible . . .

"In the present intellectual atmosphere of English - speaking Canada, a paper devoted to exert influence on the general public as it should would have great difficulty surviving, due to lack of subscribers."

There were eight Catholic weeklies in communities from Saint John to Vancouver as well as numerous magazines.

Msgr. Hanley estimated 1,000,000 Canadians were Catholic. One publication at least once a month.

"Our problem," he said, "is how to get the Catholic press and its influence from what they are to what they ought to be."

The monsignor said the difficulties to be overcome are a lack of interest in spiritual and religious matters; a lack of sense of Christian solidarity among Catholics; too few adequately-trained personnel and business.

"Most of the deficiencies of our Catholic papers, in regard to personal and editorial, could be eliminated if sufficient funds were available."

Horse Beats Man But Does Not Settle Argument

ROOSEVELT, Utah (AP)—The results of a 158-mile horse-versus-man marathon that ended Sunday apparently didn't settle much. The exhausted footracer who lost wants to try it again, that year.

"I'll be back again," said Albert Batt, 24-year-old Brigham Young University student, as he hobbled around on swollen feet.

Batt ran 90 miles from here on the Salt Lake City-to-Roosevelt run. He was beaten and the two horsemen he tried to beat were near the finish line.

The race began at Utah capital city Friday morning and ended 37 hours and 15 minutes later after some bone-pounding jogging by man and horse along a highway.

The marathon that was supposed to settle a old weather argument about which is faster —man or mount—ended when 70-year-old cowboy Roy Hatch and co-rider ray Hall, 18, trotted their mounts down the main street Sunday night and broke a ribbon stretched across an intersection.

Ship Line Sends 95 Jamaican Seamen Home

MONTREAL (CP)—Two chartered planes carrying 95 Jamaican seamen to man Canadian ships left Montreal Sunday. Steamships vessels were ordered back Sunday after strikes in Seven ports about five hours away from Montreal.

It was reported they were instructed by radio to return to Kingston, Jamaica, by CNS. No reasons were given for the abrupt change.

CNS announced a week ago that its eight ships had been removed from Canadian registry in order to be transferred to Trinidad registry.

All the ships had been tied up here and at Halifax since July, when the Seafarers' International (CLC) called off the crews to back demands for higher wages. The seamen were making about $104 a month.

Wool Cloth Industry Asks Higher Protection in Brief

OTTAWA (CP)—An appeal for sharply higher protection against imports was voiced by Canada's wool cloth industry today as the tariff board opened a study of the Canadian textile tariff structure.

"The industry is in grave danger," said H. Roy Crabtree of Montreal, president of the Canadian Textiles Institute, in referring to the wool cloth situation. But the problem is not only wool cloth but all branches of the textile industry and the whole Canadian economy, with severe layoffs and financial losses.

No country can be economically mature without a textile industry sufficiently large to meet the needs of its citizens, Mr. Crabtree added in opening argument before the board. The Canadian textile industry did not want all of the Canadian market for itself, he said, but wanted to be assured of a part sufficient to protect the jobs of its 125,000 workers.

Wool cloth manufacturers are "operating under conditions three years ago but this was turned down. The board said at that time, the problem was not so much the low tariff on imports from Britain, but the producers — main competitors for the Canadian market—but the low prices of Canadian woollen products and other factors. Consumers were switching more to synthetic products.

The industry argued today, however, that the situation had changed. The Canadian wool cloth market had grown, but because of low tariff protection and increasing imports from the U.K. and Italy, Canadian producers were getting a smaller and smaller share of their own market.

Britain Finds Way of Fusing Hydrogen Atoms

LONDON (Reuters) — British scientists believe they have successfully "fused" atoms in a controlled H-bomb power, sir John Cockcroft, Atomic Authority official said here Sunday.

The official said that results of the thermo-nuclear machine called Zeta had been "extremely good."

"The indications" are that fusion has been achieved although it is not yet definitely proved," he said. "That will only be the first stage towards complete control of the fusion process."

Zeta—zero energy thermo-nuclear assembly—is a huge doughnut-shaped tank mounted over a mass of electrical equipment. Its purpose is to produce temperatures high enough to fuse the mixture of deuterium gases and release energy.

The experiments with Zeta at the atomic energy research station at Harwell have so far produced temperatures of more than 1,000,000 degrees centigrade.

The Atomic Energy Authority official said that temperatures of 100,000,000 degrees centigrade would be necessary to make hydrogen bomb power could be harnessed for full purposes on a profitable basis.

'Calling Canada to Christ' Theme of Preaching Mission

By GLADYS WARD

With the challenging theme, "Calling Canada to Christ," a week of preaching mission commenced at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday afternoon with Rev. Dr. G. Ernest Thomas conducting the service.

To open the meeting the congregation joined in singing familiar hymns led by Mr. Linton Read, Rev. H. M. Davis, minister of the church, read the Scripture lesson from St. Luke relating the story of Mary and Martha, following with a prayer for the success of the mission.

Dr. Thomas described the life of Mary of Bethany as a drama in three scenes. The first was the height of her faith, when she worshipped at the feet of Christ, while Martha complained of her busy life and her sister's idleness, and Christ explained that Mary had chosen the better part. The second scene was after the death of their brother, Lazarus, the occasion Martha ran to meet Jesus, but Mary remained in her room. Her faith had gone and she was in the depth of doubt until Martha told her the Master was there and was asking for her. The third scene was at the foot of the cross at Calvary's Hill where the Son of God was hanging. She had found her way back to Him. The prayer lead to Him.

"Mary had the close personal relationship with Christ which we all want," said Dr. Thomas. "But sometimes something happens in the life of a Christian. He has moments of high faith and then after some adversity he finds his strong vital faith has gone. It happens in the life of many, their faith becomes a dead thing.

HAPPENS IN FAMILIES

"It sometimes happens in the life of a young person. There is nothing more wonderful than when a young person meets God for the first time. Then in different surroundings where others do not appear to have much concern with God, this same young person finds his faith has been lost. What a tragedy when that which is so holy and precious slips away from a young person's life.

"Sometimes it happens in families, it is a glorious thing when Christ is the third partner in the marriage relationship, but it is easy to lose Him. There is tension in Canadian homes as there is elsewhere, and in many homes where Christ is the centre and love was sacred, He has been forgotten.

"This is true also when we are older. It is easy to let faith become just a memory and is not real at all.

"The hardest thing about being a minister, is to preach each Sunday to someone who has been hardened to Christ each week, and then learn that something vile or dishonest has been revealed about that person. We deny our relationship with Christ when we live like that.

"But always the , Master is here and is asking for us. Each time the invitation of God to return to Him is offered to us. There is always the gospel of a new beginning for all who want it. God is asking all of us to renew our faith."

Dr. Thomas used several personal anecdotes to illustrate his meaning and point up the message he delivered. The speaker explained how he had found that missions do not attract the people outside the church, and urged each person present to accept the obligation of inviting someone to the service. He asked his listeners to be God's ambassadors in the lives of those who desperately need God's outreach, because so many people need to find Him. Dr. Thomas invited the congregation to engage in a few minutes of silent prayer.

The church choir sang the anthem, "Come Unto Me, All Ye Who Labor," accompanied by the organist, S. Alec Gordon.

The services are sponsored jointly by the five Belleville churches of the city, Bridge Street, Christian Church, Emmanuel, Eastminster and Holloway Street, and will continue every evening this week and next Sunday afternoon.

Gas Company Restores Road On Front Street

Work of restoring the pavement on Front Street following installation of the six-inch gas main by Lakeland Natural Gas Co. was commenced this morning.

Hydraulically operated packing machines are used to pack the backfill in the trench. Then the trench is covered to a depth of five to six inches and concrete is poured to within inches of the top.

City public works crewmen then follow and asphalt to bring the trench level with the pavement.

Dominion Construction Company officials who are doing the installation of gas mains in the city said the restoration work on Front Street would be completed before much further excavation was done along Station St.

Quiet Weekend For Policemen

Both city and provincial police reported a quiet weekend. No breakins were reported and no accidents resulting in personal injury occurred on the city streets or on Belleville district highways.

In the city on Sunday afternoon a rear end collision on Front street in front of the city hall and minor damage amounting to approximately $250 result to a car driven by Barry Blakely, R.R. 6 Belleville.

Blakely was northbound when the car in front stopped for a line of traffic and he failed to bring his car to a stop in time.

Bruce Terrill, City Hotel, complained of the theft of a suitcase and shopping bags containing clothing and personal effects. He said he had left the suitcase in the lobby at the hotel on Saturday evening.

International Nickel, trading ex-dividend, lost 3¼ points at 72¾ among senior base metals. An error in the Toronto Stock Exchange's record department Friday had Inco trading ex-dividend that session but the date for such transaction is today. Coppers were narrowly easier.

Industrials had a few gains of fractions to about a point. Western oils were generally easier but there were a few minor gains.

NEW YORK (AP) — Viewers watching The $64,000 Challenge TV quiz Sunday night were startled to see themselves challenged.

In the midst of the program, a man later identified by police as Richard Fichter, 34, Springville, Pa., walked in front of a camera and read from a prepared statement:

"America, I have a challenge. The Russians are ahead of you."

Fichter got no further. The camera swung away from him, he was grabbed by the stage director and was ushered into the wings after his brief performance.

Fichter was taken by police to Bellevue Hospital where he was admitted to the psychiatric ward.

BOOSTING FRENCH

QUEBEC (CP) — The St. Jean Baptiste Society of Western Ontario has appealed to the organization's members here for aid in setting up a French-language library in Windsor, Ont. The Ontario group seeks donations "so that our people may be encouraged to read French."

Champion Wheat Grower on Way To Claim Prize

MANNINGTREE, Eng. (Reuters)—A proud Scottish corn farmer left for Toronto Sunday night to be acclaimed the world's champion wheat grower.

Andrew Davidson, 58, won the title with a 29-pound entry in Cappelle wheat which he sent to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

He is the first Briton to capture the challenge trophy and a silver tray that goes with the title since the fair started in 1922.

At his 520-acre farm near this market town, Davidson said the winning sample of wheat was grown by his 21-year-old son, Alan.

"He helps me on the farm," Davidson said. "We drilled and manured the wheat. I am sorry I shall have to make the trip alone.

"Alan will stay behind to look after the farm with my wife, Jennie. We were given such short notice that we could not get all our passports renewed in time.

"I had a call at 1:30 a.m. A Canadian in Calgary somehow related me on taking the cup to Britain for the first time. I have never won anything big before."

WOOL CLOTH

Canada's civilian demand for wool cloth had increased to an estimated 41,700,000 yards this year from 29,300,000 in 1954, an increase of 42 per cent. This still was 14 per cent below the 1948 peak but the industry, in a submission to the board, described this as a "remarkable recovery of demand."

However, in the 1954-57 period, the Canadian market's share of the Canadian market dropped to 51.2 per cent from 58.4, imports from the U.K. rose to 15,207,000 yards in 1956 from 11,433,000 in 1954. Those from Italy took a spectacular jump to 1,718,000 pounds from 207,000.

The industry maintained that Italian producers could keep their prices low because of cheap labor, duty was made from rags and other old clothes while Canadian competitors used only new wool.

One of the industry's biggest headaches has been the Canadian tariff ceiling on imports from the U.K. For more than a quarter-century the rate ceiling has been held at 20 cents a pound, though the price of cloth has risen sharply during that period, reducing the degree of tariff protection.

The industry maintained this ceiling should be scrapped and new and higher rates imposed, based on yardage rather than on weight.

Tariff proposals advocated by the industry would boost rates on imports from the U.K. to 18 per cent and 20 cents a square yard from the present 20 per cent and 12 cents a pound. The rate on imports from Italy and other most favored nations would rise to 21% per cent and 23 cents a square yard from the present 17½ per cent and 20 cents a pound.

To Ask Resignation

WINDSOR (CP) — Controller Robert M. Fuller says he will call for the resignation of Mayor Michael J. Patrick if the mayor persists with a plan to become a part-time garbage inspector.

He said Saturday he would ask the demand at a special board of control meeting called for tonight to consider Mayor Patrick's proposal that he be relieved of his mayor's duties for two hours each morning for a period of two months.

The mayor proposes that Controller Mrs. Cameron H. Montrose represent him at the meetings he organizes garbage collection in several city wards.

WINTER COAT?

The king penguin at the front of the line appears to be wearing a winter coat as Bobbi Stirks, 3, of Vancouver, makes the obvious comparison between the two feathered relatives. The downy one is the only king penguin born in captivity in North America to survive. He is more than 100 days old, stands two feet tall and weighs almost 20 pounds. He was born in Vancouver. Weekend Sports Melees Bring Demands for Strictness

TORONTO (CP)—Demand for stricter control of sports events was voiced today following weekend disorders at a football game at Montreal and hockey games in Toronto and Chicago.

In Montreal, fans Saturday attacked football officials following Hamilton's 17-10 victory over Montreal in the first game of the Big Four's season, total final.

In Toronto, eight players were involved in fights which drew 68 minutes in penalties—in the Toronto - Boston Bruins hockey League game Saturday night.

A similar battle involving every player on both teams developed during Saturday's NHL game between Detroit and Chicago at Chicago.

HARMS THE GAME

"Such happenings do much harm to the game," said Mayor Phillips of Toronto. "There is a responsibility on law officers to protect the public, players and officials."

Professor John Farina, who a week ago condemned rough play in sport, said: "This is a verification of what I and many other responsible citizens feel is happening to some of our very good sports."

Prof. Farina, a one-time athlete himself and now on the staff of the University of Toronto school of social work, said he saw the Montreal-Hamilton game on television.

"That crowd of fans looked like an awfully ugly mob to me. That it can't come here Saturday attendance of sports crowd by any means.

"It is bad for children to see incidents like that. It shapes their attitude.

NO JUSTIFICATION

Cec McFaddin, referee-in-chief at the Big Four, also was at the game said: "There is no justification for a mob of fans attacking officials and players in games."

Jack L. Christie, retiring president of the Ontario Minor Hockey League Association, said: "Out of these disgraceful things, good is bound to come.

"The rugby people will undoubtedly take steps to stop trouble coming on the field and to protect officials.

"As for the hockey fights, I hope stick-swinging players will automatically be thrown out of the game."

POLICE ACTION NEEDED

Clarence Campbell of Montreal, president of the NHL, also a spectator at the football game, commented: "A little resolute action on the part of the police would have stopped it."

Stafford Smythe, Toronto Maple Leaf executive, said brawling in National Hockey League games in Chicago and Toronto during the weekend were "just spontaneous outbursts and nothing violent happened."

"These things have happened hundreds of times before," he said.

The Leafs' acting manager said it is reasonable to expect players of two teams competing strenuously with each other to go past the breaking point occasionally.

Two New Breed Of Swine Shown At Winter Fair

TORONTO (CP) — Professor R. P. Forshaw of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph took a look at a new—to Canada—breed of swine Saturday at the Royal Winter Fair.

The breed is the Landrace, a floppy-eared bacon hog, which Professor Forshaw judged in its first appearance at the Royal. It was one of two new breeds making their first appearances.

The Landrace is similar to the Yorkshire, long and white, but its snout is long and straight, rather than upturned like the Yorkshire's. Breeders say this makes the Landrace more thrifty and able to forage where Yorkshires might have problems.

The second new breed, which has not yet been entered for judging, is the Lacombe, developed by the federal department of agriculture and named after the Alberta agricultural station where it was developed.

TRENTON (Special) — The second largest attendance of the season saw Trenton Juniors uphold their unbeaten record and win the league opener against Belleville here Saturday night 5-3 in fast, rough play throughout the full 60 minutes.

The official face-off was made by Belleville Mayor Jane Forrester who arrived at the new Community Gardens with a police escort provided by a motorcycle constable from the Trenton Police Department. The visiting mayor was received by Councillor James MacDonald acting for Mayor Ernie Burtt confined to his home with the flu. Garden's chairman Clifford Baker and Councillor MacDonald escorted Mayor Forrester to centre ice where she dropped the puck and sent the teams into action.

Mayor Forrester and her trenton hosts including Mrs. Burtt and Councillor Hall had hardly settled in their seats before Belleville went into the lead with a goal at the 45 second mark on a Gill-Wright combination. Then both sides started the puzzle-dazzle hustle and spectators viewed the first of old rivalry that started in competition between teams of the two centres many years ago.

16 STITCHES TO CLOSE WOUND

In one Trenton rush in the first period defenceman Irwin of Belleville suffered a deep cut that was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for surgery. Accordion to a report later the jaw was not broken but 20 stitches were needed to close the wound.

It was soon afterwards that Trenton opened a ganging attack resulting in two quick goals. Roger Drake took a pass from Centre Ken Leavey and Vardy for the first one, then 20 seconds later G. Austin threw a pass with Lewis and Drake drawing assists. Both sides pressed with Belleville effective around the Belleville net when F. Lewis scored with Drake and Austin helping. Having his biggest night on a spree with Drake and Austin, he outgunned Leavey when Gilbey was still a busy boy as the period ended.

Belleville began to find pay-off dirt in the second period and crowded Trenton defence with weakened both sides. The Rowbotham brothers and Kerrish-Burtt combined for their team's second and then J. Gill fooled Wright with a backhander on a pass from Wright fed by Titterson. Belleville's peppery attack forced Trenton to settle down and throw caution to the wind.

Penalties in the game were called on to make spectacular saves until Guy Austin and position of having a two-goal lead with less than a minute to play.

Six Jet Bombers Complete Flight Without Landing

PLATTSBURGH N.N. (AP)—Six giant B-52 jet bombers zoomed to a predawn landing here Sunday to complete a 10,600-mile non-stop return flight from the United Arab States to Buenos Aires.

"Everything functioned perfectly all the way," said Brig-Gen. William K. Martin, commander of the Bomb Wing. We could have kept right on going."

The planes zoomed over the Argentine capital Saturday afternoon and flew directly over Ezeiza Airport, where the air show was being held as a climax to Argentina's Aeronautical Week.

Martin said the bombers, powered by eight engines, flew on a direct route to Argentina from Homestead air force base, Fla., and back at an average ground speed of 560 miles an hour. They flew at altitudes of 40,000 to 50,000 feet.

The planes took off from Homestead at 5:58 a.m. EST Saturday and completed their journey between 2:32 and 4:05 a.m. EST Sunday.

The bombers were refueled en route.

Yardman Does Not Know of Good Fortune

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lawrence Norman Broome, 37-year-old Canadian National Railways yardman, was away from home attending the funeral of his father when word came Saturday that he had won $13,000 in a sweepstake.

Mrs. Broome said that her husband, who held a ticket on second - placed Spaceman in the sweepstakes of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association, did not know of his win.

He left here by train Wednesday night for Beachburg, Ont., near Pembroke, after being notified of the death of his father.

"I didn't even know my husband had bought a ticket and I found it in his clothes at home yesterday," said Mrs. Broome. "Now I don't know whether to call him or not. It might be too much for him with the funeral and all."

SCIENTISTS AS PERSONALITIES

Dr. Stanley Haidass, Liberal M.P. for Toronto Trinity, complains that "increasing numbers of self-satisfied citizens - - are avid for the products of science, particularly medicine and entertainment, but they feel no attraction for a life dedicated to intellectual discipline nor for scientists as personalities."

This statement is quite probably true, but it does not automatically follow that the existence of this situation is one reason for the shortage of scientists. In the past there have often been occasions when large numbers of self-satisfied citizens were avid for the products of the farm, while feeling no attraction for the rural life; but this did not create a shortage of farmers. The farmers were individualistic enough not to give a hoot whether their customers liked either country life or people who lived in the country, provided they paid good prices for farm produce.

We suspect that a good scientist's devotion to science will not be dampened by the aversion of self-satisfied citizens to him as a personality, as long as he gets well paid for his work. The idea that the present age demands that everybody be attracted to a life dedicated to intellectual discipline is a false one. We suspect that the fuss arises from confusion between the role of scientists and technicians. The technician is likely to be as certain "that everything desirable in life is to be found in a ranch-style house, a television set, travel and convivial gatherings" as any of the rest of us. Like us, he lacks the insatiable curiosity of the true scientist. There are still enough people interested in using this divine curiosity to keep all the technicians we have busy developing practical uses for their discoveries if we provide them with the tools. That may involve shaking up a few self-satisfied citizens until they consent to unloosen some purse strings, but it is to be hoped that it does not require their conversion to a life of intellectual discipline. That would involve a miracle.

We suspect there are a lot of people in Russia, too, who think that everything desirable in life is to be found in a home with lots of space, if they have ever seen one, a television set, travel and convivial gatherings. The fact that they are not in a position by reason of living able to enjoy this kind of life does not appear to us to make it more likely that they feel any attraction for a life dedicated to intellectual discipline, or for scientists as personalities.

A WAGGING TONGUE

Liquor has different effects on different people. Some it makes gloomy, some gay; some drink in silence, others let their tongues wag.

It is difficult, though, to make much sense of the results.

At a cocktail party the other day he said that President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles would be welcomed in Moscow as "dear friends," which suggests that liquor makes him, Khrushchev, a hypocrite.

He said of Marshal Zhukov "as a military figure, he was a remarkable man," an observation which may be open to more than one interpretation but which seems to us to put Khrushchev in a favorable light as a man who can be realistic about, if not generous to, a political opponent.

"I have serious doubt that Britain is a satellite of the United States?" he asked, a remark which gives him a dunce rating for diplomacy and indicates he has a very short memory since he cannot even recall the Suez incident although he was tossing off his drinks at the Egyptian Embassy.

Then he offered to take the remark back, adding to one blunder a second one, since it revealed that, if he did not recognize that the observation was unrealistic, he at least knew it was tactless.

Finally there was a remark which might mean nothing or everything. He was talking about the possibility of visits by U.S. and British leaders to Moscow when he said that "political leaders must not bear grudges." But perhaps he was thinking of others, perhaps he was wondering what grudges were borne by Molotov, Malenkov, Zhukov - - and the ghosts of Beria and Stalin.

SCIENCE GRADE TO U.S.

If Canada is to invest large sums of money in her universities for the training of science students, she must also have industries capable of giving them employment when they graduate. That is one of the problems is that Canadian science graduates, trained by the investment of Canadian money often leave this country and give other lands, above all the United States, the benefit of their education. The Music of Cambodia

By Alaia Danielou in UNESCO Features

Cambodia was once the centre of a major civilization — that of the Khmers, whose splendor and glory are still attested by the magnificent vestiges that have come down to us through the centuries. The majestic ruins of Angkor bear witness to the wealth and power of the Khmer kings and to the refinement and the culture of their people.

Yet today, all we know of the lives of the sculptors and the architects who built those Khmer palaces is contained in the moss-covered stones. To discover their secrets, French archaeologists have been struggling for years, clearing the creepers and the giant trees of the jungle, laboriously uncovering the sites of ancient temples, palaces and tombs. They sometimes speak of the Khmer civilization as a forgotten civilization apparently unlinked with that of present-day Cambodia.

It is easy to understand that such architectural traditions could not survive the wars and disorders which, during the decline of the Khmer empire. But, leaving aside the architectural structures, the student of Khmer civilization will find many links with the past in the daily life and the social manners of present-day Cambodia. Today, the Khmer people inhabit the same city of Angkor, and in the royal palaces of Cambodia and Thailand people still live in a setting that the continuation of the music which once accompanied the palaces of Angkor.

Ancient Cambodian music stands apart from the systems of Oriental music and even among the musical systems of the entire world. Its scale is basically polyphonic. It seeks to create atmosphere rather than to excite sentiments, gongs, and xylophones play the dominating role, while the oboes, flutes and double flutes adding their voices to the orchestra form only the complex modal harmonies. Bow instruments (which even India has borrowed from classical orchestras) were probably not introduced into Cambodia before the end of the 19th century that is, in the era when Western influence and the great Khmer musical traditions were established.

The Royal Cambodian classical orchestra is called Pei-phat — or Skor Thom, for the oboe, by which name it is known as the pei, is its main instrument. The other instruments in this orchestra are xylophones, metallophones and, especially, the Khong Vong, a circular set of small gongs on a bamboo frame. Two big kettle-drums, the Skor Thom, also play a big role. There are also cymbals of various sizes and a double drum of the type used in India, the Sam Pho.

In the large classical orchestra which accompanies the traditional Cambodian dancers in the royal palace at Phnom Penh, there are many more instruments. Even in popular orchestras, but the Skor Thom, the same quartet of percussion instruments still dominate.

For concert music, string instruments predominate. The pin and peresussion instruments. Some have bows, like the Tro So and Tro Sau, and others are plucked strings such as the big Cambodian lute, the Tro Chi Pei and the Cambodian Vina, the Ta Khe. This mixed wind, string and percussion orchestra is called Mo Ho Ri and it is used to play lighter compositions and modern works. It does not have the severe and almost sacred character of the classical orchestra.

But to come back to the Chi Pei, the huge Cambodian guitar. It is a curious instrument with a long curved handle, very different from corresponding Indian or Chinese instruments, and it produces some very interesting effects.

Cambodian bow instruments have a very long handle which runs through a sound-box consisting either of a bamboo segment, of a coconaut or of a skin stretched over a heart-shaped wooden frame. The ethnic orchestra includes the three types of bow instrument, as well as three instruments using plucked strings and two types of xylophone.

But in addition to classical music, there are other musical traditions in Cambodia. Magicians, for example, have their own orchestras with similar instruments but which they play in a style quite different from that of the classical musicians. Religious music is also very different from secular music and has remained much closer to its Indian origins. The recitation of the Buddhist monks is derived from the Vedic chants and the words of these ritual songs are still sung in Pali, an Indian language which is the sacred language of Buddhism.

The influence of these ritual chants, there is a more melodic type of religious singing, in which the singers, usually former monks who have returned to the world, intone the variations on long poems narrating the life of Buddha.

As for popular singing in Cambodia, it is quite different from the religious chants and much closer to the old Cambodian tradition.

Fair Wage Wanted

Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer,

The Canadian major railways are using the term as shocking in their extravagance, the demands we are proposing for a fair wage for the men. Men who are receiving $1.63 an hour would like the present demand for this is so, the majority of us are being short paid.

The Railway Conciliation Board which contract comes up for interview, it is likely that will be given a substantial increase. Although the demand after vacation periods, other large corporations award one month for 20 or 25 years service, as we with 30 years or longer service are not entitled to any benefits for this feature. All we are desiring is to have our wages in line with the durable goods.

With monopoly economy based on the principle of securing maximum profits, high prices have inflate the cost of living months by months, unorganized in trade union movement, and the absence of an organization of self defence, as long as Canadian capitalism is accumulated by other doors.

We are only asking for a fair wage, to be able to live in the proper manner, which will enable us, if we are thrifty, to acquire some modest property the worker as well as the employer has the right to live as a human person with the opportunity to get a fair share of the goods of this world.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BE CAREFUL

Some time ago a man died and word went about town, "He was worth a million."

To whom? Not to his family, for the money he gave them left them into every conceivable vice and brought most of them to early death. Not to his community, for his example was as bad as the example of an evil, loose-living man can ever be. Not to his country, for the same and influence appeared on the liability side of the ledger from the day he was born until the day he died.

The man was a millionaire all right — that is he owned a million dollars in stocks, property, and cash. But he was not worth a million dollars. There is a vast difference between being a millionaire and being worth a million dollars. Financial rating is one thing; true worth is another thing else again, and very often it is.

Occasionally we find a man who owns a million dollars and is worth a million dollars, but not often it is also true that one and a while we find a man who owns nothing but is worth a million, sometimes a billion to the world. And, of course, it is not a matter of real importance how much we are worth, to ourselves. For we have to live with ourselves, and true worth is the only thing that gives us real significance.

Our systems of standards and measurements vary immensely from the usual significance. Contents of God. Be careful about your measurements.

Building permits must be obtained. "Some confusion seems to exist in the minds of local residents over the matter of building permits which are issued by this office" stated city building inspector Charles Mott this morning. Under the amendment to the building by-law which was passed by the council earlier this year permits for inside or outside work, alternations or construction of local homes must be obtained before any job that will require an outlay or expense of $25, or over. The cost of these permits is on a graduated scale up to $500 the cost of a permit is fifty cents; to $1,000 the cost is $1; $2,000, $1.50; $3,000, $2; $4,000, $2.50. It is graduated from there on to $10,000 when the permit will cost $4.25. The cost for permit includes inspection of the premises, plotting of the ground and other services by the office. Belleville permits are much cheaper than those of almost any other Ontario city it was pointed out by Mr. Mott.

Tanganyika's Lion-Man

Ottawa Journal

When two elderly Tanganyika women conceived a grudge against a man on whom they depended for support they decided on revenge by obtaining the services of a "lion-man" to kill his five-year-old niece.

In due course the two women were convicted of murder by an East African court and the Privy Council in London has just rejected the appeal of the keeper of the lion-man against the sentence of death passed on him.

Africa, as Mau Mau reminded the world, can be a place of strange horror but nothing is more gruesome than the story behind the lion-man case.

Evidence was provided that a lion-man, the actual killer in the case, was a human being kept under control by a keeper who was paid by the two women.

"It appears that a lion-man is a being who has been brought up as a beast to do the orders of those in charge of him and to kill with bestial ferocity. While employed on such business he takes the creature disguises itself in the skin of a lion, or partly in lion-skin and partly in human skins."

In defence offered for the lion-man keeper, named Muhandi, was that the murder of the little girl was committed after the lion-man had been handed over to the keeper's men. A second point was that no evidence had been produced that Muhandi had been informed of the tasks to be given the lion-man which he had hired out for 100 shillings.

The Crown argued, successfully that the lion-man was handed over in the knowledge murder was to be committed and Muhandi's appeal could not be allowed.

So there is justice in Tanganyika. The ultimate tragedy is that the two women, the lion-man, that human made into beast, never became a matter of issue before the Privy Council. Perhaps he (or it) had been so depraved and twisted that he no longer could be treated, or judged, as human.

Cortisone or Aspirin?

In the British Medical Journal, a committee of the Medical Research Council and the Nuffield Foundation published a report of the comparative value of cortisone and aspirin in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis.

At the start of treatment, 61 patients were hospitalized for a month and given either cortisone or aspirin for 12 weeks. In the second year, treatment was continued, dosages being regulated by the attending physician who used the minimum amount to produce maximum efficiency. In the third and fourth years, the treatment and choice of drugs was left to the discretion of the physician.

Progress was carefully assessed in all cases.

The conclusion drawn was that there was little or no difference between the effects of cortisone and aspirin. It was apparent, that aspirin is thusly the more satisfactory more often than cortisone. "There are, however," says the report, "some patients who state that they derive more benefit from cortisone than from aspirin.

The patients who thought cortisone was more beneficial were perhaps dazzled by the "miracle medicine" publicity and the contemptuous of common cheap aspirin. Anyway the doctor's measurement of range of movement, function capacity and moment.

other joint changes would have more significance than whims of the patient.

I hope no one will infer that I recommend aspirin as a remedy for any kind of joint trouble.

In my opinion aspirin (acetylsalicylic acid) is an analgesic, that is it relieves ache or pain and is not a remedy for anything. It is the least dangerous analgesic any one can take, in my opinion.

A test made in England, over a period of years, under supervision of the British Medical Research Council, proved as well as it can be proved, that everyday exposure to cold, sudden changes, dampness, drafts etc, does not cause or predispose to illness of any kind. This, too, has been utterly disregarded in this country, not only by the quick buck practitioners but by the rank and file of the medical profession. As far as doctors and folks here are concerned, the English are not to be taken seriously.

It would be astounding if this assumption of mine would not bring a number of protests from individuals who have experienced quick relief, especially, burslitis, after a few "shots" of aspirin. I can say about such cases is that, long before cortisone was introduced, there was a certain number of cases in which recovery was just as quick, with or without treatment, function capacity and

THINKING THE BEST

I like to think the best about a person, not the worst. I like to see as those who seem to be dedicated to digging down into the personality of one to find some single, or a dozen faults. If they would dig deeper they might strike gold!

I am sure I have enough faults to keep a person enumerating them a long, long time. I think this fact is why I am constantly in a happy adventure, however, it is to see how much good we can discover in another — and then our glory in it! Friends are a necessity. Without them we would be as travel a lonely road indeed.

This thinking the best can be best applied to some everyday being about things in general. By thinking the best is sure to happen we defeat all thought of the worst. The physical body reacts happily to the best or desired thoughts. The best companion is

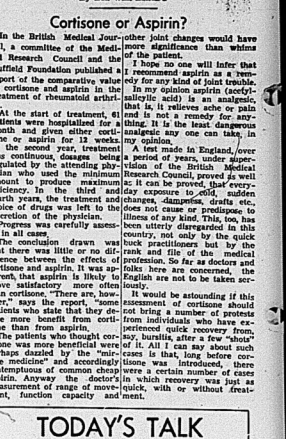
By GREGORY CLARK

In the backwoods, in farming country, in villages and towns, of the less thickly populated parts, the motor car is still a useful and handy convenience. But in cities, the motor car is rapidly becoming obsolete.

I would sooner push my lawn mower down town than trundle the vacuum cleaner ahead of me. And the way I am into the city which I have to be, I would almost shove my lawn mower down to my office in less time than it takes me to drive down, park, and walk to my place of business. As for fuel, mine would be a lot less trouble to park and get rid of for the day. The vacuum cleaner? Well, it might take a little longer. But if the city fathers don't think up some system for supplying me with current, I might consider making a deal with them in connection with the street cleaning department. As cars are a majority of the populace comes around with a big vacuum cleaner to clean up.

Seriously, I think that with regard to motor cars, it might be a very practical suggestion that the civic fathers should consult the citizens for a small honorarium, pushing vacuum cleaners to work each morning, thus keeping the streets immaculate and at the same time satisfying that urge of getting the dust out of one's something down town each morning, and above it home each night. The motor car we have got into the way of taking our cars down and keep over. And it is a hard habit to break, regardless of the nuisance it involves. I imagine the last man to use the vacuum cleaner would satisfy us that it was all we could figure out some purpose to it. It's like thumb sucking. We'll get over it. We're getting over it now, slowly.



Within twenty years, I bet it will be harder to get a license to keep a car in cities than it is to get a licence to keep a cow.

Motor cars are already strictly for the sticks. If you don't agree, take a look at city traffic at five p.m. tonight.

Lie Detector Tests Will Be Asked in Probe

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Investigators probing a tenement fire that killed 18 persons—15 of them children—say they will give lie detector tests to several persons and present all evidence to the grand jury.

City, county and state officials sifted through the ruins all day Sunday and questioned the eight survivors of the fire that raced through the three-storey frame building Saturday.

The 18th victim, Herbert Reid, 16, died Sunday of burns. Five of his brothers and a baby sister died in the fire along with the mother of another family, her eight children and two men.

The investigators tentatively blamed the fire, the worst in Niagara Falls history, on an explosion in an oil-fired furnace. Witnesses told of hearing an explosion just before flames engulfed the building, the former Moonglow Hotel.

The officials held a three-hour conference Sunday night to compare notes. A spokesman said they planned to give lie detector tests to several persons, but he did not identify them. He said the findings of the investigation will be presented to a grand jury.

Most of the families in the building had been served with eviction notices.

Daniel W. Collins, city director of housing rehabilitation, said the structure "met the bare minimum housing requirements."

He said it had been inspected last June when seven families were living there. Five moved out since then, one of them, a family of 10, had left only two days before the pre-dawn fire.

The owner of the building, William Dietz, said he had planned to use it as a warehouse.

Probation Officer: Outlines Juvenile, Family Court Work

So-Ed Club members were given an insight into the operation of Juvenile and Family Courts and causes of juvenile delinquency and domestic troubles by probation officer Donald MacKinnon, when he addressed the club Wednesday night.

Mr. MacKinnon is the probation officer for Belleville and Hastings County. He came to Belleville in February, 1950, when the Juvenile Court was set up for this area. For the previous four years he had been with the Ottawa Family Court.

He explained a Juvenile court is set up in a specified area when the Juvenile Delinquency Act is proclaimed by the Governor-General. The court has jurisdiction only within the territory specified.

"Our Juvenile Court has jurisdiction only in Belleville and the County of Hastings, excluding Trenton," he said. "In Trenton a juvenile offender must be seen by a magistrate' court before either by a judge or judge and jury."

He pointed out when the Belleville and Hastings County court was being set up, Trenton was approached, but it turned down the offer because the town didn't want the expense of setting up a Juvenile Court.

PURPOSE OF COURT

The main purpose of a Juvenile Court is to try to reclaim juvenile offenders, Mr. MacKinnon said. A probation officer and a psychiatrist are assigned to discover the reason for the crime.

Court hearings are held in private with only the judge, probation officer, parents of the accused or guardians present, he explained. The press is excluded and no names of youthful offenders or even the name of their school, can be published.

While awaiting trial or prior to being sent to a training school the juvenile offender is held in an attractively furnished detention room. Juveniles are forbidden the lodging of youthful offenders in a jail.

If a juvenile is found guilty and is committed to a training school, his age, religion and sex determine which one he shall be sent to. All are screened through Brownsville.

Mr. MacKinnon pointed out that probationary judges have wide powers. They may impose a fine not exceeding $25, allow a child to remain in his own home or send the child to a probation officer's home or a foster home, or commit to a training school.

DELINQUENCY CAUSES

Causes of juvenile delinquency include lack of parental control, broken homes, lack of outside interests or money to engage in outside activities, poor reading habits, crime movies and mental dullness, Mr. MacKinnon said.

Crimes committed by youthful offenders include theft, breaking and entering, car theft, careless driving, drunkenness or non-attendance at school. The juvenile is charged only with being in a state of delinquency, not with the specific charge.

"The juvenile delinquency problem is not serious in Hastings county," said Mr. MacKinnon. "In the past year there have been only 59 juvenile offenders out of a total population of 70,000. In future, I hope we won't have any."

The main effect upon the child convicted of juvenile delinquency is he can never become a government employee, e.g., work for the Civil Service or join the RCMP.

When a magistrate's court is set up in addition to a juvenile court, it is known as a juvenile and family court. The main purpose of a family court is to prevent, if possible, the break-up of a home by solving domestic troubles, and to try to maintain a happy and normal family.

The majority of cases include non-support, desertion and cruelty.

DOMESTIC TROUBLE CAUSES

Mr. MacKinnon pointed out the main causes of domestic troubles include lack of money, being unable to live within the husband's income, poor housing, excessive liquor consumption, poor mental health, extra-marital relations by one or both parties, incompatibility, foolish spending and meddling in-laws.

The speaker was introduced by Diane Whitehead and thanked by Orleen Mollard, who presented him with a gift on behalf of the club.

Following the address, So-Ed president Bert Hiles called for volunteers to help canvass for the Community Chest this week.

He told of his own personal experience in the successful Wells campaign in Ottawa.

FILM STRIP

A film strip, "Looking in the Looking Glass," was shown, following which Mr. E. Hart outlined the proposed budget of $4,600 for 1958.

Mr. Edmondson spoke briefly and mentioned that one should think deeply about his personal responsibility at a church meeting. He pointed out that one must always remember that he is an example to someone else and is responsible for their sharing in the church.

As Paul described the church, it is a living body, each member depending one on the other.

Mr. E. Ray, as visitations chairman, suggested that the plan would be a great asset in providing visitors for the future and that, possibly, a membership visitation would be the result in a few years.

Mr. Percival followed with the message, "I Can Do It If We Will." After a short discussion, the budget and the proposed program be accepted as given.

PREP CENTRE

If lunch-box planning haunts your dreams, here are a few tips that make the task easier; try to have a "Lunch-box prep centre" in a corner of your kitchen, one shelf, near the bread box for instance where tasty, well balanced lunch should include at least one food from each of the following groups:

Milk—to drink or eat (puddings, etc.)

Bread—enriched white, whole wheat, rye, etc. . . with butter or margarine.

Meat—or a protein food like fish, eggs, cheese, poultry or peanut butter.

Fruits or vegetables—raw or cooked.

Plan your lunch box menus in advance and avoid the monotony of repetition by varying the foods. Whole wheat bread for Monday, raisin bread or fruit bread the next and so on. Vary the sandwich fillings too—add chopped, stuffed, celery or raw carrot to that left-over turkey, blend with mayonnaise. Peanut butter, mayonnaise and chopped dates provide a new taste thrill between slices of fruit bread. Variety in size and shape will make cookies and a sandwich-on-a-bun will delight the youngsters too.

PACK SEPARATELY

Ah, yes, "pack alike" sandwiches together. Lettuce and other fresh vegetables must be packed separately to keep their crispness and freshness. A paper plate cover should be neatly placed on the top will make lunch more pleasant and homelike.

For children, a daily surprise package tucked into the corner of the lunch box is sure an appetite tempter. A favorite cookie, a few dates, neatly wrapped packages of raisins or nuts for instance, will make lunch time a happy time. Planning the daily mystery package can be a real trouble for healthy growing bodies.

Wife Preservers

It is a good habit, at dishwashing time, to dip a cloth or sponge into clean soap or detergent suds and wipe off the kitchen cupboard doors and range. Finger marks and food splashes are thus obliterated.

Large Numbers Seen at Mission

Excellent congregations were in attendance Sunday at the preaching mission now being held at the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Everett St.

The mission opened a week ago when a Houghton College group of young people known as Youth In One Accord and directed by Dr. George Wells were present to conduct weekend services. The services continue with Dr. Rufus D. Reisdorph of Houghton, N.Y.

A graduate of Marion College, Marion, Ind., Dr. Reisdorph holds a Master of Education degree from Vanderbelt University, Nashville, Tenn. During the war he served as chaplain in the American army. . . .In 1953 he made a world-tour in the field of Missionary Evangelism. Presently he is serving the Wesleyan Methodist Church as General Sunday School secretary, and editor of Sunday School literature. Dr. Reisdorph's wide experience in the Christian ministry combined with his spirit-directed life qualify him well as teacher-evangelist.

The mission continues this week with Dr. Reisdorph preaching at each service. A special feature of the campaign is the early morning prayer meeting with most of each day being taken up with prayer by members of the congregation.

Smooth Coverage

By TRACY ADRIAN

Now that many of the latest styles seem to be hoisting the hemline, the smooth stocking look is more important than ever before. Though the panel on this dance-and-dinner dress dips low, the hemline beneath is high-rising.

So, here we give you a pair of hose that can't go wrong: leg-wise. They are beautifully fitted and are also seamless. The ones shown are for evening wear and are in an iridescent wine shade.

A Special Fish Dinner

By Mary Moore

If you want to hear about a good fish dish worthy of your guests who travel and know good food when it is put before them, read on.

We had halibut for Sunday dinner and the way I dressed it up would have made 2 Parisian chef nod approval. My modesty is slipping.

The spread was a sort of sweet barbecue sauce with ingredients complementary to fish texture and flavor.

BROILED HALIBUT with Sweet Sour Barbecue Sauce

For four people buy 2 slices of halibut weighing ¾ lb. each or 1 lb. each if your family's fish appetite is extra hearty. Mine cost $1.20 and was 75c per lb. I covered the broiler rack with heavy foil and put the two fish steaks on it, then I spread each with this sauce:

Juice or 1 large lemon, 2 teaspoons brown sugar, 1½ teaspoons French mustard, ¼ teaspoon each onion and celery salt, and a good shake of pepper and paprika. When one side was broiled under a very hot broiler and tinged with golden brown spots I turned them over and spread second side with the remaining sauce, and finished broiling them up quickly. Don't over cook halibut or it will lose its treasured moistness. Serve at once on a hot platter, pouring any sauce remaining on the fish over fish. Garnish liberally with quartered tomatoes and parsley sprigs. We served with this buttered rice and Frenched green beans.

For dessert we had something entirely new to me — an apple pudding, if you have just bought a bushel of apples you will welcome this pudding.

HUNGARIAN APPLE PUDDING

Six cups unpared shredded tart apples (we used second grade Spys). 1 cup soft stale breadcrumbs or 2 cups corn flakes, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/3 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 egg whites, 3 tablespoons sugar. Wash, dry and shred apples using medium shredder. Add breadcrumbs or corn flakes at once and mix gently. Cream butter, add sugar and yolks, and salt and beat very well. Add the remaining sugar to egg whites and beat until stiff and fold this meringue into the apple mixture gently. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Stand it in a larger dish containing water and oven-poach at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden, about 1 hour. Or if you have something else in the oven like meat roasting at 325 deg. Fahr. this pudding can be baked at the same time but for 1¼ hours. Serve warm with cream or hot with

SPICED HARD SAUCE:

Sift together 1 cup icing sugar and ¼ teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves, and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Cream ⅓ cup butter well and gradually cream the sifted ingredients into it until all is light and fluffy. Chill. For special occasions shape this hard sauce into rosettes through icing tube.

Mother's Helper

SOMETHING different for your little princess on her birthday is a cardboard cake, gaily painted with pink flowers and dekked into individual triangular boxes for small gifts. There are six such "slices" and the cake makes a pretty centerpiece for the party table—holding favors for guests.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY HINT . . . FOR THE BRIDE IN RECEIVING-LINE

The bride we like, who makes us happy and proud, is the bride who, as she greets us in the receiving-line, remembers the wedding present we sent her, remembers to say how much she likes it, thanks us enthusiastically for it. She makes us feel that we sent "just the right" present. The appreciative and polite bride makes a great point of the thank-you procedure, and a day or so before the wedding does her homework of "remembering" who-sent-what, so she may say her appreciation with real thoughtfulness and grace.

WHOSE NAME FIRST ON CHRISTMAS CARDS . . . HUSBAND'S OR WIFE'S?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

One usually sees Christmas cards and other greeting cards signed with the name of the man (the head of the house) first. Correct? — V.

That depends. When the wife signs the Christmas cards and other greeting cards for her husband and herself (and usually it is the wife who does sign the greeting cards for both) she, courteously, should write her name last. George and Dorothy But when the husband signs the cards for both, he courteously should write his name last. Dorothy and George.

When the names are imprinted on the greeting cards, the wife's name generally comes first; Dorothy and George Holiday. Since the names are imprinted, there is then no question about who-is-signing-the-names, and so the wife's name comes first.)

A FREQUENT INTRODUCTION-SITUATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm trying to make myself a "good 'introducer.'" Thank you for answering several introduction-questions I have sent you. I like your advice that "Today's informal introductions are generally, and sensibly, simple and natural." Along this line, may I please ask you another introduction-question, one I find quite frequently arises?

Let's say I want to introduce a man who is with me to a woman friend of mine who is, let's say, a very little distance away. In other words, I must say her name, in order to attract her attention, but it seems too formal to address this intimate friend as "Mrs. Thompson." If I've made myself clear (I hope I have!), will you please tell me how to make this introduction? — Sallie M.

You do make yourself clear, and I agree with you that this is an introduction-question that does quite often arise. To attract your friend's attention would be quite proper, of course, only if she were really quite near to you. It would be natural for you to say "Mary" and then complete the introduction — "this is Mr. Richards" — then, turning to Mr. Richards — "Mrs. Thompson."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Vera D — There should be no double standard.

Jessica F. — My sister recently learned that her husband is having an affair with one of the young secretaries in his office. He is a man of 45 and he and my sister have been married nearly 25 years.

My sister has been so broken up over it that I have to constantly remind her she must hold herself together somehow, if only for the sake of her three children. She has shut her husband out of the house and refuses to even talk things over with him.

I feel she has handled it all very badly. She should not just take it so hard. Her husband really loves her and would never leave her but he is at the age when a man is easily swayed by the chance for a fling. Men just don't see these things the same way we women do. He has begged me to talk to her to make her more sensible about it all, but she won't listen to reason.

Vera D. — My husband has begged and pleaded for me to listen to "reason," but he hasn't yet given up this young woman. That would be the only kind of reason that might make me listen to reason on me. I say "might" because even if he did give her up I almost feel I couldn't live with him again.

I don't believe in a double standard for men and women I think we are all basically the same, but that women are more ready to sacrifice everything out of loyalty and love for their families.

I don't know about other women and their marriages and how they would take a thing like this, but I don't think I'm taking it too "hard" under the circumstances. We had a very rough struggle financially and my husband was very ill for a long time. I worked and fought to pull us through all kinds of trouble and feel that this is a very poor return.

The Council: We certainly agree with Vera in her "no double standard" position. Vera may be taking things hard, but Jessica is inclined to be much too easy. Marital infidelity is a very poor return for a lifetime of love and single-minded devotion.

But we feel that Vera is letting her deep wound get in the way of the best interests of herself and her children. She is acting out of fury and probably has given little consideration to the long years that lie ahead — years in which her children will be deprived of a father and she of a husband.

Surely Vera realizes that we often do things in anger which we later regret. She is now letting her angry drive her into a corner from which there may be no return.

Since this husband evidently does not want to give up his wife and family, Vera has reason to feel hopeful about the possibility of his meeting her terms. She owes it to herself and her family to make one more big sacrifice — that of her righteous indignation — in the higher interests of the family.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

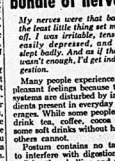
CREAMS SHOULD BE INCLUDED ON EYE MAKE-UP LIST

Think of eye make-up and three times. Keep in mind immediately — mascara, eye shadow and eyebrow pencil. Somehow or other, cream rarely comes to mind. Yet cream definitely has its uses around the eye area. Offhand, we can think of three:

1. Spread cream in a very light film over your lids and blot with tissue. You'll find that this preparatory step helps eye shadow to go on quickly, easily and smoothly. Be sure you use a light touch, however. Don't use one of the heavy emollients you use for facial massage.

2. If you're having trouble with an eyebrow pencil that's too hard, rub a little cold cream into a bit of the pencil and watch how it softens the crayon.

3. If skin's dry around the area, and it frequently is, cream just before you apply lip, eye and will help. It's one thing that will help. It's one thing that this time one of the special kinds especially designed for the job. Use it every night. And use it after exposure to wind or bright lights, too. Remember that old "ounce of prevention"



While we're on the subject of eyes, does your medicine cabinet contain a good eye lotion? It should, you know. Ask your doctor to recommend one to wash out irritants that will freshen tired eyes, bring back some of the sparkle that may lose after a long day of close work, reading, sewing, etc. You will also find it helpful after a session before the TV screen. Watching TV tires the eyes because the eyes are steadily converged over a long period.

Watch the way you read, too. Experts advise a 100-watt bulb about 20 inches from the page, with the light coming over the left shoulder. Avoid glare. If strains eyes even more than in sufficient light.

Proper rest is essential to eye beauty, also. Instead it, eyes are bound to look tired and, when they're tired, there's no cosmetic on earth which can give them the lustre and sparkle which add up to true eye beauty.

EARLY TRADE

First small shipments of Canadian lumber went from Quebec to France soon after the colony was founded.

I was a bundle of nerves

My nerves were that bad the least little thing set me off. I got irritable, tense, easily depressed, and I slept badly. And as if that wasn't enough, I'd get indigestion.

Many people experience unpleasant feelings because their systems are disturbed by ingredients present in everyday beverages. While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum contains no tannin to interfere with digestion; no caffein, theobromine or theophylline which can cause nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, palpitation of the rapid pulse, followed by depression.

There is no need to endure any of these unpleasant feelings. Switch to Instant Postum which is guaranteed to contain no stimulants or drugs. Postum does not taste or act like ordinary beverages, but has a comforting flavor of its own. Make Postum really, instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better.

WINS A FREE COLLEGE EDUCATION AT WINTER FAIR

The winner of the Eaton Agricultural scholarship, Harold G. Coffin, an 18-year-old Prince Edward Island farmer, will now have the opportunity of spending four years at the agricultural college of his choice with all his expenses paid. Harold—seen here with Mrs. Frank McEachren, who presented him with the award, at the Royal Winter Fair, now underway in Toronto — defeated youths from seven other provinces in the national competition. Competitors were selected by provincial agriculture departments on the basis of interest in agriculture, ability and leadership qualities. The final selection was made after an interview by a special committee at the fair.

Water Supply Project Will Cost $250,000

TORONTO — A water supply project for Winchester, in eastern Ontario, has been approved It was announced today by the Ontario Water Resources Commission. Cost has been estimated at close to $250,000.

In making the announcement, Chairman A. M. Snider of the OWRC said test drilling seeking an adequate ground supply of water would get underway immediately. Once an adequate supply has been proven tenders for construction of the system will be called.

Mr. Snider said the Winchester project was most urgent in view of the fact that the existing water situation in the village creates a serious problem.

The Commission chairman added that the Commission now has under construction or approaching the construction stage 10 water and six sewage projects. The ten water projects involved are at Bancroft, Brock township (Sunderland), Dresden, Frankford, Harrow, Havelock, Markham township, Port Perry, Richmond Hill and Winchester. The sewage projects include Bancroft, Richmond Hill, Stratford, Streetsville, Toronto township and Trenton.

The OWRC, he said, expected to have approximately $20,000,000 worth of works under agreement soon.

Travel Now and Pay Later Vacationists on Increase

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More and more people—both the well-heeled and the half-soled—are taking winter vacations.

Used to be, only the idle rich escaped the snow, the slush, the sneeze. Now, many small businessmen, junior executives, department heads, unranked working staffs, secretaries and pensioners are disappearing in January and returning in February with impressive tans.

They come back, also, with Indian blankets from New Mexico, silver from old Mexico, alligator bags from Miami, straw baskets from Nassau, saddle sores from Arizona, autographs from Hollywood and empty, turned-out pockets from Las Vegas.

LONGER VACATIONS

Wealthier-than-average people still command a majority among winter vacationists. But the common man is increasingly apparent in these playlands on the crest of a trend toward longer vacations, more vacations split between winter and summer, more dough in pay envelopes, more people on pension rolls, more hypnotic wanderlust induced by travel - now - and - pay - later posters.

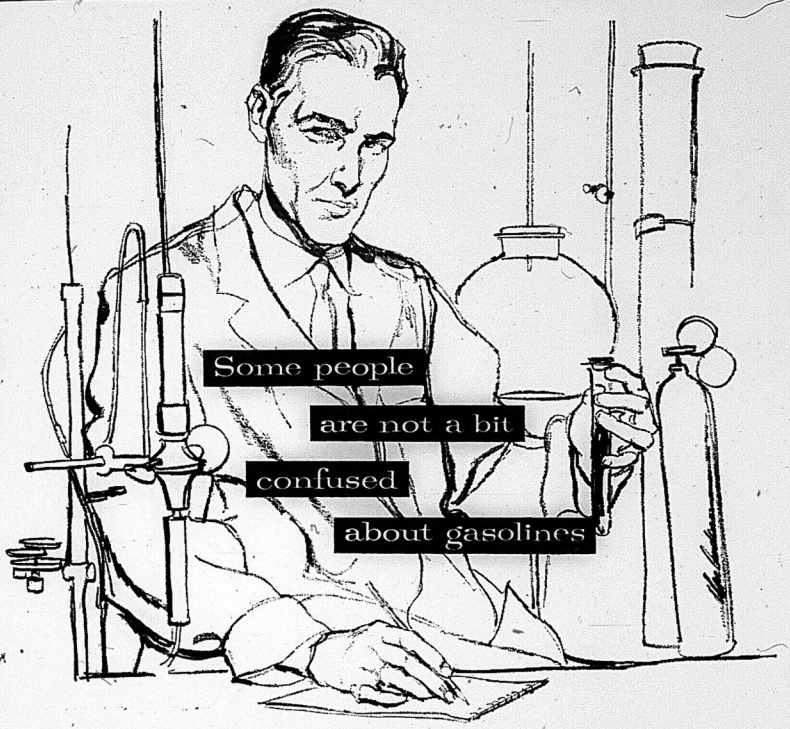
Winter tourists go to many different places. What do they do and see? How much do they spend? Here is a synopsis of a couple of the favorite spots:

Mexico—To see, to do: (In and out of Mexico City) bullfights, clubs, national palace, cathedral, glass factory, flower markets, Chapultepec park and castle, flower market; swim at the beaches of Acapulco, tours of Taxco, Cuernavaca, the Pyramids, Acolman Monastery, Shrine of Guadalupe, floating gardens of Xochimilco, palace of fine arts, Lagunilla market.

Costs: Average tourist stays nine days, spends $300 (not including transportation from home). Lives in first class, but not luxury, hotel, eats well, goes on several guided tours, has one night on the town, buys souvenirs.

The loaded or not-so-average tourist can spend any amount—on grand suites in luxury hotels, in restaurants that compare with best in New York or Paris, in night clubs, betting on horse races at Hipodromo de las Americas, on jai alai, lottery tickets. He can (and does) charter planes for private flights to Acapulco, where he can rent a yacht (all sizes) for parties or fishing cruises.

Minimum language requirement: "Quanto?" (How much) and "Es mucho" (It's too much)



Miami Beach—To see, to do: The parade of mink and Cadillacs along Collins avenue, the neon splash of ocean front hotels each flashier than the other, the cut-rate lobbies, the palm trees, the ocean, the mammoth kidney-shaped pools, the flamingoes at Hialeah, the dog races, jai-alai, the head-liners at the supper clubs, the obscure strippers at the B-girl joints, the seminoles at Indian Village, the deep-sea fishing, the bay view from downtown Biscayne boulevard.

Costs: You name it. You can get a room for $6 a day if you're willing to share it with a stranger or for $100 a day. You can pay $1 for a dinner (in a cafeteria) or $20 in a plush supper club. You can play gin rummy at 25 cents a point or a tenth of a cent. You can shop in dime stores, or in hotel salons for $1,000 dresses or $5,000 chinchilla stoles. You can swim in the ocean for free or in a hotel pool for the price of your room. A cabana at a hotel pool costs up to $100 a week for one facing the ocean and up to $100 a week for one facing the pool. Why the difference? You can be seen easier near the pool.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Professional bettors down East, who all have made the West 13-to-8 favorites for the Grey Cup, may have to revise their odds as a result of Winnipeg Blue Bombers' upset victory Saturday night over Edmonton Eskimos in the first game of the Western International Football Union final. Actually, when the eastern bettors laid the odds they were looking Esks were a cinch to capture the western title and go on to win an unprecedented fourth successive Grey Cup championship.

Bombers apparently think little of the odds-makers. They were 18-point underdogs prior to the first game.

GAME LAST YEAR

Eskimos, however, may like playing the first contest—although last Frank (Pop) Ivy won't agree. Last year, Esks dropped the first game to Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina and then slaughtered Riders in the next two games at Edmonton.

Whatever the outcome of the second game in Edmonton Wednesday night, rookie coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blues has one admirer and sceptics that he rated as new two-year contract Bombers gave him prior to the season opened.

If Esks do come back with a victory Wednesday, the third game will be played in Edmonton on Saturday night.

Highlight of Saturday night's clash was a 101-yard touchdown push by Bomber fullback Gerry James. Behind the excellent blocking of his teammates, the CFU scoring champion raced along the sidelines for the score on his own nine-yard after taking a kickoff following an Edmonton touchdown.

LIFTED ENTIRE SQUAD

The sparkling run seemed to lift the entire Bomber team to heights unreached this season by the defending Canadian champions. They took an 8-7 lead at the half and never looked back.

James also booted a field goal and a single. Halfback Dennis Gentyk took a pass from quarterback Kenny Ploen for 73 yards and a touchdown. Ploen contributed once, while fullback Martin Shepard booted two singles.

Fullback Johnny Bright gave Esks the lead early in the second quarter after a scoreless first session. He climaxed a drive from the Edmonton 46 with a perfect Bright smash over left tackle from 11 yards out. Mobra converted and that was all the scoring for Esks.

James took the Edmonton kickoff the distance to close the gap before the first half. Gentyk and Shepard's two singles put Bombers in front 8-7 before the half ended. Mendyk's over-the-shoulder catch for a touchdown and Ploen's convert gave Winnipeg a 15-7 margin before James added four more points in the final quarter on a single and field goal.

Ivy gave full marks to the Winnipeg squad.

"They deserved to win," he said. "They outcharged us all through the game. There were no surprises in their attack. They just outplayed us."

Industrial Hockey

Don's Delivery and Hillcrest Wreckers recorded easy victories over the weekend as the Industrial hockey league opened its 1957-58 season.

Hillcrest whipped Circle TV by an 8-3 score while Don's downed the Terrytex 7-3.

Jack O'Neil spearheaded the attack in Don's one-sided triumph, scoring two goals and assisting on another. Ted Aitken also potted a pair of goals while Ron Archer, Bill Muirhead and Bud Payette had a goal and one assist each. Jack Calnan and Leroy McBrien fired the other two goals with Bill Vesterfelt assisting on a pair. Cam McKenna and Gary Bowerman on one each.

Larry Woods and N. Donovan tallied for the Terrors, both unassisted efforts.

The Hillcrest Wreckers were paced by Palmer with two goals and one assist. Jack Hughes and Munroe chipped in a brace of goals each while Dave Kelly had one goal and one assist. Fox also scored twice, Rob Burrows, J. Lucas and Casey earning assists.

Bob Stewart and Gary Gowe gave the Circle TV squad their singles put Bombers in front 8-7 before the half ended. Mendyk's over-the-shoulder catch for a touchdown and Ploen's convert gave Winnipeg a 15-7 margin before James added four more points in the final quarter on a single and field goal.

Gilchrist Will Probably Draw Automatic Fine

OTTAWA (CP)—It looked here today as if Hamilton's Cookie Gilchrist is to be levied an automatic $50 fine for slugging Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes in the two teams' all - important Saturday fixture. Hamilton won the first encounter of the teams' two - game total-point Big Four playoffs 17-10.

The slugging incident occurred in the first four minutes of play. Gilchrist was waved off the field in consequence.

Judge Allan Fraser, commissioner of the Big Four Football Union, said "my understanding is that when a player is put off for roughing there is an automatic fine of $50."

The procedure was that D. Wesley Brown, secretary - treasurer of the union, would notify the club that Gilchrist was liable to the penalty and order it to obtain payment from him.

The commissioner said he had noticed that Gilchrist remained on the bench for a good part of the rest of the game. He was not sure, however, whether the player sat out the game, nor whether a player ruled off has to leave the field entirely. He would have to check the rules.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It was the swan song of one of the association's oldest officials, but over 300 delegates to the Ontario Minor Hockey Association's 24th annual convention in Trenton saw to it that the organization is left in capable hands.

Popular Jack Christie has retired from many years faithful and loyal service to the organization he loves so well. He served many years as its secretary and Saturday saw him step down from a two-year term as its president.

Another well known OMHA official, one who also has served for a number of years, succeeded Christie in the presidential chair. He is Jack Oakes of Strathroy, who will head the body for the next two years. His vice-presidents duly acclaimed are Frank Doherty, Thorold; Ted Elms, Galt, and Jake Simmons of Gravenhurst.

Eastern Ontario will again be ably represented on the executive with Doug Patterson of Stirling and Albert Watkins of Peterborough, being swept back into office. Other elected members are: Gordon Hawes, Whitby and Bev Schram of Port Dover. It is likely that other members of the executive will be appointed by the new president.

The association established a new all-time record for the number of teams and players which played under its aegis last season. Entered in OMHA group play or playdowns were 365 teams, representing 6,570 players, while competition in town or city leagues involved 1,031 teams representing 15,765 or a total of 1,416 teams and 22,335 players. The former all-time mark was the previous season when 1,888 youngsters took part in league play and playdowns.

There were 85 juvenile, 133 midget and 137 bantam teams participating last year in playdowns with 58 juvenile, 215 midget, 313 bantam, 379 peewee and 86 squirt and under teams in local leagues.

Past president Christie in his final address to the association severely rapped professional coaches, who, he said, are unable to understand the concept of clean sport as practiced by amateurs.

"Hired professional coaches could not possibly understand this approach to any game, be it football, soccer, lacrosse or hockey," he told the delegates.

Christie said the right way to play football, "is to play hard enough for an all-out effort and easy enough so that the boy can enjoy the game, have fun, develop team spirit and return home with a minimum risk of injury. and with the respect of his opponent."

Over-all insurances for the younger fry is gradually growing in popularity. When the insurance was inaugurated in the 1952-53 season some 3,658 youngsters were covered. Last season, Registrar Jim Whiston revealed, the total number covered by insurance was 8,181. In the first season 43 claims were paid. Last year they amounted to 110. The amount paid in these claims was $6,305.

We in Belleville have been lucky insofar as injuries to the youngsters are concerned. Last season, this league was one of the few communities that did not enter a claim for injury.

Norm Perry Succumbs to Heart Attack

SARNIA (CP) — Norm Perry, one of the finest broken - field runners Canadian football ever produced and one-time head of the sport's governing body, died of a heart attack Sunday at the age of 52.

A tall, slender figure in his football days with Sarnia Imperials of the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, he was called The Galloping Ghost of the Gridiron.

Perry played on five Sarnia ORFU championship teams in the days when the East ruled Canadian football. He played on the Grey Cup-winning Imperials of 1934 with such former greats as Bummer Stirling, hard-pounding Orm Beach, Alex Hayes, Dockey Pearson and Johnny Manore.

He started playing halfback in 1918 as a junior and his playing days ended in 1935 when he suffered a broken leg while playing with the Imps in an exhibition game at Calgary.

HEADED CRU

But the end of his playing days didn't mean the end of his interest in football. He went on to be one of the few men to rise from playing ranks to become president of the Canadian Rugby Union in 1953.

After his playing days, he stayed with Imperials in various capacities, became a member of the Sarnia city council in 1936 and was elected mayor in 1939. Throughout these years he was on the executive of the ORFU and at his death was a member of the CRU board of governors.

Harold Bailey, former secretary of the ORFU said: "Norm was a steady influence at all times in football matters and his death is a great blow to the game. Football, and the men connected with the game, have lost a great friend."

CRU President Don Downey of Toronto, said: "He was a true sportsman in every sense of the word and he will long be remembered for his immeasurable contribution to the game that he loved so much and played so well."

And in Montreal Myer Insky, president of the CRU two years before Perry in 1953, said: "Much of what we have today in football is the result of efforts he made. He was a great worker and a dedicated man."

Wild-Eyed Trouble-Makers Besiege Hamilton Players; Oneschuk Boots Three Goals

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Big Steve Oneschuk, placement specialist, booted 10 winning points Saturday and Tiger-Cats won 17-10 over Montreal Alouettes in a game that left thousands of fans both deflated and disgusted.

The let-down was in Als' failure to win on their home field in the first game of the total-point, two game Big Four Football Union final for the eastern title and a bid for the Grey Cup.

There was disgust at the sickening exhibition of hoodlums, precociously teen - agers, who raced on the field after the game and attacked and slugged Hamilton players.

FOUGHT WAY OUT

The beleaguered Tiger-Cats, in the centre of a milling mob of more wild-eyed trouble-makers, literally had to fight their way out. There were limits in the fifty minute uproar when the ugly situation might have exploded into something far worse. Parallels with the early stages of the 1955 hockey riot at the Montreal Forum were too significant to overlook.

In winning the game, Ticats' one-touchdown contribution was supplied by Gerry McDougall. The Hamilton backfielder slipped through the Montreal line in the second quarter for a 36-yard gallop.

But it was Oneschuk who kicked Als' hopes sky-high. He booted three field goals in four attempts and converted McDougall's touchdown. Cam Fraser tallied a single that went for a Hamilton single.

EJECTED FOR SLUGGING

Rough play cropped up early in the game and Cookie Gilchrist of Galt was ejected for slugging Etcheverry. His loss didn't appear great as Hamilton controlously. McDougall was a consistent ground gainer, uncorking one run for 47 yards while Trevor Curcillo took up a lot of the slack in the backfield.

Als played without halfback Joel Wells, laid up with a fractured rib, and tackle Ted Elsby, who was in Galt to attend his father's funeral. An Alouette spokesman said today there is little likelihood Wells will be able to play in the second game of the final, in Hamilton next Saturday.

OFFSIDES HURT

Offsides hurt Als in two instances. Hal Patterson took a long pass from Etcheverry inside the Hamilton five-yard line late in the fourth quarter but the play was wiped out by an offside. The same penalty gave Fraser a second chance for a single. On his first effort the ball was taken by Jim Hughes on the Montreal two yard-line and was run back to the eight. Given a second chance, Fraser made good with more yardage.

Als lost a single point in the last few seconds of play. Etcheverry, with two mates on side, kicked into the Hamilton end zone. As the ball bounced about, youngsters came swarming up and grabbed it. The ball was inside the deadline. The officials ruled no single had been scored.

This decision, along with Gilchrist's swing on Etcheverry and the unmistakable displeasure of the fans at several rulings by the officials during the game, may have set off the blow-up at the end.

The keen - agers, many in leather jackets, streaked on the field. Several Hamilton players found themselves wedged in the jam. Others were able to get to the stadium entrance to their dressing room.

SNATCHED CAP

One young hoodlum snatched field judge Norm Maxwell's cap. He went after it and was hit and pushed, falling backward into the crowd.

Then four Hamilton players, struggling to get through, were singled out for attack. They were Jim Hughes, P. W. Hutchenson, Jack Davis and Vince Scott. They were waylaid, hauled and slugged. They swung back soldily. Scott waded into his attackers with his bonnet right and left.

Tom Hugo of Alouettes got inside the milling crowd somehow to give help. Cooler - headed Montreal fans rescued veteran trainee Pinky Lewis of Hamilton from the jam.

Before the mob - like action could spread, the troublemakers were politely asked. That put the fight out of them.

All they could find to wreck was the goal posts. They made a real job of it. Detective agency police lined up at the goals as the young hoodlums have their last fling.

Dutchies Take ORFU Title Fourth in Row

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have their fourth straight Ontario Rugby Football Union championship locked away with nothing to show for it except bumps and bruises and a few dollars in the kitty. Their football is over for the year.

Dutchmen wrapped up the title Saturday night with a tight 17-16 verdict over London Lords, their second straight triumph in the best-of-three final series. They took the opener 14-8 at Kitchener a week ago.

There was some hope earlier this year that the ORFU titleholders would meet a Big Four club in a post-league game to prove a point they made in a committee room: That the ORFU belongs in the Grey Cup picture.

NOWHERE TO GO

This post - season game appeared to be all set, when the Dutchmen brought up last March. But the Big Four gave a flat "no" to the deal a few weeks ago and the ORFU champions now have nowhere to go.

The Dutchmen, in the ORFU has been left out of consideration for a possible spot in the cup final although three of its four teams brought in the import limit of 12 Americans.

The year's windup game provided plenty of thrills for a crowd of 6,500 as Lords, playing hard to extend the series to the limit, turned two fourth-quarter Kitchener fumbles by Steve Fochuk into touchdowns and a 16-11 lead with less than four minutes to play.

16-POINT NIGHT

There were less than five minutes remaining and the crowd was figuring on a sudden-death third game but they didn't count on Mike Pucrzia. He climaxed a 39-yard Kitchener march with his second touchdown and 16th point of the night.

Earlier, at the five - minute mark of the third quarter, he scored his first touchdown, added the point and booted a nine-yard field goal. Quarter Back Cleri scored Kitchener's first point on a second-quarter single.

Lords led 3-1 at the half on a first-quarter field goal. Dave Wright out lagged 11-3 going into the final 15 minutes. Then Fochuk bobbled another punt and this time tackle Max Kitzelman scooped up the ball at the Kitchener 11-yard line and ambled over for the touchdown, converted by Wright.

The champions showed a big margin in the statistics. They rolled up 19 first downs against eight for London. They gained 306 yards in the air on nine completions in 18 pass attempts against 33 yards on six completions in 23 tries for London.

Rookie Goalie Sparks Rangers To Twin Victories Over Canadiens

Marcel Paille Spectacular In Home-and-Home Thrillers; Blues Take Over Top Perch

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Backed by the superb play of a rookie goaltender, the New York Rangers defeated the crippled Montreal Canadiens twice during the weekend to take over the National Hockey League leadership. Canadiens, wilthout peerless Rocket Richard and handyman winger Donnie Marshall through injuries, lost by 4-2 decisions and now trail the New Yorkers by one point but have two games in hand.

It was a weekend of home-and-home series and each split differently. Boston Bruins beat Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 Saturday and the teams tied 3-3 Sunday night. Detroit Red Wings beat Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 Saturday and Hawks came back Sunday with a 7-3 victory.

TIED FOR THIRD

Boston's three points moved them into a tie for third with Chicago, each with 17 points, five back of Montreal. Detroit broke a tie with Toronto and took possession of fifth place with 13 points, one better than Leafs.

New York's surprising showing came largely on Marcel Paille's goaltending. He was called up eight games ago from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League to replace the injured Lorne (Gump) Worsley and since has won the regular job.

Sunday night he made several spectacular saves in stopping 34 shots. Saturday he handled 28.

WENT AHEAD TO STAY

New York's Hank Ciesla and Montreal's Claude Provost traded first-period goals before Dave Hanniwell got Rangers ahead for good. Andy Bathgate and Jack Evans both scored before Ken Mosdell got Rangers' second for Boston. Dick Duff and Brian Cullen scored for Toronto.

At Montreal, Dave Creighton's first two goals of the season were the Rangers' margin of victory. Camille Henry and Guy Gendron were the other New York scorers. Doug Harvey and Jean Beliveau scored for Montreal.

Teeps, Marlies Tie Twice Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first and second - place Junior A teams fought to a draw twice this weekend in Ontario Hockey Association action.

A home-and-home series between St. Catharines Teepees, in first place, and Toronto Marlborons, three points behind in second, started in a rough and tumble 5-5 tie in St. Catharines with 72 minutes in penalties and ended in Toronto with a 3-2 tie. The second tie gave Marlborons the one point they needed to keep ahead of Peterborough Petes who beat Toronto St. Michael's Majors 3-2 in the first half of the doubleheader at Toronto Sunday.

KILTS LOSE AGAIN

In the other weekend action, Barrie Flyers squeezed out a 3-2 victory over the last - place Guelph Biltmores to take over possession of fourth place, one point behind Hamilton.

In Saturday's game, Marlboro's Wally Boyer was the big gun scoring two goals. Jack McMasters, Bob Nevin and Gordon Haughton got one each for Toronto. Matt Havlich, Rino Romanin, Wayne Hillman, Stan Mikita and Ed Hockstra scored for St. Catharines.

The penalties were almost evenly split with Teepees warming the bench for 28 minutes and Marlboros for 29.

At Guelph, Flyers scored twice in the final period to pull out the win.

SCORES A PAIR

Alvin Norenna paced Barrie with two goals and an assist on the winning shot by Billy Forbes. Gord Brown and Don Grosso each banged in a goal for the Biltmores.

Jim Murchie sent Marlboros ahead early in the third period but Hockstra tied the score three minutes later and Jack McKenzie made it 3-1 for St. Catharines. Then Nevin connected.

PENALTIES IMPORTANT

The first two goals—one by each team—came while an opposing player was in the penalty box.

Gerry Brisson and Tom Clark had a big hand in Peterborough's victory over the Majors, each getting a goal and an assist. Tom Murphy scored the other goal for Petes.

Bob McKnight and Lou Angotti were the marksmen for St. Michael's.

Tonight, Hamilton will try to take over third place in a game at Peterborough. Hamilton is only one point behind Petes.

Dunlops Point Behind Macs With Win, Tie Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whitby Dunlops and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have more than a couple of things in common.

Both have won the Allan Cup and by the end of this season both will have represented Canada in world hockey competition.

But of more immediate importance, both are briskly chasing league-leading teams.

Dutchies, in the Northern and Ontario Hockey Association senior A division, are three points back of Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. They whipped the Soo 5-1 Saturday but Greyhounds bounced back Sunday with a 7-4 win over Windsor Bulldogs.

In a second Saturday game, Chatham Maroons beat North Bay Trappers 3-1.

Whitby moved within one point of the leading Belleville McFarlands in the OHA Senior A Eastern Division by beating Peterboro Lumber Kings 3-1 Saturday and playing a 5-5 tie with Cornwall Cheviots Sunday.

In a second game Saturday Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens beat Kingston CKLCs 7-2. Sunday's Ottawa-Pembroke game was postponed because the new Hull Arena still was not ready. It will open Friday.

Seven players scored for Ottawa as the Junior Habs won their first game in five in the league Marksmen were Ralph Backstrom, Bob Boucher, Jean Tremblay, Claude Ruel, Bill Carter, Bob Rousseau and Claude Richard.

Kitchener's victory snapped an eight-game Soo winning streak. Art Hurst, Gerry Theberge, Ken Lautman, Butch Martin and Jim Unlac each scored for Dutchies. League-leading scorer John Bucyk counted for Soo.

Will Probe Fan Outbreak In Montreal

TORONTO (CP)—Cec McFaddin, referee in chief of the Big Four Football Union, said Sunday a full investigation will be made into conditions at Molson Stadium in Montreal, where officials were attacked.

A mob demonstration followed Saturday's game at the stadium in which Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Montreal Alouettes 17-10 in the first game of a two-game, total-points final.

McFaddin said a report will be made to Bob Moran of Toronto, Big Four president.

Hoss McKelvey of Toronto, head linesman at the game, said the brawl was a "disgrace" and "ruin leagues."

He said Sunday the bulk of the people doing the fighting "were definitely not teen-agers. The guy who kicked me was older than I was—with a family."

McKelvey was kicked in the back and hurt his hand taking a swipe at his attacker. He said the results of x-rays will be known today.

The fracas occurred after Hamilton Tiger-Cats beat Montreal Alouettes 17-10 in the first of the two-game, total - point final.

KICKED IN BACK

"As usual the officials gathered in the centre of the field to take off together. As we were going off I was kicked in the back," said McKelvey.

In the brawl, umpire John Munro, field judge Ray Boucher, referee Pierre Wilson and spare man Bob Lye all were punched or kicked.

Umpire Norm Maxwell had his hat snatched, started after the fan but returned when Wilson called him. Later he was closest to a wicky bottle that smashed off the wall of the officials' room.

"I don't know what would have happened if the Tiger-Cat players hadn't come over to help us get off," said McKelvey. "Montreal's Tom Hugo saw what was happening and he came over too."

Browns Tie With Redskins; Giants Win

NEW YORK (CP) — Cleveland Browns erased a 10-point disadvantage in the last four minutes of the game Sunday and gained a 20-20 tie with Washington Redskins in the National Football League.

New York Giants, playing at home, stood off a powerful Philadelphia ground attack and converted two enemy mistakes into scores to defeat Eagles 19-6.

In Milwaukee, Los Angeles Rams, behind nerveless Norm Van Brocklin and rookie Jon Arnett, staged a feverish 28-point rally in the second half to defeat Green Bay Packers 31-27.

In Chicago, rookie halfback Mill Davis' pass interceptions, including a 41-yard scoring return, led Baltimore Colts to a 29-14 victory over Chicago Bears.

The triumph moved Baltimore into a three-way tie with Detroit and San Francisco for the Western Division lead.

And in Detroit, Bobby Layne and Detroit Lions' defence buried San Francisco 49ers under a brutal first-half assault. Lions grabbed off a share of the Western Conference lead with a 31-19 victory.

Notre Dame Whips 'Sooners' In Big Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame scored one of the biggest upsets this season Saturday by defeating Oklahoma 7-0 and in the process:

1. Snapped the Sooners' 47-game winning streak.

2. Became the first team to shut out Oklahoma in 123 games.

3. Inflicted only the ninth defeat on Sooner coach Bud Wilkinson since he took over in 1947.

4. Very possibly eliminated Oklahoma as a national championship contender.

Dick Lynch got the only touchdown of the game in the fourth period when he capped an 85-yard drive by going around right end from the three.

Three teams mathematically tied up bowl spots as a result of Saturday's action, but Texas A and M, rated No. 1 in the U.S., got bumped by Rice 7-6.

STILL FAVORED

The Aggies still rank as the favorite to win the Southwest Conference championship and set the host team in the Cotton Bowl, but Rice and Texas are in the running now.

Duke climbed the Orange Bowl berth opposite Oklahoma by edging Clemson 7-6, Ohio State won the Big Ten crown and automatic Rose Bowl nomination by thumping Iowa 17-13, and Oregon won its way into the Rose Bowl as the Pacific Coast Conference representative by getting past Southern California 16-7.

Auburn, the third-ranked outfit, squeezed out a 6-0 victory over Georgia to remain undefeated.

Chamber Wants Full Review of Canada's Tariffs

OTTAWA (CP)—A full review of Canada's tariffs was asked of the government today by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, representing 125,000 businessmen.

The chamber, in its annual submission to the cabinet, said tariff legislation should be adjusted to "meet the demand of Canada's dynamic economy."

Some parts of the Canadian economy are seriously affected by competition from foreign sources, the chamber said. These problems could be alleviated by:

1. Exercising closer control over the way foreign goods are designated in tariff classifications.

2. Strengthening regulations against "dumping" — sending products into Canada at less than their normal price in the country from which they are produced.

3. Prompt investigation of reports of imports suspected of evading dumping duties.

URGES LOWER TAXES

About 40 policy declarations—previously adopted at the annual convention of the businessmen's association—were placed before Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other ministers by a delegation headed by chamber President Ralph Tybus of Vancouver.

Dealing with taxation and government spending, the chamber said the current level of government spending calls for personal and corporation income tax rates that are too high for a growing country.

The burden of taxation should be reduced by curtailing or eliminating government functions "which are no longer reasonably be dispensed with."

The chamber also asked that the federal government make an early conference of federal, provincial and municipal officials for "a more just and practicable distribution of the tax revenue and responsibility among these three levels of government."

The chamber gave implied support to the government's view that the current of Canadian trade should be shifted to some extent from the United States to the United Kingdom. It mentioned what it described as the desirability of doing everything possible to attract a larger volume of United Kingdom investment in Canada.

Hurricane Should Quit Boxing Says Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's manager wants the New York heavyweight to hang up his gloves but the fighter's mother says that Tommy won't be washed up.

Manager Lippe Meidbart agreed with the New York State Athletic Commission that the Hurricane should quit the ring.

The commission urged the manager and the fighter to consider the voluntary retirement of Jackson or the commission would "evaluate Jackson's physical ability."

"If my boy goes to a training camp and gets his proper rest before a fight he can beat any of the world," said Mrs. Georgia Jackson, the fighter's mother.

Wants Overtime Banned From Junior Hockey

BARRIE (CP) — Barrie Flyers' coach Hap Emms says that he will move to have overtime eliminated from Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games.

Emms said Sunday the National Hockey League does not play overtime games and that throwing out sudden-death overtime periods would benefit fans, players, and team owners.

The fans pay to watch a 60-minute hockey game, he said. If the game is all tied up at the end of that time, they would be much happier to leave the rink knowing that their team did not lose and still picked up a point.

About the players he said it would be rough "that they should have to gamble on double or nothing after playing 60 minutes of hard hockey."

Emms said he would go along with one period of overtime play, but not the sudden death variety.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Bernfield, a fugitive from his native Australia, stunned a crowd of 11,986 Saturday by winning the $10,000 Valedictory Handicap over the grueling distance of 1¼ miles at New Woodbine Park.

Bernfield was claimed by Morton Tepperman of Toronto for $2,500 on May 22. Bernfield had gone on to win eight races during the summer and this victory boosted his earnings for the year to $22,095.

His closest pursuer all the way was Mythical II, which hung on gamely to finish three lengths back. Lawday closed some ground to finish third.

Contestant on Twenty-One Can Up Winnings to $87,000

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — David Mayer has a word for quiz program contestants on Twenty-One (NBC-TV). They're "generalists" not specialists.

At least he believes himself to be a "generalist." Tonight Mayer, with $45,000 in winnings so far, returns (at 9 p.m., EST) for another round with Paul Rand. He could go as high as $87,000—or as low as $3,000.

Mayer, 36, is a pipe - smoking, mustached psychologist who operates his own research firm in New York. Since he left his native Easton, Pa., at 16 to enter Harvard he never has been in a hurry to settle into a groove.

In the army during the Second World War Mayer served as a classification specialist. The most agonizing job he ever had was one of the memorable beachhead working nights on a ship to help select replacements for the previous day's casualties.

PICKED THE BEST

"I learned never to look at how many children a man had or what his education was," he recalls. "I just picked the best man for the job needed doing on the beachhead. Once I sent in a neighbor of mine—because he was the right man for the job. Yes, he lived, but he was slightly wounded."

After the war he taught psychology at New York University for a while. He married and became the father of a son now eight. In 1950 he packed his family off to Paris for a year where he taught sociology and did translating. The next year he was back in Washington as an applied psychologist for the United Nations, helping to set up an educational system.

Whatever Mayer wins on Twenty-One," two things are certain: Part of the winnings will go to expand his firm; another part to Harvard University.

Sensation of Record, Concert Field Once Lived on Peanuts

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood in Manhattan—

Roger Williams, sensation of the record and concert field, can look back to the time when he literally lived on peanuts in Los Angeles.

"It was during the war," said the 31-year-old pianist. "I left Iowa for California, partly because of asthma and partly to study under a concert teacher. I got a job playing piano at night at a restaurant for $90 a week. But I had to buy a car to get there, pay for my lessons and rent for a room in Inglewood.

"I could count on one square meal every week from a friend who had me to dinner on Sundays. In between, things were pretty lean. Some days I'd get by on peanuts alone. Lots of nutrition in peanuts."

Meals are no longer a concern for Roger. His record of Autumn Leaves sold 2,600,000, and three of his albums were recently on the best-seller list. His concertizing in which he plans longhair as well as pop numbers are sell-outs. He's a steady guest star on the TV variety show.

Born in Omaha, Neb., he grew up in Des Moines, where his father was minister of the largest United Lutheran church in the United States. Roger's life has been a peculiar balance—between playing the organ in his father's church and starring in the basketball team; taking a degree in engineering and devoting his life to music.

LONG PRACTICES

Married and the father of two girls, Roger practises eight to 10 hours a day in a room-within-a-room in the basement of his New York home. He came up the hard way, via bars, night clubs and Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts.

How did his father feel about his playing in drinking joints? Roger asked him once. His father's reply: "You take care of them on Saturday night, and I'll take care of them on Sunday."

Two former child movie stars are performing on Broadway in roles that are a far cry from their Hollywood beginnings. Roddy McDowall (Lassie Come Home) and Dean Stockwell (The Boy With The Green Hair) are enacting the Leopold-Loeb thrill slayers in Compulsion.

Both carry off their roles in strong fashion and Hollywood should be luring them back though in a different guise Dimitime . . .

Anna Maria Alberghetti is drawing enthusiastic audiences nightly at the Waldorf-Astoria, where she alternates with her sister and her mother.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Finish off any agreements, conferences, etc., still hanging fire with executives, customers. Be sure to express what is on your mind. Aries often think others know what they are thinking because they themselves do.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—From morning until late tonight it is best your energies are utilized putting in efficiencies A-1 everywhere, getting everything in A-1 order, beauty. Be certain to let fellow workers know you co-operate and very gladly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—This is the day to be successful in any endeavors that will increase your abundance, be they in the field of entertainment or just avocations. Be artistic and tonight is fine for relaxation and amusement. Rejoice.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—See that you carry out those new ideas you discussed at length with family ties on Sunday. Be thorough and start at foundation for best results. Be busy every moment and co-operate fully in all tasks at hand.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—At last here is the ideal day in which to have conferences, tete-a-tetes with those persons whose ideas and visions coincide with your own, get things going. Also good for acquiring data from periodicals, TV, radio, etc.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Be busily engaged today putting money matters in good condition or starting new ventures. Impress those concerned with your fine practical sense and ability to make all things fit into their proper place.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Don't be afraid to think almost exclusively of yourself today, in your fine appearance, your health, and be sure to see as many persons as possible who can make your future a brighter and happier affair. Be thrifty.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—It would be wise to get in touch with greatest authorities in your field and be informed of latest methods, newest trends now unknown to you. Have private conferences and learn how you can be more efficient, successful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Nearly every desire and attainment you can envision is yours today simply by going after it and start the ball rolling. Be specific with your friends who are ready to help you. Keep in mind that they are not mind readers.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—This is a splendid day to confer with executives, bigwigs and state clearly what is on your mind, for they are in a receptive mood and of a mind to confer benefits and support you want so badly and should have.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 20)—The day has arrived in which to get that information which has eluded you ere now. Begin with your local paper, then other sources of information. Go after what you want. Phrase questions cleverly to new people you meet.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Begin the week properly by taking care of your bills and collections first, then get regular duties out of the way accurately and with diligence. Tonight is ideal for tender romance and being contented and relaxed.

If your child is born today . . . the blessed child born today is the kind who will never open his or her mouth or do anything which might in any way tend to injure another person or their feelings. This can be overdone to your progeny's detriment, although the great peacemakers is in the chart, so teach early to give and take intelligently and to save your child's happiness and insure a fine success in any career best suited to him or her.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was looking at the headlines behind his coffee this morning, and remarked, "The eternal question reers its head, William, what shall we have for dinner?

I have a good notion to come home no matter what we have, I pop said, and ma said, Now William, I dont see why you should leave the whole mess on my day shoulders. I should think you'd be glad of a little change of your own cooking. After all, if you just put your mind to it, it's as easy as ABC, she said.

All right I'll start with A and work up, pop said. We haven't had anymolded apricots lately, he said, and I said, Oh boy, pop, let's make the menu together. B comes after A. Let's have beet blueberrier, I said.

Fine, that's enough frost, pop said. Now for C, how about curried crickits? he said, and ma said, How about keeping quiet if you cant make sense?

It's my turn, pop, we're up to D, I said. I know, dump dandylions, I said, and pop said. Very tasty. Now E, effervescent elefant ears, he said.

G, that's swell, I said. Now what's for F? French fried frogs, I said, and pop said, Delicious. What'll we have for G, he said.

I'll take G, ma said, G stands for go out We'll eat up at the Avenue and let the menu fall where it may, she said, and pop said, Perish the thought, I vote for meat and potatoes.

Being what we had, the meat being hamburgers and the potatoes being mashed.

COVERS ARIENES WITH PLASTIC PAINT

Dr. Bertram Selverstone (above), a Boston surgeon, has developed a "one-coat job," comprising a type of latex paint and plastic to strengthen weakened brain blood vessels. The first coat, applied with a modified artist's air brush, is a mixture of latex and the second coat, plastic is applied with surgical instruments. Laboratory experiments show the twin – coat blood vessels can stand pressure ten times above normal.

FIND BODY
MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — The body of an unidentified man was recovered from the St. Lawrence River Saturday near Croil's Island.

Soviet Marshal Says Russia Has Decisive Weapon

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet marshal says Russia has intercontinental missiles that would be decisive in any future war. One U.S. scientist, however, says Russia's satellite launchings provided only partial evidence that Russia has such weapons.

The Russian missile boast was made by artillery Marshal S. Sarentsev Sunday in an article in the Communist newspaper Pravda. Sarentsev's article followed the line taken by other Russian military leaders in celebrating Soviet artillery day.

Sarentsev said long range missiles give the Soviet Union the ability to smash any aggressor anywhere and under any conditions.

Another artilleryman, Marshal S. S. Varetsov, said Russia has ready a vast array of modern weapons, "including atomic thermonuclear (hydrogen) and long-range rockets capable of destroying enemy targets at distances unimagined at the end of World War II."

CLAIMS SUPERIOR

And Mihail N. Christyakov, still another artillery marshal, claimed that Soviet artillery is maintaining "its superiority over those who openly call themselves our enemy."

Dr. Fred Singer, a University of Maryland astrophysicist, said Sunday in Washington that the launching of two Russian Sputniks demonstrated positively only one of four requirements for an ic missile.

The four requirements, he said, are propulsion, guidance and a means for protecting the missile's warhead from destruction by atmospheric friction when it heads back toward the earth from space.

"If we just look at the Sputniks," Singer said, "we can certainly say they have the propulsion. They claim all four, but Sputnik shows us only one."

Beyond saying this, Singer voiced no opinion on whether the Russians actually have a usable ICBM. He took part in a televised panel program.

COST LESS THAN A-BOMB

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Finance Minister Arseny Zverev, asked Friday night whether the first Russian earth satellite cost as much as America's first atom bomb — $2,000,000,000 — replied: "No, a great deal less." Zverev, talking with correspondents at a Belgian reception, added: "I would have protested if it had cost that much."

WELLAND TOT HURT

HAMILTON (CP) — Fifteen-month-old Lawrence Therrien of Welland suffered head injuries Saturday night when his parents' car was in collision with a car driven by Louis Labatte of St. Catharines. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Therrien, was in good condition.

First Satellite Being Pulled Back to Earth to Come Home And Die, End Weeks Away

AP newsfeatures artist Ed Gunder's striking color picture of the death of an artificial satellite as it enters the earth atmosphere is available in a 3 color transparency for $25.)

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The death watch is starting for Sputnik II.

Inexorably, the first satellite is being pulled back toward earth, to come home and die. The end might be only weeks away.

Born in flaming, shrieking rocket fire, Sputnik I will perish like a flaming meteor in our silent air overhead.

Sputnik II, which lifted up the first living explorer of space—the shaggy dog Laika—must come to the same fiery death.

Just when Sputnik II dies can't be predicted until its orbit is known precisely and effects of air drag determined. It comes as close as 103 miles to earth—closer than Sputnik I—and hence rushes through some denser air each trip. Experts say this could mean it won't last longer, in total life, than Sputnik I.

MAY BE VISIBLE

You may personally see the death throes of one or both satellites as they arch down, glowing red hot, then burning and falling apart in a shower of sparks.

Charles Lindsay of Sputnik I and its carrier rocket—or chunks of the heavier Sputnik II—may very possibly come hurtling to earth. But it's a millions-to-one chance any piece will hit you or anyone else.

The spectacular end for Sputnik I—rivalling its spectacular life—is sketched by Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director, and Dr. Y-g Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian astrophysical observatory at Cambridge, Mass.

Meteoric death will come separately to Sputnik I and to the rocket which gave this Russian baby moon its final push to whirl it around the earth at 18,000 miles-an-hour speed as man's first messenger exploring space.

FATAL FRICTION

Both must come down because they are not far enough from the earth to escape some air in the near-vacuum of space. This air drag or friction spells their doom.

Being bigger and presenting more surface to the air drag, Sputnik's carrier rocket will fall first. For some weeks it has been flying lower and faster than Sputnik itself.

Oddly enough, the air drag doesn't slow down Sputnik's speed. It is just being forced lower toward the earth, and actually gains some speed from gravity pull the closer it comes to earth. In this respect, it is like any object dropped from a height.

As its orbital path shrinks in distance, Sputnik makes quicker and quicker round trips, until finally it moves into the thicker air of the earth and burns to death from friction making it incandescent-hot.

BURN TO DUST

Both will perish much like shooting stars. But they will be brighter, more easily visible than the average shooting star. Shooting stars are little bits of stone, metal or cosmic debris that streak through the earth's atmosphere. Air friction heats them to incandescence and they usually burn completely into dust floating gently down to earth.

Sputnik's rocket could glow for five full minutes as it races through denser and denser air, Dr. Whipple says. This could give it a 1,500-mile trail of light across the sky.

Then it's expected to arch downward sharply, bursting into flames and destruction at a height of about 20 miles.

Sputnik itself will follow a similar suicide course, but less brilliant than the bigger, heavier, cylinder-shaped rocket.

PULSING TRAIL

Melting, evaporating, falling apart, Sputnik will cringe, wither probably spew out some of its burning contents of batteries and recording instruments.

Behind will flow a glowing wake, a spark-like trail probably coming in pulses of burning, glowing material, Dr. Hynek thinks.

It will die with no sound audible to us below, unless it creates a shock wave, from its tremendous speed, like that of a big meteor, or possibly of a supersonic jet plane.

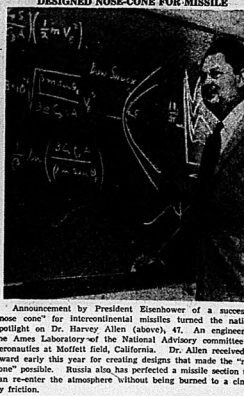
Pieces of Sputnik or its rocket, even its rocket engine, could come smashing to earth, not completely burned or evaporated by the intense heat.

The Russian scientist says the rocket is made of aluminum, but of a strong material (not defined) which probably wouldn't burn completely. There is a possibility some of it would reach the earth.

Fellow Hunters Find Companion

WHITNEY, Ont. (CP) — Two fellow hunters Saturday found Arthur (Red) Crossman, 35, of Peterborough alive and well after he had spent a night alone lost in the bush.



He was about two miles from where other members of the party had expected to meet him Friday.

Sandy Murdock of Whitney and Const. John Dewar of Peterborough said they found him after firing their rifles into the air. Crossman reported he was hungry but kept warm during the night by building a fire.

Zatopocky Burial Attended by Red Leaders

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (Reuters)—Leading world Communists gathered here to join citizens of this mourning capital at the funeral today of Czechoslovakia's late president Antonin Zapotocky.

Their presence gave rise to speculation that informal talks may be held on the Communist bloc's defence setup.

Some observers, however, said it is unlikely any important talks will take place so soon after the Nov. 7 Moscow celebrations of the 40th anniversary of the Soviet Communist revolution.

Officials made last-minute preparations for a gigantic, three-hour procession through Prague streets, hung with black flags, to Wenceslas Square where the motion "taker leave" of Zatopocky at a vast tribunal draped in red.

Zapotocky, 72, veteran Communist who served Soviet leadership loyally through a career as trade unionist, prime minister and almost five years as president, died last Wednesday. His remains are scheduled to be cremated tonight following the funeral.

William Siroky, 55-year - old prime minister, is tipped as the new president.

FM MONTGOMERY

"He was more than a successful general," said Heusinger, in spector-general of the West German armed forces. "He was a great military thinker. Since the war, his brilliant powers, his ability to see a situation from his leader side's point of view, and his awareness of the significance of modern developments have, I am sure, contributed greatly to the strength of NATO and the West."

AFRICAN FAME

It was in the North African campaign that Montgomery gained fame for crushing the might of the German troops under Field Marshal Erwin Rommel were invincible.

Montgomery took command of the British 8th Army in Africa after Rommel's troops had forced it back to El Alamein and threatened to push the British troops another 70 miles to the key Mediterranean seaport of Alexandria.

Montgomery anticipated Rommel's next move and, turned the Germans back in a bitter battle. From there, the British pushed the Germans 2,000 miles from Alexandria to Tunisia without a single setback and swung the balance of the war.

Montgomery campaigned in corduroy trousers, a sweater and a black beret—an outfit that became his trademark.

Irish - born Montgomery has been assailed by critics as a conceited showman. His admirers praised him as a brilliant leader of men.

But no army he commanded ever lost a battle or was forced to retreat.

Montgomery has a love for military life that verges on fanaticism. He was a strict disciplinarian and in his earlier commands his officers and men made no secret of their dislike for him.

He studied the technique of leadership and in later years won the respect of his soldiers and most of his officer associates.

Montgomery's military strategy was based on anticipation of what his enemy would do next. He kept a photograph of Rommel beside his bed as added incentive for trying to work out what the German attack plan would be.

After the African campaign, he commanded the British armies the liberation of Europe and at the war became chief of their postwar general staff, British highest military post.

Nuclear Weapons On Canada Belief Of U.S. Secretary

Also Missile Bases to Back Up Radar Warning Systems

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Dulles said today he believes the United States has nuclear warheads in Canada along with missile bases to back up early warning radar systems.

Dulles did not spell out the reference to warheads in Canada other than to say in the early warning system—designed to detect Russian bombers or missiles coming over the Arctic—there was reinforced by an agreement dealing with supply of missiles and warheads.

He then said he thought nuclear warheads are in Canada. But, he said, that really is a factual question for the defence department. If they are not, they could be put there quickly, he added.

Dulles made the statement at a press conference, and said the U.S. is studying possible formation of a system of bases for intermediate range missile bases.

Dulles said he thought the IRBM would be ready for operational amounts until the end of next year.

These are among the proposals or basic military facts dealt with in a "secret rocket memo" for which a code-name was given.

It was understood the briefcase was brought on board the automatic.

Investigate Case Of Lost, Found Rocket Papers

LONDON (Reuters) — Security officials today ordered a full investigation into the case of a lost-and-found secret rocket documents, picked up on a London street Monday night.

The papers were found by 28-year-old Clifford Beck who tripped a brown leather brief case in the street as he was riding his motorcycle home. He reported his find and police called at his home to collect the briefcase.

"One of the papers," he said today, "war marked 'Secret—to be circulated under close control.' cover.' "

A supply ministry spokesman said: "The time between the papers being lost and their recovery was very short. The circumstances are to be fully investigated."

Beck told reporters the papers dealt with "a secret rocket motor" for which a code-name was given.

It was understood the briefcase was brought on board the automatic.

Opposition Calls For Speed Up Of Hospital Plan

CCF Party Accuses Govt. of Stalling

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition says the government should speed up implementation of the national hospital insurance plan. The government says it is moving as quickly as it can.

The Commons spent Monday's sitting debating the situation after the CCF party introduced a motion of non-confidence in the government calling for swifter action on the hospital insurance scheme. The motion was to be voted on today.

In moving the motion, Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles, Winnipeg North Centre, accused the government of stalling on implementation of the plan.

Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith replied: "We are putting it in force as soon as we conceivably can."

Paul Martin, Essex East, health minister in the former Liberal government that originated the plan, said it would be "nothing short of a tragedy" if the Progressive Conservative administration does anything to delay implementation of the hospital insurance plan. The apparent target date of Jan. 1, 1959.

CRITICIZES MINISTER

Mr. Knowles criticized Mr. Monteith for giving to the Commons last week a "false interpretation" of the hospital insurance legislation's intended starting date.

Mr. Monteith later revised his interpretation and said he had sought a legal interpretation of the stipulation that no federal contribution shall be paid under the scheme "until at least six provinces, containing at least one-half the population of Canada, have entered into an agreement, and the provincial law in relation to those provinces is in force."

Previously the minister had said he believed the legislation required at least six provinces to have plans in operation.

Mr. Monteith's opinion was that when the plan "has become law" in the necessary number of provinces, no matter whether they undertake to begin paying benefits immediately or not, it would be "considered to be in force."

Mr. Monteith said federal and provincial health officials will meet at the moment efforts are being made to reinforce it.

Britain's Zaniest Comedians To Defend Philip's Honor in Game

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Philip has appointed Britain's zaniest comedians to defend his honor in a game of tiddlywinks.

The comedians—the Goons—will ride into battle in full armor to refute a suggestion—made in fun—that Philip cheats at the ancient and honorable table game.

Spike Milligan, Goon-leader, said his radio and television colleagues would be challenged by champions following the slight on the royal dignity.

A news magazine, The Spectator, published an article recently stating that Philip had cheated at tiddlywinks. The article was written in facetious vein as a criticism of the numerous books and press reports pretending to have "inside knowledge" of royal affairs.

Milligan continued: "The Cambridge University Tiddlywinks Club read this article, were shocked and wrote to the duke about it.

"They challenged the duke to a game of tiddlywinks played under fair rules which allowed no chance of cheating.

"The duke wrote back from the palace saying that it was not customary for royalty to accept challenges of that kind, but he appoint a champion.

"The club asked the duke for a champion, but he gave them the right of choice—and we were elected.

"The duke was asked if he considered we were fit and proper persons to be royal champions, and he said yes."

The Goons stated that a gauntlet had been thrown down in defence of Philip's royal dignity and to ride into Cambridge on chargers.

Philip would be present to see the battle, the comic added.

The contest, to be held in Cambridge next February, will be open to the public and any proceeds will go to the National Playing Fields Association, of which the prince is president.

Tariff Increases on Wool Industry Will Boost Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Tariff increases to protect the Canadian wool cloth industry will only boost consumer prices and drive more consumers to using synthetics, the tariff board said today in briefs filed Monday.

Opponents of a bill by the Canadian industry for sharply increased protection said any move to raise duties would tend to reduce the demand for wool fabrics and stimulate demand for substitute fabrics.

"Although Canadian producers might gain an increased share of the domestic market, they would not necessarily achieve higher sales," British manufacturers said in a brief.

The board has been ordered by Finance Minister Fleming to make a study of the entire textile tariff structure and to recommend changes if these were found necessary.

Monday's move to restrain imports by increasing duties are groups ranging from Irish, British and European competitors of Canadian mills to Canadian farm bodies, labor organizations and British Columbia forest products producers.

Qualified support to Canada's woollens manufacturers was indicated by the Canadian Federation of Consumers. The industry is also being backed by the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC), the Wool Dealers' Association and the Canadian Allied Trades Association.

Copies of 17 briefs filed with the board were released to interested parties Monday night.

Wool cloth manufacturers appealed for increased protection from British imports, but the tariff board turned this down. The board said at the same time he prefers was not so much the low tariff on imports from United Kingdom producers, the main competitors for the Canadian market, but the high duties Canadian woollen products and other factors.

British manufacturers argued any move to raise tariffs not only would hit at consumer prices, but would also seriously shake the confidence of U.K. exporters in the ability of the Canadian market.

"... Most serious of all would be the general effect on the Anglo-Canadian trading partnership of the erection of trade barriers against a section of U.K. manufacturers which for many years has played such an important part in the U.K.-Canada trade."

The Interprovincial Farm Union Council, which represents the farmers of the four western provinces argued that the present issue should be used to increase their total trade with each other.

The council recalled Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement last year to switch 15 per cent of Canada's purchases from the United States to the U.K. to improve the balance of payments position.

French Minister Asks U.S. To Limit Tunisian Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau appeals directly to the U.S. government today to limit Tunisian arms so they are not soldier lest any surplus be smuggled to Algerian rebels.

Pineau told reporters on arrival in Washington Monday night that was the main purpose of his flight from Paris.

He said such restrictions might limit the amount he can obtain, was caused by British-U.S. shipments to Tunisia's land forces last week despite bitter French protests.

Pineau said the arms shipments harmed Atlantic solidarity at the moment efforts are being made to reinforce it.

Dulles scheduled a late afternoon time out from consideration of plans to revitalize the Western alliance in the face of Russia's new scientific advances.

Martin Accuses Govt. of Ignoring Rights of House

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Paul Martin has accused Prime Minister Conservative government of ignoring the rights of Parliament by announcing government policy outside of Parliament and by delays in giving information.

Mr. Martin, Commons member for Essex East and former health minister, said Monday night that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his government has the importance of parliamentary rights.

"However in the four weeks that Parliament has been in session the House has on numerous occasions been treated with contempt. They have refused to communicate to Parliament many important matters.

"What Parliament was in session, the government's policy has been announced on television. Before Parliament the minister (Donald Fleming) scandalized us when he practically forbade the transport minister (George Hees) to reply to a question asked by a Conservative that he was prepared to answer."

Mr. Martin spoke in a French television network address on the CBC's five-time political series The Nation's Business.

Vincent Massey Stays In Office Another Year

May Round Out Term Host to Queen, Princess

Vincent Massey may round out the total term of more than seven years by playing host to the Queen and her sister, Princess Margaret. He may also make a 1,600-mile barge trip along the Mackenzie River to the Arctic Ocean.

To be effective from the spring of 1958, it normally would end in the spring of 1959 but it actually is to run at least to the end of June and perhaps into July.

One of his last major functions as Canada's first native - born Governor - General will be to welcome the Queen when she arrives in May or June, 1959, to open the St. Lawrence Seaway and begin her first cross-country tour as Canada's Queen.

Meanwhile, Massey's plans include public speeches in various parts of the country, trips to the Prairies and the Maritimes and—in all likelihood another trip to the Arctic.

During the next year or so he may board a barge to travel along the Mackenzie River northwards from Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories to Beaufort Sea in the Arctic Ocean. Last year he became the first Governor-General to fly over the North Pole.

He also will play host to Princess Margaret during her expected three-week visit to Canada commencing July 19. She is expected to participate in Brit-Can Columbia's centennial celebrations, spending two weeks in the westernmost province to visit a number of Prairie centres and to spend two or three days in Ottawa.

Mrs. Massey, as Governor-General, has travelled more than 100,000 miles by virtually every means of conveyance, bringing the unifying and human qualities of the Crown to every corner of Canada.

SASKATOON (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police Inspector J. L. Ronson is expected to arrive here today to take charge of two suspects arrested Sunday in Regina in connection with the rifle-slaying of a Bell River, Ont., bank manager Oct. 9.

Inspector Ronson will take the suspects back to Toronto to face murder charges in connection with the gunslaying of Royal Bank of Canada manager Alfred Arthur Bridges during an attempted armed robbery. The bandits fled without money.

Bridges was gunned down on a farm after Angus Campbell, 65, had told police he had been working with for the last month could be the suspects described by Bridges.

A $27,500 reward was posted for the holdup killing for information leading to the conviction of the bandits.

Bad Switch Believed Cause Of Accident in Sybils

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The Red Wing, was wrecked today in a derailment at a highway overpass in this suburb six miles north of Boston.

The engineer and fireman of the Boston and Maine Railroad train were killed and about a score of passengers injured.

It was raining at the time of the crackup of the train, which the line operates jointly with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Half of the two-section diesel locomotive plunged over the side of the bridge to the street 15 to 18 feet below. Tracks and ties were torn up for a quarter of a mile from the bridge back to a siding switch.

The nine-car train was made up of pullman sleepers, coaches and milk, mail and baggage cars.

Only two of the cars remained on the roadbed, but they were astride it, their sides smashed together. The others were scattered along the embankment. Two of them, one loaded with milk, were wall of a rubber company warehouse at the side of the tracks, knocking out supporting and bearing sections of the floors and roof of the four-storey building.

Mail was strewn on the ground beside the track.

William H. Kirley, director of the railway division of the Massachusetts state public utilities department said construction work was going on at the scene and a detour train was being used.

The engineer, Harold J. Danforth, 65, of Somerville, Mass., was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

The body of fireman George D. Murphy, 30, of Manchester, N.H., was trapped in the wreckage of the locomotive. A railway wrecker was backed to the scene to raise the locomotive and remove the body.

Scarcely five minutes before the derailment hundreds of pupils of St. Raymond's elementary and high schools had walked under the railway bridge on their way to school. The children report by 8:20 a.m. EST. The train was wrecked at about 8:25.

Automobiles passing under the bridge were smashed by the plunging locomotive. The drivers were injured.

An eyewitness, Rev. Jeremiah Doyle, said he saw the first car topple sideways. Then it fell slowly.

"As I looked out my window, there was a huge cloud of dust and dirt and sparks seemed to emanate from the wheels of the cars they struck below, and into each other.

"All the priests from St. Clement's rushed out of the rectory and church, led by Msgr. Edward P. Barry, the pastor, to offer what comfort we could.

Father Robert Joy J. Coughlin raced the last rites to the two dead men."

Three years ago last Tuesday the Red Wing was derailed in Nashua, N.H., while en route to Boston. One woman was killed in that accident.

Nineteen Die As Storms Lash United States

CHICAGO (AP)—An outbreak of wild November weather dealt destructive blows to broad areas in the southern states and midcontinent Monday.

Tornadoes, snow, rain and wind storms pounded many United States areas. Floods menaced some southern states, forcing hundreds of persons from their homes.

Deaths attributed to the violent weather numbered at least 19 and an overall total of 30 since the weekend. Property damage ran into millions of dollars.

The season's heaviest snowstorm which hit the Midwest appeared tapering off today but strong northwesterly winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour caused much drifting.

HEAVY SNOWS

Snow piled up to more than a foot in sections of Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Deeds of kindness by strangers were general.

Tornadoes ripped across areas in Alabama, Kentucky and Mississippi. More than 30 persons were injured in Alabama. Twisters hit the Birmingham area and several small Alabama communities.

Central and western sections of Kentucky were hammered by tornadoes and electrical storms, while Hopkinsville was hardest hit by floods as the Little River overflowed. Some 150 families were evacuated.

Flood waters covered about 60 per cent of seven counties in the Missouri "bootheel," forcing the evacuation of more than 150 families from their farms.

The prince will start rehearsals next week with the choir, his boarding school at Newbury, the newspaper says.

British Comedy Team Ribs Prince Charles, Queen Laughs

LONDON (CP) — British royalty has taken a ribbing in the royal variety show.

A skit burlesquing Prince Charles was put on before the arrival Monday night of Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and Queen Mother. It gave an exaggerated version of his new life as a student prince at Cheam School.

The burlesque was by Britain's veteran comedy team, the Crazy Gang, headed by Bud Flanagan. He said he had been afraid to put on the skit before the Queen. After her arrival there was a takeoff on Midsummer Night's Dream.

During the skit on Prince Charles' school life, "Headmaster" Bud Flanagan told the pupils" on the stage. He demanded "Where's Charles?"

Charley turned out to be veteran comedian Charley Naughton who was sitting in the empty royal box dressed in his blazer and cap. He arrived on the stage carrying a long wooden plank.

Asked what it was he said amid roars of laughter: "It's my bed at school an' it's bloody hard."

Council Moves to Put Traffic Lights at Intersection of Pinnacle and Dundas Streets

Installation of double head traffic signals at the corner of Dundas and Pinnacle streets at a maximum cost of $2,500, was approved last night by city council.

Also indirectly connected with traffic, council voted to install parking meters on the municipally owned parking lot on Pinnacle street. The meters, at $5,340, will be paid for out of revenue.

Alderman R. Graham noted that the lot would be laid out for 97 parking spaces and would be operated on a 12 hour basis from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at a charge of five cents per hour.

The firm supplying the meters will receive 50 per cent of the revenue until the meters are paid for.

Although said to have received unanimous approval from the traffic committee the recommendation to install new lights at the Pinnacle and Dundas did not go through without opposition.

Alderman R. Temple in introducing the recommendation said he opposed the move as the budget is open for 1958.

Alderman Don Whalen took the attitude that having money in the budget did not necessarily mean it must be spent.

He advocated that council wait until after the completion of the 401 highway to see if re-routing through traffic would help the congestion.

MAYOR FAVORS MOVE

Ald Safe asked that the matter be laid over at least until January to see how the overall city finances were at the year's end.

Mayor Jane Forrester noted that traffic conditions at Pinnacle and Dundas Street had long been a problem. Police officials had asked for action and had suggested the installation of traffic lights.

"We're doing a lot for the motorists, but how about the pedestrians?" asked Ald. William Briggs. "There are only seven pedestrian walk lines at Campbell's Corner."

Claiming the city was striving to get a big city complex by instituting traffic lights, the alderman said lights at the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas would be worth "just a waste of money."

"We're wanted to know how trains on the CNR siding would be regulated if lights were installed," he said. "Another would be governed by the traffic lights the same as at Bridge and Pinnacle Streets.

City Manager Drury S. Denyes was authorized to investigate the possible savings involved in the installation of radio works vehicles with mobile radio facilities.

"I'm not against the investigation won't cost us anything," Interjected Ald. Frank Safe. Another alderman quipped that mobile radio equipment would be worth in more than the whole amount

Springbrook Man Wins Scholarship At Winter Fair

Harry Danford, Springbrook, was the winner of the F. K. Morrow Scholarship at the Royal Winter Fair livestock judging competition on Thursday. Mr. F. K. Morrow, a past member of the executive committee of the Royal Winter Fair, has deposited a sum of money with the treasurer of Ontario and the winner will receive $150.00 at the commencement of each of two years if he attends a two-year course in agriculture at the Ontario Agricultural College, Kemptville Agricultural School or the Ridgetown Agricultural School. Only those juniors who have participated in 4-H club work or junior farmer work are eligible. It is interesting to note that Harry Danford has completed thirteen 4-H club projects and has placed first seven times, has been second twice, third, three times and fifth, once in his final 4-H club standing in each club.

Congratulations are also due to the team of Harold Harris, Douglas Rollins and Harry Danford and their coach, Mr. Ross Riddell, assistant agricultural representative in Hastings County on winning the Belleville Kinsmen Association challenge trophy in being the high team in livestock judging. The contestants judged two breeding classes of swine and one class of cattle.

Congratulations are also in order for Harry Danford in winning the Gold Jubilee Cup for being the high contestant in judging swine. This medal is presented annually by the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair. In addition to the two silver medals and one silver plaque gifts the team judged three classes of beef cattle, three of dairy and one of sheep. This competition was won by Peel county with a score of 2674. Hastings placed fifth with a score of 2637 in a competition with 19 teams.

It may be of interest to everyone to know that there young men have certainly worked hard in preparation for the competition and their standing would indicate that they did achieve excellent training in their coaching work. They did spend approximately two weeks away from home travelling with Mr. Riddell throughout the district and from Hastings county through to the O.A.C. at Guelph, visiting farms and seeing just what farmers are doing throughout that area. There was some small financial assistance provided, but for their part they had to pay the major portion of their expenses.

It is also interesting to note that these young men have all been very active in 4-H club work for Harold Harris completed 18 projects, Douglas Rollins 15 and Harry Danford 13. To a 4-H club training plus coaching does demonstrate the fact that 4-H club work is worthwhile.

Harry Danford will agree that two years tuition in an Agricultural School is certainly worth working for.

Belleville Players Given High Praise at Drama Festival

Fair Youth and Dark Lady, written by T. B. Morris and presented by the St. John's Parish Players under the direction of Douglas Sadler, was named the best of five one-act plays at the Peterborough Drama Festival held at Queen Mary auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings.

Toronto adjudicator, Mrs. Blanche Hogg said her choice lay between this play, presented Friday evening, and the Inconstant Moon, by Philip Johnson, presented Saturday evening by the Belleville Theatre Guild, under the direction of Betty Sadler and Nancy David.

She said both plays compared favorably in stage presentation, gesture and emphasis, make-up and general production. She felt that the development of character was possibly stronger in Inconstant Moon, but the diction and audibility was better and the tempo and grouping more realistic in Fair Youth and Dark Lady.

"The costuming of the Inconstant Moon was probably better, more effective, too," she said.

DRAMATIC ENTERPRISE

Dramatic enterprise seemed to be the deciding factor in Mrs. Hogg's decision, that, and the fact that the St. John's players production did not break — as did the Belleville group at one point in Inconstant Moon.

"I found that Fair Youth and Dark Lady didn't break as did the Inconstant Moon, and I think Fair Youth was a more rewarding play, with a greater scope offered to actors and director," said Mrs. Hogg.

And so Douglas Sadler's play is now eligible for entry in the Eastern Ontario Drama League Competition.

Mrs. Hogg said the Inconstant Moon gave actors the opportunity to develop character depth and relationships — "a scope for honest character building, and this group did just that."

She also mentioned that the grey background curtain, which formed the base for background in all five plays, helped a few, including the Inconstant Moon, but detracted from the atmosphere of other plays.

A. B. Hunt to be general manager, research and development.

F. P. Fulton to be general manager, telephone contact division.

V. O. Marquez to be general manager, sales division.

Prior to these appointments, Mr. Hunt was general manager, telephone contract division, Mr. Fulton general manager, sales division, and Mr. Marquez marketing manager (staff).

It seemed her strongest criticism of the production—besides its breaking down at one point —was that, though "beautifully developed" it was played "much too low."

"I was sitting in the last row, and perhaps my hearing is not the best, but I did miss many lines, some important ones, didn't you?"

The audience agreed that some of the lines were inaudible.

PART WELL PLAYED

Star of this play in Mrs. Hogg's opinion was Nicky Thomas, playing Julia Danby.) "She was wonderful and did a splendid job, obtaining good perky both sides of the characterization, commanding an affectionate respect and playing within the frame-work of the play."

Florrie (played by Helen Sulman) was also given favorable mention in playing "a good, dominant, downright" role which helped in contrast to the character of Julia.

"Pottie (Eve Benger) had a difficult part as a negative type. When a part is negative one must try to invert it into something positive, such as desperations. Wilfred (Jack Evans) played an ordinary little man, who doesn't mind being ordinary, well and did a good job in showing the contrast of the role to Julia's."

Mrs. Hogg said that Flo Yanover, playing Luella, did everything possible in the limited part, but she considered Lu-

City Manager By-Law Will Be Published

Duties and responsibilities of the city manager as outlined in the city manager by-law will be published in the Ontario Intelligencer to assist electors at the forthcoming municipal elections.

Ratepayers will be asked if they are in favor of a city manager form of government, if they are in favor of reducing the number of aldermen from the present 14 to eight, and if a three year term of office is favored.

It is recommending that the duties and responsibilities of the city manager be outlined in the newspaper, Mayor Jack Forrester at Monday night's meeting of council, said that in view of the referendum to be placed before the electors, the people "had a right to know what they were voting for."

There was considerable difference of opinion as to the merits of publishing the information.

Several members spoke in favor of publishing the information, but said the matter should be further amplified.

Alderman Don Whalen asked where the city was if it turned down the city manager form of government and suggesting a comptroller as an alternative, recommended that the duties of such a man also be published.

This recommendation was lost as was another tabled by Ald. C. Tye, who asking that the city departments over which the city manager had no control, also be published.

At the outset of the discussion Ald. William Argue listed the many city departments over which city council had little or no control "except to pick up the tab."

Ald. Moxam suggested that of the entire city expenditure only about 20 per cent was directly controlled by council. Ald. Chas. Hyde said council was forgetting that although council may not have direct control over expenditures such as the parks board, public library and other departments, it did have representation on such boards

Two-Vehicle Crash Causes $275 Damage

City and provincial police reported another quiet 24 hours with only routine matters coming to attention of officers.

A two-vehicle accident at the corner of Victoria and Chatham streets caused $275 property damage Monday afternoon. Police said Jack Diamond, 8 Ridley street, was northbound on Chatham when he pulled out of eastbound car driven by Vivian L. White, 207 Dundas street.

A car stolen at Trenton last night was recovered on Everett street in Belleville where it had been left with the motor running.

And Ted Miller, Napanee, either lost or had his suitcase containing clothing stolen. The suitcase was found near Trudeau's body shop.

Campbell's General Store, House at Wooler Burns; Town Hall Badly Damaged

WOOLER (Special) —Smouldering embers were all that remained last night of a general store and residence following a fire last night that threatened the main street of this village.

The brick general store owned by James Campbell, the adjacent Campbell residence were completely destroyed, while the village town hall was gutted. A residence near the hall owned by Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth was saved after valiant efforts of two fire departments. Loss was estimated between $40,000 and $50,000.

The firefighters were aided later by a heavy rain that fell over the district.

The fire, which is said to have started in a back shed of the Campbell store, was noticed shortly after 10.15 and the village fire department was called to the scene. A bucket brigade failed to halt the flames' progress and alarms were sent to Trenton and Belleville departments.

These arrived at the scene shortly afterwards but the fire had swept through the store and residence and the town hall was eating through the town hall.

Firefighters, who were obliged to pump water from Cold Creek a half-mile away, aided the Gainsforth house and other adjacent buildings. Some furniture was saved from the Campbell home.

The fire of undetermined origin is believed to have started from defective wiring.

The blaze created a brilliant glow in the sky which originated from the ignition of a new stock of paints, oils, etc., housed in the store. The blaze attracted a large crowd of people, some of whom said they could see the glow some five miles distant.

The Campbell store was one of the oldest buildings in the village and was known years ago as the Nelson store and later the Haggerty Store. Mr. Campbell acquired it a few years ago.

Charge Is Laid Against Driver After Accident

A charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident has been laid against George Roblin, 39, of R.R. 1, Belleville, following a weekend two-car collision near the intersection of No. 14 highway and the Redmerville Road.

Provincial police at Picton said the accident was between an auto driven by William Kastin, R.R. 1 Belleville who was eastbound on the Redmerville Road; and a second car allegedly driven by Mr. Roblin which they said had been southbound on No. 14 highway and turned west on to the county road.

Following the collision which caused about $300 damage to Mr. Kastin car and $100 to the other vehicle police said Mr. Roblin failed to remain at the scene.

He was picked up a short time later by provincial police from Belleville who turned the case over to the O.P.P. at Picton.

TWO OPPOSED VIEWPOINTS

Addressing a group of Toronto life underwriters on Thursday, Mr. Graham F. Towers said that continued "creeping inflation" would appear to be too high a price to pay for full employment.

Since Mr. Towers is a former governor of the Bank of Canada, and since his successor in that position, Mr. James E. Coyne, is both his protege and presumably a disciple, the views which Mr. Towers expressed are of more than passing importance.

By a coincidence, on the same day on which Mr. Towers spoke there arrived on the editorial desk a pamphlet "Tight Mopey: - - What It Has Done," being a collection of articles and editorials from the Toronto Telegram.

"The Telegram," says the foreword, "has expressed the view that the tight money policy which came into force in this country a year ago is crippling Canadian development, forcing many businesses into a most difficult position, causing unemployment and setting the stage for a depression."

It is extremely interesting to compare the differing viewpoints. Mr. Towers contends, on the one hand, that governments and central banks could prevent a repetition of the Great Depression of the thirties provided - - but only provided - - serious inflationary booms are avoided. The Telegram, on the other hand, argues that the very steps taken to avoid such inflationary booms are laying the groundwork for a depression.

The first question which springs to mind is whether the steps taken to prevent inflation actually do so. Here it is interesting to note that the Telegram states in the opening article reprinted in the pamphlet that "tight money" is "credited by financiers and banking officials with stemming an inflationary trend" and that "most economists agree," although they may differ as to the seriousness of the need.

One thing, though, may strike the observer. Mr. Towers says that it would be preferable to permit unemployment to rise "moderately above the average of post-war years." There is every prospect that exactly this situation will occur. But inflation has not been eliminated - - the price index continues to climb. One may be pardoned for wondering whether the price for stopping inflation might not be just a "moderate" increase in unemployment but instead a rather sharp rise.

Or, to phrase it another way, The Telegram wants the "tight money" policy changed, but in spite of this policy prices have continued to rise. If it were altered, might not the price spiral be dangerously accelerated?

These may lead some to wonder whether the Bank of Canada may not have been following a "middle-of-the-road" policy, tightening the supply of money sufficiently to keep inflation "creeping" and paying for this moderate success the price of a moderate increase in unemployment. One wonders whether creeping inflation is not a reasonable compromise, preferable to either of the other alternatives, a "sound" dollar and widespread unemployment on the one hand and full employment with a runaway inflation on the other. And after wondering that, one may also recall the plight of the man who fell between two stools. This puts the whole problem back in the area of the economists, which is no doubt where it belongs. It is their baby - - but we do wish they could devise some method to make the poor thing stop howling.

TWO STRANGE CONVENTIONS

Eyebrows must have been raised, in homes across the continent, the other day when newspaper readers learned that New York State and United Treasury police had broken up a "convention" of gangsters.

Sixty-four pals of mobster Vito Genovese assembled at Apalachin, N.Y., to talk over their "business" problems. Police dispersed them - - but there were no arrests for the "delegates" were breaking no law.

Incidentally, the police became suspicious when large numbers of Cadillacs, Lincolns and Imperials parked at motels. Who said crime does not pay?

This "convention," though was almost a humdrum gathering compared with one staged the previous day at Lucknow, Indiia. There the "delegates" were not gangsters outside the strictures of the law but convicts serving time, 42 murderers, eight bandits and one lone embezzler. They met, not in spite of police surveillance, but with the active co-operation of authorities. They assembled not to plan future crimes but to pass out advice to their jailers.

The organizer of this unique convention was Dr. Sampurnanand, Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh, himself an "ex-convict" since he spent five years in British jails for political offences, before India won its independence.

Dr. Sampurnanand is convinced that the purpose of a jail is to make a better man, not a bitter man.

One is tempted to say that, on the evidence, it appears as if the British were rather good at that kind of thing, but perhaps this would be giving Dr. Sampurnanand himself less credit than he deserves. The workman is no better than his tools, or the raw material with which he works. It is to be hoped that the good doctor is as fortunate in the raw material with which he is working as the British were when Dr. Sampurnanand was their prisoner.

High Pay Road to No Work

Ottawa Journal

With the close of World War I employment. Yet at such a time, when many thousands of men are out of work, there is a strike for higher wages and more fringe benefits in the British Columbia pulp and paper industry.

Why the sane leaders of union labor can't see the folly of such course is hard to understand. If they realize, as they must that Canada lives by its exports, what we sell abroad is the foundation of employment and prosperity at home, by what rational processes do they keep demanding round after round of wage increases which can only price us out of world markets?—which in fact could price us out of home markets!

Union leaders often demand higher tariffs, more protection against foreign goods made by cheaper labor. Do they ever stop to consider that if Canadian wages keep going up and up and even tariffs as high as the proverb'al Haman's gallows could buy them such protection?

And this especially when higher wages are not accompanied—as is true so often in the present by higher manpower productivity.

Sooner or later, perhaps sooner, Canadians will have to face up to this issue—face up to it or go on as they are going now only to go under.

Pointed Toes Back in Style

St. Louis Post Dispatch

The pointed toe styling for women's shoes is coming back with a vengeance after being out for 40 years. We don't know who could be happy about it other than the shoe industry, the chiropodists and the lumber and corn plaster manufacturers. Nevertheless the fashion is being set. And it is not only the pointed toe but the stiletto and even the needle toe.

Last year's record output of 588,000,000 pair of shoes, including 289,000,000 pair of leather, is expected to be surpassed this year by more than 12,000,000 pairs unless there is some kind of rebellion. The industry's emphasizing that the pointed toe renders obsolete present shoes in women's wardrobes and that women who usually buy two or three pairs a year will now have to buy five or six in short order to keep in step with fashion.

Women are being told that today's modern woman's average is a 6B instead of the 4B of the 1920s, that the tapered shoe is more graceful as the foot look short but to make a long foot look short, it is useful to down a short fat foot. So just as the heels on women's shoes got higher and higher so the toes of their shoes may get longer and longer. They are too long now, and since they obviously are uncoupled, the end of the shoe should be left unbuttoned, with a button and snap to get it out of the way when driving an automobile.

What havoc the tapered toe may cause in the crowded aisles in a bargain basement, in a dark movie palace, on a bus stepping or on the foot of an angry woman! It may be that men, as a matter of self-protection, will have to go back to high top shoes, buttoned-ins, combat boots and cowboy boots. If so, women should give the industry that 500,000,000-a-year that it is so arduously seeking.

Too Careful

Peterborough Examiner

Carefulness is the fault of the age. The incident that prompts one more reflection on the cause of all ailments is the woman who scolds her child for playing in the leaves because "they are so dirty." We heard this the other day and shuddered. Perhaps they are, in a sense, dirty — leaves do grass and sand and snow soon dirty. It has fallen. When children cannot tumble on the ground the era of sanitation has gone too far.

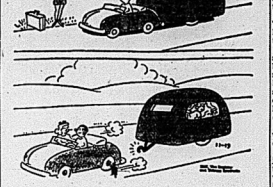
DON'T WHINE



If things have gone wrong
As you travel along
And your burden has heavier grown,
When sorely beset
Don't droop and fret
And tearfully make your woes known.
Make your kick good and strong.
Make it loud—never long;
Play the man, but don't sit there and pine;
Then get up and go,
Straight ahead—strike a blow—
It's proper to kick—but don't whine!

Whine's a thing that a baby
Is privileged to do
But the world doesn't look for such conduct from you.
What if you have cried out!
If you know you are right,
Show the world you can fight;
Don't sit like a schoolgirl and pout.
If you've got a kick coming,
Don't start things a-humming;
You'll find things will get into line.
There's a time for a howl,
There's a time for a growl,
But the world has no time for a whine!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

— MINUS FEAR

What an efficient government we would have, what efficient workers we all would be, if we could only wake up in the morning minus all fear! As a result that Dr. William Osler had at the home of Walt Whitman he tells of Whitman's glancing out the window and seeing some workmen passing by, to which Whitman declared: "Ah, the glory of the day's work, whether with hand or brain!"

Why don't we look upon each day, the moment we open our eyes the rising of the sun, and dedicate ourselves to its glory, its opportunity, as a day free from fear privileges! Why not face it with a total minus — — fear?

Few things eat into the soul as does fear. It is only as we screen out all fear that the light of joy gathers about us, like a new light on an old picture, and a rainbow. Never has it added a single aid to us. Faith casts it all out if we will but emphasize our prayers and make it evident, no matter where we may be, or what we may do.

This human body of ours is God's greatest creation. He never meant we should insult its marvelous functions, and the delicate machinery of the heart and mind, by flooding it with fear and foreboding. I once heard a great lecturer say: "Thoughts are seeds, and may become crimes." How important it is that our thoughts are kept clean and free of all fear. Each new day is an event. Let us make each one noble!

Again a great thought from Whitman: "Let us dedicate time to exalt the present and the real, to teach the average man the glory of his daily work or trade."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Degeneration and Regeneration

Sooner or later, depending on nutrition, every one of us who lives long enough must endure the cold grandchild of decay.

Cold grandsons of decay. That's the way the poet says it. I'm no poet. I call it degeneration, physical degeneration. Physical degeneration is insidious. It creeps upon you like baldness or gray hair. You could merrily believing or making believe you are still a youth, as supple and young at ever, and one day you learn the facts of life, you have the rheumatic or arteriosclerotic.

But if you're not chicken you won't retire to the chimney corner just yet.

Chronic rheumatism, chronic colon disability or the rheumatic, as I call it ("arthritis" is what customers of phony "clinics" like to call it) "comes on insidiously in persons who have passed the middle period of life"—these are Dr. Osler's words. If "middle period" means for "persons" I'd probably say "poor geeks" and instead of "comes on" I'd say "becomes evident." For, after all, it is not a disease that strikes it's victims by ambush. It is just one of the cold gradations that, sooner or later, depending on nutrition, every one of us must endure.

Here we go again! Unfortunately a lot of knucklehead's automatically reject any health teaching that does not jibe with their own preconceived notions or the quaint notions imparted to them by more or less eminent medical authorities. This obstinancy of the uninformed and misinformed is just fine and dandy for the nostrums and quackery interests and ruinous to my business" teaching people how to keep well.

Mind if you please, there are other causes of lame joints besides degeneration (rheumatis). Don't mention "arthritis" . . I don't know what that means, you don't know and no physician of standing is willing to define chronic arthritis. Even the so-called "rheumatologists" who publish wordy essays in medical journals and more pretentious articles in popular magazines skip smoothly over an explanation of what they're talking about. This puts the victims of the arthritis hokum in a different position. Step into a doc and ask the big specialist just what he thinks ails them, for what would be showing their ignorance.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON THE WRONG SIDE

Goliath of Gath, the huge antagonist whom the shepherd boy David brought low with his sling-shot, appeared, as he came to Gezgan, to have everything in his favor.

In the first place he had overwhelming strength. The Biblical description is that of a man of gigantic proportions, fierce temper, and remarkable skill. In the second place he had the best military equipment of his day. His spear was as great as the heavy as a weaver's beam. He had a mighty helmet and thick armor and a heavy sword. Last of all he had the support of his countrymen. The Philistine ruffians constituted a war machine as dreadful as anything known to antiquity.

But Goliath lacked one thing. He was on the wrong side. He was opposing God's people, Yahweh, and ten of thousands times ten thousands of Scripture have taught and used as the basis for sermons, and always the point is the same. It is not the host or reader has been that the weakness of God is stronger than men and the foolishness of God is wiser than men. David with a sling-shot and God on his side was more than equal to Goliath, the horrendous champion of an evil and lost cause.

David coming to the throne a few years later subdued all the Philistines. Weakness under the power of God had triumphed.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

People are divided into two general classes: those who don't care who comes to supper; and those who do. I belong to the latter division of it, even when Aunt Maggie is expected.

Maybe I should say wives instead of people. But since most men are soon brought to heel shortly after marriage, as far as this classification is concerned we can let people stand instead of wives.

You would think that with the vast improvement in modern food supply, the whole practicality of household in our world has enough food stashed on the shelves and in the frig to withstand a siege, wives would no longer care who their husbands brought home unexpectedly to dinner. Even two or three.

In a great many homes, this is true. There is no ceremony to hospitality. The husband can phone from the office that he's without telephoning even half an hour in advance. He can just bring somebody up on the bus. "Come on home and have dinner with us."

The wife, seeing the stranger or strangers coming laughing up the front walk with her husband, simply dashes upstairs to leap out of the housecoat into the other housecoat, (the fancy one), give herself a couple of licks and a pummie in the bathroom mirror, and comes downstairs to meet the unexpected guests looking a cigaret as nonchalant as Elsa Maxwell.

Gosh, I'd like to be like that. I'd like to be able to do that well. There is nothing to get excited about. She hadn't any dinner intended anyway, but is going to ask her husband: "What'll we have for supper?" And then go and get at the contents of the frig.

But in a great many other homes, and I fear it is the majority still, a meal is a production. Entertaining anybody in the house, even for an hour, is a production.

But, of course, in these houses, you get better food.

French Cows Get Justice

Winnipeg Tribune

In France the tradition of gallantry toward the fair sex has been sustained by a decision of the Supreme Court.

The court decided recently that a cow is quite within her rights when she kicks a veterinarian. The learned judges refused to grant any damages to a veterinarian who suffered a fractured skull while trying to administer an injection.

From time immemorial cows have enjoyed certain privileges, such as kicking over milk pails and batting unwary milkers across the stable. The right to retaliate against persons who stick needles into them is also among those privileges. This privilege has now been established in legal precedent.

Power of Prayer Emphasized To Mission Congregation

By GLADYS WARD

On Monday afternoon Bridge Street United church was well filled for the special meeting for women, many of those who attended coming from outside the district.

Mrs. R. G. Ellis welcomed the visitors and read the Scripture lesson from Matthew 5 in which Jesus teaches His disciples how to pray. An all-woman choir composed of members from all the churches taking part provided the music with Mrs. A. V. Barkley presiding at the organ.

Rev. Dr. G. Ernest Thomas based his discourse on the Scripture reading emphasizing the power of prayer. All prayer should include thankfulness first then intercession and petition, and finally the surrender of one's self to God's will.

In the evening the emphasis was on the dedication of young adults. Mr. Boyd Moorcroft, president of the Young People's Society for the Bellleville Presbytery read the Scripture lesson from the first chapter of John. Mr. Linton Read led the congregational singing. Rev. R. Sherwin, assistant pastor of the church, offered the prayer of reference and power of the Holy Spirit would direct the service. The solist of the evening was Mr. R. Manley of Tabernacle church, who sang, "O Mighty God How Great Thou Art."

TELLS STORY

In his opening remarks, Dr. Thomas told the story of a French flyer whose plane was forced down in the mountains. Exposed for many hours to a blizzard, he managed to reach safety, as he said by taking one step and then another step. This was the experience of Nathaniel, whom Jesus saw coming to Him.

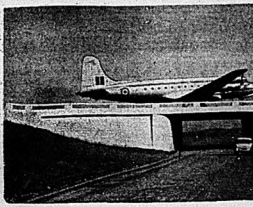
"Some Biblical characters do not seem very admirable," the speaker said, "But step by step they are able to reach the right direction, even as Nathaniel, who sneeringly asked if any good thing could come out of Nazareth, he came a follower of Jesus.

"Many people need to take a step in God's direction, towards the kind of life God would have you lead, with a different kind of purpose. Business men need to take the step into intimacy of purpose. It looks so far from where we are to the plateau of faith we want to reach."

"Charles Lamb who took care of his insane sister for forty-three years was asked after her death how he had got through it. He replied that what had enabled him to care for her was taking each day as it came.

"It is not expected we will reach in a moment that great faith and purpose we would like to have, but by taking one step and then another we will become at last through God's grace the person He would have us be.

"There are many to whom faith in God is an empty thing, there is nothing real or personal about it. Old questions concerning the doctrines of the Christian church still press upon us young people."



Dr. Thomas counselled anyone having trouble to accept as much of the teachings of Jesus as possible, and promised that if they did that much and tried to translate Him day by day, then they would come to realize that His Cross did give the assurance.

NEED TO TAKE STEP

"We need to take a step in faith," said the speaker. "Many people do not make a joyous thing of their religion. They make it a real drag. Not trusting God for anything, wanting to do everything for themselves. They lack a triumphant faith and need to learn to trust the Lord and to lean hard on His everlasting arms.

"Many are faced with anxiety, worries and fears. How glorious if we could say that Jesus was coming toward Him. We need to surrender to the Lord all our lives and all we have. Many young people are standing on the threshold and need to take that step. These are great days and people of great faith are needed to be leaders. We must do what we can in the way of service, for it is a privilege to be a servant of God, and a wonderful day when a young person takes that step in surrender."

OVER AND UNDER

Now it's possible to be run over by a plane—in the safety and comfort of your own car. Here a car is parked at the approach to an underpass while an RCAF North Star transport takes off from Uplands airport outside Ottawa. The runways of the airport have been extended and the bridge had to be built to carry the planes over the highway. (CP Photo).

Mrs J. Hollingsworth Named President of PC Association

PICTON — "I am proud to be a member of the Diefenbaker government which has accomplished so much in so short a time," declared Clarence Milligan, M.P. for Prince Edward-Lennox, at the annual meeting of Picton Progressive Conservative Association meeting Saturday night.

The member reviewed legislation which had been passed and told supporters that they should be ready for an election at any time. "I would not be surprised at even a winter election," he declared.

Pointing out that the government is not a majority one, Mr. Milligan said it had to proceed carefully and slowly. With sessions from 11 to 1, 2.30 to 6 and 8 to 10 p.m. six days a week, the member said that with caucuses, looking after requests of constituents and personal matters, that lack of time is found to be an important factor. He had also been devoting considerable time to organizing Ontario members especially interested in agriculture to prepare suggestions for the government's agricultural program. He felt that Ontario's products and problems had not always been pressed as they might have been.

LONG OVERDUE

Referring to cash advances for Western wheat, Mr. Milligan said they were long overdue. Lack of cash had wrecked hardship on the growers and adversely affected business by reducing buying power. Eastern Canada farmers were in a sense protected by these loans since, should the Western growers not receive some payment, they would be going into production of cattle and poultry in competition with the East. Wheat in the west can be purchased for feed at $20 a ton.

The commission set up to investigate the price spread between producer and consumer was endorsed by Mr. Milligan. "We sell dressed hogs at 26c a pound, yet pay $1.18 for bacon—there is something wrong," he declared. "Price of cattle is down 3c a pound on an average yet the cost of meat in stores has increased 10 per cent.

Mr. Milligan felt that increased pensions will be appreciated by senior citizens and veterans.

Mr. Milligan admitted that many government members were not happy over the no patronage edict. He revealed that the Liberals had made appointments of returning officers to be for life. All real jobs are to be the lowest tender, he said.

LIVING UP TO PROMISE

Liberals are living up to their promise to give the Conservatives a chance to show what they can do, but it is amusing, as well as interesting, to see the opposition oppose legislation in debate, yet vote for the same later.

Firemen Repair, Renovate Toys For Children

TRENTON (Special)—Trenton Fire Department yesterday started their annual good deed towards the little folk of Trenton, when they began to work renovating and painting toys donated by kindly townsfolk for Christmas giving. Every year the members of the fire department undertake the hearts of the less fortunate children of the town by the preparation of toys which they might otherwise not have had.

Donations of all kinds of toys have been offered, but owing to the lack of the space to store them, the Department has only now been able to avail itself of those offers, and from now on will gladly receive toys of all descriptions for the children's festival.

SUCCESSFUL SALE

The rummage sale held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Third Trenton Scout Group on Saturday morning in the town hall was an unqualified success. The sale, which was organized by the ladies' committee was very well attended.

CHEFS BROUGHT IN

Chefs from Hong Kong have been brought to Trenton by the enterprising proprietor of the Boston Cafe, Harry Lee, to prepare Chinese food for his restaurant on Dundas Street West, which has recently undergone renovation, and is opening today. Mr. Lee, who was born in Canton, China, but is a naturalized citizen, is assisted in the business by his three children, Wing, Chong and Rhea. The twinkling lights which announce the presence of the restaurant by spelling out its name will soon be a familiar feature of the Trenton downtown evening scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawford and family entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. Kelly, Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Steel, Western Canada, at their home at Princess Street over the week-end.

National Defence Matters Create Interest in House

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—There is more Commons interest in national defence matters than at any time since Korean War days.

There are two apparent reasons for this:

1. The Liberals evidently are seeking to make a political issue out of establishment of a joint Canada-United States air defence command. The government has denied that Canadian troops have been placed under command of the U.S.

2. Russian scientific advances, particularly in rocket engines to launch earth satellites, have led to many questions on the adequacy or otherwise of Canadian defence measures.

HOUSE APPROVAL

The Liberals say establishment of the joint command at Colorado Springs, Colo., should have been approved by Parliament before the government proceeded with it. And they claim the administration has not supplied adequate information on the command's role in Canadian government's responsibilities in committing RCAF squadrons to combat.

In announcing Aug. 1 the establishment of the joint headquarters for North American air defence, Defence Minister Pearkes said the command would make it possible for action to be taken within seconds of an emergency occurring.

It was presumed then that the command could thus order RCAF and U.S. Air Force fighter squadrons into action without further consultation with the Canadian or American governments. In fact, U.S. Gen. Earle Partridge, headquarters commander, said as much.

But when the matter was raised by the Liberals in the Commons Mr. Pearkes said the Canadian government would have to be consulted before any RCAF units could be sent into combat. How much time this consultation might require, he did not say.

DEMANDS EXPLANATION

Former external affairs minister Lester B. Pearson asked whether the government had changed its mind. He demanded a full explanation.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said former defence minister Ralph Campney approved establishment of the joint command in February but had informed Washington Canada could not give formal approval until June 15—five days after the general election—because it might become a political issue.

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Campney might have given his approval, but the matter had never come before the Liberal cabinet Thursday.

nor the cabinet defence committee and therefore could not have been approved by the government.

The Liberals may have decided to drop it, though this seems unlikely. In any case, W.J. Hendrickson, Liberal defence critic, didn't mention the subject when he last spoke in Commons.

LYNCH — LOGAN

White baby 'mums interspersed with potted ferns adorned the sanctuary and altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, November 9, at 11.00 a.m. for a lovely wedding when Rosemary Christine Logan, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edson Logan, bridegroom was Bride of Patrick Bruce Lynch, also of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Lynch. The Very Reverend L. B. Garvin, officiated in the double-ring ceremony, assisted by the Reverend W. J. McGee, who celebrated the nuptial mass. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, presided at the console of the organ, and provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Lester Shiels in his rendition of "Ave Maria." "Panis Angelicus," and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Edson Logan, wore a charmingly designed original bridal gown of pure silk taffeta and alencon lace misted with iridescent sequins and seed pearls, having a fitted bodice with pointed neckline appliqued with matching lace. The sheath-like sleeves were highlighted by lace inserts at shoulder and wrist. Some Facts About Diamonds

Christmas is the season of good will, good cheer and good wishes. Jewellers tell us that the most popular single day of the year for couples to pledge their troth. And what wonder, for the happiness of becoming engaged is rivalled only by the excitement of the wedding bells.

Jewellers also say that more than half of all engagement rings are selected by men. However, as his lady fair will be the chief fancier for a long time, it is important that his choice pleases her.

It would be well, of course, if both were to select the diamond. But, whether the man makes the choice by himself, or if they do this together, here are some tips that will be helpful.

A diamond should be selected like a wardrobe. It should flatter the lady's hand. Does she have a thin or plump hand? Long, tapering fingers or short ones? First consider these factors, then buy!

FIVE POPULAR SHAPES

Basically, there are five popular diamond shapes, the Brilliant (or round), Emerald Cut, Heart, Marquise and Pear Shapes. For long, thin fingers, the Brilliant, Heart and Pear shapes are more becoming. The most flattering shapes for plump, short fingers are the Marquise and the Emerald Cut.

How much should you pay for diamonds? That depends on the four C's: Carat Weight, Color, Clarity and Cut.

COLOR: A fine gem diamond has a delicate white or blue white color, with the clearness of a drop of pure water. Diamonds frequently are pale yellow, brown or grey. These are not of good enough color to be gem diamonds. Occasionally, diamonds have a very pronounced color such as canary-yellow, golden brown, deep blue, green, pink, red and black. These are rarities and are known as "fancies."

CLARITY: No two diamonds are alike. Some have greater brilliance than others, some have flaws that cannot be cut out. A diamond is considered perfect if it has no flaws that can be seen under a loupe that magnifies it ten times.

CARAT WEIGHT: Diamonds are measured by a tiny unit of weight called a carat. There are 100 points in a carat. Therefore, a 50 point diamond is equal to a half carat, 75 points to three-quarters of a carat, etc.

CUT: The brilliance and color for which diamonds are treasured depends on perfect cutting plus 100 per cent complete polishing. However, although two diamonds of the same weight may be equally white in color and perfect one may be a better buy than the other because of its polish. For example, diamonds with completely polished edges or "girdles" have more fire than those not finished to perfect cut; this brilliant circle of light enhances the diamond's beauty and makes it look larger, too.

DIAMOND TRADITIONS

As far back as can be remembered, the diamond has always symbolized love and betrothal. There was an ancient belief that diamonds had magical powers and worked as love potions. To be effective, however, the diamond had to be set so that it touched the skin. Also, the diamond had to be worn on the fourth finger of the left hand because it was believed the vein of love ran from that finger directly to the heart.

The name "diamond" was derived from the Greek word "adamas." When translated, this means invincible, incomparable or like the eternity of love. As we all know, a diamond is forever, too, because it is the hardest substance known to man. It is the aristocrat of all gems, unsurpassed in brilliance and beauty . . . truly the most treasured and most beautiful of nature's gifts to mankind.

BEAUTY HINTS FOR THE MATURE WOMAN

To retain a youthful appearance for as long as possible is the goal of every woman, and a laudable goal it is. Many succeed, almost unbelievably, these days, in looking anywhere from ten to twenty years younger than they actually are but others, alas, despite all their efforts to "fool the public," succeed in fooling only themselves.

Why is this? Why do some succeed where others fail? Well from observation, we've come to the conclusion that those who fail try too hard. Besides which, they point their efforts in the wrong direction. Instead of trying to look like a youthful 40, for instance, they try to look like a youthful 16. And, girls, let's face it. It just can't be done. For the benefit, then, of those middle-aged women who want to appear younger than they are but may not realize that they are on the wrong track toward achieving this goal, here are a few helpful "don'ts":

1. Don't dye your hair if it gives you a hard look. With all the wonderful color rinses on the market there days, it's easy to experiment with hair-color until you believe you're committed to a real dye job. If you think it will improve your looks and your ability to touch up faded tresses, try a rinse and see how it looks. You can try several in fact, since, if you don't like them, they can be washed out. Generally speaking, a gray or white than looks which make your face look harsh.

2. Tone down make-up. With oncoming years, the complexion changes and the more natural looking it is the better. Younger women can get away with overly-made-up looks, but, once again, a harsh and garish effect is achieved when older women try it. This especially applies to mascara and eye-shadow. Use it, if you must, but sparingly.

3. Don't adopt fancy hairdos. The simple arrangement which brings out the rich, lustrous texture of the hair itself are far better. Masses of curls, heavy bobs and other fads don't make you look younger. They make you look silly.

4. If you're inclined to be heavy, don't wear heels that are too high. Spike heels look chic on fast-stepping young things, but nothing is so ludicrous to watch as a heavyweight waddling along on "matchsticks."

5. Also, if you're heavy, don't, don't, please don't wear slacks! No, not on any occasion. We won't say anymore about this except that if you think we're wrong, try on a pair before a 3-way mirror and look at yourself from the rear!

6. If your hands have brown or yellow patches, which sometimes appear with the years, don't use red nail polish. It only serves to call attention to the blemishes. Have your manicurist select a lighter shade. Some, with a slight cast of orange, blend more harmoniously with the hand's skin tone, making patches less noticeable.

7. Don't buy dresses in the "junior department" — even if you're so petite you can wear a size 8. Avoid frills, ruffles, fancy doodads of all types. Stick to simple, tailored styles and you can't go wrong.

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ORDER OF SERVICE WHEN WAITRESS SERVES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are going to give a more or less informal dinner party in our home, to celebrate our Tenth Wedding Anniversary. We are going to invite four couples: my sister, maid of honor at our wedding and her husband (of course she will be the woman guest of honor); our best man and his wife (to be my our man guest of honor); my other sister and her husband; and my husband's sister and her husband. To assist me with the cooking and to do the serving, I am going to hire a very efficient local woman, who specializes in this kind of service. Two questions I want to be very sure about: When she serves, where does she begin — with me, the hostess (as I've been told by several), or with the woman guest of honor (as I've been told by others)? And after the first service, should she proceed clockwise or counterclockwise?

— Ruth M.

The hostess should not be served first . . . this is a most important rule. First to be served is the woman guest of honor, seated at the right of the host. The customary order of service is (1) woman at right of host; (2) the host; (3) woman at left of host; and so on clockwise, around the table. Also correct, though not so often done, is for the service to begin (as always) with the woman on the host's right, and then proceed counterclockwise around the table.

Christian Dior Picked Que. City Girl Out of 20 Models

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—The sudden death of Christian Dior—a blow to fashion-lovers the world over—prompted special sorrow for beautiful Denise Girard of Quebec City.

A year ago, 20 women paraded before the kindly genius who dominated haute couture through 10 revolutionary years. Dior picked one girl—a slender blonde with tartingly contrasting dark brown eyes.

Thus Miss Girard, the serious, straightforward daughter of a paper company engineer, was launched into the exciting life of a mannequin in the world's most famous fashion house. She says she "adores" the job and wouldn't model anywhere else.

MODEL AT 20

Denise was just 20 when hired. She was the youngest of Dior's 13 whipcord-slim mannequins, and he gave her special grooming. When he called her "extremely distressed," a Dior official said.

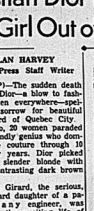
The day after Dior's funeral Miss Girard said quietly: "You know, I can't realize what a kind man he was. He always looked upon me as a daughter, a model. He was wonderful to us. It is impossible to believe that he is dead."

Denise is anything but a flighty schoolgirl, though she looks young enough to be one. She likes "realism," distrusts newspaper men, and had to be persuaded that allowing herself to be interviewed was a tantamount to a patriotic act, because Canadian girls would want to know something about her.

BORN IN QUEBEC

With reluctance, she conceded that she was born in Quebec City, that she has three brothers and three sisters all younger than herself, that she was educated in a Quebec convent and at Hyde Park School in London, and that she was living with an aunt in Monaco when she decided to enter the mannequin parade.

Would she advise Canadian models to try to get a job in Paris?



"Well, speaking for myself, I advise it for Job," she said, "I would think any Canadian girl would enjoy working here, if they could get the opportunity. Personally, I would not want to work as a model in Canada, where things are mostly ready-made."

She now wears her corn-colored hair swept back and tucked into a chignon. It used to fall loosely in front, but Dior himself compelled the change.

MORNINGS ARE FREE

Along with her close friend France one such other Dior models as Alla, Svetlana and Luckey, she work's something of a Bohemian's hour routine, with most mornings free and overtime only on the eve of showing a new collection.

Miss Girard was interviewed in Dior's fashion shrine on the Avenue Montaigne, across from the new Canadian Embassy. Now a question hangs over the dove-grey and cream salon, headquarters of the 52-year-old perfectionist from Normandy whose first styling, the New Look, flounced into the fashion world 10 years ago.

Since, Dior has benevolently dictated what modern women will wear. In 1956, Dior exports totalled more than those of other French designers put together, earning some $2,500,000.

Two questions remain: Who will take Dior's place, and will Paris without Dior remain the world's centre of fashion?

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. T.D. — Carl should find a handicapped girl.

Mrs. T.D. — My husband and I are terribly concerned about our youngest son, age 28. He is a wonderful, intelligent man and has a good job, although he is physically handicapped.

Naturally we would like to see him married — if only because he needs someone to look out for him and we won't be around forever. He has some good friends among young married couples of his own age, but has rarely gone out with single girls.

We feel that since he seems to be timid about going out with average girls, he should try to find companionship among handicapped girls. There are organizations in which he could meet them. They are very nice and he would not have to feel self-conscious.

Carl D. — Considering my own physical imperfections, I suppose I have no right to say this — but the way I feel is that it's not an attractive girl, or none at all. If attractive girls don't want me, I can't say I blame them, but I can't help feeling that love and marriage would be impossible for me without such a girl.

I was not born handicapped and have no congenital defects, so it does seem to me a little unfair that I should have to seek a wife among unfortunates like myself.

My parents let their anxiety for me run away with them. Actually, I am well able to take care of myself. I have many helpful friends — and with money you can always manage to get additional help.

The Council: Carl and his parents assume that his main problem is his physical handicap, but we have our doubts.

Actually many physically handicapped persons marry attractive members of the opposite sex and many very good marriages are made by two handicapped persons.

On the other hand, many physically sound and handsome men and women share Carl's attitude. They demand physical or mental perfection in a mate and are prepared to remain single rather than compromise.

Such individuals are quite self-enclosed and carry a weary load of inferiority feelings and a childish sense of resentment — "it does seem to me a little unfair that I should have to seek a wife among unfortunates like myself."

If Carl could recognize that his problem is psychological and emotional, rather than physical, he would be on the road toward achieving a richer life for himself. If he can give up nursing his resentment against life, he would find that many possibilities are open to him and he needs only to stretch out his hand to take them.

Perhaps it would help Carl to realize that someone needs his love and companionship. She may or may not be a beauty, but that won't matter very much once Carl is prepared to give

Economical Dinners For $60 Monthly Food Budget

By Mary Moore

Some of the serious budgeters still remember that last Tuesday I gave Mrs. M. D. some help with her breakfast and lunch menus. I promised to give her this week some economical dinner menus that were scaled to her $60 per month food budget. Here they are:

DINNERS:

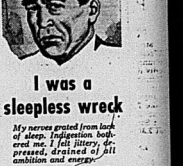
Note: Add milk and tea for children and adults to each dinner menu.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Minute Steaks; Boiled Whole Bermuda Onions with Cheese Sauce; Mashed Potatoes; Sliced Bananas with Top Milk; Sliced Fruit Bread; Coffee.



1) (Oven) Stuffed Green Peppers (use hamburg mixed with ingredients as for meat loaf for stuffing halved peppers), baked potatoes, broiled crumbed tomatoes; shredded carrots with mayonnaise; lemon-cake pudding. 2) Creamed Haddock with parsley, whole boiled potatoes with skins on, diced carrots; and apple salad; blanch mange (use reliquefied skim milk powder) with canned peaches. 3) Curried Hard-cooked Eggs on Rice or Brown Rice, spinach, baked squash; baked apples, hot gingerbread. 4) Beef Liver with Onions and Celery Casserole, baked potatoes, braised celery; orange jelly dessert with sliced oranges, peanut butter cookies. 5) Corned Beef and Cabbage, fried parsnip rings, hot baked applesauce cheese gem muffins. 6) Breaded Shoulder Pork Chops, delicate mashed turnips, canned green beans, Chinese lettuce and jelled tomato salad; peach tapioca. 7) Tomato Aspic, Braised Short Ribs of Beef with vegetables, shredded cabbage quick cooked in milk (reliquefied skim milk powder), hot half-and-half whole wheat homemade yeast rolls, prune whip with custard sauce.

The following recipe is a meat substitute. You will see that it calls for cheese, eggs and milk which are high quality proteins so if vegetables, salad and fruit dessert are added meal will be well balanced. Its rich flavor comes from the sauteed onion. To our British readers this is a familiar supper pie but many Canadian cooks are too timid to try it. Cut loose for once and try something totally different! This is easy on the budget too.

CHEESE-ONION PIE

Line a greased 9-inch glass pie plate with crust made of 1¼ cups fine soda-cracker crumbs blended with 1/3 cup melted margarine. Slice extremely thin enough onions to make 2 measuring cups. Gently fry in 2 tablespoons margarine until completely limp but not brown at all. Turn the fried onions into the pie crust. Make a custard by mixing 1 cup milk (reliquefied skim milk powder) with 2 beaten eggs and 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Stir in 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese. Pour over onions. Sprinkle with additional ½ cup grated cheese over top. Bake at 300 deg. F. 40 to 45 minutes or until custard is set. Serve in wedges. Chill sauce is good with it.

CORNWALL TONIGHT!

The league-leading McFarlands, with the Whitby Dunlops now breathing down their necks, meet the pesky Cornwall Chevies here tonight in what could be a battle for the top perch of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" Division.

The McFarlands, so young Master Alexander informs us, came up with an neat display of puckchasing as one would wish to see last Friday night when they whomped the Allan Cup champions from Whitby by a convincing 4-1 score. Other sources tell us that it was by far the best exhibition staged by the Macs as a whole thus far this season. Let's hope they haven't loosed their grip on the victory bit tonight.

Tonight's tilt will be the third time the teams have clashed in league play, with the verdicts being divided. The Macs took a 5-3 decision from the Chevies on their first appearance here and Joe Lepine's men handed our side a 6-2 setback in the Macs' first down-east outing.

The Chevies have won four, lost the same number and split the decision on two other occasions. On hand tonight for a first-all affair against Whitby on Sunday. They're big and rugged and are far from being panty-waisted when it comes to handing the opposition a hard-hitting time. They see in the Macs with a victory, but a win for Ike's boys will give the Macs a three-point lead, providing, of course the Pembroke Lumber Kings, who are being hosted tonight by the Whitby Dunlops, can twist the Dunnies' tails in their own backyard. A one-point-per pointer for the Whitby crew will give them top spot with a point lead if the Chevies take a pair from the Macs.

Meanwhile hockey interest of the country is being centred on the visit of the Russian Red Army sextette, which plays in Toronto this Friday against the Dunlops and in Kingston against a composite squad on December 3rd.

Len Taylor, sports editor of the Kitchener Record, who accompanied the Kitchener Dutchmen on that ill-fated sortie to Corsica a couple of years ago, has had a piece the other day about the Russian squad that won the world title that year.

"While advance information on the Russian line-up is scanty, it does appear that we shall see a half-dozen of the best players in the Soviet Union," Taylor wrote.

Goalie Nickolay Puchkov, for instance, who played against the Dutchmen in Corsica, was a standout, finishing off 38 shots, the most of them from within the 20-foot range. "He is one of the most restless goalies in the business and when he comes on the ice for pre-game workouts, proceeds through an involved series of calisthenics which include a sort of chinning exercise on the cross-bar."

During the game, Taylor says, when the play is at the other end of the ice, it is not unusual to see Puchkov go into the same routine. As Corsica, Nikolay Sologubov, a defenceman, was voted among North American observers the best-looking pro prospect by NHL standards. "He is a fast skating, rugged player who doesn't mind a hitting game and he scientifically plays a defensive game."

At Corsica, Taylor said, the Russians warmed up from 30 to 45 minutes before each game. They had a very methodical system of shooting on goal, practising from all four corners. Their forte is speed and passing and they'll attempt at intervals a pass on the blade of their skates, a trick the Dutchmen tried to master without too much success on their return home.

A North American theory that the Russians will will under bodychecking was not borne out by what happened at Corsica. They obviously prefer the open game but the Dutchmen hit them hard on occasion but the well-conditioned Russians bounced back for more.

"Russian equipment," Taylor says, "may seem a bit odd to Canadian spectators but there is nothing laughable about the way they handle their cross. Playing under their own rules they will be difficult to beat and it is possible that Canadian teams, at this time of the year, will not yet be in physical condition to handle them, at least in the early part of the tour before they become travel-weary.

Taylor believes the Russians while they are called the Moscow Dynamos, will be a composite team of top players from the entire Soviet Union. Limited substitutions are flexible and by the same token it is unlikely that the tourists will constitute in toto the Russian National Club which will play in the world tournament in Ohio next February.

Montreal Club Seeks Entry With Western Grid Union But Claim Said Not Serious

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — A trial balloon sent up by Montreal Alouettes completed its Sputnik-like orbit of Canada's football capitals Monday night with the desired effect.

Als put across their firm belief that the Big Four league is big business in every sense, should act that way and should cut the apron strings that tie it to the Canadian Rugby Union.

They put across, too, their long standing contention that the Big Four needs a commissioner with a big stick in his hand.

The first item was heard in Winnipeg where commissioner G. Sydney Halter of the Western Interprovincial Football Union said Alouettes had approached him with a view to becoming a sixth team in the five-team circuit.

"EXPLORE POSSIBILITY"

Vice-president Ted Workman of Alouettes, principal owner of the club, admitted this but stressed that the WIFU had been asked "to explore the possibility" of accepting Als.

"I am surprised this has become public information but I can't deny it," Workman said.

"As for the reason, it adds up to one thing—the need for league administration. The Big Four sorely needs a commissioner given the power to act as necessary job."

A close assessment of the situation and circumstances leads to these conclusions:

1. Workman was entirely sincere in asking the WIFU to "explore the possibility" of taking Als into that circuit.

2. The more precise purpose was to get publicity of the football world to the operations of the Big Four and, by suggesting Als a ready backing - up if needed.

3. Als aren't serious about quitting the Big Four.

4. They hope the Big Four—and the CRU, too, for that matter—will break with the CRU and organize in Big League fashion as an out-and-out professional outfit.

5. Commissioner Halter spilled the beans prematurely. It would have been much nicer to create all the fuss closer to Grey Cup day, Nov. 30.

DISCERNING COMMENT

What appears to be the most discerning comment came promptly from WIFU president Ken Montgomery in Edmonton. He said:

"I'm inclined to think they (Alouettes) are probably a little sour at the officiating and administrating and may be just talking, in an attempt to bring together other Big Four teams to straighten their affairs out."

Montgomery felt it strange that Alouettes, the eastern-most team in the Big Four, would consider joining the WIFU, whose five cities cover territory from Winnipeg to Vancouver.

To haul five Western clubs to one city in the East—let alone Alouettes' swing throughout the West—would cost a tremendous amount of money. The cost would be felt particularly by Western clubs, which do not draw as large crowds throughout the season as Big Four teams do.

NEED SOLID FOUNDATION

Highly successful as head of an industrial company before becoming actively associated with football three years ago, Workman has felt all Big Four clubs should first and foremost be on a business - like foundation.

So far as the Big Four commissionership is concerned, it is common knowledge that Als aren't alone in feeling the post is sorely necessary. Judge Allan Fraser of Ottawa, is only a figure-head without any real authority.

If a hop by Als to the WIFU is to be taken seriously, league secretary Wes Brown set forth the procedure as provided by the constitution.

Commenting in Ottawa, Brown said: "Als would have to give two years' notice of withdrawal from the league and in addition would need approval by a three-quarters vote of the executive.

"Of course anyway Alouette management said a Big Four club can pack up and get out with perhaps one year's notice at the most.

This source said each club puts up a $30,000 bond each year to guarantee team appearance in carrying out the schedule. There are no other monetary obligations, he said, and with the consent of the league a club could quit the Big Four and move.

Workman's contention about the commissionership brought at least some qualified agreement. Big Four president Bob Shepherd said he also thought the commissioner should be more powerful, "said it publicly and not in the committee rooms."

He felt a strong commissioner was agreed to by president Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton Tiger - Cats, but Gaudaur saw something of a threat in Workman's statements.

"If we get a stronger commissioner it will be because he needs it recognized by all, not because we are influenced by threats," said Gaudaur.

'Pocket' Takes Point Lead Over 'Rocket'

MONTREAL (CP) — Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens has taken a one-point lead over his All-Star brother Maurice in the National Hockey League individual scoring competition.

Richard the younger has 24 points compared with 23 for the Rocket, expected to be out of play at least a month with a cut right Achilles tendon. Maurice Richard played little more than one period this week.

The league statistics released today showed Canadiens continued to hold down the top four spots with Jean Beliveau and Dickie Moore in a third-place tie behind the Richards.

Beliveau tied Moore by picking up two goals as Canadiens lost two home games during the week. Both have 19 points—Beliveau with eight goals and 11 assists and Moore with seven and 12. Moore was held to a single assist.

Boston's Bronco Horvath picked up a goal and three assists in wins over Montreal and a fifth-spot tie with Andy Bathgate of New York who boasts a 6-12 total.

Fleming Mackell of Boston, with a goal and two assists in three games, owns seventh place with 17 points. Camille Henry came or from 14th spot to eighth, scoring two goals and three assists, running his total to 16.

Detroit's Gordie Howe with 15 is bracketed in ninth position with Bruins' Vic Stasiuk. Howe had a one-one count in t week.

Henri Richard is still the leading goal-getter with 12, one more than his brother. The Richards, Moore and Bathgate head the assists department with 12.

Rangers, by gaining a tie with Chicago and taking two weekend games from Montreal, jumped into first place with 9 points, one more than Canadiens who have two games in hand.

Bruins, fourth this time last week, now are tied for third position with Chicago who garnered five of a possible eight points in three games Boston took five points. Both have 17 points.

Troubled Detroit Red Wings captured one of two starts and have solo possession of fifth place. They have 12 points, one up on last-place Toronto who tied one of three starts.

INVITED TO RUSSIA

TORONTO (CP)—Russia has officially invited Canada to send a soccer team to Russia in 1958, the invitation reached the office of George Anderson, Canadian association secretary, via the Russian embassy in Ottawa.

OHA Referees Work Out With Dunlops

TORONTO (CP) — Referees joined members of Whitby's Allan Cup hockey team Monday night in a practice session for a game against Moscow all-stars in Maple Leaf Gardens Friday night.

Hugh McLean of Hamilton and Jim Boddy of Owen Sound, two of the Ontario Hockey Association's top referees who have been assigned to officiate during the Russian tour, were on hand for the 90-minute scrimmage.

A series of international rules was provided by Bobby Bauer who coached Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen when they lost the world hockey title to the Russians in 1956.

Both the seven-game Russian tour and the world champion Whitby Dunlops start next week, at which Whitby will represent Canada—will be played under European rules.

MAIN DIFFERENCES

As Bauer explained it, they differ from Canadian rules in three main respects:

Defenceman can bodycheck in their own half of the ice only and attackers can't bodycheck anywhere.

The puck can't be fired into the opposing end of the ice—it must be taken there.

Penalties don't expire when a goal is scored against the short-handed team — they must be served by their conclusion.

The Russian team, made up of players from three Moscow sports clubs, is due to arrive here early Wednesday.

Riding Star Did Not Get 'Penny for Ad'

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The spokesman for a Swiss watch manufacturer said Monday British riding star Pat Smythe "did not receive a single penny" for an advertisement which has caused a stir in international Olympic circles.

The advertisement contains a photograph of Miss Smythe and her horse, and praises her as saying that she and her watch have become "inseparable companions".

The advertisement appeared recently in several American publications. Last Saturday it also appeared in the official program of the Geneva International Horse Show.

WAS ADVERTISED

John Woodside, advertising manager of the watch manufacturer, said the advertisement was published with the approval of the British Equestrian Federation and the British Olympic Association.

The money paid for Miss Smythe's publicity appearance went entirely to the British Equestrian Fund, Woodside said. "Miss Smythe did not receive a penny for the whole business," he added.

Miss Smythe, competing at the Harvard Winter Fair in Toronto, declined comment. But the head of the British team, Col. M. P. Russell, said Miss Smythe "got absolutely nothing" for the use of her photographs and did not submit any statement with the picture.

Paille's Job With Rangers Looks Secure at the Moment

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Once again the New York Rangers' version of musical chairs among goal tenders is in full swing.

Marcel Paille is the winner so far and his superb playing in the National Hockey League has pushed Lorne (Gump) Worsley into the minor leagues.

It was Worsley who started the ball rolling six seasons ago when he took the netminding chores away from Chuck Rayner and won the rookie-of-the-year award. The next season Johnny Bower was the regular Ranger netminder with Worsley working in the Western Hockey League.

From the 1954-55 season to three weeks ago Worsley successfully beat out Bower for the big-league job but now he has to wait.

HAS JOB NOW

Coach Phil Watson says Paille has the job now and he'll have to lose it before Rangers think of recalling Worsley from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

Paille made his NHL debut three weeks ago when a spinal thing muscle put Worsley out of action. Now, he leads the NHL goaltenders in "fielding averages" with a .944 mark.

In eight games he has stopped 250 of the 265 shots fired at him and has one shutout. In that span Rangers won five games, tied two and lost only one for 12 of a possible 16 points. They took over first place last weekend from Montreal Canadiens.

Worsley took part in 19 games before his injury and had an impressive .927 percentage, stopping 378 of 408 shots aimed his way. He earned two shutouts.

In eight games, Hodge had a .930 percentage as 16 out of 230 shots beat him. Len Broderick played one game as an emergency replacement for Plante here and his percentage for that night was .909, two of 22 shots beating him.

Plante, in the meantime, has a mark of .895. He dropped 22 points last week as Rangers handed Canadiens a double defeat. Of 181 shots fired at him, Plante has stopped 162 in seven games.

'Rifle' Slug Costs Cookie Fifty Dollars

OTTAWA (CP) — Hamilton's Cookie Gilchrist must pay a $50 fine before Saturday or he won't be able to play in the Big Four Football Union final between Ti-ger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes. Dr. Wes Brown said Monday that Gilchrist gets the fine automatically for slugging Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry of Montreal in the first game of the two-game total-point series with Montreal. Hamilton won the game 17-0.

The slugging occurred in the first four minutes of play. Gilchrist was kicked off for the remainder of the game.

Dudley Would Like to End Talk Started in Vienna Hotel

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — A Russian hockey official fell asleep in a Vienna hotel room early this year please don't be being made with a Canadian for a Russian hockey team's tour of this country. The Russian could still be in that hotel room for all the Canadian knows.

The incident is recalled by the man who was there — George Dudley of Midland, Ont., secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. He's in charge of the tour and he'll be the most relieved man in the country when the Russians arrive in Montreal late Tuesday night.

Dudley hasn't heard directly from the Russian, a Col. Petr Kostelov, since. In fact, he hasn't heard directly from any Russian since the tour. He was received a few cables, but they've all been signed "U.S.S.R. Hockey Section."

DARK-HORSE TEAM

"The colonel is a member of the European section of the International Ice Hockey Federation," says Dudley. "During the IIHF meeting here last April in spring he came to my hotel room with some members and talk about the tour. We were talking expenses and so on and the next thing I knew the colonel was sound asleep."

With the scheduled arrival of the Russians a matter of hours away, Dudley is as much in the dark about the tour as anyone in Canada. "All I've heard, and that's from a radio man around Midland, is that it's an all-star team chosen from three clubs in Moscow.

"They haven't told us anything. There's supposed to be 26 in the party — 17 players, an interpreter, doctor and other officials—but they may travel with 30 or 20. All I know is that they cabled to say they would leave Stockholm at 7 a.m. We've reserved hotel rooms for a party of 26 and if there are more we'll just have to make some last minute arrangements."

FULL PROGRAM

But things aren't as confusing as all this. The Russians will be met at Montreal by CAHA president Bob Lebel. Dudley will welcome them at Toronto. A reception has been laid on for Wednesday afternoon in Toronto. They'll make a side trip to Niagara Falls, probably see an NHL game and make a fast tour of the Royal Winter Fair, also at Toronto.

There won't be much time for anything except practices and games during their seven-game exhibition series with Ontario and Quebec junior and senior hockey teams Nov. 20-Dec. 6.

Only one thing appears certain. The Russians will play before national crowds starting at Toronto Friday night, when they open against Whitby Dunlops, the club they'll probably meet in the finals of the world amateur championships at Oslo, Feb. 28-March 9.

If this comes about it will be the rubber match between Canada and Russia. Canada, represented by Penticton, Vs, walloped the Reds 5-0 in the 1955 world championships at Krefeld, Germany. Last year the Russians stripped Canada of its Olympic title by trimming out Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 2-0 at Cortina, Italy.

But that's for the future. Dudley, for one, just wants the Russians to land in Canada, do their shopping, too, that Col. Kortokov is in the party.

Dudley would like to end the conversation that started in a Vienna hotel room.

Aussies Seek Golfing Gold

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australian golfers, led by former British Open champion Peter Thomson and American Norman Von Nida, plan a concerted drive next year for the gold which dots the rich American circuit.

They will be joined by two of the youngest members of this country's links elite — Bruce Crampton, 22, and Frank Phillips, 25, who recently beat an international field for the Australian Open championship.

"The only way to become a great golfer is to play the top pro tour in America," said Crampton Monday. "I intend to do it for the next few years."

Look to Eskys To Spring Back In Cup Form

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos give the appearance that they've learned a difficult lesson which might spring them back to the form that won them three straight Grey Cup football championships.

However they're making no predictions in advance of the second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union finals. They must defeat Winnipeg Blue Bombers who lead 1-0 in the best-of-three series as the result of Saturday night's 19-7 victory at Winnipeg. The clubs meet again at Wednesday night in Edmonton.

"I know one thing," said quarterback Don Getty after a two-hour workout Monday night. "We'll have to play twice—no, 50 times as good as we played Saturday night or we won't beat another team this year."

The workout was touched with good and bad spots. An eye injury suffered by Texas halfback Jack Abendschan in the game and the medical staff said he'll be ready to play. He also has a sudden nose but it won't stop him.

ANDERSON REINJURED

Frankie Anderson, all-star defensive end who has played since pulling a knee ligament two weeks ago, was injured all over Monday night. Seriousness of the reinjury was not assessed immediately but it was reported it would take at least 10 days for it to heal.

Fullback Mike Lashuk, he WIFU's rookie of the year, was on crutches hobbling about on a badly-sprained ankle. He won't play Wednesday.

And Jackie Parker, the fabulous Eskimo quarterback - halfback, was limping slightly with a bruised left knee and a strained ligament in the right one. He was running in practice, however.

Tie Means Win For Hamilton

OTTAWA (CP) — If the Big Four Football Union final between Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats ends in a tie after regular and overtime play on Saturday the league title and the Grey Cup play the West for the Grey Cup will go to Ticats.

D. Wes Brown, secretary-treasurer of the league, said Monday that Hamilton will get the title under those circumstances on the strength of their season showing against the Als.

Hamilton last Saturday won the first meeting of the two-game, total-point playoffs 17-10.

Brown said that if the teams tied at the end of regular play they would go into two 10-minute overtime periods after a five-minute time - out period during which time the players must stay on the field.

If play is still tied after the overtime periods the Big Four title will go to Hamilton which has a 75-70 point edge over Alouettes in five scheduled games.

TO SELL GOLF COURSE

TORONTO (CP) — Shareholders of St. Andrew's Golf Club of Toronto's northern outskirts voted Monday to sell the course for $1,400,000 for a housing development.

High operating costs, high real estate prices and tough competition from the new Don Valley metropolitan course, adjacent to St. Andrew's, were given as major reasons for the sale. However, the 27-hole course will remain open for play next year.

Blair Blasts Pembroke Story As 'Unfounded'

WHITBY (CP) — Wren Blair, manager of Whitby Dunlops, Canada's representatives at the world hockey championships in February, has criticized "unfounded stories" about the Dunlops.

He made the comment when asked about a Pembroke report that he and playing coach Sc. Smith argued after Saturday's 7-1 victory during which Blair di the coaching while Smith stoo silently.

What actually happened, Blai said, was that "Sid and mysel were giving vent to a little hum because Sid couldn play."

Whitby had been trying to ge Smith, a defenceman for Toronto Maple Leafs, waived out of the National Hockey League in time for the Dunlops against Pembroke Lumber Kings. A telegram arrived 20 minutes before the game and said Smith would not be eligible until Sunday.

Teeps' Mikita Takes Junior Scoring Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Stan Mikita of the league-leading St. Catharines Teepees took over the scoring lead in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A individual scoring this week.

Statistics released Monday show Mikita has five goals and 12 assists in the games for a one-point lead over teammate Ed Rochefort. Rochefort shares the lead in goals with Toronto Marlboros' Jack McMaster, each with five. Other statistics includes Sunday's games.

Mikita and Barrie Fiyers' Bill Forhan have the most assists, 11.

Cesare Maniago of St. Michael's Buzzers and Bruce Gamble of Guelph Billmores are tied for goaltending honors. Each has allowed 23 goals in nine games for a 2.56 average.

SUGGESTS MEETINGS

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Rudy Pilous, coach of St. Catharines Teepees, current leaders in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has suggested that monthly meetings be held among coaches, linesmen, coaches and managers of the junior group.

"League is kicking about the officiating but no one is doing anything constructive to right the situation," Pilous said Monday. He added that Harold Ballard, manager of Toronto Marlboros, and at least one referee have given him strong support on the suggestion.

Peterborough Juniors Show Power, Defeat Belleville by 8-1 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Peterborough Petes exploded their expected power in the first two periods here last night to whip Belleville Lakeshore Builders 8-1 in Ontario Eastern Ontario Junior "B" hockey fixture.

The victory was the Petes' second in as many starts while Belleville has lost both its games. It was announced last night that the game between these same two clubs scheduled for Peterborough this Friday night has been postponed until a later date.

Lambert-Rollins held their own during the first period and part f the second. They opened the scoring early and held a general margin until the 11.27 mark. The visitors finally took a 2-1 edge by the end of the period and then commanded the play after the half-way mark of the second. They scored four times in the middle session and twice more in the final twenty minutes without a reply from Belleville.

The game started with fast but rugged action and slowly developed into a rough game. Saturday there was a good deal of elbowing, roughing and high sticking was the result when some clean hard checks and a couple of fights added before the final whistle.

Referees Vern Goyer and Bill Hurst handed out eight minors and two major penalties to each club. Kerrulsh and Armstrong drew penalties for the Petes during the second period while Titterson and Daly got the nod for minors for minor matters in the third. Players from both clubs dropped their gloves and settled matters as the final whistle sounded but order was restored without further damage.

Jim Roberts, Ron Jewell and Wink Heffernan played strong two-way hockey for the winners, skating, passing and tossing body checks in excellent form. Belleville was unable to organize any kind of attack after the opening period and failed to cope with the faster more-practised Peterborough squad.

The losers opened the scoring at 12.40 of the first period. Seconds after Ron Jay of the Petes was penalized for tripping, Charlie Rowbotham drove from behind the Peterborough net, the disc bouncing in off the back of Defend St. Louis and Gary Rowbotham received assists on the play. Titterson tied it when Roberts' backhander at 11.37 with Belleville a man short got goals after Ron Jay of the Petes was penalized for tripping. Charlie Rowbotham drove from behind the Peterborough net, the disc bouncing in off the back of Defend St. Louis and Gary Rowbotham received assists on the play. Titterson tied it when Roberts' backhander at 11.37 with Belleville a man short and went ahead for keeps on Jewell's marker at 18.05.

Peterborough's second period markers came from Ferguson, McCormick, Roberts and Peacock, Bill Heffernan replaced Jack Gilby in the Belleville nets at the end of the first period. Jewell and McCormick finished off the Petes' scoring in the third, much of which was taken up by goals and penalties as play slowed down considerably.

Ron Jewell with two goals and one assist topped the Peterborough scoring while Ron Brisson and Murray McCormick also scored twice. Pearson had a goal and assist. John Horton two helpers and Ferguson the other Peterborough assists went to Larry Nelli, Wink Heffernan, Ron Jay and Paul Parnell. Don Dobson performed well in goal when the local boys did get within scoring range.

Canadian Wins Harrier Title At Michigan

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Kennedy, Michigan State's 4-year-old senior harrier from Toronto, surrendered his individual title to set the Spartans' retained title team championship in the 49th annual IC4A cross country championships.

Crawford, a 22-year-old sophomore, covered the 10-mile course in 24 minutes, 14.8 seconds, edging Tom Vilsmova's Ron Delany by 90 yards.

Delany, 1500 meter Olympic champion at Melbourne, last year was timed in 24:30.0, a second better than third-place finisher Peter Close of St. John's of Brooklyn.

Henry Kennedy, in quest of his third consecutive IC4A title, finished a poor eighth.

Hamilton Ti-Cats Favored Over Montreal in Big Game

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger - Cats, charged by some with faulty strategy in opening their Big Four Football Union game in Montreal, are sitting pretty this week as a result of the move.

They'll have the friendly confines of Civic Stadium Saturday in the second of their two-game, total-point series against Montreal Alouettes. Hamilton lost only one game at home this season—though that was to Montreal.

It's still the place where they'd most like to be to protect a seven-point lead from their 17-10 opening game win.

EXTRA DAYS REST

The rap against the Ticat choice was that it allowed Als a day's rest instead of a day's practice. Montreal had played only three days before in a hard semi-final against Ottawa Rough Riders while Hamilton rested.

It also was said a mistake because it gave Montreal a chance to play at home, where they've been especially potent in recent years.

If all this was true, say the Ticats, it might be how they'd like it. "We'd have now if we'd opened in Hamilton."

As it is, Hamilton has the lead, the home grounds and the extra rest because Montreal has to do the travelling. Ticats also are sure of all their players, something Montreal is not.

HAS BROKEN HAND

Guard Dave Suminski, who emphasizes he'll be ready during Saturday's game and not in the subsequent melee, almost is certain to give Montreal may miss halfback Joel Wells and tackle Ted Kirby is uncertain.

While Hamilton may have its home field, it may not have all canvas.

Senior police officials Monday met Ticat executives to make sure there is no repeat of the scuffling after the Montreal game.

Team president Jake Gaudaur indicated this might involve removing a box of 2,000 bleacher seats and putting snow fences around the end zones.

Montreal lost a point in the opener when fans grabbed a ball that rolled into end zone before it crossed the deadline. It was ruled no point.

Bombers Add All-Star End To Injured List

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, already crippled by numerous injuries, have lost the services of all-star defensive end Herb Gray for Wednesday night's second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union best-of-three final at Edmonton.

Gray's father died Monday in Texas and the hard - charging lineman will leave here today to be with his family and attend the funeral. He plays offensive guard and defensive end.

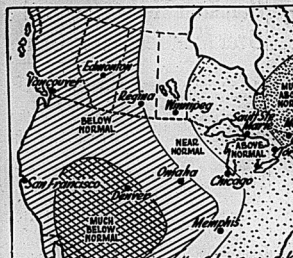
Bombers, who lead the series 1-0 via their upset 19-7 win here Saturday night, now are down to two offensive guards, rookies Cornell Piper and first-year import Johnny Bright.

WALKING WOUNDED

Among the walking wounded in the Bombers' camp were import back Charlie Shepard, charley-horse and hip injury; Ron Latourelle, safety, a charleyhorse; import tackle Bob Roberts, pulled ligament; and Keith Pearce, pulled calf muscle; end Cec Luinstra, injured shoulder; end Frank Gilliam, injured shoulder, and backs Leo Lewis and Gerry James, flu victims.

Bombers went through a light drill for an hour Monday and will work out again before leaving this afternoon. Twenty-nine players will make the trip.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said Monday no television game will be televised live because its lone mobile unit in Western Canada is here and it would be too expensive to transport to Edmonton. The game could be filmed and shown here at a later date.



SOCCER OFFICIAL DIES

WEATHERMAN FAVORS EAST, BLOWS COLD ON WEST

Eastern Canada is due for above normal temperatures, and slightly above normal rainfall, for the next three weeks, says the U.S. weather bureau. Western Canada seems to be in disfavor with the westherman, having a wide cold front expected from the coast well into the prairies.

Four-Month Arvida Strike Cost Worker and Company An Estimated $15,000, 000

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

(CP)

num, the metal that put this Lake St Joan a industrial map 20 years ago, again is coming from the world's largest aluminum plant after a four - month strike that cost worker and company an estimated $15,000,000.

The 6,500 workers of the Aluminum Company of Canada set up picket lines last May 17, started a strike that business men, government experts and some union officials feared could become an economic catastrophe. The strike was settled Sept. 19.

The National Metal Trades Federation, parent of Quebec's metal workers syndicates affiliated with the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, struck at Arvida, then threatened Alcan it would close its seven other operations and plants in the provinces if it did not come to terms.

MASTER CONTRACT

Main demand: Equal wages in all Alcan primary aluminum powerhouses and a master contract with a single expiration date covering all operations.

Alcan, with four primary plants, electric power plants, a railway and a Saguenay River dock, refused the demand. Under such a contract the union could call out 11,500 employees—excluding dock workers — and jam Alcan's operations.

Predictions were the fight would be long and bitter and commerce severely hit. Some strikers grumbled they were putting their heads on the block for lower paid workers in other plants. Violence was feared.

The strike was a model of organization. First, it was legal. The union waited until all legal delays expired before acting. Educative committees, meeting sessions for women, food distribution groups, entertainment units, went smoothly into action.

ECONOMIC MAINSTAY

Normally, Alcan pumped $1-15,000 in salaries into the region every month, mainly into Arvida, a community of 12,000 persons. Other workers live in nearby towns, Kenogami, Jonquiere, Chicoutimi — the region's commercial centre — and a dozen other villages.

Cash trickled in from CCCL member unions, municipal grants, individual donations.

When it ended 125 days later, government and business took stock of the situation.

Business volume dipped but there were no bankruptcies. Workers were in debt but business men said the situation was not serious. Arvida's town treasurer said home - owners were late with tax payments but bills should be paid up by February.

There were still heavy losses. Workers lost $11,000,000 in salaries. Aluminum Limited, Alcan's parent, announced the strike cut into company earnings. Total loss was unknown but the union spent $1,500,000 in strike assistance and business losses were said to be considerable.

NO DISASTER

Alcan's plants were closed but other industrial activity flourished. A new smelter is going up at Chicoutimi. Pulp and paper mills—backbone of the region's economy — operated as usual. Power production is at a peak. The mining boom in the nearby Chibougamau area continued pell mell.

Sporting goods shops said business increased 25 to 35 per cent. Women's clothing stores felt no decline.

But non-essential goods store said business dropped 50 per cent but cabbies noted no difference after a three - week slump. Theatres said attendance slipped nine per cent.

The women, many with large families, kept up the $2 weekly union strike pay and what children working in other industries could bring in.

Mrs. Marc Hubert, mother of 10, could rise 15 days a day of the strike on an income between $30 and $40 a week.

"I didn't see a bit well enough and everybody was satisfied. With cheaper meat cuts and good old-fashioned cooking methods nobody went hungry . . . The men in my family put on weight."

As September approached, school boards announced fears could be paid when the strike was over.

When it ended on Sept. 16 the union did not have the master contract. But the company had agreed to equalize wages in all Alcan plants, and to allow individual contracts to expire within a three-month period.

"A great victory," union leaders said. "A marriage of reason," said the company.

A wave of relief swept the region.

Adrien Plourde, president of the Arvida local, said his happiness was "immense." The work week would be cut to 40 from 44 hours—meaning an increase of five per cent in the working force.

"I am mighty glad it is all over," beamed Plourde at the contract-signing ceremony.

"Me too," said Alcan's general manager, holding in one hand the 160-page, 2½ pound document.

Officials Take Steps to Halt Fan Outbursts

MONTREAL (CP) — Alarmed sports officials and city heads Monday tried to assess responsibility for Saturday's wild outbursts by Montreal football fans and to plan against future mob action.

There was unanimous condemnation of the disorders that followed Big Four game in McGill University's stadium between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes.

The mayor and police director said the both said police protection will be provided if requested. They present arrangements uniformed police of a defective agency have been stationed at the stadium.

TO CALL MEETING

President Bob Moran of the Big Four said in Toronto he plans to call an executive meeting next week to discuss both the Montreal affair and methods of preventing future incidents.

In Hamilton president Jake Gaudaur of Tiger-Cats said he is considering building fences in front of the open stands there for next Saturday's game of the total-point, two-game final. Cats won 17-10 in Montreal.

The unruly spectators broke out immediately after Saturday's game ended. A shortened single had been disallowed only a few seconds earlier because fans raced into the south end zone and ran off with the ball.

Officials handling the game and Hamilton players were surrounded, attacked and slugged before they could leave the field.

Bill Cullen Plays Split Week Of TV and Radio Programs

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Why is the world of television and radio so frequently called frenetic? Let's refer to the case of a witty, personable young man named Bill Cullen.

Cullen plays a split week of seven TV shows and six radio programs. He's so busy that he sleeps in split shifts—three hour by day and five by night.

He presides over the doings of Pulse, a popular radio program on NBC's New York outlet Mondays through Fridays at 1 p.m. He's due on until 2 p.m.). Then he taxies eight blocks to an NBC-TV studio to serve as host on The Price is Right" (12 a.m. EST Mondays through Fridays).

Monday evenings (7:30 p.m. EST) he's back for the twenty-eight-time round of The Price is Right on NBC-TV. Wednesday evenings he's a panelist on Garry Moore's "I've Got a Secret." Thursday Wednesday 9:30 p.m. EST).

Cullen has been living this sort of schedule for years. And that fact, Cullen, credits to "my one talent. I can always fall asleep wherever I lie down."

The labyrinth of Cullen's weekdays begins at 4:30 a.m. when he rises five hours sleep in his Manhattan apartment. A taxi driver, who hasn't missed a morning in two years, is waiting at the apartment house door at 5:45 a.m.

Pulse affords an opportunity for Cullen's vivid imagination to indulge in a morning riot. For a time he kept a large audience amused with his plans to move Manhattan Island to the Caribbean. Everybody knew it was a joke—and enjoyed it all the more because various authorities on this and that (who also knew it was a joke, of course) came on the air and discussed it seriously.

"I never tell straight jokes on Pulse," says Cullen. "Nobody wants to hear a joke in the morning."

Hunters Claim Moose Killed In Self-Defence

GILCHRIST, Mich. (AP) — A 900-pound moose was killed near this Upper Michigan community Sunday by deer hunters who claimed self-defence.

Ernest Ruecker of Newberry, conservation department district supervisor, said the four - man hunting party told conservation officials the moose was shot when it charged them.

Killing a moose is punishable by a fine of $100 to $500 and a jail sentence of 90 days to one year.

No formal charge, however, was placed against any of the four hunters immediately.

'My Fair Lady' Still Best Musical on Old Broadway

By BOB THOMAS

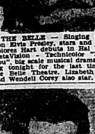
NEW YORK (AP)—An out-of-towner's views on the Broadway show—

Auntie Mame shows how a wild character beautifully played can carry a show. The play is no great shakes, but mame is a rich, wacky character expertly done by Rosalind Russell. Sheer delight.

The Bells Are Ringing also proves the triumph of personality over material. The book and songs are slight, but Judy Hauliday and Sydney Chaplin put the show across with great skill and charm.

The Cave Dwellers has been shilled by the critics as William Saroyan at his best. Audiences must wonder. Saroyan has provided the players with some impressively theatrical scenes, but the over-all effect is one of puzzlement.

Compulsion is strong stuff. An unwieldy play about the Loeb-Leopold case, the production never reaches of human behavior. The cast is superb, and the direction is admirable, if seldom moving.



PAINLESS CRUISE

Jamaica takes a painless cruise to the Caribbean in the handsome company of Lena Horne and Ci-

Little Benny's Notebook

I was asking pop different questions sutch as whether he ever flew kites and what made him grow and how an elefant can live about 200 years when a butterfly can only live about a week, and if he thought an elefant could tell you if it could talk, and I said, Hay pop, hay ma, I need a pair of tennis sneekers.

Do you agree with him mother? pop said, and ma said, No I dont, he ran through his last pair like a ball of lightning, and now he'll just have to wait.

Well aw G, heck, ma, the fet cant talk to me if I haven't got a pair of tennis sneekers, I said, and pop said, For Pete sake it's a fine thing when kids get so snobbish they outlaw you if you feet aren't clad in the latest dictates of fashion.

I wouldn't talk to anybody that wouldn't talk to me just because I don't have tennis sneekers, ma said, and I said, Well I dont mean they wont speek reguler to me, but they wont talk to me in a whisper.

Bah? pop said, and ma said, I might of known something was coming. Why do you want to be spoken to in a whisper for land sakes?

Because it will prove I'm a member of the Mafeious Mob, and nobody is allowed in it without tennis sneekers, I said, and pop said, Yee gods, mother, this is really serious, this is practically an "emergency."

Sure it is, pop, I said. So how about it, ma? I said, and she said Oh, I'll consider it.

Which she will even more than she thinks, because I'm not going to stop reminding her.

Will Probe Firm Collapse

BRANTFORD (CP) — George T. Gordon, financial member of the Ontario legislature for Brantford, says that he will investigate with provincial authorities the financial collapse of Republic Body Corporation.

He described the collapse Monday as a "peculiar situation," and said his interest centres on an average $130 back pay said to be owed to each of about 80 employees laid off Sept. 21 without notice.

Republic and Brantford Refrigerator Limited, which shared facilities, ceased operations Sept. 21. Republic subsequently went into bankruptcy.

Strikers March On French Finance Ministry

PARIS (AP) — Several thousand striking civil servants marched on the French finance ministry today, shouting for demands for higher pay.

First reports indicated that more than 1,000,000 government workers had joined in the 24-hour warning walkout.

Strong police forces were on hand and a police helicopter hovered overhead. Apart from traffic tieups, there was no trouble.

Across the Seine in the parliament building, the National Assembly had already ended its debate on Premier Felix Gaillard's plea for special powers to fight mounting inflation. The deputies were to meet this afternoon to vote on the measure.

Gaillard called for a vote of confidence He was expected to win by a small margin.

TORONTO (CP)—Seven firms pleaded guilty Monday to fixing prices for conveyor and power transmission equipment during a 3½-year period ending in 1963.

The firms were Link-Belt Limited, Rodger Steel Corporation Limited, Bond Engineering Work Limited and Webster-Smallwood Limited and Jeffrey; Stephens and Adamson Manufacturing Company Limited of Belleville; Jeffrey Manufacturing Company Limited of Montreal; and Furnas Limited of Plessisville, Que.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven of the Supreme Court of Ontario will hear representations from lawyers for the firms before passing sentence. Maximum penalty for each firm is a $10,000 fine.

ASKED DEFINITION

Six of the firms pleaded guilty as soon as the non-jury case opened. Stephens and Adamson pleaded guilty after its counsel was denied a request that the trial be stalled a clearer definition of the charge against his firm.

The charges were laid after an investigation by the director of investigation and research of the Ontario labor department which led to hearings in Winnipeg and Ottawa in 1955 by the restrictive trade practices commission.

OPPOSITION CALLS

The CCF motion said the government should consider "taking over whatever steps are necessary" so that federal hospital insurance programs may be made available without delay to any provinces with hospital insurance plans in operation.

Earlier, Liberal Leader St. Laurent promised his party's co-operation in speedy approval by Christmas of virtually the whole government program. The program of about $5,000,000,000 for the coming fiscal year that began last April 1.

He said his party would present no non-confidence motion nor support any other party's on consideration of the estimates. The Liberals took the same position in the throne speech debate, which ended last week.

Mr. Knowles commented: "If our friends of the Liberal party are not prepared to be an Opposition, we are."

He said he refused to go along with Mr. St. Laurent's willingness to accept only two of the six supply motions normally presented during a session to bring spending estimates before the House and give opposition members a chance to criticize finance and non-confidence motions.

"We are not prepared to abdicate our role in the opposition of this Commons," said Mr. Knowles.

Mr. St. Laurent said the Liberals had no plans to call the government — which could be over-thrown by a vote on any one of any non-confidence motion were giving the government time to present legislation implementing its election promises.

Mr. Knowles said even though it is a democracy's interest that there be an Opposition as well as a government.

Mr. Knowles said the Conservative and official Opposition in last spring's pre-election session had "co-operated to get through the six-provinces provision in the insurance legislation he changed so that federal payments would be made to any province prepared to sign the necessary agreement.

They also had sought inclusion of patients in th and mental institutions.

But what had they done so far in government? "They've done nothing."

Mr. Monteith said officials of his department recently visited

"all interested" provinces, British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland so far have indicated willingness to join the scheme.

He had been meeting recently with various medical organizations concerned in such a plan. Other meetings with provincial officials were planned, including the Dec. 5 meeting. Provinces could bring up the matter at the Nov. 25-26 federal-provincial fiscal conference.

"We are not forcing the pace—we are working with the provinces."

Mr. Martin said that had the Liberals retained power in the June 10 election, Ontario would have signed an agreement with the federal government by the end of June or July. Other provinces would have signed agreements by now.

CITES DETAILS

Mr. Monteith said the many details involved would have prevented any government from making a speedier signed offer.

Harold E. Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) said that considering the many agreements already signed the government "as far as hospital insurance is concerned is guilty of treason."

Speaker Roland Michener asked him to withdraw the word "treason" because it is an indictable offence punishable by death. Mr. Winch withdrew the word, but substituted these dictionary meanings of it: "Betrayal of trust, breach of faith and breach of confidence."

Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) said there are powerful and wealthy interests in Canada, including the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association, which are not interested in advancing the cause of a national health insurance plan.

He said that such interests want Canadians to buy health in-

Canadian Press Correspondents Johnny-on-the-Spot With the News At All Times In All Places

INTERVIEW IN WASHINGTON

Political and economic developments in the United States have been of increasing importance to Canada since the Second World War. To report these decisions and explain the American viewpoint, The Canadian Press sent George Kitchen to Washington in early 1955 as staff correspondent. Here he talks on the steps of the U.S. Capitol with Senator Theodore Francis Green, Rhode Island Democrat who is chairman of the foreign relations committee. (CP Photo.)

COVERING KOREA

WITH UNEF TROOPS

Most of the world news distributed in Canada by The Canadian Press is supplied by CP's allies, The Associated Press and Reuters. But when big news with a Canadian "angle" breaks, CP tries to be on hand. When Canadians went to the Middle East in 1957, Jack Brayley, chief of CP's Halifax bureau, went with them. Here he talks to a camel driver in Egypt. Brayley returned to Canada last spring. During the summer Dave Oancia, another CP writer, spent three months with the troops. (CP Photo.)

Despite Emphasis on Speed, Accuracy Remains Key Word Of CP Now Forty Years Old

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Forty years ago, leased news wires spanned Canada for the first time—from Atlantic to Pacific. The Canadian Press, the country's national news co-operative, was in business.

Three months later it faced up successfully to its first big test. Two ships collided in wartime Halifax harbor Dec. 6, 1917, causing Canada's worst disaster.

CP's first story, pieced together from scraps of news sent over blast - damaged telegraph circuits, contained the first accurate estimate of the dead—2,000—and correctly identified the ships.

ACCURACY KEY WORD

For four decades since, CP writers abd editors have fought the clock to meet newspaper deadlines in a half-dozen Canadian time zones. But despite the emphasis on speed when spot news breaks, accuracy remains their key word.

"Being reliable is more important than being fast," says page one of the CP style book.

CP was formed under pressure of the First World War. A federal government grant was needed for seven years after 1917 to make it possible to bridge unpopulated gaps and weld four regional news organizations into a national cooperative. Through 20 years of peace, another war and its aftermath, the co-operative idea has strengthened.

Now CP is a $2,500,000-a-year non-profit corporation delivering world and Canadian news to 99 Canadian newspapers and most Canadian radio stations. It is known by the industry abroad, as at home, as one of the world's most responsible news agencies.

COVERS THE WORLD

CP covers Canada for two great international agencies: Reuters of Britain, and The Associated Press of the United States. And through them, CP covers the world for Canada, delivering their world news reports exclusively to Canadian newspapers.

But where news of great Canadian importance breaks, CP has its own staff. From time to time these writers like covered activities of Canadians in the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East. Bill Boss, now on Ottawa bureau staff, was in Korea through most of that confined but intensive war.

Canada's evolution as a nation is reflected in CP's news reports since 1917. CP's evolution as a news agency is similarly reflected in Canada's growth.

Three men served as CP war correspondents in the last year of the First World War, including J. F. B. Livesay, general manager from 1919 until his retirement in 1939.

IN SECOND WORLD WAR

In contrast, the Second World War found more than a dozen CP men in the field with Canadian troops—men like Doug Amaron, Bill Stewart, Charles Bruce and Ross Boss, still with CP; and like Ross Munro, now editor of the Vancouver Province. Munro's stories on Dieppe and the Italian and Normandy invasion landings won him and CP "beats" and world renown.

Sam Robertson, CP London bureau chief and a war correspondent, lost his life in a North Atlantic torpedoeing in 1941.

Even in wartime, with a slice of staff overseas, CP did not profess to report by itself the whole world scene. Into its London and New York bureaus pour hundreds of thousands of words of words of AP and Reuters news. A dozen Canadian-trained editors pencil this flood into a comprehensive but concise world news report for Canadian newspapers. Staff men at Washington and the United Nations watch for stories of particular Canadian interest.

At home, many newspaper readers have never seen a CP reporter at work. CP draws most of its news from the 99 newspapers in its membership. Its staff is mostly busy selecting, rewriting and editing the local news of one member for delivery by leased wire to the rest.

When big news breaks, however, CP tries to be on hand.

FULLY COVERED

Every minute the House of Commons is in session, at least one CP man is in the parliamentary press gallery. Most legislatures are covered by its staff reporters. In the last year, the Ottawa bureau assigned men to travel coast to coast with two royal commissions and with Liberal and Progressive Conservative leaders in the federal election campaign.

Because it was claimed that CP's election reports were too fast—so quick that Western voting was influenced by Eastern returns—a federal law was passed in 1938 prohibiting publication of election results before the close of local polls. In 1953 the vote result was announced by CP in the east while polls were still open in three western provinces.

CP sent five men from Halifax and Saint John, N.B., to cover the rescue of 88 men from a Springhill, N.S., coal mine in which 39 others died last Nov. 1. In the last year CP crews covered tragic plane crashes on Mount Elesse, near Vancouver, and at Ste. Assodun, outside Quebec City. CP writers toured Canada as far north as the DEW line on spot news and feature assignments.

News developments reported by CP during its 40 years—military, political, economic and sociological—fall together like a jigsaw puzzle into a picture of the nation's growth to maturity and as influential position in world affairs.

NOTABLE STORIES

Death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1919, the first government of Mackenzie King, a general strike at Winnipeg, post - war deflation and labor unrest, the first transatlantic flights, formation of the western wheat co-operatives, the federal franchise for women, discovery of insulin by Frederick Grant Banting, formation of the United Church of Canada—these were some of the great Canadian stories in the mid-'20s.

Development of Canadian nationhood culminated at the 1926 Imperial conference. An epoch-making document described the dominions as "autonomous communities . . . equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another . . . though united by a common allegiance to the Crown and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

A year later Canada celebrated the diamond jubilee of Confederation. In 1931 the Statute of Westminster, embodying the 1926 idea of equal status in the Commonwealth became law.

Canada's economy had meantime been dealt a heavy blow by the 1929 financial collapse. Massive unemployment and breadlines marked the lean '30s, which saw formation of the CCF with its program of state socialism and birth of William Aberhart's Social Credit experiment in the West.

LOSS AND RECOVERY

The '30s were difficult years for the newspapers. CP membership fell to 88 in 1933 from 100 when the depression began. Now Canada's surging post-war expansion—much of it in frontier areas—has brought new dailies and CP has 99 members.

War clouds hung over Europe as Canadians received King George VI and his queen in 1939—the first time a British sovereign had visited a self-governing dominion. Sept. 10 that year Canada declared war in her own right.

Of a population of slightly more than 11,000,000, Canada put 1,086,771 men and women into uniform. Cost of the war was 41,992 killed, 53,145 wounded—and $20,000,000,000.

The larger Canadian newspapers sent their own correspondents to the fighting fronts, but it was CP's skilled crew that provided both newspapers and radio stations with the hour-by-hour story of Canadians in action.

ERA OF PROSPERITY

The war deprived Canada's productive capacity and paved the way for an era of unprecedented prosperity. Discovery of oil and natural gas changed the economic picture of the West. Vast deposits of uranium, iron and other minerals brought frontier development. The country's growth was rounded out by advances in science, education, welfare and improvement in labor conditions. Canada took on new responsibilities as a "middle power" in world affairs.

Clyde Blackburn, now Ottawa bureau chief, covered formation of the United Nations at San Francisco in 1945. CP staff writers cover today's UN activities and deliberations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Bill Boss, after three years in Korea, spent six months in Moscow and won a national newspaper award for a penetrating series of articles on life in the Soviet Union. William Stewart, Montreal bureau chief, accompanied Louis St. Laurent, when a prime minister he flew around the world on a good-will mission.

Through 40 years, the CP news report has chronicled Canada's growth to independent nationhood. In 1949, the British North America Act was amended to give the Canadian Parliament power to amend the constitution without reference to Westminster.

In the same year a Confederation dream came true: Newfoundland became the 10th province. Canada stretches from Cape Race to Alaska, from the United States to the Pole. CP's leased wires run from St. John's, Nfld., to Kitimat on the northern B.C. coast.

MADOC

St. Peters WMS Enjoys Movie

MADOC — The November meeting of St. Peter's W.M.S. was held at the home of Miss Vankleek.

The Scripture lesson, Joshua 4:1-7 was read by the president. Based on this Scripture reading, a suitable selection on "Remembrance Day" was also read. A poem, "Lest We Forget," was read by Mrs. Allan. Mrs. Kernohan led in prayer.

The speaker for the meeting was Mrs. McIntosh, who gave an interesting talk on her recent trip to Scotland, speaking chiefly of the Island of Iona, where the missionary Colomba came from Ireland, bringing Christianity to Scotland. From here missionaries carried the "good news" to all parts of Scotland and England.

On this Island a rare aspect of sanctity is found around the cathedral; inside the cathedral is a marble communion table where communion is held every Sunday. The cathedral is open to all men but at the time of the Reformation it came under the guidance of the Church of Scotland.

A social hour was enjoyed.

BIG FISHERIES

Governor Faubus Gives Ways to End Deadlock

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Governor Faubus of Arkansas said Sunday the desegregation deadlock in Little Rock can be resolved only by the voluntary withdrawal of the nine Negro children from Central High School.

"I don't see much ground for negotiation," he said, in an interview.

"I have been thinking about this problem constantly, studying it from every angle, and I can see no other alternative than a voluntary withdrawal of those children."

Faubus also said:

1. Former attorney - general Herbert Brownell was "fired because of the bad advice or misinformation he gave the president about Little Rock."

2. He believes the federal government will have to keep troops guarding Central High until the "opposition is stronger now than when they came in."

3. There is little or no contact now between himself and the White House or the southern governors conference.

Faubus' manner, during a two-hour talk, was not belligerent or argumentative. He said he is "troubled" but not angry at any one in the long-drawn struggle in Little Rock.

Central High has been guarded by federal troops since Sept. 24 when riots followed the entry of nine children, three boys and six girls.

Four Men Lost In L. Superior Rescued By Tug

Vessel Grounded During High Seas Yesterday

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Four men, missing since their tugboat went aground Tuesday in Lake Superior, were picked up today by the searching tug John C and are being taken to Nipigon, Ont., 45 miles northeast of here.

Search headquarters reported the men were first sighted at 9:56 a.m. by Evelyn Rock, a small island nine miles southwest of Hawk Island, centre of the search, by an RCAF Dakota from Trenton, Ont.

The John C, scouring the area with fishing vessel Clara Lee, picked up the four, all in good condition, at 10:45 a.m. and proceeded to Nipigon. It was expected to arrive there about 3:30 p.m.

BOAT ON ROCK

The missing men's tugboat was the "tugs and dry" on the shore of Evelyn Rock.

The brief report on the finding of the vessel said the first from the RCAF Dakota to the 4,300-ton freighter Provincelac, and in the search, and then to the airport at Fort William.

The Dakota piloted by FO Harry Moore, took off from here about 8 a.m. to search the area around Hawk Island, about 60 miles east of the Lakehead. It had arrived here at Monday afternoon. Searchmaster FO Glenn Ross and a para-rescue team. Another Dakota, from Winnipeg, arrived early today but did not participate in the search.

Battling high seas on Lake Superior and a 45-mile-an-hour gale, a lifeboat from her Paterson Line ship reached the island following a lifeline of sailors carrying two smaller vessels.

The searchers found no tracks in the fresh snow. Another was sighted on signal fires. However, a search of the entire island was prevented by a steep cliff.

The fishing vessel Clara Lee, out of the Lake St. which had failed earlier in attempts to reach the island, circled the island looking for fires. None was sighted.

HEARD S O S

The search started when the freighter Everton picked up an S O S from the tugboat It was in which said it had gone aground on Hawk Island but its four-man crew was not on the island.

Aboard the tug were John Mc-Kenzie of Fort William and Percy Raymond, Alexander Hardy and Brian Trevor, all of Collingwood. They were headed for Sarnia when the accident occurred during a blinding snowstorm about 4 a.m. Tuesday.

Capt. R. W. Forbes of the Port Arthur marine division called in the RCAF when an unidentified tug circled the island early Tuesday. It was not on the island.

Aboard the tug were John McK

The St. Louis youth was one of several men charged by police following the theft on Oct. 5 of coats at the Bishop Feed Store on Station street some weeks ago. The other youths involved were dealt with earlier in court.

BOY CYCLIST NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

Terry Gerow, aged 10, of Herchimer Ave., was taken to Belleville General Hospital for X-rays this morning after the bicycle he was riding was in collision with a car near the intersection of Herchimer Ave. and No. 2 highway.

Provincial police said the lad was not believed to have been seriously hurt but he was taken to hospital for X-rays to determine if there were any fractures. He was then taken to hospital by the John R. Bush Ambulance.

Mr. Gorsline took 6th prize in Timothy, 7th prize in sheaf oats and 5th prize in shelled corn.

Community Chest Representatives Outline Work to Kiwanis Club

A brief resume of service clubs work carried on in this city was given to Kiwanis club members at their regular meeting this week day by six representatives of the seven organizations comprising the Community Chest. One of the representatives was unable to attend.

D. G. Diamantides, general secretary of the local branch of the YMCA, began the list of the organization. He stated the YMCA has been serving the youth of Belleville continuously for the last 64 years.

Mr. Diamantides pointed out 1,813 registered at the "Y" last year, 287 children and adults joined the swimming lots, and close to a total of 71,737 (three times the population of Belleville) made use of YMCA facilities. Close to 70 clubs and community groups use the "Y" regularly each week and on some days over 400 persons go through the "Y" entrance to participate in wholesome, educational, health and character building activities, he explained.

"This sounds like a very healthy activity and we feel that no member pays the full share of the cost, the more the participants, the more money can be found to meet increased expenses," he said.

In requesting contribution incomes of YMCA's in other communities, Mr. Diamantides noted that Belleville has been successful in capturing three prizes in the seed classes at the Royal Winter Fair.

Total entry in the seed department was 157, of which 157 are from Great Britain.

Mr. Diamantides pointed out that the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society's Quinte branch, which this year became one of the agencies in Community Chest. For the past two years it was financed by the Belleville Rotary club.

Mr. David outlined the humanitarian work of the CAR physiotherapist in caring for those in the Belleville area afflicted with these diseases and explained that leading doctors, scientists and others through CARS are making a concentrated effort to learn more of the cause and treatment of these diseases.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

"With your help on this team some day this awful disease will be knocked out," he told local Kiwanians.

Miss Marlene Brant, representing the Belleville Children's Aid Society, explained their allotment from the Community Chest (supplemented by a grant from city council) is used to protect children living at home who are in danger of being neglected or abused.

"Our most effective work is preventive work — all our time, effort and money go into keeping the family together wherever possible," she said.

Miss Brant also explained the society has the responsibility of caring for children taken out of their homes by court order.

In closing she urged people to give their time and money to Community Chest organizations not just this week but every week.

Harold Parker, president of the Belleville Victorian Order of Nurses, appealed to Kiwanians and other to get behind the Community Chest to help meet the objective of $35,000.

He explained that one-seventh of the total, or $5,000, is allocated to the Victorian Order of Nurses, local branch.

"This is a very effective fell short and nearly half the branch of the service is paid by nurses themselves," he said. "Costs are higher this year so more contributions are urgently needed," he concluded.

Ken Hutchinson of St. John Ambulance, Mrs. McLuskie, was unable to attend.

All six speakers were thanked by president J. C. R. (Bud) Punchard, and presented with gifts on behalf of the club.

Two Suffer Minor Injury In Collision

Two persons suffered minor injury in a two-car collision at the corner of Catherine and Yeomans Streets Tuesday evening.

Injured were Donald C. Preston, 19, of R.R. 2 Harold, driver of one of the vehicles, who suffered a bruised knee and Betty Dennis, 14, who sustained a bruised knee and sprained wrist.

Police said that Mr. Preston was westbound on Catherine Street and failed to stop at the Yeomans Street intersection and was in collision with a northbound auto driven by Ross Parks of Plainfield.

Damage to the Parks' auto was about $150 and to the Preston vehicle about $125.

Police Constable Leo Kent investigated.

City and District Kiddies Wait for Santa Claus Parade

Saturday, December 14th, will be a big day in the lives of Belleville and district children who have been patiently awaiting the opportunity to see Santa Claus.

That is the date of the annual Belleville Santa Claus Parade, and Fire Chief Gerald Vance and his Santa parade committee over at No. 2 firehall are going all out to make this year's parade outstanding.

"We are doing our best to make this the biggest and best Santa Claus parade to be staged in Belleville," Chief Vance stated yesterday. "We hope to have between 25 and 30 floats, as well as possibly ten bands take part."

Already 19 colorful floats have been lined up and are in various stages of completion and Fire Chief Vance stated that any persons interested in placing a float in the parade should get in touch with him or his committee at the firehall.

A brand new float for old Santa has been provided for this year's parade.

FINANCING A PROBLEM

Finances are still a problem, stated the parade committee is still seeking cash donations to assure the parade being a bangup success. This week city council voted $1,000 in support of the Santa Claus parade this year is late but future parades will be held on the first Saturday in December.

In order that traffic will be interrupted as little as possible this year's parade route has been shortened.

The parade will get underway sharp at 10 o'clock from the Up Bridge. The parade route will be south along Front street to Bridge west, along Bridge to Cedar and north on Cedar to the firehall.

Three Quinte District Youths Facing Car Theft Charges

Three Quinte district youths, one of them a juvenile, are facing car theft charges today following the theft of a vehicle yesterday evening of cars at Trenton and in Belleville.

Police charged Francis William Mills, 17, of R. R. 2 Belleville, who is in Brentwood General Hospital with injuries suffered in a single car crash, a vehicle allegedly stolen from Carman Frost, 5th concession Sidney. Peter Fetter, 18, also of Trenton, and a juvenile.

Provincial police at Belleville claim that the three youths last night stole a car from the lot of Ralph and Fetter at Trenton, then drove to the 5th of Sidney, where Mills is said to have crashed the Frost auto.

Then the three are said to have taken off in the two cars with Mills driving the Frost car. Two miles west of Foxboro the car went out of control and rolled over in the ditch injuring the driver.

The Sexsmith youth and the juvenile then took Mills to the hospital.

Police say then the juvenile drove the Sexsmith youth back to Trenton, then returned to Belleville and abandoned the Trenton car.

Provincial Police got on the trail when the Belleville office was called shortly after midnight by a Sidney township resident informing them of a disturbance in the 5th. Surmising that someone had been injured they checked at the hospital and found Mills had been admitted.

Damage to the 1953 Sedan stolen from Mr. Frost was said to be about $600.

Provincial Constable Kenneth Williamson, who investigated, said Mills would be charged with the theft of the Frost car, while all three would be charged with stealing the car from Lange and Fetter in Trenton.

Judge Anderson Will Give Ruling Before Nomination

Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson will hand down a decision before nomination meeting on Friday as to whether the seat of a resigned council member is vacant, a family feud in Hastings County Council and the elected eighth in the last election.

An application to Judge Anderson for interpretation of the Municipal Act covering the filling of council vacancies by acclamation resigns to run for higher office, was made today by City Solicitor R. A. Pringle.

The request for the interpretation of the Act was made following the claim of Mrs. Theo Wheeler that the council seat vacated by Gerald B. Hyde, who resigned to run for mayor, is not vacant. Mrs. Wheeler is in the city is to elect seven aldermen each year for a two-year term.

Mrs. Wheeler's right to qualify for the vacant seat was challenged by Mayor Forrester who said she thought the proper course was to let the court ruling on the matter.

Intervention of City Solicitor Pringle and City Manager Drury S. Denyes was that the seat should remain vacant until after the next election when the candidate placing eighth would fill out the unexpired term.

This view was questioned by Mrs. Wheeler, who argued that the position of the candidate at the forthcoming election would be no stronger than that of Mrs. Wheeler last year.

In support of his case, Mr. Templeman noted that on three previous occasions in recent years when an alderman has resigned to run for higher office, the candidate placing eighth in the last election had filled out the unexpired term. In none of these instances had the candidate been challenged.

"This is not an essay problem," commented Judge Anderson as the hearing concluded.

Obituary

MRS. THOMAS BEDFORD

CAMPBELLFORD — One of this town's oldest residents, Mrs. Phoebe Bedford, died at the home of Mrs. F. I. Peters on Sunday. She was 100 years of age, and would have celebrated the 101st birthday on January 31st.

The late Mrs. Bedford came to Canada when a child of two years from Yorkshire, England, in 1869, when she was 12 years of age. The family settled first out of the wilderness of Rawdon, moving to Hungerford where Her parents were the late John Snarr and Esther Drury.

The deceased lady married the late Thomas Bedford in 1878 and they operated a farm in Seymour township near Campbellford. Mr. Bedford died 45 years ago. Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Bedford lived with her son, Bert, in Stirling until about 13 years ago, when she came to live with Mrs. F. I. Peters of Campbellford, who operated a nursing home. She was a patient up until the time of her death, following a long amputation when she was 97.

Surviving are two sons, Bert of Stirling and William of Monteagle, Tenn. There are four grandchildren, one of whom, Thomas Bedford, is Public school teacher, Another grandchild, Marion (Mrs. George Striker), resides in Belleville.

Mrs. Bedford was a member of Christ Church for 75 years and a member of Christ Church Guild.

Born her 100th birthday last January, she told a reporter that she could remember the burning of oxen from Campbellford to Belleville, a distance of 25 miles, to get supplies. She also said at that time Canadian winters were not as severe as they were when she was a girl.

Funeral service from Barrow of Christ Church, conducted the funeral service from the deceased's late home on Tuesday afternoon and a second service at Belleville cemetery.

Second Week Of Deer Hunt More Successful

The second week of the deer hunt, according to Lands and Game officials gathered at check points, was more successful than the first week.

At Kaladar over the weekend of November 16th and 17th, 587 hunters checked, having a total of 136 deer; a hunter's success rate of 23.1%, a decrease of over 7% from the previous week. At Millbridge over the same period of time 1,100 hunters were checked having a total of 135 deer, a success rate of 12.8% and an increase of over 9% from the previous week. The hunter's success is down approximately 4% from the 1956 deer kill.

A total of 598 deer passed through the check points which were maintained over the two week period for a total of 50 hours. The number of bucks recorded was 292, as compared to 306 nearly as severe as they were when she was a girl.

Officials were able to age 358 deer and from this number, 187 were fawns which is better than 31%. This is a good sign for future hunts.

Roman Catholics Will Help Restore Christian Ideals

By DON HOYT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Canada's English - speaking Roman Catholics have ended a three-day social conference here with a determination to work with other faiths in restoring "Christian ideals" to society through the media of mass communication.

James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto said in a concluding address Tuesday night also to Catholic lay leaders backed by the clergy can work with parallel groups among Protestants and Jews to influence "every field of mass communication."

During the three days of discussion on social effects of television radio, the press and motion pictures, nearly 400 delegates expressed a need for greater Catholic participation at both the lay and clergy levels in the field of communication, secular and religious

RECOMMEND CENTRE

One resolution recommended the establishing of centres to prepare Roman Catholics "of proven ability, training and character" in the fields of communication. A second urged wider circulation of Catholic literature.

Others suggested fund-raising efforts to improve the quality of church publications and particularly in community groups which "examine" the communication media.

Cardinal McGuigan said that while man must revere the inventions given him by God, he must also have the knowledge of their power for good and evil."

"We must control, guide and direct them that they may be used for the happiness of souls and their dedication to noble, high-thinking and sane, moral living."

BASED ON ENCYCLICAL

The conference theme was based on an encyclical of the Pope dealing with radio, television, the press and motion pictures. Throughout the conference, delegates stressed that censorship should be avoided.

Archbishop Philip F. Pocock of Winnipeg, the keynote speaker, described censorship as "a blunt weapon, so blunt, in fact, that it becomes ineffective."

Results of this year's conference will be pursued at the 1958 session, slated for Winnipeg, when the theme will be "Christian leadership."

France's Long and Bitter Battle With Tunisia Issue

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The real issue in France's quarrel with Britain and the United States over Tunisian arms shipments is whether the West can afford to continue treating North Africa as a private French preserve.

France's long, bitter and indecisive struggle with the nationalist rebels of Algeria has been viewed with increasing uneasiness by her allies. Its drain on the country's economic and military potential and its adverse propaganda effects have been recognized and unofficially deplored.

But as long as the trouble was confined to Algeria, which France insistently claims as her own territory, the U.S. and British governments have discouraged spokesmen like Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts who urged them to intervene in the dispute.

ARMS PROMISED

The Tunisian arms issue introduced a new dimension. While the Habib Bourgiba regime makes no secret of its sympathy with the Algerian nationalists, it is strongly pro-Western, in marked contrast to most of the other newly-independent Moslem states.

In granting independence to Tunisia a year ago, the French agreed to help the new state in the formation of its own army. When friction arose over border incidents involving fleeing Algerian rebels, France accused Tunisia of aiding the insurgents and suspended the arms program.

Tunisia, denying official support of the rebellion, turned to Britain and the U.S. for help. The French, claiming the sole right to arm their former protectorate, urged their allies to refuse the Tunisian request.

With a prolonged French political crisis aggravating the situation, Britain and the U.S. recognized a pattern which has cost the West the friendship of several Arab states. Egypt's Nasser has seen promises of assistance followed by failure to carry them out. The Russians were showing signs of willingness to give Tunisia what she needed.

Rather than force Bourguiba into a reluctant deal with the Soviets, the two powers chose to risk French anger by giving him the small quantity of arms he had asked, accepting his assurance that they would not find their way across to Algerian border.

The resulting rift has to do with more than a comparatively insignificant arms shipment. Despite the straits on their traditional alliance and on the diminished role the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Britain and the U.S. were serving notice on France that something must be done about the Algerian problem.

When the first emotional reaction wears off, a French government committee to all-out war against the rebels will have to weigh its commanders' estimate of possibility of growing isolation from France's Atlantic partners.

Between the hours of 6 and 8 p.m. nominations for the offices of mayor, councillors, and members of the board of education will be received by the clerk treasurer, O. W. Larry. Public opinion in Trenton at the present writing seem to indicate that nominations would not be very numerous, and that it may be necessary to hold an election. However, last minute changes in the turn of events may prove the forecasters to be quite wrong.

Price for Fruits, Vegetables May Be Increased by Tariffs

OTTAWA (CP) — Prices that Canadians now pay for fruits and vegetables may be affected by recommendations placed before the government by the tariff board.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming tabled in the Commons Tuesday the board's report on Canada's fruit and vegetable tariff structure.

It suggested changes involving slightly higher duties for some fruits and vegetables imported from other countries and extended periods for some seasonal tariffs and trimming of others.

Mr. Fleming said the government has not yet had a chance to consider the recommendations. But he added:

"If we decide to take action along the lines of these recommendations, we would expect to take the necessary steps in conformity with the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade."

POTATO REQUEST

The board recommended that the full request of potato growers be granted. During heavings in July and September they asked that the June 15-Oct. 15 seasonal duty on new potatoes of 57½ cents a 100 pounds be extended to a year-round basis.

Other suggested changes included:

1. An increase of one-half cent a pound, to 1½ cents, on the seasonal duty and extension of the period it applies to 44 weeks from 26 with the 1½-per-cent tariff would apply the rest of the year.

2. Extension of the seasonal-duty period on carrots to 40 weeks a year from 26 with no change in the cent-a-pound duty.

3. Trimming of the Aug. 1-May 19 season duty on fresh apples to ¾ cents a pound from ¾ cents.

The board recommended no change in existing tariffs on tomatoes.

It made similar suggestions for tariff variations on fresh pears, the 45 items it was requested to investigate.

A special five-per-cent duty on five-pound plastic bags of green beans Brussels sprouts, carrots, beets, cauliflower, lettuce, peas, parsnips and corn on the cob also were recommended.

The board rejected a demand by various producers—most of them represented by the Canadian Horticultural Council — for establishment of a system classifying fruit and vegetable tariff structure.

MARKETING BOARDS

Some peach-growers in the Niagara district are violently opposed to the operation of the Ontario Peach Growers' Marketing Board.

Their protests have received support from some editions of the press.

What makes their opposition of added significance is that there is a principle involved which affects a much larger group of primary producers than merely the orchard owners of one comparatively small section of Ontario.

Somewhat similar regulations to those of the Peach Growers' Marketing Board have been established for other commodity groups.

The Owen Sound Times-Gazette, in an editorial entitled "Getting Near to Socialism," says that the powers given marketing boards require further scrutiny. It quotes the Sudbury Star as "bluntly declaring that to tell a farmer or grower that he must sell his produce through a government-authorized organization at a certain fixed price is socialism, pure and simple."

This is a statement which should not be allowed to pass unchallenged.

Marketing regulations of the type to which the peach growers object are certainly not compatible with "free enterprise" in any realistic use of that term. It seems to us though, if words are not to become meaningless, it is necessary to realize that, while socialism is never "free enterprise," it does not follow that everything which is not free enterprise is socialism. The usual definition of socialism is the public, state or government ownership of the means of production, or distribution. The Ontario government does not "own," or in the strict sense even operate, these marketing boards. They are established at the request of a majority of the producers in a commodity group and are operated by the representatives of this commodity group.

Like the Times-Gazette and the Sudbury Star, we have grave doubts as to the wisdom of granting these boards some of the sweeping powers they request. But this does not as to the wisdom of the government's policy ought not to lead us into the error of placing a false tag on it.

In fairness, it ought to be added that there is a case for, as well as a case against, marketing boards. The case against them is that the families one of the rights of a minority. The case for them is the sometimes overlooked one of the rights of a majority. The Times-Gazette argues that "no farmer or grower should be forced to belong to such an organization." That statement arouses our instinctive sympathy. But we feel certain that the farmers' organizations which for many years have fought so vigorously to have these marketing boards established will answer, with considerable logic, that a marketing scheme conducted on a voluntary basis is virtually without value.

Basically, the marketing boards are a group the farmers' union, desired to give farmers as a group the bargaining power which, as individuals, they lack when dealing with the firms which purchase their products. Because farm production is mostly of a seasonal nature, the price of the goods the farmer produces is much more susceptible to the law of supply and demand than are the prices of manufactured products. When there is a glut on the market, prices may fall far below the real value of the goods the farmer is trying to sell. If farmers or growers are free to abstain from joining a marketing board, this board can do little to keep the price in line with the cost of production. The freedom of a minority to market their own produce as they see fit will inflict financial losses on the majority.

That is the case for marketing boards - - and it needs to be considered along with the case against them.

Personally, we are pleased that the difficult, perhaps impossible, task of evolving a solution just to all concerned is not ours but the Ontario Government's.

SHOE ON OTHER FOOT

...e'd like to put some editors in the position of policemen who often come under their criticism in the use of revolvers, says the Brockville Recorder and Times. To paraphrase in part "breathes there a man with soul so brave" we are reminded of a policeman entering a darkened building in which he knows criminals may be lurking. According to some editors, and police officials too, the policeman is apparently supposed to turn the other cheek before he thinks about protecting himself.

THE LITTLE HOMELY CHILD

I'm just a homely little boy
That has to study hard to get My lessons, an' I've got to have
'Em perfect every time, you bet.
I've got a cowlick on my head,
An' freckles, an' a turned-up nose,
Of all the girls an' boys in school,
I am the homeliest one that goes.
A pretty little boy who cried
Because his lessons he had missed,
Instead of being roasted hard,
Was by the teacher hugged an' kissed.

It ain't my fault that I'm not cute
Ain' nice an' sweet to look upon.
I can't help being freckle-faced,
An' praps I ain't as bright as John,
An' Fred, an' Jennie—just the same
I study hard as hard can be,
But when I miss at spelling time
No teacher ever kisses me.
I get a call down as a rule,
An' not because I didn't try.
It seems to me it's just because
I'm homely—that's the reason why.

Miracle at Afmado

By Ludwig G. A. Zehrer in UNESCO Features

Afmado is a tiny spot lost amidst the immense bush of Somalia. The only remarkable thing about it is its main square built around a small pyramidlike monument to the memory of Afmado's founder . . . who seemed to have dreamt of things far larger.

On the north side of the square is the inevitable mosque, flat building, and, behind it, the "Unesco Compound," a large compound of land with an old barracks used for storing equipment needed by Unesco's "Nomad Education Project."

Usually, the main point of interest on the square is the huge loudspeaker blaring out a mixture of Somali songs, Morse code and Italian opera. But, one day a few weeks ago, the Unesco Compound took on the aspect of the first football match in Afmado.

I had carried out the first attempt to introduce football with the help of a team from Mogadiscio, the capital of Somalia, and three Afmado men who had already learnt the game played.

This experiment quickly drew a crowd of nomads outside the iron fence surrounding the compound. Long, lanky amateurs they watched the madness of the game, while wasting the worthy forces of their bodies kicking a piece of leather.

Ismail Abdalla, a white-old nomad boy of the Bardirreh tribe, was among them but he soon crossed the barrier of the fence. He laid his shepherd's staff, unbuttoned his shirt near the fence and eyed the ball worriedly.

At the first opportunity, I brought matters to a head; I sent the ball flying to him. His right foot moved instinctively and rather clumsily, but he caught it and kicked it into the middle of the field. No one could have been more surprised than Ismail, but the ice was broken. Ismail quickly became an enthusiastic football player.

There was another onlooker behind the fence, Abdalla Aden, who stood leaning on his stick as he watched the game. Yet Abdalla was no shepherd and his stick not a shepherd's staff. He was a farmer's son but he could not help his family because he was a cripple, crippled in both legs. He needed his stick to walk.

Nobody quite knew how Abdalla happened to be in Afmado. But there he was, and he seemed contented because he was given food and lodging by the infirmary.

Every football afternoon, Abdalla stood near the fence and just watched, his foot sometimes kicking convulsively when the ball came within his reach.

Was Abdalla really paralyzed? I was clear, rather crudely to save gave him the right to food and lodging in the infirmary and his twitching of his legs when the ball came close made me wonder how bad a cripple he really was.

So, with the help of our two local nurses, I arranged a cure for Abdalla. He was massaged twice a day, rather cruelly to be sure, but that was not too important. Besides this he tried some exercises with his legs which were both difficult and painful. It was astonishing, however, how soon he became used to them. Within a week, he showed no sign of pain and he even tried to carry out some exercises on his own.

During this "cure," he was not allowed to look at a football game. He was massaged only three weeks later and it was then that I arranged his match—when the ball happened to come within his reach, Abdalla kicked it with his right leg. He didn't kick it very far, but far enough to show that he had regained the normal use of his legs.

Abdalla's football prowess became the talk of Afmado. Had he been cured through the leg massages, or through his new "Mister Unesco"? Or was football itself so exhilarating, that it could even cure paralysed legs?

At any rate, this "miraculous" healing has made a deep effect upon a subject of conversation for several weeks and this is the best of all the achievements for there is nothing more important than health, be it in the life of a Somali nomad.

And the consequences of Abdalla's unlikely football-playing were positive, to say the least. A month after his arrival, when I met him again, he was walking without a stick. He told me, too, that he was left not only food and lodging at the infirmary soon after Abdalla's miraculous cure—he had found a job thanks to the reputation he had gained through his cure.

He now had plenty to eat — more than he had ever had in his life — and enough money to dress himself decently. I might add, too, that Abdalla and Ismail play centre half in the Afmado football team.

Court Costs Often High

Windsor Star

An example of how too high a tower of court costs exists in the case where the balance of justice has been brought to public attention by Magistrate Angus W. Mac-Millan. In a "prowling" case that drew a $10 fine, sufficient evidence was taken to raise the total to $40.50.

This is out of all proportion to the punishment I wanted to impose upon him," said His Worship, "but I feel I have no alternative but to fix costs myself in future."

It is good to have such protection where it can be applied. As all people do not have equal opportunity to pay, the penalty for one can be a prohibitive burden for another. The principle of the balance if justice is not to become the privilege right of those who can afford it.

The case of the court costs, in itself trivial, seems reasonable enough. Those who use the courts, in turn, should pay for that use. But to maintain itself this easy generalization must presume equality of opportunity that doesn't exist.

Thus, there may be the serving of jail terms in default of payment of fines, which is just another variation of jail for debt by those who for one reason or another lack the resources to meet financial demands.

Discretionary power for courts is necessary to prevent such discrimination. Magistrate MacMillan indicates he has it and will not hesitate to use it. If judicial authority of the necessary scope is lacking, it should be provided.

Bathtub May Turn Jukebox

Washington Post

A report emanating from Holland that bathed-in music for bathrooms is on the way holds the distinguished promise of the best operatic airs which have long issued from man's love of singing and of water will give way to canned banshee wails or lamentations of tenors. Do-it-yourself singing has been routed from the family bathroom, what with radios and the stars they can stars will enter? Even if they don't, the national love of song will not die, we may wither as machines take over.

An even worse threat looms from this breaching of bathroom privacy. Now that we have musical powder rooms, with ceiling rings, all sorts of objects breaking into sound, may we not expect to see the radio cabinet bathtub that insists on playing the moment anyone gets in? Some of us have given up trying to eat even a sandwich in public without being overcome and drowned out, our thoughts discouraged by serenades from telephones, pianos, radios and wall speakers. But a few old - fashioned people still like to bathe in quiet or at least to provide their own melody. Soon there may be no place to which they can flee from mass - produced sound.

He Recalls Slaughtering

Letter to the Editor of the Vancouver Sun

We have read a number of letters written by humane spirited people, expressing their disapproval of the methods used in slaughtering domestic animals, so gentle in life, and so essential after death for the satisfying of humanity's carnivorous desires. I was raised on a farm, and due to the results of custom I allowed my disrespect for the welfare of dumb creatures to assert me in doing what I would not be hired to do today.

In my younger years one of my amusements was to repeatedly visit the killing and dressing floor of a well established packing plant. Once, being there in the company of the Duke of Connaught, I observed and realizing his horror of what he saw and heard, I withdrew from the scene of such cruelty. I adopted the policy of refraining from allowing my family's patronage to be an accessory to the fact through my inability I had previously witnessed.

When on the farm slaughtering days, the family dentist, a dietician to a gentle brute being present at the death, and after refusing to be the executioner, and later seeing the slaughtered animal with its innocent to its death as going for an extra helping of oats, no particle of the flesh ever appeased my appetite.

I never was a packing plant, or collection of fattened animals, that I don't think of post war days when I am sure I will continue in future unless more humane methods are adopted.

—H. C. Kingston.

Men and Boys Recover Crippled Ducks. Crippled wild ducks which have been mistaken by stray shots from local hunters' guns and have floundered off into the nearby marshes, are the latest objects of search by men and boys who know their way about the bay. Annually scores of these wounded ducks are recovered; searchers go out in skiffs and duck boats and they often find a half dozen or more a day.

Many Are Found Dead. Further south, who has been active in the search for the wounded ducks since the opening of the season, has been able to keep the family table well supplied with duck without firing a shot.

Building permits have been issued this week to R. G. Coulter, North Front Street, for construction of an addition to his store at an estimated cost of $600.00 and to Alice and Robertson for store alterations at an estimated cost of $250.00.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A reader from Ottawa sends the Packsack a clipping from a newspaper showing a picture of seven Ottawa men at work on the St. Lawrence seaway and hydro right-of-way. "Bonfire" they say the caption, "as crews cut and burn every tree and unmovable building along the seaway and hydro head pond. Here tree cutters reduce an apple orchard to ashes. Old tires are used to hasten the burning of green wood."

Our reader writes:

"Was the apple gone mad? Or are there no more fire-places or wood stoves? Besides, isn't apple wood a fine wood?

It is indeed, in a fire or out of it. Apple wood burns with a rich and colored flame, and the aroma of it gives a house an old-fashioned air. And I know amateur wood turners who will go a long way round to lay hold of a good log of apple wood with which to make wonderfully screwy geometrical objects of art. I, a fish-killing club of apple wood that has slain a thousand fish.

But we live in one of the great structural eras of history. And I am in doubt about the modern construction industry, it can't be bothered with by-products. There was a time, not more than ten years ago, in which the salvage of construction job was an important item in the overall profit. But the latest engineers to whom I have talked are the kind who say: "Get it out of there!" Meaning, get it out of the way as a mountain. Their whole attention is on speed.

In the end, of course, dear reader, we will pay for that wasted apple wood. Its aroma will not give an old-fashioned air to our homes.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DOES IT MATTER?

I believe we can formulate a way of life that will help to secure us when doubts and emergencies arise, and to see us through life. We need a sense of values to guide us from day to day. Our mental attitude is most important. It can prove a shield to protection against fears, and disappointments.

"You must worried and ...d, why can't we ask and get ...does it matter?" If we answer honestly the chances are these disturbances of mind will leave us quickly under their own steam! The healthy and detached mind brushes aside as interference.

Habitually we learn from our own mistakes and blunders. But to get the lesson learned is what matters most. Each one of us is master of his own thoughts. We have the right to choose our attitude, but if we do our best to make amends we can safely dismiss all thoughts of regret, and useless worries and resentments should not be allowed to live in a healthy mind.

Said Goethe: "What each day may will set its proper task." It's the little unimportant things that haunt us most. Like evil germs that creep into our system when we get careless or thoughtless!

We should get a grip on ourselves and respect the worthwhile value of life, clinging to those that have a touch of immortality to them! Let us not disorganize our lives with the petty values that have no substance to them.

Nutrition and Alcoholism

A frequent query in the mail: How long does it take to get the alcohol, the nicotine, the heroin or the barbiturate out of the system?

It is not significant, but probably all of the alcohol (if any), heroin (diacetyl-morphine) or barbiturate is out of the system within 24 hours after the last dose was taken. But it may take 24 days, weeks or months to repair the damage the poison has done all the cells and tissues of the body.

So getting the poison out of the system is the least essential part of the treatment of poisoning by or addiction to a narcotic.

In a news magazine a month or two ago, a "science writer" described the extraordinary successful method of treatment employed by a specialist for alcoholism. The important part of it was the administration of an optimal daily ration of vitamins and minerals — that is two or three times as much as a healthy person requires and the alcoholic gegerally does not in his or her turn drink.

From the language of the "science writer," one might infer that this was a novel idea.

In a book titled Nutrition and Alcoholism by Roger J. Williams (published by University of Oklahoma Press, Norman, 1951), the author, a distinguished biological chemist, the discoverer of one of the B vitamins (pantothenic acid) and co-discoverer of another (folic acid), tells how the community singing and Leo Riggs was piano accompanist.

FASCINATION

In the whole range of human experience. Some things, some persons, some situations have the power of fascination for us.

Sometimes we are fascinated because we are curious. Sometimes we are fascinated because we are born with certain moral weaknesses. Impulses that came when life of division which should have a distinct distance that we have but obliterated. Then the man was a thief. Or the moderate drinker was a drunkard. Or the philanderer was an adulterer.

Fascination is a flimsy gossamer, a silken thread . . . but in the end bondage and ruin.

Reds Invent Insomnia Cure

The Times of London

The Russians, according to reports, have invented a sleeping machine. This patent cure for insomnia is said to consist of attaching two small electrodes to the patient's eyelids, whereby mild electric impulses are transmitted.

"No one pour it down the sink" was Chesterton's laconic advice to anyone offered a liquid which would cure insomnia. Water, and a present of this infernal machine, would be a cruel fate for an equally drastic method of disposal. The Chancellor of the Exchequer contained a goodish bit in his patter song of the difficulties he experienced in getting rid of things. He often went on to declare that, in his opinion, staying awake was preferable to the horrible dreams he encountered when his eyes finally did consent to close.

Giving a treat, penny-ice and cold meat to hordes of ravenous friends and relations, or even, inadequately clad, crossing Salisbury Plain in the rain, is hard; ever, nothing as compared to the nightmare awaiting electrical chairs and executions which might well result from experimental efforts to fashion a device.

Of course there is sleep and sleep. There is the gentle sleep beloved from pole to pole which has been so poetically described by the poets through the ages. Take any anthology, open it at random, after the manner of an amateur punter trying to find the winners with a pin, and the odds are that something about sleep will soon turn up, something with "soft" or "gentle" in it. If the pages fall luckily, by St. Coleridge or Shelley or Swinburne.

But the sleep commemorated by such as these is not the sleep, patrician sleep, and there is unfortunately another sleep, which is, not to put too fine a point on it, vulgar. This shabby, seedy, sleep is the sleep of the number of unlovely names, forty winks, a nap, a snooze.

The process is known as "dropping off", and an inelegant word it is for this peculiar, few sights more displeasing than that of a fat man or, to show no hard feelings, of a thin one. "Dropping off" in a train, the head nodding as in time with the wheels, the mouth open in vacant imbecility.

These and such words and their affronted may call to their aid the names and memories of great men, the famous, Napoleon among them, who "possessed this knack of "dropping off" at will, and that it should be a private, and not a public, procedure. But there should be no brazen as to try the Russian device on the 07.07 express from Bath to Bristol, to the suburbs, there is nothing to be done but breathe a pious hope that the thing works.

More than 25 years ago three humble farmers decided to pool their meagre possessions, place their faith in God's hands and embark on a life of humility and brotherly love. They still follow their humble life and continue their co-operative farming venture. Too Much Bitterness, Hate Mission Congregation Told

"Is Belleville going to be a better place because you have lived here?" asked Rev. G. Ernest Thomas, Th.D. of the congregation at Bridge Street United church on Tuesday evening, where the mission sponsored by the five United churches of the city is continuing, nightly.

"Test your lives by your acts of service to God", continued the speaker. Using the analogy of a person packing a suitcase, Dr. Thomas recalled a story of a journalist caught in an air raid in the last war, who hastily packed a small suitcase before he ran for safety and later remarked, "It is strange what you put into a single suitcase when you are standing on the brink of eternity."

"We are told that the chain reaction from hydrogen power may make an end of all life on this planet. If the end of the world is at hand we are all standing on the brink of eternity. It used to be that the voice of doom came from the lips of the preacher, now it is the scientist, who has the voice of destruction.

"Suppose tonight you were to go into the presence of Almighty God. What would you put into your suitcase? Not material things, not dresses, or make - up boxes, or a bottle of liquor, or stocks and bonds. What you would want in the bottom of your suitcase first would be all remembrances of kindnesses. The Bible tells us, be ye kind one to another and thus fulfill the law of God.

"The world needs an upsurge of kindness. There is too much bitterness and hate and jealousy. We were not made to be unkind to each other.

"Then you would want the deeds you had accomplished, your acts of service, within your family circle, in church or Sunday School or as an officer. By every act of service rendered to Christ you are packing your suitcase for eternity, we are making a better world because we have been here.

"At the top and overflowing should be your faith. When you come into the presence of God what you cannot accept is of no importance, What matters is your faith in Almighty God, faith in the Bible, and in the life everlasting A summary of this faith is the belief that God in Christ loves you with an everlasting love, His forgiveness of sin, and His offers of an abundant life.

"If a voice this night said this is the night, if an angel said 'Let's see your suitcase,' if In your lifetime you had collected nothing but material things, you would say, 'Let's not talk about my suitcase.' But if you had packed for eternity with kindness, acts of service for God, and faith, the angel would say, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.' It is essential to pack for eternity."

The discourse was based on the text from St. Luke 12.21, "Thou foolish one, this night thy soul shall be required of thee."

The devotional part of the service was conducted by Rev. C. W. Coleman, minister of Holloway Street United Church, with Scripture reading and prayer. Inspirational hymn singing was in charge of Mr. Linton Read, with S. Alec Gordon as organist. Mr. Murray Irwin of Albert College sang a baritone solo, "I Walk With All Your Hearts You Truly Seek Him."

Two groups of youths attended the service, the C.G.I.T. and a company of boys.

In the vestibule a collection of books by Dr. Thomas was available, including Faith on Master Fear, and Holy Habits.

Dedication cards were distributed in the pews, and the congregation was invited to sign them, or for those who wished to re-affirm their faith, the reverse side was a re-dedication.

Community Farm of Brethren Wins Many Poultry Awards; Develops 'Greaseless Goose'

Written For The Canadian Press
By DON LEMIEUX

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — A little group of farmers once pondered their worldly possessions: 200 pullets, a lame horse, a rusty plow and six cents. That was 26 years ago.

They placed their future in God's hands and embarked on a life of humility and brotherly love.

They numbered three adults and three children. Today there are 54 members in the group. As the Community Farm of the Brethern they are prosperous, owning 1,200 acres of farmland near this southwestern Ontario city. Individually, they have little.

SIMPLE EXISTENCE

Their history is one example of how man can live a simple existence in a modern world. Says the community's leader, Hungarian-born 64 - year - old Julius Kubasek: "We had faith that God would take care of us. And He did."

All members of the communal colony are articulate in English. Most also speak Hungarian and German. The girls are pretty and charming despite long, plain dresses and kerchief - covered heads.

The men dress in plain clothes: old-fashioned black hats, rough trousers and black work boots. They grow beards, believing it is natural for men to do so.

The brethren have no links with sims in Europe. The older members came from Hungary. The brethren have won many dairy awards and developed a popular "greaseless goose" which they export as far as the West Indies. The community has a kindergarten and public school recognized by the Ontario department of education.

FOUNDED COLONY

Brother Julius, of medium height with a neatly cropped steel-grey beard, founded the colony in 1931. At that time they were gathered on a farm near Kitchener, Ont.

During the depression of the 1930s, the Brethren moved to a farm near Brennan, Sask. There another family joined them. Later they shifted to British Columbia where the community had 21 members.

In 1940 they resettled in Ontario, going to Glen Morris just south of Brantford. They travelled to nearby Plattsville and next year, bought 275 acres of land and a 94-year-old farmhouse and started building. The present 54 members comprise eight families and several single men and women.

No money circulates among the group and no wages are paid to members. Brother Julius says: "We buy goods for cash but give them away for the asking."

For business reasons, property is registered in the names of three trustees. Important decisions are made by the Brethren council, comprising 10 members.

LIVE AS BROTHERS

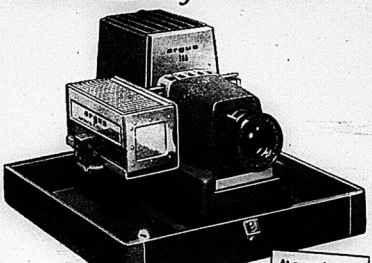
There are prayer meetings four times a week in the community dining hall. The meetings consist of readings from the New Testament with special attention given to Christ's words which are followed literally by the Brethren.

Brother Julius gives these guiding principles for the Brethren:

"To live as brethren; to own no property and to embrace the same religious faith, namely, live as the early 'sincere' Christians."

For years, the group sought to develop a "greaseless goose."

"We found the public didn't want fat geese," says Brother Julius. "So by a process of crossing, hybridizing and feeding we broke through with a goose that suits the public taste to such an extent that we can't produce enough of them."



In four years the Brethren have won 23 fowl prizes. At the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, in 1952 they captured the reserve grand championship over all types of dressed poultry in Canada. They won the grand champion award in 1955.

and yellow mums interspersed with oak leaves, and fern formed a lovely background for the wedding. The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by Mr. Edward Schamerhorn, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her floor-length gown of white brocaded net over taffeta, with matching jacket having long sleeves lily-pointed over the wrists. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a silver net over turquoise, with navy accessories and a corsage of pink feathered carnations. The servers were the Misses Marilyn Little, Margaret O'Brien, Mary Wechter, Pauline Watts, Muriel Belch and Grace Hessman.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, New York State and Rochester, the bride chose a pale green dress, and a winter white nylon jacket with green accessories and a corsage of pink feathered carnations.

Going shopping?

Nutcrackers and nutmeat picks have made their appearance so we are finally in that season when the colors are again with us . . . red, green, white, gold, silver and bright blue. They will make up to a gay days that come with November. From wrapping paper to formal gowns the glitter and the brilliance have it.

Speaking of wrapping paper it makes us think of packaging in general, and what a transformation it has undergone; and what a difference it has made in sales imaginative packaging helped to build up sales of cheese. The new cell-pack cartons for appliances used to emphasize quality and build markets.

Now we hear of foods in a boilable package. This is a new Canadian development which is expected to speed up the homemakers emancipation from kitchen chores. It allows the contents to be cooked without removal before serving.

Developed and introduced by a Canadian packaging converter, this boilable package eliminates the preparation by the homemaker of foods for cooking. And, because foods cooked in the boilable package do not come in contact with either air or water the flavor, color, weight and nutritive components is reduced to a minimum. Furthermore, the housewife can enjoy the meal herself without giving a thought to the washing of greasy or sticky pots and pans after dinner.

We have mentioned the packaging of apples above; we have also heard of a few new apple products you may be interested in. There is a tangy crystal-clear apple jelly, and apple butter that is catching on fast as another tasty spread, and apple syrup for use on pancake and other foods.

From food to appliances, one of the big ironing table manufacturers has put wheels on its boards so that they never have to be lifted. This board also has the first new shape in nearly a century. It is an arc shaped table that reduces the ironing load by as much as one third. It is wider than other boards, making it easier to iron sleeves, skirts, blouses and shirts, and the arc shape allows you to use a natural swinging motion. It also has a pad and cover that will not slip while you are ironing.

Two wheels inset in the bottom of the foot are used when the table is folded and on end. Instead of picking it up and carrying it by the handle, which age space, you roll the table along, guiding it with one hand. It is claimed that this one feature alone eliminates nearly two tons of lifting a year for the average homemaker.

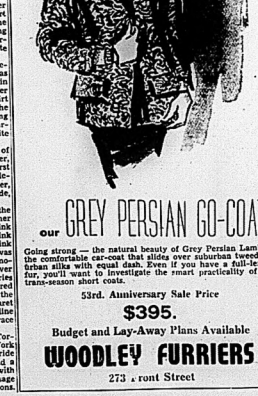
Good shopping!



Each autumn T & T has attempted to draw attention to the diverse activities of the many women's organizations in our community, and to their versatility. This fall has been no exception. Indeed, if the impossible is attainable then the women of the Bay of Quinte are surpassing themselves. No doubt we are more conscious of the wide fields covered because our work in radio and for your column brings us daily into contact with an unbelievable number of endeavors both exclusively female and those in partnership with the men.

It would be both interesting and revealing if there was some method of compiling in the aggregate the hours freely given, the money unselfishly raised, the help generously donated, the good friendship attained. The sum total, whether for men or women or both, would be illuminating and an unquestionable vindication of the postulate that what is freely given, gives in return most happiness. The good and fine labors being conducted and concluded in our community continue always to provide food for thought.

A little reflection causes one to sometimes wonder how it is possible in the face of so much that is worthwhile there is still room for so much to raise doubts and cause insecurity. There is an old saw which is not complimentary claiming that there is a kindness that overwhelms. It could be that in our zeal for the worthwhile and the ethical must in good time overwhelm its antithesis in order to win the contest. Be that as it may and philosophy being out of our ken, one thing is certain, the women are awfully busy.

Story of Great Progress in West Told Women's Canadian Club

"The people of the West know the East better than the East knows the West," stated Grant MacEwan this evening as he addressed the Women's Canadian Club in Tabernacle Church assembly room on the tremendous importance the prairie provinces, Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan hold in Canada's economy. This is because the people of the western provinces are inherently great travellers; they like to see here and see what is going on round about them.

Mr. MacEwan, a past president of the Calgary Men's Canadian Club, and a member of the Local Assembly, as well as of the Alberta Legislature, is a graduate of the Guelph Agricultural College, has written several books, one of which was "Between the Red, and the Rockies" which was given as the topic on which he would address the club, but which he said that because it had been so long since he had read the book, anything he might say regarding it would be most confidential. He chose rather to speak on the western provinces as their ambassador, and beginning with the early days, told with absorbing interest of their growth and character.

John Palliser who was the first person 100 years ago, to attempt to evaluate the fertility of the western provinces, considered human life would scarcely be safe with the Indians and the hordes of buffalo, and the next person who was sent by England to report on this district, was George Simpson, a Scot, head of the Hudson Bay Co., who said it had no future because of the poor soil of the soil, and its only worthwhile industry was that of the fur trade. It has since been proven that this section of Canada is the greatest grain-growing section in the world.

1876 OUTSTANDING DATE

The year 1876 marked the end of the old days, and the beginning of the new. During this period three events occurred: Winnipeg, which is at Fort Carry, is now a modern city. In the old days, Scots left Toronto for the west to buy wheat, travelling by boat, with the intention of obtaining 5,000 bushels, but was able in all that section to purchase but 200 bushels and ten pounds, which was the first wheat to leave the west.

Another event during this time was the introduction of cattle to the west. This was the result of a poker game in which a Mounted Police, Whitney, who had gone west to clean up the liquor trade to the Indians, won the stake, which was 2 cows and a white bull, the beginning of the cattle herds.

The third event was the gold rush in the caribou country when hordes rushed in to find gold.

More cattle were imported from Oregon to feed the miners, and cattle were then branded with the J. H. Brand. When the mining ceased, there was no market for the herds of cattle, so 800 were rounded up on the caribou trail, gathering more on the way to the market in Chicago. Harper met a covered wagon prospector, who told him that a better market would be in San Francisco, to which the herd, now consisting of 1,200, was driven to Kamloops, down the Okanagan Valley, to Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, which took 18 months to complete, resulting in the most fabulous cattle drive in history.

This was the beginning of agriculture in the west, of wheat and cattle, and a phenomenal development of homesteaders took place. The poverty stricken soil brought forth 50,000,000 bushels of wheat, and years later multiplied this output. The homesteaders took up vast tracts of land, some so vast in extent that it took all day to plow one furrow. Too much land was broken up, which should have been left for grazing purposes; but "the errors of today are often the acts of tomorrow," said the speaker.

ACT 3—OIL

Act Two of the west belonged to wheat, but Act Three is the new west of 1957, that of oil. 1947, on 13th of February, the first oil well changed the economy of the west in the same manner in which wheat changed the far economy. Agriculture also became mechanized; factories sprang up, and because of greater value than the products of the soil. In Saskatchewan production is now including potash, and now uranium, and with the 3,000 oil wells now in production it gives a sense of balance was obtained.

Alberta is rich in its resources with its 7,000 oil wells producing today 170,000 barrels of oil, and with a potential of #250,000,000,000,000 barrels from its oil sands.

NOT TRANSIENT POPULATION

Another change which has occurred in the thinking of its citizens, which used to form a transient population; when they had made a fortune in the west would retire to Calgary, and other places, but now they remain to which the herd, now consisting numbers 17 out of degrees below, as at Snagg, the inhabitants state they like it both summer and winter, concluded the speaker. Raspberries are grown in the Arctic Circle.

Mr. MacEwan mentioned the years of drought, but the other industries overshadowed them.

He was introduced by the president, Mrs. F. C. Hagerman, who also, on behalf of the club, tendered appreciative thanks for his fine address.

Kingston Presbyterial WMS Meets At St. Andrew's Church Here

The fall executive of the Kingston Presbyterial, Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, met in St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, on November 18, at 1.30 p.m., with 23 members present, and with Mrs. Smart, president, in the chair. After opening the meeting with prayer, she spoke with warm sympathy of the death of three ministers in the Kingston Presbytery, who are sadly missed and deeply mourned: the Rev. Dr. Scrimgeour, Rev. Mr. Hornsby, and the Rev. Mr. Heslip. She also spoke feelingly of the death of Mrs. Walker, mother of Miss Ruby Walker, regional secretary of the W.M.S.; Miss Walker was present at the meeting.

Mrs. J. W. MacDonald, convener of the nominating committee, reported progress in naming members to hold various offices in the Presbyterial; elections will take place at the annual meeting. This will be held in St. Andrew's Church, Kingston, on January 13, 1958, at 11 a.m., preceded by an executive meeting at 10.15 a.m. The executive arranged the program for the annual meeting. Members will have refreshments and afternoon tea in St. Andrew's Church hall.

Miss M. Nesbitt, Presbyterial treasurer, and Miss Fleming, Ivanhoe, secretary for the Children of the Church, gave interesting reports. Mrs. Craig gave an account of the meeting of the Synodical executive which she had attended in Toronto in October. She and Mrs. Weir, Belleville, spoke enthusiastically about the Summer Training School held in July in Albert College, Belleville, and the executive, on motion of Mrs. Keefer, agreed to recommend to the Presbyterial the appointment of four regional vice-presidents to stimulate the work of the W.M.S. throughout the Presbyterial.

After the meeting closed the visitors enjoyed a delicious tea provided by their kind Belleville hostesses.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Dora A. — I want to propose to him.

Ellen B. — She should play hard-to-get.

Dora A — I am a girl of 26 and I have a fault that people tell me will get me into a lot of trouble. I am too honest.

For the past year I have been in love with a young man who has taken me out from time to time. Sometimes I think he is not very much interested in me, but then he'll disappear for weeks on end. The last time I saw him, I just blurted out how I felt about him. He seemed astounded, but pleased, and didn't say anything about his own feelings.

Naturally I thought this would be things to a head, but nothing has happened. He takes me out occasionally as before, but doesn't even refer to what I said. Now I don't know what I feel. I like proposing to him and getting a yes or no answer. Then I would know where I stand. My best friend thinks I'm crazy.

Ellen B — I warned Dora against cheapening herself by telling this man how she feels about him. I told her he would never consider her after that because no man likes a woman to run after him.

I think it would be much better if Dora just turned the tables on him now — played hard-to-get and absolutely refused to see him when he calls. She doesn't seem to understand that this would be much more provocative than her being available every time he calls.

I have known Dora since childhood and I know she has always gotten into trouble by wearing her heart on her sleeve. She is the same way when she doesn't like people. She just lets them know it — even though she may happen to need their good will. I like this about her, but others can't take it.

The Council: Dora may be somewhat too outspoken, but we don't think Ellen's past formulas for man-trapping are the answer to Dora's problem. Such formulas take all the interest and individuality out of the game.

We do think, however, that this time Dora has gone far enough with her romantic approach and it won't be necessary to propose. This man is evidently thinking things over and has not arrived at any conclusion. If Dora proposes now he'll probably be forced to say no.

If the man in Dora's life doesn't soon arrive at some decision and if she is not interested in his friendship pure and simple she ought to give him up — for real, not to just be "provocative."

Barefoot Freedom for Toddlers

Bare feet, bobbed hair, short skirts and freedom to think for themselves are the basic rights of childhood, according to Dr. Benjamin Spock, well-known American Medical Association consultant and author of the book, "Baby and Child Care," which has been translated into 26 languages.

Dr. Spock was the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association, held recently in Toronto.

Baby's first shoes may hold the answer to the kind of foot comfort he will find as an adult, it is pointed out. If the baby is given "barefoot freedom" which permits the foot to develop naturally, he will probably have comfortable feet when he grows up.

Because a normal foot muscles become strong only through use, only a "supple foot covering that permits the utmost freedom of movement" should be worn by the latest addition to baby's foot is confined in a shoe which holds any part of it in conformity, even at the last, which is usually supported, the foot will become weak and stiff.

In addition, stiff shoes may handicap him in learning to walk, the communique quoted another who said that her 15-month-old son took his first steps when she put soft shoes on him. In hard-soled shoes, he "just stood there as if he were wearing skates that might topple him any minute — and they did too, for he could not bend his feet to gain his balance."

SURVEY MADE

A survey of 175 California doctors on the best type of footwear for babies and toddlers revealed that:

1. A shoe which permits the foot to grow unhampered is best.

2. The shoe should be footshaped with a straight inner line. It should copy the baby's foot rather than trying to confine the foot into a tiny copy of the adult foot.

3. It should be wide across the toes to permit spreading and flexing as the child walks. A flexible child beginning to walk grips with his toes and rotates on his heels as he bends and runs." Soft shoes allow him to do this with ease.

4. A shoe, flat or buckle may fasten the shoes, but no constraining laces should be permitted to interfere with the free flexing of the arch. The heel may be snug-fitting, but should have no counters. Through use, the heel and ankle will strengthen naturally.

5. The entire shoe preferably should be made of leather, which "breathes through its open pores," and allows essential ventilation.

There are children with deformed feet or other deviation who should have corrective shoes, of course. Their problem must be considered individually. For the child with normal feet, cover them for protection against cold or bruising, or for decoration, but let him use his feet.

SCOTT'S W.A. & W.M.S.

6TH SIDNEY — On Nov. 13, Mrs. Ross Dafoe and Mrs. Earl Dafoe were co-hostesses for the W.A. dinner in the church hall. An extra large crowd attended.

Mrs. George Pollard, president, conducted the W.A. business and report of the W.A. rally at Centenary. Mrs. R. Sine will be hostess for the December meeting.

Mrs. Sine, assisted by Mrs. Carl Sine and Mrs. Ken Paul conducted a chapter of the Study book on "Men in the News." So many leading Christians in Japan are laymen and this has led to the unique plan of evangelistic work in that country. Each week those laymen who wish to enter into this work meet with their minister to talk and pray together and find the answer to all sorts of inquiries. This builds up a strong fellowship in the church. Japan can show Canadian church people many ways of witnessing to their faith. The evangelist visits his charges every week to read the Bible, to pray and talk over his problems. This work is exceptionally worthwhile, especially in rural areas.

ENGAGEMENT PRESENT FROM FIANCE'S PARENTS

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

Our son, a Marine stationed in California, has just become engaged to a lovely and very charming girl who used to live here in the East and now lives in California. We have met her several times (they were not engaged then) when she visited her aunt and uncle who live fairly near us; since our son told us about the engagement, my husband and I have telephoned her and her parents, to offer our good wishes and welcome. They invited us to come to visit them, to be with them at their engagement-announcement party, but distance prevents this. But what we are wondering is: Should we send Bob's fiancee an engagement present? If so, what type of present — something for their future home? — "His" parents

An engagement present is not a must . . . but, when possible, usually the fiancee's parents give his fiancee a present on this important occasion. The engagement present is customarily something for her personal use, often something for her trousseau, often something that can be marked with her monogram or initials, sometimes with her first name.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In our wedding party we are having two little flower girls and a little page boy, even younger than the flower girls. My aunt thinks they should be in the receiving line at the reception. My mother thinks they shouldn't be in the receiving line, that they would need so much attention and care that it would be most inconvenient. Personally I agree, with my mother. With whom do you agree, Mrs. Beeckman? — R.D.

I agree with your mother also. The best man, ushers, and the child-attendants are not members of the receiving line.

Two-in-One Refrigerator Cookies for Christmas

By Mary Moore

It keeps me hopping to stay ahead of — or catch up to — some of the cookie matters in this audience.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY
(Vegetarian)

Chilled Vegetable Juice; Cheese-Onion Pie (see Tuesday); Shoe-String Carrots; Sweet-Sour Spinach; Fresh Pear Salad with Nutty Cheese Balls and Grape Bunches; Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

We are making different cookie recipes up almost every day here. Those that merit it will be given to you during the next few weeks before Christmas. We are ever so popular because every one who calls to see new little David leaves with a box of cookies under his arm from our surplus, because we are running out of storage space.

The little number I chose to give you this morning Marianne worked on, and makes two varieties from one batch of refrigerator dough: nut sticks and chocolate medallions. Once you see them on a pretty plate they don't seem to be related at all. Try them and see if they suit your cookie purposes. Coming up are Anise Cookies and Cookie Press Cookies soon.

TWO-IN-ONE FANCY COOKIES:

Three-quarters cups soft butter or shortening or half butter and half shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg yolk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups sifted cake flour. Cream the shortening, sugar and yolk, salt and vanilla until very creamy. Add flour and mix well. Divide dough in halves. Shape one-half into roll and chill. (To speed this: Marianne chilled hers in the freezer compartment.) Do not chill second half.

For Nut Sticks break off enough of the chilled dough to make 3½ dozen sticks 1½ x ¾ inch. Roll these carefully in very finely chopped nuts. We used some Brazils and some walnuts. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 400 deg. for about 5 minutes.

CHOCOLATE MEDALLIONS:

Beat 2 egg whites until foamy. Gradually add ½ cup sugar and beat until stiff. Add together with 2 squares melted unsweetened chocolate to unchilled half of Two-in-One cookie dough. Mix well. Drop onto ungreased cookie sheet 2 inches apart. Press whole nut meat in each. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 8 minutes. This amount makes 4 dozen.

NOTE:

If you like this simple trick of varying one basic dough that are further easy variations: 1) Shape all of the dough into 2 rolls. Roll one in finely chopped nuts which could be walnuts, pecans, Brazils, filberts or cocoanut. Wrap in waxed paper and chill. 2) For festive cookies for Xmas, add all of the dough in bowl 1/3 cup each very finely chopped candied red and green cherries and almonds. Wrap in waxed paper and chill.

Both of these latter variations are sliced thinly and baked at 400 deg. F. about 5 minutes. If you wander off to the telephone or television when you are baking cookies you are asking for burned ones, so keep your eye on that oven until the last batch is baked.

Institutes Show Leadership in Own Areas

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario are not only learning what real citizenship is but they are being good citizens by the quality of leadership they are giving in their communities, says Mrs. J. R. Geddes of Missassippi, near Ottawa, FWIO convenor.

The keynote of good citizenship in service to others, she stated in a prepared report on citizenship and education. More than 30 board members representing 12 FWIO districts at a 1-4-and-6 the opening session of their 60th annual board meeting here Monday.

Reports show WI members are teaching New Canadians the English language at home or in night classes. Contributions in money, food clothing and other material effects continue to flow from WI hands, Mrs. Geddes said.

Mrs. James Haggerty of Napanee, FWIO president, told board members the WI can sponsor no better project than assisting 4-H clubs and their leaders.

"These young girls are future WI members," she said.

CANADA AT A GLANCE

Mario Merola, 26-year-old Montreal sculptor, works on a mural for Canada's pavilion at the Brussels international trade fair. His work is done amid the sculptures of the late Alfred Laliberte, a prolific Canadian sculptor. Merola won a $5,000 award to create the 10-panel mural, which will be 18½ by 12½ feet. It represents all 10 provinces. (CP Photo).

Young Montreal Artist Trying To Compress Canada On Massive Mobile Mural

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Hundreds of chalky white plaster images [illegible] young Montreal artist [illegible] compress Canada [illegible] mural.

Like [illegible] mobiles from a past era, they stand over a modern muralist at work.

Mario Merola, 26, winner of a $5,000 award to create a mural for Canada's pavilion at the Brussels International Trade Fair, resents the large, dim, unused atelier from the widow of Alfred Laliberte, a prolific Canadian sculptor.

It was the largest studio the young artist could find in Montreal to house his wall-size mural. At first, he found it difficult to work amid the sculptures of Laliberte.

GREAT CONTRAST

"I was distracted. I was obsessed," says black - haired Mario. "I had to look at the sculpture—all of it — before I could retile down to work on my mural."

Everywhere — on the floor, shelves, ranks over the old fireplace, under the mezzanine—Laliberte's work keeps vigil. The sculptor died in 1953 at 74.

The colorless tone of Laliberte's work contrasts with Merola's sun-bright creation. It is a modern sand - and - pebble relief mural, fashioned in 10 panels, one for each Canadian province. Splintered color and geometric forms, like a giant kaleidoscope, attempt to capture the breadth of Canada in a mural 120 feet by 12½ feet.

Mario works from his small, pebble-winning sketch. He knows what he wants in the mural, but prefers to adapt his thoughts as he proceeds. The final step is coloring the mural with bright, luminous paints.

"It is much more interesting to grow with it than to make a precise memo of what to do," he explains.

BORN ARTIST

The artist, son of an Italian-born [illegible] who liked drawing [illegible] began experimenting [illegible] when he was five. At [illegible] he was painting in oils, and at 15 was studying in Montreal's Ecole des Beaux-Arts.

In 1952, at 21, he won a scholarship for a year's stay in Paris, where he studied mural designs and decoration. His ambition was to be a television set designer, but "in the back of my mind" was a dream of creating huge murals.

"A mural is much better than painting. It is right on the wall—part of the wall. It is there for everyone to see. I would like very much for architects to use more murals."

Mario plans to install spotlights when he begins coloring the panels, because the grimy windows keep the studio dark.

"I would like to clean the windows and move there things," he said, waving his hand at the sculptures, "but I was permitted by here on the condition I did not disturb Laliberte's work. It is like a museum."

WILL VISIT EUROPE

Mario hopes to complete his mural in mid-December. It will then be packed and sent to Ottawa, and shipped to Brussels to be placed at the end of a 70-foot long cocktail lounge with glass walls in the Canadian pavilion.

With his prize money, Mario will travel to Brussels to see the mural in place. Then back in Canada, he will set himself up in the mural business, and wait for architects to knock on his studio door.

There is so much to use for murals," says Mario, who admires the works of Paul Klee and John Miro, two European modernists. "Plastics, aluminum, rubber, plastic wood, sand, rocks —they are modern. They cut the monotony."

Centenary W. A. Presents Successful Tea, Bazaar

CENTENARY — The ladies of Centenary Women's Association were hostesses on a happy occasion when they presented their annual bazaar on Wednesday afternoon.

The visitors were welcomed by Mrs. M. Nobes, Mrs. R. Percival and Mrs. E. Ray, and proceeded around the gaily decked tables in red, white and blue with little evergreen trees hinting that Christmas is just around the corner.

A country store, convened by Mrs. B. Harder, displayed jams, pickles, vegetables, novelties, touch-and-take and surprise boxes.

Mrs. J. Reid was in charge of the children's booth, where balloons added their carnival effect and gave the little ones something to take home, too. Here were little girls' play aprons and doll clothes along with mittens for boys and girls. Babies' sweaters and booties were also featured.

At the bake table, Mrs. W. Calvert, Mrs. F. Alkens and Mrs. D. Douglas were busy with pates of home-made breads, both white and brown, Chelsea buns, pies, angel cakes, tarts, cookies and an abundance of home-made candy.

FLOWER BOOTH

Mrs. H. Bristol, convener of the flower booth, had a wonderful display of African violets, ferns, white bouqueta, begonias and ivies of all kinds. Mrs. Fred Edmondson, superintendent of the Happy Workers' Mission Band, had a fine display of Christmas cards.

Mrs. P. Ray, Mrs. F. Meens and Mrs. D. Leney were in charge of a fine array of aprons, large and small, for working and festive occasions. At this booth one could find potholders, toaster covers, pillow cases and dresser sets in beautiful hand work.

The tearoom, carried out in red, white and blue decor with streamers and each table on which was centred with a tall, red carnation and the tea table was centred with a large silver centrepiece of red carnations flanked with red, white and blue candles on a snowy damask cloth.

Mrs. H. Hancock was hostess in the tea room and seated the guests, while Mrs. R. Thrasher and Mrs. G. Sills poured the hot tea from silver tea services.

Those serving tea were: Mrs. B. May, Mrs. R. Cummings and Mrs. W. Shortt while the plates and teapots were replenished by Mrs. W. Lewington, Mrs. Pie Sutherland, Mrs. Melburn. Appetizing tiny sandwiches and cookies were offered each guest with her tea.

The kitchen was in charge of Mrs. R. Edmondson, Mrs. J. Skinkle and Mrs. Jack Emerson.

As a financial way the bazaar was a success and the easy friendliness that prevailed made this a most pleasant afternoon.

WASHING DAY

CANTERBURY, England (CP) — The Federation of women's institutes has changed the day of its half-yearly meeting from Monday to Tuesday, so members can do their washing on Monday.

Cannifton W.A. Sponsors Successful Yuletide Bazaar

Last Wednesday afternoon a pretty Christmas bazaar was held in the Sunday School rooms of Cannifton church, which was opened by the Rev. J. Townsend, who led in prayer.

The visitors were graciously welcomed by Mrs. R. J. McCrea and the president, Mrs. A. Boyd, while Mrs. Manley Mitchell played soft music on the piano.

Mrs. D. Brenton was cashier for the afternoon.

The booths were decorated in red and green and this festive color scheme was used throughout.

The home-cooking booth looked tempting with its white table cloth and trimmings. For sale were delicious pies, cakes and small cakes, muffins, eggs, candied fruit and pickles. As usual this was a busy place and did a good business, in charge of Mrs. Thomas Howard, Mrs. H. Brenton and Mrs. G. Pope.

The apron booth was in charge of Mrs. C. Lywood and Mrs. Roy Pound. Mrs. Pound, president of the W.M.S., also had Christmas cards for sale, the proceeds from these cards go to her work there. There were aprons of all sorts, large and small; all styles and colors of the rainbow, which made a pretty display. These were all sold out.

TOUCH-AND-TAKE

The touch-and-take booth, with its packages done in white and Christmas tags was in charge of Mrs. P. Putman. This too, was sold out.

Next came the homemade candy booth with boxes and small plastic containers filled with homemade candy; their lids decorated with flowers and ribbons, making an attractive spot. This booth was in charge of Mrs. Ralph Stewart.

The fancy work and small notions booth with its fancy pillow cases, knitted scarfs and crocheting of all kinds was in charge of Mrs. Billings-Steele and Mrs. W. Brenton.

Vegetable and flower booth was pretty, African violets and small plants of all kinds and vegetables in charge of Mrs. W. R. Merrick and Mrs. H. Pound.

The fish pond did a brisk business at four o'clock with the arrival of the school children and the place echoed with hearty laughs and surprises of the kiddies at their catch—a delight to Mrs. F. Furmidge and Mrs. Stanley Bradshaw who were in charge.

PRETTY TEA ROOM

Next came the pretty tea room in the new kitchen, which was attractive with its large centre tea table covered with a Scotch lace tablecloth, centered with a silver basket of bronze and white 'mums. At each end were nicely arranged the two silver tea services and the cake and sandwich plates filled with delicious cakes and sandwiches of all sorts; mints and relishes.

Those pouring tea were: Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. O. Roblin, Mrs. Throop, Mrs. H. Empson, Mrs. H. Twidale, Mrs. W. Cole. Surrounding this were the small tables done in white damask luncheon cloths and centred with small silver vases of bronze and white 'mums.

The servers were: Mesdames Emmerson, Urch, R. Putman, D. Graham, William Lawson, H. Putman, F. Holgate. Mrs. Cole made a delicious cup of tea as usual and Mrs. R. MacMurter and Mrs. Fred Reid did the replenishing.

This well-appointed and attractive tea room was convened by Mrs. Clarence Bird and Mrs. G. Brenton.

A vote of thanks goes out to all who made this interesting and profitable bazaar a success.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Jean Sadler (MOTHER OF 3)

When visiting with baby, sometimes it's a bit of a problem to keep your darling amused in strange surroundings. One mother's happy solution: a toy kit reserved for visiting. Secret is to choose toys baby hasn't seen before. On day of rediscovery, baby is more apt to stay absorbed for a longer period of time.

Baby nutrition—brighter flavor—both at the beck and call of your baby's appetite. Gerber New Meat Dinners have 3 times as much meat, and therefore protein than regular vegetable-meat combinations. In addition, they're high in vitamins, value and a good source of iron. What's more, this extra meat is subtly blended with selected vegetables and cereal for unusual flavor interest. Your choice of Beef, Beef Noodle, Veal, Chicken, Chicken Rice, Turkey or Liver and Bacon. Strained for small ones. Junior (minced) for tots with teeth.

Sweater suggestion. When buying woolen sweaters for baby, choose tight weaves. They're less likely to snag, won't catch on baby's fingernails, hold their shape better.

Clever, these mothers! This from an especially ingenious one: "When baby outgrows bootees, they're double-duty nicely as mittens. Tied at the wrist, they're cozy as can be.

Good source of energy in easy-to-digest form: a daily serving of any one of the other pre-cooked Baby Cereals. For those specially prepared cereals provide calories, much-needed for baby's high rate of growth and activity. Then too, Gerber Cereals give baby other nutritional benefits because they're fortified with iron, calcium and B-vitamins. 6 to keep appetite interest alive—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat, Mixed Cereal and Protein Cereal Food—all delicate but distinctive in flavor. Jewellery Week

Secret of Keeping Jewellery Shining

Diamonds actually look bigger clean. You just have to pull some of the "covers" off.

What are these "covers"? Some pretty thick ones are oil, the foundation and lotion and make up that women wear today. These film the stone and prevent light from entering. So do the natural oil of the skin and the grease and dust in the air. The backs of rings get caked with dried soap, and the chemicals in city air discolor the metal parts.

The secret of keeping jewellery just as sizzling-bright as when it was bought is to clean it before it gets really dull and then to protect it from air and moisture when not in use.

FOUR METHODS

Here are four separate and effective cleaning methods for precious jewellery and one of them is pretty sure to fit the time, the place and the job:

The soap-bubble-bath: Whisk up a hot suds with two cups of water a tablespoonful of household ammonia and a few soap flakes. Let the pieces soak a few moments until the suds are cool enough to use. Then brush lightly on back and front of the mounting using a fresh junior-sized toothbrush with soft nylon bristles or a little eyebrow brush. Never scrub vigorously back and forth. It is apt to loosen stones, and fine gold can be scratched. Rinse in hot water to which another spoonful of ammonia has been added. If alcohol is handy, omit the ammonia; rinse in clear hot water, dip in alcohol, and drain on tissue paper. After a hot bath, always rinse in hot water: never go from hot to cold or vice versa with any jewels.

The detergent bath: It may have been noticed how much brighter rings look just from washing dishes with one of the new detergents. But don't depend on this forever! The under side or open back of real jewellery needs special attention so light can reach the gems and make them sparkle. This is the purpose of the open back in precious jewellery, to let in light. Prepare a small bowl of hot suds with any of the granular or liquid detergents used in the home. No ammonia is needed unless the water is hard. Tap and brush the pieces while they are in the suds. Then transfer to a wire tea strainer and rinse under hot running water. Pat dry with a soft, lintless cloth. Always handle most useful. Dangle the articles in the liquid on a long bobby pin. For rigid bracelets, pour some of it over them in a saucer. It can be strained. Rinse in clear water and dry with a cloth.

After the rings are all twinkling again, wear and enjoy them. But when they are taken off each time, roll them in tissue paper or put them between layers of velveteen in a tightly closed box. It is the moisture and the chemicals in the air that dull and discolor metals. Fingermarks may be wiped off with a bit of soft silk or a small old-fashioned chamois skin.

A wrist watch must not be "dunked" in any liquid, and pastes and powders have a way of working inside the movements where the gritty specks could change the whole face of time! So the best cleaning method for diamond watches is a treated light-weight flannel. Some jewellers sell the kind they themselves use, and these are perfect. Polish all metal parts of the watch or the bracelet, but lightly on the diamonds.

NEARS CENTENARY

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Sarah Meek, celebrating her 99th birthday here, said she has never regarded herself as being particularly strong. One of her tales of pioneer life has been put in story form by a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mervyn Meek, and is included in a grade IV public school reader.

Mother's Helper

WHEN your youngster's corn-on-cob eating teeth are temporarily missing, here's an easy way to slice the kernels off the cob for her. Take your angel food cake pan, stick the end of the cob in the center post, and cut away. The post keeps the cob from slipping, the pan catches the corn.

Handbags for Men: Could Only Happen in Gay Paree

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP)—It could happen only in gay Paree—handbags for men!

The idea is to get rid of pockets. Instead, the well - dressed man will carry something chic in suede or leather, smaller than a briefcase but bigger than a wallet. There are compartments for car keys, cigarets, matches and other masculine odds and ends.

An American friend said he might take the plunge. "After all," he rationalized, "you hear a lot about the junk women carry around in their bags, but did you ever see a man empty his pockets?"

What next? Maybe a muff for messieurs, in matching magenta.

If France yearns to produce a homegrown Maurice Richard, the financial crisis is going to make it tough.

Last year, a Canadian company developed a cosy little French market for tube skates, worth about $10,000 a year. When the crisis came, the ice equipment was "skated off." Whisky (to keep you warm on an outdoor rink!) was another Canadian product banned in the economy program.

Untouched so far is an old Canadian import — Quebec maple sugar used to impart an American-type flavor to a French brand of cigaret (Balto).

A Paris smoothie found a way to beat the races. Posing as English jockey Lester Piggott, he'd pick up a friendly girl in a seedy nightclub, invite her to dinner and allow her to hear him receiving staged telephone calls on sure things.

Next day he'd take her to the races and hand her—in return for a cash advance—a phony ticket which, as a jockey, naturally couldn't cash. When she got back from trying to collect, the "jockey" would be gone.

Like so many systems, this one failed in the end. One of the gulled girls told her story to police.

Browsing the boulevards: Paris is still an exciting city. In one day, a strolling reporter enjoyed these street scenes: singer Yves [illegible] shooting outdoor scenes for the film Premier Mai as cue-ball leaves quitted down on a delightful square on the Avenue Foch . . . the American rock 'n' roll team, the Platters, clowning exuberantly around the Arc de Triomphe . . . slippered Bohemians playing bowls in the Place du Tertre in old Montmartre . . . a Black Maria swooping on the notorious Rue St. Denis in the Sebastopol district, arresting half a dozen women and causing general excitement.

The French, by the way, call a Black Maria "un panier a salade" or salad basket, because of the grillwork. Similar word-imagery is seen in the nicknames for the tiny white bubble cars—called pots of yogurt, or Easter eggs.

Y.F.C. View Film, "Miracle In Manhattan"

Belleville Youth for Christ sealed the Massey Temple to capacity Saturday night when the film, "Miracle In Manhattan" was shown. This film was taken from the Billy Graham Crusade in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Jim Falkenburg and Tex McCreary, reported the sixteen-week coverage of Mr. Graham's largest Crusade for Christianity. This popular "Mr. and Mrs. New York" team lead their own NBC television program emanating daily from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

They "set the stage" with a photographic tour of Manhattan Square Garden, successive meetings in Brooklyn, Central Park, Forest Hills, Harlem and Wall Street's financial district emphasize greater New York City's spiritual interest in the Crusade.

SPIRITUAL COMBAT

In the gigantic sports arena of Madison Square Garden where men like Rocky Graziano and Joe Lewis once punched their opponents into unconsciousness, the film offered a "front row" perspective of the Graham team in "spiritual combat." The arena became a cathedral and the dynamic preaching of the evangelist was augmented by the singing of George Beverly Shea and the music of the massive choir under the direction of Cliff Barrows.

High moments in "Miracle in Manhattan" include the overflow crowd that jammed Yankee Stadium, breaking every attendance record in 34 years of the park's colorful history; a brief appearance of Vice-President Richard M. Nixon; a glimpse of Ethel Waters singing with the Crusade choir, and the final service held at 42nd Street and Broadway, silhouetted against the glittering lights of Times Square.

TWO MILLION ATTEND

Nearly two million persons attended Madison Square Garden during the 16 weeks of Crusade activity, making this "spiritual campaign" the largest sustained effort for evangelism in the history of the church.

Cobourg and Deseronto High Schools contested in the Bible quiz and the winning team was Deseronto.

A Cobourg High School student, Shirley Richmond, gave a testimony of the Bible Club in Cobourg High School.

Belleville Y.F.C. choir sang "Jesus is the Joy of Living," Wilbur Leonard, Y.F.C. pianist, gave a piano solo. "Onward Christian Soldiers," and just before the showing of the film Carl Green sang, "If We Could See Beyond Today," composed by Bev Shea.

Later a table was set with goodies and the ladies with their husbands who entertained them —did this justice.

Several teenagers made their decision for Christ as they were counselled after the service.

The Cocoon Silbouette

By TRACY ADRIAN

There is an air of studied, relaxed ease about the new cocoon silhouette that is having such a vogue this year. And we thought that this style was a particularly attractive version of the trend.

The coat is intricately tailored in Anglo's confined bolivia fabric and accentuates its curves with slash pockets and push-up sleeves. Its softly draped collar is designed to stay firmly in place. It is available in green, blue, red, brown and black.

Women's Institutes

BAY OF QUINTE W. I.

JOHNSTOWN — The Bay of Quinte Institute held its November meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Trenton, on Wednesday evening.

The roll-call was answered by each one telling of a law she would like to see enforced. One lady said she would like to see the law enforced that disallows men and women to live together as man and wife, without being married. It is a disgrace to the nation and nothing is done about it. Another said she wished there was a law that people could talk on the telephone for only five minutes at a time, for it is pretty hard to get it when there are 11 and 12 families on one line in the country.

A letter was read from Mr. G. Vanschepen of Bowmanville, concerning the musical evening being put on at Harder's school house on November 28th. Mr. Vanschepen wished the W. I. to help the school children in their venture to make some money for games to use at the school in doors, during stormy weather in the winter.

During inclement weather it is difficult to keep youngsters happy at noon hour, recess or any other such time. The Institute decided, since so few members were present, to ask all who came to this entertainment to bring some little thing to auction off. It would be fun and help the children at the same time.

The convener for the evening, Mrs. Holmes, who is in charge of resolutions failed to get there, so the meeting was mostly a social evening.

Later a table was set with goodies and the ladies with their husbands who entertained them —did this justice.

Goodfellow Asks Women To Help Farmers Organize

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow has asked Ontario's rural women to encourage farmers to organize.

He told board members of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario Tuesday to work on behalf of organized agriculture.

He commended WI members for their influence on rural and agricultural life in Ontario, then told them farmers can no longer afford to be individualists. Organized marketing was needed.

"There's room for only one farm organization in the province of Ontario," he added.

There are two provincial farmers' groups now, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and the Ontario Farmer's Union.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Resolutions approved by the board members included a call for a university in the Niagara Peninsula. Sponsored by the Hamilton area institutes, the resolution suggested Welland County as a location.

Other resolutions protested the sale of near beer in grocery stores, demanded that municipalities prisled clearly on the labels of all medicines and household cleaners and called for compulsory public liability insurance for motorists.

The meeting established a committee to study the effects of the Ontario Succession Duty Act on rural women. This was the result of suggesting amendments from the Canadian Federation of University Women.

HEADS COMMITTEE

Appointed to the committee were FWIO President Mrs. Gordon MacPhatter of Owen Sound, Mrs. L. G. Labbenmer of Port Colborne and Mrs. H. E. Dunn of Milton.

Mrs. Stewart McDonald of Pembroke presented a report on Canadian agriculture and industry in which she said more training is needed to keep young people on the farm.

Mrs. Ernest Irwin of Campbellford presented the work in a report on home economics and health. She said it develops a girl's personality, her skill in homemaking and her ability to cooperate.

Naughty Child Less Problem Than Quiet One

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The naughty child may be less of a problem than the loner, the quiet, withdrawn type, say Canadian correction school experts.

Training school directors — 22 from all provinces except Saskatchewan—met here recently to exchange professional views on pulling wayward children on the road to reform.

Another meeting of the group, sponsored by the Canadian Corrections Association of the Canadian Welfare Council, is to be held next year in Winnipeg.

The consensus was that the child who shows aggression may cause more disturbance, but that it is relatively easier to get to know and direct him than the passive, unresponsive child.

W. T. McGrath, executive secretary of the association, said in an interview that the idea of raising schools has changed.

"The time is past when such schools merely held children in order to discipline them or give them good physical care, he said. Staffs now must be qualified and able to understand child behaviour."

Mr. McGrath said 1,938 boys and 926 girls were in correction schools at the end of last year, and these figures remain fairly constant.

Basically, correction schools are institutions for treatment, not punishment, delegates said, but they found that determining the degree of emotional re - adjustment a child made in the schools was one of the most difficult tasks.

Rev. Andrew Masse, director of Boscoville Training Schools in Montreal, felt the child's degree of inner self - control, ability to build good relationships with people around him, an indication of his potential productiveness measured in terms of his ability to do sustained work, and his sense of ethical values should be the measures used to chart progress.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN W.A.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Lutheran Church of Bellevile and Trenton met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. Calbary, Orchard Drive.

With 13 members present, the president, Mrs. Max Wodzack, brought the meeting to order and gave the theme of her devotions with the question, "Are we the Christians we believe ourselves to be?"

A prayer for the Holy Spirit read in unison and the hymn "Rise Ye Children of Salvation" opened devotions. The Scripture chosen was 1st Thessalonians 5: 16-23.

From the book, "Peace With God," five short chapters, under the heading "Rules of the Christian Life," were read by members of the group. The first "Daily Use of Your Bible," was read by Mrs. Sylvia Grills; second by Mrs. Gladys Willman was "Learn the Secret of Prayer." Mrs. Irene Roluf followed with "Daily Consulting on the Holy Spirit." The next chapter, "Attend Your Church Regularly" was read by Mrs. Grace Masterwick. Mrs. Hedi Calbary read the concluding chapter, "Witnessing Christians."

After a brief commentary on the subject, Mrs. Lillian Wrong and Mrs. Willman rendered a most fitting conclusion to devotions with the hymn "Take Time to be Holy."

With Christmas drawing near a lengthy business session followed. Mrs. Wodzack accepted an invitation from Mrs. H. Kunka of Trenton, to her home for the December meeting.

Safety Program Described at H-S Assoc.

The Home and School Association of Sir Winston Churchill School held its November meeting on Monday evening. The president, Dr. H. L. House, outlined the proposed safety program sponsored by the City Council, School Board, and Police Commission. He described the system in use at present in Peterborough where it has been in operation for five years.

A resolution was passed to the effect that in considering this proposed safety program no dissatisfaction or criticism of the present crossing guards who have and are exemplifying their loyalty and responsibility in protecting the children going to and from school be implied. The proposed plan was tabled for discussion at a later date when further study and information will be forthcoming. The Belleville Home and School Council is interested in the parents' reaction to such a scheme.

Mrs. F. A. Downes, Kindergarten teacher from King George School, favored the group with a solo, accompanied by Miss L. Horton of Sir Winston Churchill School.

Miss Bristel's Grade 1 class won the room count with most parents in attendance.

Mr. Taylor K. Franklin, business manager at Albert College, addressed the Association on the topic "What should I tell my child?", and showed the film entitled "Human Growth". After the distribution of a questionaire, a discussion was held. Mr. Franklin stressed the need of a wholesome and frank presentation of sex education to the children from an early age when questions begin. The cardinal rule always being, the truth. Coffee was served during the social period following.

Expected Canadian Tourist Industry Will Have Record Year When All Reports In

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—It's too early for accurate figures but both federal and provincial officials are predicting 1957 will be a record year for the Canadian tourist industry.

Alan Field, director of the Canadian government travel bureau which spent more than $1,000,000 this year advertising Canada in the United States, says that preliminary figures show traffic into Canada is nine-per-cent higher than in 1956.

"This is going to be a record year and the greatest year in the history of the travel bureau," he said.

A Canadian Press survey shows that most of the 10 provinces agree.

VISITORS SPEND MORE

The bureau of statistics report that tourists to Canada in 1956 totalled 27,700,000. The visitors spent $327,000,000, $9,000,000 more than in the previous year.

But Canadians, who made 27,-300,000 visits to other countries, spent nearly $500,000,000, giving Canada a travel deficit of about $160,000,000.

Indications are that the deficit will be narrowed this year. Influx of U.S. tourists, who spent $309,-000,000 in Canada in 1956, is expected to be as good if not better than last year. Travel by Canadians in Canada is reported on the increase.

Officials of Canada's national parks and historical parks and sites report 3,212,085 visitors between April 1 and Aug. 31, compared with 2,929,190 in 1956.

The only fly in the ointment was the Canadian dollar's premium over the U.S. dollar. Many U.S. tourists complained of being charged too much when they cashed American money, but officials predicted this would have little effect on the over-all picture.

PROVINCIAL REVIEW

Here is the tentative 1957 tourist industry outlook as reported by the provinces:

Newfoundland spent about $27,-000 this year on publicity material and opened 56 guest-house units, eight cabin units, 24 hotels and 12 motels. Officials said, however, the year would be about the same as 1956.

Prince Edward Island estimates its tourist business will be up 20 per cent this year. The province spent about $53,000 for various forms of advertising.

Tourist bureau chief George Herman of Nova Scotia says the number of cars, both Canadian and American, entering the province is much higher than in 1956 and it may be the province's biggest year yet.

New Brunswick, whose tourist traffic was valued at a record $25,000,000 in 1956, predicts a 10-per-cent increase this year. The provincial travel bureau estimates 120,000 U.S. cars and 170,-000 Canadian cars entered the province in the July - September period and, figuring on an average of three persons to a car, visitors numbered 960,000. They spent about $160 a car.

Officials say tourists to Quebec totalled 5,210,000, up nine per cent from last year. They spent an estimated $208,000,000 compared with $192,000,000 in 1956. The province estimated tourists stayed an average of five days and spent $8 a day. Seventy per cent travelled by car.

Ontario expects the tourist trade to increase from one to five per cent at $550,000,000. The average tourist spends between $30 to $40 in the province. Canadian travel increased this year but there was a slight decline in U.S. visitors.

Manitoba estimates tourists spent $27,776,000 in the first seven months of the year, compared with $28,023,000 in the whole of last year; 303,055 Canadians visited the province compared with 279,383 in the corresponding 1956 period. There were 432,000 American tourists against 412,825 last year. The government, which spent more than $50,000 in newspaper and magazine advertising alone, said the increase is a direct result of advertising.

SASKATCHEWAN REPORT

Saskatchewan estimates it has had 500,000 visitors from other provinces and 150,000 Americans this year, an increase of 15 per cent in Canadian visitors and eight per cent in Americans over 1956. They spent $20,000,000.

Alberta last year had record tourist revenue of $56,430,000 and expects an increase this year of up to three per cent. The province had its biggest year this year in highway construction.

British Columbia expects a slight increase over the 1956 tourist income of $90,000,000. Tourists spent $65,000,000 in the first, eight months of this year. The province expects an increase of 200,000 in Canadian cars entering the province and a slight increase over the 1,200,000 U.S. autos of 1956.

Manager Walks Through Nitro, Didn't Know It

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — An office manager said Monday he walked through a pool of nitroglycerine Sunday without realizing an attempt had been made to blast his firm's safe—or that he was in danger.

John Wells of Borden Ice Cream Company Limited said: "We were very fortunate. There was enough nitro in that pool to blow up the entire building."

The would-be thieves were apparently disturbed and fled empty-handed. Police neutralized the pool.

Experiment Radical Departure From U.S. Political Tradition

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Adlai Stevenson, titular leader of the Democratic party, has joined President Eisenhower in an experiment which is a radical departure from American political tradition.

It marks the first time a president has attempted to link the leader of the opposition party so closely with the formulation of foreign policy. Stevenson will help draft the American program for next month's NATO council meeting in Paris.

Such consultation between two such leaders would raise no eyebrows in Canada, where the leader of the opposition holds a seat in the Commons, has an official title, certain privileges and indemnities commensurate with his office and not infrequently is called in for consultation on crucial issues by the prime minister.

But in the United States the leader of the opposition party has no such official recognition. Stevenson ran as Democratic presidential candidate against Eisenhower in last year's general election and was beaten. The election over, his status became that merely of a private citizen, with the unofficial title of "titular head" of his party but with no voice in national affairs beyond whatever weight he can bring to bear through public speeches.

Since the presidential election for the presidency only, the defeated candidate does not get a seat in Congress. His party's leadership there usually is conducted by one of the senior members of his party.

LESSER PRECEDENT

The U. S. constitution thus makes no provision to give the leader of the opposition party an active part in political life between elections and his influence on the national scene, however brilliant a leader he may be, is gravely weakened.

There have been other instances where members of the opposition party have been invited into consultation but where a president has gone high in the opposition ranks for assistance.

In the administration of former Democratic president Harry S. Truman, State Secretary Dean Acheson served for several years as a special assistant to the then state secretary Dean Acheson. He played a major role in negotiating the Japanese peace treaty.

There has been much discussion as to why Eisenhower chose to invite Stevenson into a key role as consultant on the NATO program.

One suggestion is that the president wants to present a solid American front when the U.S. program is laid before the Paris meeting. Another is that he hopes to take the sting out of any impending Democratic attack on his military program. The Democrats are expected to launch a searching investigation when Congress opens in January.

Grisly Finds Spark Lie Detector Test

By DION HENDERSON

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP)—A diffident, little man who admitted mumbled tones Monday that he had opened fresh graves over a period of years to collect human heads and finally butchered a neighbour woman while in a "daze" faces a lie detector test of his story.

Edward Gein, a 51-year-old Plainfield bachelor handyman, is scheduled to go to Madison today for the lie detector test at the state crime laboratory.

Gein is being held under $10,000 bond for the armed robbery of Mrs Bernice Worden last Saturday.

However, district attorney Kileen said the filing of a murder charge in the death of the 58-year-old widow, whose dismembered corpse was found hanging like a deer carcass in Gein's woodshed Saturday night, awaits only a complete sifting of the grisly remnants found on his sprawling farm, about 130 miles Northwest of Milwaukee.

MAY GIVE REPLIES

Here are some of the questions the lie detector test may answer:

Did Gein mould hideous death masks from the faces of newly-buried dead?

Did he fabricate upholstery for furniture in his cluttered farm house from human skin?

Did he intend to eat the one victim he admits killing, the one of whom he said, almost apologetically, "I am not too sure that I killed her"?

"That is what I can't remember," Gein said Monday.

A "daze," he said, came on him when he did such things as dig up the graves from which he took at least 10 heads.

FOUND HEADS

Investigators, who found Mrs. Worden's decapitated corpse, discovered the heads of four other persons in Gein's house Sunday and found six more there Monday.

At Madison Monday night, Charles Wilson, state crime laboratory director, said that when all the human fragments had been collected from Gein's farm, technicians would study them in an effort to identify the victims of the grave robberies.

Gein said he had followed death notices published in the local newspaper and then opened the graves of women who had just died.

The handyman said he had visited cemeteries about 40 times, robbing at least 10 graves from 1944 to 1952. He indicated that on other occasions he snapped out of his "daze" and went home without violating a grave.

Separate Fee Could Cripple Hospital Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF leader, says an Ontario Medical Association demand for a separate hospital fee could cripple the province's hospital insurance plan.

Mr. MacDonald addressed a federal nominating convention of the CCF Greenwood Riding Association Monday night.

The OMA recently proposed that radiologists and pathologists should be paid on a separate fee basis for hospital services. Under the proposed hospital plan these services would be included without a separate fee.

Mr. MacDonald said that if this demand is met "the hospital plan will be crippled through excessive costs and a staggering burden of additional accounting."

He said the OMA, which "for as long as it dared opposed the plan," already had pressured the government into excluding outpatient services from the plan.

Socreds Will Support Govt. For Full Term

CALGARY (CP) — Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, said Monday his party is prepared to support the Progressive Conservative government for its full term unless some fundamental disagreement on principles arises.

The national leader, in Calgary to attend the annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League, said in an interview:

"I don't think any Parliament in my memory has ever accomplished so much in so short a time as this one has."

In the long Commons question periods, the CCF and Liberals "seemed to be trying to fight the election; but things are accomplished when all get down to business." Mr. Low said.

Equalization Subsidies Will Be Most Controversial Issue At Tax-Sharing Conference

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Perhaps one of the most controversial aspects of the current federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements to be discussed at a conference of government leaders here Nov. 25-26 is the method of distributing the $69,000,000 share — the wealth equalization subsidies.

These federal payments, which go out to all provinces except Ontario, are aimed at spreading some of Canada's wealth from the "have" to the "have-not" provinces. But because of the formula adopted, such provinces as Alberta with huge incomes from oil royalties can share in the subsidies while another wealthy province, Ontario, cannot.

FROM DIRECT TAXES

The reason is that the no-strings-attached equalization payments are based on the province's revenue from the direct tax-field — personal and corporation incomes and succession duties. Revenue from other sources is not considered.

Thus, the former Liberal administration found that under the federal split of the direct tax pot with the provinces, the province would get for Ontario would be $58.7—the highest of any province.

Yields for other provinces would be: British Columbia $35.97; Quebec $27.63; Alberta $22.27; Manitoba $21.64; Saskatchewan $14.27; Nova Scotia $13.83; New Brunswick $12.76; Newfoundland $10.08; the Prince Edward Island $7.78.

The decision was taken to distribute the subsidies to cover the difference between a province's existing revenues from direct taxes and the average of the top two—Ontario and B.C. The average, based on population, was found to be $28.35.

Thus B.C. was able to squeeze out, starting an estimated $6,200,000 annually; Alberta $18,000,000; and Quebec, with the largest population outside of Ontario, about $36,000,000, the highest of any province.

Ontario protested. It argued that, while it was not against equalization, there might be room for suggestion that instead of adopting the average of the top two provinces as the basis for equalization, the average of the top four or the national average might be considered.

Behind Ontario's suggestion was a desire by the province to get a bigger slice of the national direct-tax pie by having the federal government agree to step up its withdrawal from this field.

Ottawa withdrew to the extent of 10 per cent of the federal levy on personal income tax; nine per cent of taxable corporation income and 50 per cent of federal succession duties.

FROST'S PROPOSAL

Ontario said this was not enough. Premier Frost proposed that the federal deductions, instead of the 19-8-50 proposed, should be 15-15-50—that is, 15 per cent each on personal income tax and taxable corporation income.

When told this would place too heavy a burden on the federal treasury, Mr. Frost suggested that a rebasing of the equalization payments would reduce federal outlays for equalization and allow for increased concessions in direct taxes.

In July, 1956, Mr. Frost told a Toronto press conference that either some realism had to be put into the tax-sharing proposals or "everyone will lose."

Ontario, which produced about one - half of the country's tax yields urgently needed to take care of snowballing commitments for education and public services.

A downward shift in the federal equalization outlays is unlikely, for undoubtedly such a move would be opposed by many of the provinces. However, what appears likely is a federal revision of the direct tax sharing, perhaps not to the extent requested by Ontario, but on some compromise basis.

Question by Louis St. Laurent May be Answered in Tax Parley Called for Nov. 25-26

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — "What are they up to?"

So asked Liberal Leader Louis St. Laurent in the last general election campaign as he attacked the support given by Premier Frost of Ontario to John Diefenbaker, rookie Progressive Conservative chief whose party won at the polls.

One of the key issues of the campaign was the former Liberal government's new tax-sharing arrangements with the provinces which Mr. Frost had bitterly condemned as inadequate. Mr. Diefenbaker had agreed, charging that the arrangements placed the provinces in the position of "beggarmaids" before the central government. He pledged greater revenues for the provinces if elected to power. Ontario's Progressive Conservative premier was his open support.

IMPORTANT ISSUE

Those election events illustrate how important federal-provincial tax sharing has become in the political arena. The tax pot has grown larger over the years but so have the needs of the two levels of government.

Political strategists say that undoubtedly tax sharing will shape into another big issue in the next election fight, expected in 1958. They feel certain that all parties will try to gather ammunition from the federal-provincial fiscal conference here Nov. 25-26.

In the last battle, Mr. St. Laurent charged that the Frost-Diefenbaker line-up would lead either to higher taxes for all Canada or lower tax revenues for all provinces except Ontario. Mr. Diefenbaker denied this.

"They say I made some deal with Mr. Frost to the detriment of the rest of Canada," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "The only deal I will ever make is for the betterment of the average Canadian."

ONTARIO REQUIREMENTS

Mr. Frost had estimated that the 1956 tax-sharing arrangement provided Ontario with about $100,000,000 less than it urgently needed. Some officials feel Mr. Diefenbaker will place himself in a fiscal squeeze if he tries to provide Ontario with that extra amount and still produce tax-sharing equality for all other provinces.

To provide Ontario with seven-tra $100,000,000 would mean an over-all increase in federal cost-Mays of some $250,000,000 boosting the total costs of the arrangements from $630,000,000 to almost $1,000,000,000 a year.

Some federal experts say that an increase of these dimensions would upset other Conservative election pledges — would be impossible without higher taxes or a budgetary deficit.

PLAN LOWER TAXES

The Conservatives have already indicated they intend to lower, rather than raise, taxes and that they intend to carry out their election promises on a balanced budget.

That would mean providing Ontario with less than it requested, unless, of course, Mr. Diefenbaker chooses to scrap the present arrangements and introduces some new formula.

For example, there are two main features of the present arrangements: Federal deduction of 10 per cent of personal income tax, nine per cent of taxable corporation income and 50 per cent of succession duties, along with unconditional federal equalization subsidies to all the less wealthy provinces.

The equalization feature is designed to bring the per capita income of the provinces up to the average of the two wealthiest—Ontario and British Columbia. In practice all provinces share in this pot except Ontario.

SUGGESTS REVISION

Ontario has suggested that perhaps this equalization feature should be reshaped to base it on the average of the four wealthiest provinces, rather than the top two. This in effect would tend to reduce the federal outlay and allow the central government to make further deduction allowances in the direct tax which Ontario favors.

However, at least one province—Manitoba — has indicated Mr. Diefenbaker will have a fight on his hands if he attempts to remove the equalization feature.

In accepting the invitation to attend this month's conference, Premier Campbell of Manitoba stated:

"We will certainly not willingly accept any abandonment of this (equalization) principle or the adoption of any formula which failed to continue to provide to the less wealthy provinces a position relative to that of the other provinces at least as favorable as that which they hold under the present arrangements."

Roman Column Given Place In Warehouse

TORONTO (CP)—An ancient Roman column given to the City of Toronto by the City of Rome arrived here Friday—and was still in a customs warehouse today.

Mayor Phillips said it will remain at the warehouse until the Royal Ontario Museum here decides whether it can store the column for the winter.

Tentative plans have been made to install the granite pillar as a park area on University Ave.

Car Firms Face Suit Of $350,000

TORONTO (CP)—The widow of provost R. S. K. Seeley of Trinity College, Toronto, and his estate Monday filed a writ for damages against several car firms and a car firm service manager for more than $350,000.

In the writ, Michael Mackenzie, administrator of the estate, and Mrs. Marjorie Peters Seeley allege that Dr. Seeley's death was caused by the negligence of the defendants."

The action is against Vauxhall Motors, three subsidiaries of General Motors, Pink Buick Limited of Toronto, and Ray Cosgrove, service manager of Pink Buick.

Dr. Seeley was injured July 12 when his car went out of control near Brighton, Ont., and was struck by another vehicle. Dr. Seeley died in hospital Aug. 3 of a massive pulmonary embolism.

The writ also asks damages for injuries suffered by Mrs. Seeley in the fatal crash.

It accuses the defendants of selling a car which was "defective in workmanship and unsafe for normal use" and "negligently servicing the said automobile."

The writ claims Pink Buick Limited negligently serviced Mr. Seeley's car and completed a 500-mile checkup without inspecting and adjusting the brakes. Mr. Seeley had bought the car from Pink Buick May 20 for $1,200.

Woman Held After Fatal Shooting of Man

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — A 25-year-old woman is being held here in connection with the fatal shooting of Tommy Moore, 42, of the Eagle River district, 70 miles east of here.

Held was Elsie Sky who was reported in good condition in hospital suffering bullet wounds to her thigh and right hand.

Ontario Provincial Police said the shooting occurred Saturday night or Sunday morning following a quarrel between the two at their home, four miles from Eagle River.

Police said the couple had been shopping at Dryden Saturday and both had been drinking. They began arguing at Dryden and continued it when they returned home.

CHILDREN WITNESSES

Police said four of the couple's five children were inside the home when the shooting occurred.

The woman told police Moore started to kick and beat her and then reached for a .22-calibre rifle. When she tried to take the children outside he ordered her back and apparently shot her in the thigh.

She told police Moore then pointed the gun at her head and she raised her hands to shield her face. A bullet struck her ring finger of the right hand.

In a struggle following the woman took the gun and tried to wound Moore in the arm, but he fell dead near the foot of a bed.

Police were continuing their investigations.

TO BUILD NEW BRIDGE

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. D. B. Steinman, who designed Michigan's Mackinac Bridge, said Monday he had been awarded a contract to design a $50,000,000 bridge joining Asia and Europe across the Bosporus at Istanbul, Turkey. The main span would be 2,214 feet, the longest in the world outside the United States, Steinman said. The $100,000,000 Mackinac's suspension is 7,400 feet.

Smith Answers Question Put By L.B. Pearson

Mr. Smith, elected in a Nov. 4 by-election in the Ontario constituency of Hastings - Frontenac, told the former Liberal external affairs minister that the sale of arms to Tunisia by the United States and Britain was not discussed first in the NATO Council.

The arms sale has evoked vigorous protests from France.

Mr. Smith was escorted into the Commons on the arms of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Donald Fleming shortly after the start of Monday's sitting. He had been sworn in as a member by Commons clerk Leon Raymond earlier in the day.

BLAST KILLS TWO

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Two workmen were killed and one was injured Monday night in an explosion at the Pontiac Varnish Company. The blast which blew out all the windows and doors in the two-storey brick building was heard three miles away.

MAKE IT A WHITE CHRISTMAS

...GIVE HER A MAJOR APPLIANCE

Provide Holiday Focus, Help Everyone Enjoy Gala Family Yuletide

Fun for everyone. That's what a White Christmas will mean in your house this year.

Gleaming new major appliances do more than just perform practical functions around your house to free Mom from her workday chores. They also provide a welcome springboard for joyous pastimes for the whole family.

For one thing they can lead Dad to new hobbies and interests. Believe it or not, most men like to putter around the kitchen. Why not let him? Now, what with the easy-does-it features on modern ranges, he can cook and bake to his heart's content.

He may start bragging that he's as good a cook as you are, but let him believe it. Actually, he can't help but turn out delicious dishes with the help of the newest temperature guides, timers, thermostats, automatic controls and all the other functional features found on today's kitchen ranges—whether they be built-in or free standing.

They can make a good cook into a master chef in no more time than it takes to have a new range installed.

FUN WITH SAFETY

Even the children can have fun in the kitchen and be as safe as if they were in their own playrooms. Electronic ovens, for example, provide cooking safety never before known. The inside of the oven never gets hot and as soon as the door of the oven is opened, all the power is automatically turned off.

Now the kids can help mommy prepare the Christmas dinner or any other meal. For while she is stuffing the turkey, the little lady of the house can be baking her own special cake in the electronic oven. Cooking this fast, modern way, that cake will be done by the time the bird is ready for roasting.

The children can also begin to learn the art of cooking at an earlier age, because they don't have to be watched when they are using an electronic oven. And letting them do such "grown up" activities all alone, will make it a lot easier to call on them when mother needs some help around the house.

The youngsters will also delight in seeing their fuzzy toys "take a bath" in your new washing machine. They'll just thrill as the little pink elephants and brown doggies go tumbling across the window as they are being dried.

Laundry equipment takes care of cloth story books, too.

A new dimension can be added to your gift giving this Christmas that will be a lot of fun for the whole family. Everyone can get together one evening about a week before Christmas and "cook up" a few gifts. This is meant literally, because your range and freezer can be used to help prepare a few extra gifts for some friends who may drop in unannounced.

No pushing through large department store crowds for these gifts, either. The only crowded place will be the oven and the top of your range as you bake delicious pies, cakes, candies, and other delicacies. You will have a lot of fun just deciding what flavor pie to bake in case Aunt Minnie drops in for a visit; or whether to put a peach or pineapple filling in the cake. Of course, the whole family can work together at helping Mom prepare these practical gifts.

Then there's no better place to hide your gifts than the freezer—and not because there's no room left in the closets, but because the freezer will keep your gift food items as fresh as the day you baked them.

These frozen gifts can be given the same wrapping treatment with pretty papers and fancy ribbons as the hankies and perfumes. Just make sure that the item is properly freezer-wrapped before you dress it up with the holiday wrapping.

And if Aunt Minnie doesn't come, you will be able to take out the pie a few weeks after Christmas and serve it at the family dinner. Delicious as ever.

Since Christmas comes but once a year, make certain that you insure a joyous one by making it a white Christmas.

KEYSTONE OF THE DREAM KITCHEN is the modern cabinet sink. Replace your old sink with a new cabinet model to put increased efficiency into your existing kitchen and make the room so much more pleasant to work in.

KEEP QUIET

Steel kitchen cabinet doors are insulated with a sound deadening material and equipped with rubber stops so that the younger members of the family can slam doors without driving mother to distraction.

TRICK WITH ICE

Ice cubes may be used to skim the grease from gravy or a stew.

When ice is dropped into the hot liquid, surplus grease collects around the cube and may be easily lifted out.

Freezer Gifts Give Shopping Freedom

Wouldn't it be wonderful to have a grocery store in your own home, ready to serve you 24 hours a day every day of the year?

It certainly would — particularly during this busy season — and anyone can have such a "store," with a chest or upright freezer.

The freezer "store" keeps your food bills down; stocks a wide variety of foods both in and out of season; and ensures whole-some meals for your family with a minimum of preparation.

Since freezers stock anywhere up to 900 pounds of food, you can buy in great quantities. This, of course, means infrequent shopping trips and greatly reduced food costs to you. No longer need you throw out left-overs since freezers keep today's food fresh and healthful for a period of weeks and months.

You're in for a host of compliments from your family because your freezer allows you to serve special dishes and a greater variety of food generally than you could possibly handle without the help of a freezer.

Strawberries in December are only one of innumerable seasonal foods you'll be able to serve anytime during the year, again thanks to your freezer.

If unexpected company used to throw you into a tizzy, force frantic visits to the food store, and shake your confidence in yourself as a housewife, your freezer will be an especially welcome addition to the home. Let the whole neighborhood drop in without notice now, and you're the epitome of calm-ness, satisfied with the knowledge you can handle any emergency on the food front.

Remember when even company you expected caused concern because there was insufficient room for the fancy dishes you were planning to serve? Well, a freezer takes care of that problem, too. As an owner of a freezer, you can expect a reputation as an exceptional hostess — and you'll deserve it.

A freezer is an awfully good friend in meal preparation, too. Come-summertime you'll be extra thankful that a freezer lets you serve delicious, man-sized meals, which require only a brief reheating.

The secret is to select the cool early hours of a morning to cook three or four roasts with the same heat. Wrap the roasts, then store them in your freezer, and your cooking is just about done for the week. The old war cry about having to spend entire days cooking over a hot stove won't be valid any more.

The same way of cooking four or five vegetables at a time can save hours, in addition to reducing the use of gas or electricity.

If your family appreciates baked goods you can save yourself future time and trouble by baking a half dozen pies at a time, storing in your freezer what you don't use immediately. Except for cream or custard pies, most pies will keep for two or three months if you store them at zero temperature.

SAFE, EASY WAY

With a freezer, there's no longer a need for time-consuming canning to preserve your foods. Every day we hear of more foods being prepared in frozen form for the extra enjoyment of freezer owners. Virtually any food can be frozen successfully.

Freezing is a safe, easy way to preserve fruit and vegetables, meat, fish, poultry, game and baked or pre-baked foods. It will keep all the original flavor, color and nutritive value, providing there is proper wrapping.

A freezer means a lot of things — fewer shopping trips, decreased food bills and more efficient housekeeping are some. But most important, a freezer means freedom from drudgery for you, and happier meals and leisure time for you and your entire family.

SURPRISE, MOMMY, SURPRISE: It sure is a surprise when Mommy comes into the kitchen to find her new automatic washer and dryer. And there will be many more surprises when she starts to use her new appliances. There is no argument, whether it's made of the usual natural fibres or the new synthetic materials, that can't be washed and dried in today's automatic washer and dryer.

how to wrap a major appliance

Appliances pictured to the right are among the most wanted presents-for-good-wives that a husband can select. They make housework easier, save time, steps and energy. They are real oh-and-ah presents that will give service all year long.

It's hard to make such gifts a real surprise. Yet this can be done, if you order the big gift for delivery after Christmas and put a symbol under the tree, as pictured above.

Soap and Water Best Care for New Appliances

"Nice thing about modern steel appliances," says Penny Edwards, Home Service Director of the Porcelain Enamel Institute, is that you do not have to:

wax or buff to maintain a lustrous finish.

scour to remove fruit and vegetable stains worry about cigaret burns or ashes.

refinish or touch up fading colors.

scrub or remove grease and oil.

disinfect to keep sanitary, pure and odor-free.

worry about surface cracking, checking of peeling.

"Soap and water will not only do the trick, but will serve as a protective insurance for the high gloss on your new White Christmas appliance for many years to come."

FIVE MINUTES ONLY

About five minutes are required to prepare dishes and load a dishwasher, compared with 35 minutes needed to scrape, rinse, dry and put away dishes when the work is done by hnd.

New Quick-Recovery Water Heaters Out-Perform Larger, Older Models

The National Electrical Manufacturers Association reports a tested new development — 40-gallon electric water heaters which out-perform models twice their size.

The quick-recovery electric water heater works like two water heaters, one on top of the other in a single tank. It has two heating elements of 4,500 watts each, interlocked so only one is on at a time.

A counter-top model can be installed in the kitchen, or a tank-type model may be placed in any convenient corner or closet. This is especially important in new homes without basements.

According to the Electric Water Heater Section of the Association, this new type heater has undergone rigorous torture tests, where a load of clothes was washed every hour all day long without running out of hot water.

Even if the family uses three times as much as the average, there is always ample hot water.

FREEZER PARTY

The hostess can have as much fun as anyone at her Christmas party if she plans her menu ahead, does her preparing in advance, and stores her food in her freezer. The freezer will take good care of her food and have it ready and delicious at party-time without fuss.

INSTALLS NEAR SINK

The logical place to install a dishwasher is next to the sink, since water connections are already there.

'Square Look' Is Appliance Fashion Note

Good looks are keeping up with the tremendous mechanical improvements in modern major appliances.

Probably the most significant style change has been what different manufacturers call the sheer or square look.

Because of this style's uncluttered, clean, square design, free-standing appliances can fit snugly into cabinet arrangements and look like built-ins. Straight sides and right angle corners can be placed comfy against the straight sides of standard or custom-built cabinets without major carpentry.

Recessed hinges permit refrigerator models in this style to be placed against a side wall without having to allow space for door swing, since the door opens fully within its frame.

Built-ins themselves are rising in popularity, with virtually all appliances available in this fashion.

Stack-on units, appliances made to fit standard countertops, give the built-in look, too, without need of carpentry. The built-in look is also carried out with drop-in units, which require either that a hole be cut in the existing counter, or that it be placed in a counter that was pre-cut by the manufacturer.

Pre-assembled packaged kitchens, which combine several basic appliances in a single framework, are being produced by more and more manufacturers. Smartly styled, these units are between seven and nine feet long, and are ideal for the modern-minded home-maker with limited kitchen space.

Equipment that stands alone and is portable continues to have its appearance improved.

Like free standing or built-in appliances, these are available in various materials and colors.

Whatever your choice, you'll find the new look in kitchens is a good one.

CLOTHING ECONOMY

Dryer-dried clothes and household linens last longer than those line-dried, with better retention of fabric color and texture, and less loss.

EXACTLY RIGHT, AND IN LESS TIME

Larger, full size heaters produce more volume in less time.

Laundry No Problem For Smart St. Nicks

So your wife has just gone out to do some Christmas shopping and she left you with the family wash? That's no problem at all.

Here are a few tips on doing the laundry the way your wife does it.

First, sort the laundry into piles of white, colored and man - made fibre garments (Your Dacron slacks, for instance). The manufacturer's label should tell you the construction of the garment.

Set aside the clothes that have dark colors that are apt to fade. Give these a separate wash, for they might fade or spot other garments. Brush the sand, grass and dirt that may have accumulated out of the trouser pockets and cuffs, and apply some detergent directly to all badly soiled or grease stained areas. Close the zippers on all the clothes.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Wash the white clothes first, and keep the water hot. White clothes of natural fibres can stand the hottest water.

For bleaching, follow directions on the package to obtain the proper amount. Add the bleach to the water and allow the machine to agitate for a full minute.

Use a measuring cup and follow the directions on the box or bottle when adding detergent. Remember that too many suds cut down the washing action.

When loading the machine, place about nine pounds of clothes in the machine (if the washer is standard size), or load the machine until the loosely folded clothes come within two inches of the top of the agitator basket.

Large pieces should be mixed with smaller items, rather than be washed together.

After the white things are washed, the light colored items have their turn. If your machine is equipped with a suds-saving device you can use the same water, or if fresh water is drawn, turn the water temperature down to "warm."

The next load will contain more heavily soiled cottons. Use clean, hot water.

When you do the synthetic fibres, if you have an automatic machine, set the wash temperature at "cold" and the agitation and spin heads at "slow" or "synthetic fabrics" setting. Separate by colors. Put clothes in washer and let it run its complete cycle.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS

Follow directions on starch package as to amount. Pour the starch in the machine and let it mix with the water before putting in the clothes. After the load is removed, wipe the agitator basket with a clean cloth to remove excess starch.

As each load of clothes comes from the automatic washer load it into the dryer. For loads of heavy sheets and pillow cases, set the dryer temperature on "High" with the time at 35 to 45 minutes, depending on the size of the load.

Cotton sport shirts and children's play clothes should be dried at "medium" settings, with a time of 15 to 25 minutes. For synthetics, set the dryer temperature on "low" and the time control dial at from five to 10 minutes.

If the load is small, use the minimum amount of time, and if you're in doubt about the time setting, use a shorter, rather than a longer, period of time. Clothes that stay in the dryer too long have a stiff, scratchy feel when first taken out. "Overdrying" destroys the natural moisture present in all fabrics and, besides spoiling the appearance and feel of the fabric, hastens deterioration.

HANDLE WITH CARE

Synthetic fabrics require special handling. If washed in cold water and dried in the proper amount of time they will require a minimum, if any, ironing. Too much heat, either in the washer or dryer, causes wrinkles to set. Washing in cold water with the proper amount of agitation followed by low dryer heat or warm sun-shine, causes wrinkles to pop out and leave clothes looking fresh.

That's it, mister. Really nothing to it, is there? What's that? You say if everything's that simple, you'll offer to take care of the house and let your wife go to work. Good deal.

How to Get the Most Out Of Your Christmas Dryer

As with a finely-tuned automobile engine, you can get more "mileage" out of your automatic clothes dryer by following some simple rules of the road.

To get better drying results and to insure that your dryer will perform more efficiently for a longer period, the National LP-Gas Council has the following suggestions to make:

1. Be sure the drum is wiped clean before using the dryer. Dirt or grease that may have gotten onto the drum will be transferred to the clothing.

2. Do not overload the dryer. Complaints about slow operation are usually due to overloading the dryer and not allowing clothes sufficient room to tumble.

3. Sort items for washing and drying at one time. Similar fabrics require the same drying time and temperature. It's easier to transfer load directly from washer to dryer than to sort wet clothes.

4. Do not overdry. Overdrying causes static electricity in synthetic fabrics and also causes wrinkles to set. Limp linens are also caused by overdrying.

5. Dry starched clothes with other starched clothes. In the case of nylon or dacron curtains for example, put a couple of dry terry towels in with the curtains. Towels will absorb excess starch and leave crisp finish on curtains.

6. Use top of dryer as folding and smoothing surface. The heat of the dryer aids in smoothing the clothes.

7. Check and clean lint tray frequently. If lint is a problem, remember that most of it was formed before the drying process.

8. Always follow manufacturer's suggested temperature settings if dryer has controls.

Call Modern Ironer Great Emancipator

The orginator of the proverb, "hard work never hurt anybody" could not have been the one who did the family ironing by hand.

Anyone who had this chore to perform knows what a "back-breaker" it literally is, and there are scientific studies to support this belief.

No wonder the arrival of automatic irons was hailed by housewives everywhere as a "great emancipator."

Consider the time saving. Where ironing by hand requires hours to do, you can do shirts with an automatic ironer at the rate of one in four minutes.

And while the woman who does the ironing for a family of four by hand does four tons of lifting a week—just in picking up the iron—doing the job with an automatic ironer is effortless. You sit while the appliance does the work.

No more tired arms, aching back or abdominal and leg strain. Your clothes are neat, fresh, smooth perfect; your sheets have a wonderful silky finish.

You'll be proud of your work. You'll feel refreshed at the end of your ironing—no more look or feel of drudgery.

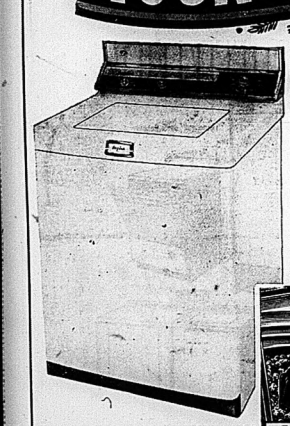
The hours you formerly spent at the ironing board you now will be able to enjoy doing so many of the things you wanted to do "if only I didn't have this ironing."

Automatic ironers come in several styles. Cabinet type units, which have white enamel finish, have lap panels to support dampened articles before they go through the roll, and one or two extension shelves for stacking folded items after finishing. Some have height casters that can be adjusted to the height of the user.

A console designed ironer comes in steel or wood finishes. There are portable models which can be rolled into storage spots when not in use, and table top models.

Whatever the type, the automatic ironer spells freedom.

TIP TIP



Try cotton tipped swabs for cleaning those tiny nooks and corners of your appliances.

MAN AROUND THE HOUSE: Even for a man, housework isn't drudgery when there are modern appliances to do the work for him. A pair of laundry servants, like this new washer and dryer, make the job of doing the family wash as easy as pie—for man or woman.

Appliance Gifts Can Be Given as Surprise; Here's How to Do It

It's easy to let Mom know that you've gotten her a new major appliance for Christmas — even though she doesn't find it under the tree on Christmas morning.

Since an appliance is rather bulky, it can't easily be brought into the house and hidden away for the big surprise. But, by appropriately wrapping another little gift, either to resemble the appliance that you have bought or related to it in some way, she will quickly get the point.

FREEZER

A gift of a freezer wrap, useful in a new freezer, can take on a penguin look. Wrap the box in white crepe paper. A Christmas tree ball, covered with black crepe paper is placed on top for the head, and matching crepe around the three sides of the box becomes the jacket. Yellow gummed paper forms the webbed feet and beak.

DRYER

For a basket surprise, gather bright red cellophane around a tiny basket, like one used in the laundry room, that is filled with hankies for Mom. Tie with gay green ribbon and a bunch of shiny gold beads. The hankies can be the first things to be tried out in the new drier.

RANGE

What looks like a gay mandolin is really a tiny frying pan in which Mom can melt butter on her new range. Wrap the pan in bright green gift paper with handle uncovered. Draw white threads from the handle over the centre, which is gold notarial seal, and trim with white ribbons.

REFRIGERATOR

A curled fringe of white crepe paper forms the snowy beard, the mustache and the fluffy tip on the red crepe paper cap placed on a gaily coloured refrigerator. Blue notarial seals make the eyes, with nose and mouth of red gummed paper. These trimmings make both a jaunty fascia and a novel preview of a wonderful gift to come.

HOT WATER HEATER

Cologne to keep mother cool and refreshed throughout the year heralds a new hot water heater. Wrap the cologne in pretty pink crepe paper. Add a construction-paper thermometer and a deeper pink ribbon bow.

WASHING MACHINE

A toy washing machine plus a ping-pong ball make a jolly jack-in-the-box. Wrap all but the top of the machine in red, green and white striped paper. Punch a small hole in the ping-pong ball and tuck in one end of a coiled pipe cleaner and attach to washer. Add stars and red signal dots for eyes and mouth, and a cone-shaped cap of striped paper.

IRONER

A long - billed cockatoo's Christmas paper plumage is made to conceal a toy iron, symbolizing a brand new ironer that Mom is getting. The fantail is pleated gift wrap; the eyes are black reinforcements; the beak is orange gummed paper.

They Team Up to Take Work Load off Mother

The appliances that you receive to make your Christmas a white Christmas will be on hand to serve you 365 days a year.

Long after the mistletoe has fallen from its archway perch, and the tree ornaments have been stored on the top shelf for another year, the appliances at your disposal will continue to make your day easier and your role as a homemaker more fulfilling.

Just look around the house at your helpers: washer, dryer, ironer, range, freezer, refrigerator, dishwasher, water heater and others. They are ready to serve your needs at the press of a button or the flip of a switch. Put them to work for you and all the usual chores are suddenly made easier. Not only will you get the job done faster, but with less effort.

One strong team to help you around the house is your automatic laundry equipment. While you are taking care of some of the work upstairs, the washer and dryer are pitching in with some of the heaviest work downstairs.

For example, as the floors are being washed or waxed, the shag or scatter rugs that covered them can be in the process of washing and drying, all automatically.

TWO THINGS AT ONCE

And when you're polishing up the windows in the kitchen or bedroom, just throw the curtains into the washer. By the time all the windows are finished, the curtains will be dry. If they are made of the new synthetic fabrics, chances are they can be hung right up. If not, your automatic ironer will take care of the pressing job in a few shakes.

The washer and dryer team can, of course, be used to launder the best table linen or the most fragile and sensitive clothing in your closet or drawers. Your machine's setting for delicate fabrics will give these valuables treasures as careful washing as if you were doing it by hand — and with less work for you.

One job that has to be done about three times a day, every day of the year (except when you're lucky enough to go to a restaurant for dinner) is the dishes. This task takes up more of milady's time during the course of her day — and year — than any other household chore. With an automatic dishwasher standing by ready for you in your kitchen, the miseries of dishwashing are a thing of the past.

You will always be sure that all your dishes, silverware, and glassware will be bacteria-free when this appliance unloosens its spray of scalding water and detergent.

WHILE YOU SLEEP

A steady stream of this hot water, whether it be for your clothes washer, dishwasher, general house cleaning or your own bath, it is always assured when there is a rapid recovery water heater supplying your needs.

In your kitchen you have two appliances that work even when you are sleeping, to make sure that the foods you bought are stored properly and kept until you are ready to cook or eat them — your freezer and refrigerator.

With a freezer in the house, it's actually possible to begin making a special dinner weeks in advance. You can do the preparation when you have some extra time on your hands. When it's time to get it ready for the table, all you have to do is thaw it out and it will taste as if you had finished making it.

The refrigerator is indispensable for the cold storage of foods that are to be used within a reasonable length of time. With the newest conveniences in these appliances, there is never any trouble finding the butter, cheeses, bacon, vegetables, eggs and many other items, because there are special bins for their placement.

ALWAYS A WINNER

When it comes to cooking, every homemaker can vie for top honors when she owns a modern kitchen range. Whether it's used to simply keep a pot of mashed potatoes warm or in preparation of a delicate sauce, a new range can serve you with temperature controlling features, timers, thermometers and other conveniences.

Washing Machine Helps Cut Your Clothes Budget

Laundering at home has advantages other than the luxury of owning automatic laundry equipment.

By doing your own laundry, for example, only a single stock of clothing and linen is required. No longer is it necessary to have double quantities of everything — one for use and one at the laundry. Your washables are always on hand for immediate use.

Sorting, counting and listing separate articles is unnecessary also, when the laundry is not sent out, but done at home.

Redecorate Your Steel Kitchen Cabinets With Easy Paint Job

Changing the color of your kitchen cabinets is simpler than changing the color of the kitchen itself.

Alkyd-resin paints, now being manufactured by several paint companies, are available in colors to match, harmonize or contrast with the colors that are found on most major appliances.

By changing the color of your kitchen cabinets, you can add new brightness and life to your kitchen. And with the paints that are available for the job, it's so simple that a housewife can do it in her spare time.

In preparing your cabinets for a new coat of paint, it is first necessary to roughen the surface if it has a glossy finish. Sandpaper, moistened with turpentine, will do the job. The surface of the cabinets should also be cleaned of dirt and grease with turpentine.

The finishes provided by the alkyd-resin paints will mean grease and stain resistant steel cabinets for years.

Gift of Dryer Is Welcome As Sunshine

Getting a dryer to make your Christmas a white one will mean more than just freedom from drudgery. Weather, for example, may still be a concern for picnics, but won't be a factor when it comes to drying a few loads of wash.

Come fair or shine, the dryer creates perfect weather conditions to allow you to choose your own laundering time — day or night. It not only frees you from weather worries, but dries 15 times faster than the clothesline method. It also saves 20 full working days a year.

What a relief to be absolutely independent of the whims of Mother Nature, who may or may not co-operate with sunshine on the day you want to dry the wash.

With an automatic, dryer, any day, or even night, is a good drying time. Just pop the wash into the dryer, set the simple controls and your clothes and linens bask in clean, warm breezes until they are dried to perfection.

Thoughtful homemakers, who realize there is an element of risk involved in outdoor drying, consider cleanliness as one of a dryer's most appealing features. Outdoors, clothes are buffeted by airborne germs, soot and dust. They're whipped and frayed by the wind, baked by blasting sun until they're stiff or else splattered by sudden squalls of rain or snow.

Also, the wash hanging outdoors is at the mercy of curious dogs and romping children, and occasionally a light-fingered passerby who may take possession of choice items of wearing apparel.

While you were previously tied down to the house for a whole day when there was a load of wash and dry to be done, you now have another day to yourself—when there's a dryer in the laundryroom.

It takes only about two minutes to dry a load of clothing — one minute of put the load into the dryer and one minute to take it out.

LABEL FREEZER PACKS

When wrapping food for storage in a freezer label each package with the date of storage, kind of food and, when necessary, weight and quantity.

Newest Model Refrigerator Choicest Gift

New refrigerators make it so easy to be the perfect housewife. And that applies to budget, as well as high priced, models.

Today's refrigerators come equipped with such quality-insurance features as separate cooling systems for fresh and frozen food, special locker shelves that maintain proper temperatures for chilling beverages and salads, automatic butter keeper, and meat compartment.

Freezing compartments are now larger, and permit easier storage, what with package dispensers and pull-out bins or shelves. Many models have their freezing compartments at the bottom, so that every-day foods are in the refrigerator section, are at more accessible heights.

Some refrigerators require only the touch of a toe on a foot pedal to open the door. This leaves both hands free, a blessing that any housewife recognizes. Some models have doors that can be opened by a slight press with the elbow, again allowing both hands to be free. One company has a handle the length of the door, for easy opening. Some open at the touch of finger grips at the base.

Magnetic doors require only a tap to close them. You can select a door to open either right or left, and one producer has a model that opens both ways.

Many refrigerators have shelves that either revolve or roll out, eliminating the frustration of having to unload the entire shelf to get to the ketchup in the back. Shelves are adjustable up or down.

Several manufacturers are aiming at straight line beauty, emphasizing flat planes with nothing bulging or protruding anywhere. This, along with ventilation forced through a front grille, permits installation flush against the wall. The built-in look is yours even with a freestanding model.

Quiet is being emphasized in new models. Compressors, the working mechanism of the refrigerator, are quieter than ever, and doors close securely with barely a sound.

Automatic defrosting is available on most refrigerators. Add to this such items as swing — out grillers and meat keepers, along with other work-saving features, and you'll see why modern refrigerators are bringing cheer to housewives everywhere.

Hubby Inspires Dishwasher Buy, Survey Reveals

It may be a woman's world, but a research team found that almost half the purchases of automatic dishwashers were inspired by the men in the house.

They also found that:

1. Almost everybody would like to own a dishwasher.

2. Dishwashers are regarded as a luxury.

3. Ownership is a symbol of both financial success and social status.

4. The chief source of information about dishwashers seems to be friends of owners. Also, there is a strong influence to the purchase of dishwashers spreading from friend to friend.

PAINT IT YOURSELF! Your kitchen will take on a renewed look when you paint your steel cabinets with colors that are available to match or harmonize with your appliances. One coat of paint will do the job for you.

On Monthly Payment Plans? How Much Can You Spend

Installment buying has made it possible for every family to have the appliances it needs — when it needs them.

There is little reason to wait until all the cash is available before buying the appliances you need, because with a new baby in the home, for example, certain appliances are necessary — and right away. A washer and a dryer, it is known, are invaluable for a new mother who is taking on the additional work of a baby and needs all the extra time and energy she can get.

She can have those appliances now by purchasing on the instalment plan. Then she can have the use of the work-saving servants when she needs their help the most.

If you're wondering how installment is buying affects the saving habit, a special study of consumer installment credit reports that "instalment credit to save and the importance they attached to the accomplishment of things not impaired by their extensive use of installment buying."

Even if you have cash on hand, there may still be good reason for instalment. For, if you retain your full savings and go into debt to buy an appliance, the pressure of paying the instalments will prevent the tittering away of income on unnecessary items.

There is no formula for determining how much of a family's income can be spent on monthly payment plans. However, two years ago a family with two children and $5,000 annual income spent about $48 a month on monthly payment plans. This figures out to be about 12.7 per cent of the take home pay.

But the amount that can be spent each month is an individual family matter, and should be figured out with care. For instance some families in that same income bracket were committed to as much as $75 a month on monthly payments for cars, refrigerators, washing machines, household appliances and home improvements.

Checking revealed that they met their payments promptly and didn't get into trouble — chiefly because some one made the food and clothing dollars go a real fine job.

They had steaks and roasts occasionally, but mostly other good and less expensive meats that "home ec" classes had taught would go a long way and still keep everybody happy. Washing machines and refrigerators had been bought and paid for on the instalment plan long ago — and what a saving in laundry bills and food conservation that was, now that the machines were fully paid for!

Economists say that payments on instalment debt amounted to 12.7% of disposable income in 1955.

Washers Will Starch, Dye Your Clothes

Your washing machine can do more than just washing. It can dye your things and starch them — and perform such functions more simply and efficiently than the traditional way.

Practically anything you would ordinarily wash in hot water can be dyed in your clothes washer.

Generally, this is the procedure to follow.

After laundering the article to be dyed, fill the washer with the hottest water available (at least 140 degrees F., even if you have to boil water and add it to the machine).

Prepare the dye to suit the weight of the material in accordance with the directions on the dye package. Add the dye solution to the washer, and then put in the article, which should be wet and free of stains before being placed in the dye solution. Time of agitation in the washer depends on whether the machine is automatic or not. With an automatic, just set the dial for the longest wash period.

It is not recommended that woollens or glass or metal fibers be dyed in a washing machine. Also the colors black and navy blue are not suited to washer dyeing.

Starching in a washing machine is as uncomplicated as dyeing.

You can do the complete starching job in the washer, or starch pieces by hand as you usually would, then put them in the washer to spin out the excess starch.

To do a complete starching job a concentrated hot-starch solution should be added to the wash. This type of powdered or lump starch is economical in a job that requires a great deal of starch. Ordinarily a light finish requires at least one-half cup of starch, and a medium finish, possibly one-and-a-half cups.

After the pieces to be starched have been washed, you should reset your washer at the "rinse" setting, then add the hot-starch solution and the items to be starched.

If you starch articles by hand and spin them out in the washer to get rid of the excess starch, less starch is used. Care should be taken that items undergo the washer spin just enough to remove the excess, no longer. Also be certain that the items starched together require the same kind of finish.

You'll be pleased with the results.

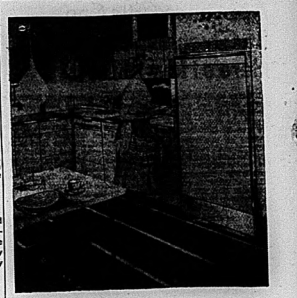
Water Heater Key to Family Cleanliness

With your new water heater, it will be possible to spend a rainy day at home and do three or four loads of wash, rather than limiting yourself to one wash a day for fear of exhausting the supply of hot water.

And, of course, all this washing is being done while you're in the den watching the afternoon television show or reading the latest best-selling novel.



Some of the family's most beneficial and healthful living results from hot water are found in automatic dishwashing. Ideally, dishes being washed by hand should have water of between 130 and 150 degrees. But this is too hot to touch. So, hand-washed dishes do not usually get the bacteria killing benefits of hot water.

But in an automatic dishwasher, the temperature of the water can be as high as 160 or 180 degrees. It makes no difference, because the hands never touch the water.

When water of that high temperature is used, you can be sure that any bacteria or germs that have been on the dishes will be washed off. The possibility of a dish being a disease-carrier is just about eliminated.

In addition to being clean, dishes washed in an automatic dishwasher look clean. Those embarrassing moments when a guest might receive a spotted dish, are no more.

Your automatic water heater may be out of sight, but as you go through the day, getting all the hot water you need when you want it, it will never be out of mind.

FUNCTIONAL BEAUTY OF THE KITCHEN, as important to the discriminating housewife as the style of her clothes, takes on a new fashion note this year with the "squared off look" as illustrated above.

RANGE SPOTS CLEANED

A rag saturated with household ammonia can be placed over stubborn cooked spots on your range and left overnight. The next day the spots should come off easily after scouring and washing.

LONG LASTING

Tests indicate that home washed linents and clothing last from 31/2 per cent to 100 per cent longer than those commercially laundered.

Freezer Solves Unexpected Gift Problems

How often have you had an unexpected guest drop in during the Christmas holiday for whom you hadn't prepared any gift? Or maybe it was someone you overlooked on your Christmas list.

Whatever the reason, it almost results in hurrying and scurrying through the gifts you received and can't use or your own dresser drawers to find something — just anything — to give to your guest.

You can prepare yourself for such emergencies and have some fun at the same time. Your freezer will do the trick for you. When you have some spare time a week or two before Christmas you can prepare tea rings, homemade rolls, special loaves of nut bread, plum puddings and a wide variety of other special foods. Just wrap them for freezing and store in your freezer. That's one place that will keep what you baked as fresh as the day you made them.

You can gift-wrap each item separately, using a wide variety of freezer papers and containers and attractive cellophane and plastic. This sure makes easy and quick gift giving.

If you devote one section of your freezer for these gifts you can save the wrapping until you're ready to give it away. But if you spread the packages throughout the general food area of your freezer, it's best to wrap the packages first so they can be easily identified.

The variety of gifts that you can prepare in advance is endless. Cookies, cakes and candy are only a few. An especially nice gift is your favorite fruit pie frozen in a new plastic container and tied with gay ribbon.

Your roll out gift tray — You're never caught without any gifts for that unexpected visitor when you prepare cakes, cookies, pies, candies, etc., ahead of time and store them in your freezer. Freezer Can Help Make Christmas Party More Fun

Too often a Christmas party is fun for everbody except the hostess. With a freezer, however, the hostess can have more fun than anybody. Because, in addition to enjoying the party, she has the knowledge that she's achieved a social success with a minimum of effort.

To eliminate most of the fuss involved in getting ready for the affair, plan the party menu, prepare the delicacies in advance and freeze them. On the day of the big event all that's needed is to remove the party food from the freezer, ready for serving.

All kinds of foods can be frozen — cakes, nut breads, fruits, sandwich spreads, canapes and pies, or even a steak or Cornish game hen. Many kinds of containers, packages and wrapping materials have appeared on the market to keep party delicacies fresh and good tasting. A container that's moisture and vapor proof is a must.

The combination of quality food, some advance planning and a modern freezer guarantees a merry Christmas for everyone, particularly the housewife.

DOG CAUSES SHOOTING

ORLEANS, Calif. (AP)—A pet dog was blamed Monday for the shooting of Roberta Starritt. Roberta, 17, told sheriff's deputies she put a .22 rifle on the living room couch and walked into the kitchen. She said her dog jumped on the couch, the gun went off, and a bullet hit her in the stomach. Her condition is fair.

ARMY ALERTED

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—A Thai Army source said today the country's armed forces had been put in a "state of prepared-ness." He said this was "ordinary routine", to preserve national peace and security and especially to cope with any possible Communist subversion and the attempted comeback of ousted politicians.

REJECT RED INVITATION

LONDON (Reuters) — The Trades Union Congress, representing 8,000,000 British workers has turned down an invitation to send a delegation to Communist China from the All-China Federation of Trade Unions. BOOST WINE PRICE

PARIS (AP) — Wine, the Frenchman's favorite drink, went up in price today for the fourth time since September and for the seventh time since the beginning of 1957. Ordinary table wines, which averaged about 17 cents a quart early this year, now cost nearly 25 cents. Increased production costs and a bad harvest this year are blamed.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Whitby Dunlops and a couple of OHA top arbiters had a lesson in hockey, European style, the other night.

Under the instruction of Sonny Bauer, who coached the Kitchener Dutchmen at Cortina two years ago when the Russkys won the world title the Dunnies and their mask-and-pad friends learned a lot about the way the across-the-crick pucksts play the game.

Canadian fans are bound to be disappointed at the style and play of the Russians after the rugged, hard-hitting calibre of puck-chasing they are accustomed to.

The Dunlops tangle with the Muscovites in Maple Leaf Gardens come Friday night when the eyes of the province, which are not seeing the exhibition "live" will be glued on television screens. Except, maybe a couple of thousand who will be watching the Maes battle the Kingston CKLC's on the down-east ice.

Bauer pointed out there are four major changes in the European rules with some extra minor differences which do not amount to much.

The big change is the non-boarding rule. Just heave a Russian into the "wood" or even caress him gently against the boards and you draw an official thumb.

If you are an attacking forward, don't bump a defender. He can thump you aplenty, but you just smile in an "I-meant-to-do-that" manner. There is no body-checking in the entire line zone, regardless of whether you prefer cavtar or beaver-tail soup.

In our game icing the puck when the team is short-handed, calls for a face-off in the defending team's zone. Icing can be called under international rules when the teams are at full strength. All the puck has to do is cross the red line.

Another rule change is that if a goalie "gets the gate" one of the players on the ice must serve it, not one sitting in the players' box, named by the coach.

A penalty shot must be taken by the player against whom the offence was committed, not by one chosen by the team or captain or coach.

Bauer told the Dunnies the Russians will have an advantage over Canadian teams under International rules, since they are wizards with their sticks and this is where they shine while the boards since "no boarding or bumping" is allowed.

The Muscovites do not like the body-checking game but they are experts at passing and have an uncanny knack of turning passes to profit with their skates.

The rail-birds at Whitby got quite a kick out of their Allan Cuppers playing the game without any bodily contact. In fact all the Dunnies were "gentlemen" until Alfie Treen decided to slam a few of his mates into the boards and see what the referees would do about it.

The Dunnies should benefit a lot from their game Friday night. They might be lucky on their first time out under the strange rules and regulations, but it should stand them in good stead to get a first-hand working knowledge of how they do it over there. Then, too, it will help them with their two exhibition games with the United States world representatives since we understand the Americans play under International rules.

The Russians arrived at Malton airport at five a.m. today and worked out under the discerning eyes of the Dunlops this afternoon. The Canadian champions had another workout this morning.

'Terrible Ted' Big Difference In Performances of Clubs; Gives Chicago Solid Base

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks—a couple of teams going in opposite directions—are back on display tonight.

Detroit, after 10 years as one of the strongest teams in the league, is floundering in fifth place as though it never heard of a playoff position.

Chicago, after four years in last place is tied for third and playing as though it never saw the cellar.

As the National Hockey League resumes action tonight, Hawks put their new-found confidence on display against Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto and the shaky, injured-riddled Wings play New York Rangers at New York.

The difference in the two teams might be Ted Lindsay, high-scoring leftwinger who was traded to Chicago last summer after 13 seasons with Detroit.

He has taken over as leader of the Hawks and given them solid assurance that they belong right up at the top. The team responded and is tied with Boston Bruins five points behind Montreal Canadiens.

Lindsay doesn't see it the same way.

"We've simply got a solid club," he says.

So far the Hawks have been just that. After a wobbly start while players got to know their new teammates, Chicago has come along under Coach Rudy Pilous' coaching and has lost only three of its last nine games.

An improved defence has given goalie Glenn Hall the second-best goals - against average in the league. The offense hasn't been as potent as expected but the Hawks don't waste goals—they've already scored two 1-0 victories.

Biggest Hawk weakness so far has been an inability to gain points on the road. Chicago has won only one of nine road games, both victories over Detroit.

Tigers, Kansas Will Announce Huge Player Deal

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers and Kansas City Athletics today will announce a trade that may involve as many as 10 or 12 players, including infielder Billy Martin and catcher Tim Thompson of As and centrefielder Bill Tuttle and pitcher Duke Maas of Tigers.

One high Detroit official calls it "the biggest deal in our team's history."

The Tigers' biggest previous player transaction was an eight-player swap with Cleveland in 1952.

Both American League teams called press conferences for 11 a.m. to announce particulars of the deal said to involve no cash but at present doesn't know just what it will be.

Dandurand said there is no disagreement between him and the Alouette associates. He recalled that he flew to Toronto he told newspaper men he would be stepping out as Alouette president but would remain as club's financial year ends.

"Even last January I told vice-president Ted Workman: 'You should take over the presidency. It belongs to you'."

Leo Dandurand To Retire As Lark Boss

MONTREAL (CP) — Leo Dandurand, one of Montreal's most widely known sportsmen, said he will retire as president of Montreal Alouettes football club next March.

Dandurand, 63, said Tuesday he thinks younger shoulders should take over the load.

He said he will still retain some connection with the club but at present doesn't know just what it will be.

Two Ti-Cat Toes Have Talent May Boot Team to Cup Fame

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who have been helped through many a tight spot by one inspired toe, are counting a second in their drive towards the Big Four Football Union crown.

The possessor of the second toe is stocky Steve Consolmo, whose dramatic field goals are making the fans in this football-mad city forget the heroics of Sam Fraser.

In three last two games—the first gave them first place, the second a seven-point margin over Montreal Alouettes in the opener of the total-point series for the Big Four title—Ticats scored only 30 points, Consolmo his last 15 of them.

Saturday, Hamilton meets Alouettes in the second and final game for the title and if the Montreal club's week's pattern of the St. Catharines boy will once again be called on to keep Tiger-Cats out in front.

Last Saturday in Montreal he booted three field goals for his total of his team's 17 points and added another on the conversion of their only touchdown as they won 17-10.

Winning titles with his toe is an old story to the veteran halfback, who caught fame with it in high school when "our team was winning by big scores but we never seemed to make any converts."

KICKED THEM ALL

In 1954, his last year with the University of Toronto Blues, he kicked nine in the intercollegiate title with three field goals that gave them a 9-6 win over the University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

When he arrived in the Tiger-Cat camp Tip Logan, a superlative convert man, was handling the placements, but former coach Carl Voyles quickly saw Ones-Consolmo's ability to boot long ones and coach Jim Trimble rapidly became an Ones-huk man on his arrival last year.

Trimble was heartened Tuesday by the news that tackle Dave Suminski, who broke his hand in Saturday's game, will play this week in spite of the injury.

Eskimos 15-Point Favorites To Win Tonight's Big Clash

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers meet tonight in the second game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

Bombers, big in spirit and heart on the basis of the first game, are big and tough in body as well. They are hard.

Eskimos, keyed to a victory pitch, are determined to hit back while, just as hard, maybe harder.

Game time is 8:30 p.m. MST. The crowd of 7,000 or more is expected at Clarke Stadium. The weather will be cool, temperatures between 15 and 20 degrees with partly cloudy skies and probably winds about 10 degrees. The field will be frozen.

EXPECT WITH WIN

Bombers can enter the Grey Cup final by winning tonight and Saturday to break a tie in the best-of-three series with an upset 19-7 victory at Winnipeg last Saturday. Eskimos must win to force a third game set for Saturday.

The betting odds favor Eskimos on the game by about 15 points.

The game brings together Bombers' coach Jack Gotta, rookie bench general, who less than a year ago were on the same Edmonton team in an all-star contest at Vancouver.

Frank (Pop) Ivy, 41, coached for six years at Oklahoma University before he came to Edmonton to take charge. He is shooting for an unprecedented fourth-straight Grey Cup championship.

Harry (Bud) Grant, 30, was a Winnipeg star for eight under Ivy's direction in last year's all-star game. He came out of the Bomber playing ranks, where he spent four years, to take the coaching job.

DOWN TO NINE IMPORTS

"We've got a lot of spirit," said Grant Tuesday night when he stepped off the plane, "but not much else. We're down to nine imports and we can't go much further if we get any more injuries."

He said guard Herb Gray, who flew to Texas where his father died, will be missed tonight. Import halfback Charlie Shepard and end Frank Gilliam, suffering leg and shoulder miseries respectively, will be questionable. Grant said they likely won't see much action. Both Ron Stewart, knee problems, Ken Hall has a broken nose, and Reed Henderson a sore arm, will see a fair assortment of lesser hurts, but Ivy insists each takes its toll.

NHL Players Retract Charges Offer Suggestion to Owners

MONTREAL (CP) — A small olive branch was proffered Tuesday in what many hope is a step in ending an impasse between the National Hockey League Players' Association and the club owners.

Doug Harvey, association vice-president, said he thought a player council might be the means of an approach to the owners and he felt members of the six NHL teams feel somewhat the same way.

"The main purpose of the league's players has been to meet with the owners to settle our demands and get all problems straightened out," said the Montreal Canadiens all-star defenceman in an interview.

"That was one of the reasons for the association's suit when our members were denied a meeting and recognition."

WOULD PRESENT DEMANDS

Harvey made it clear he thought the Players Association should continue as such, as an organization within which the players could formulate their demands. These then would be presented to the owners through a player council.

When he spoke, Harvey said he had not been informed of the withdrawal by the association of charges against the league and club owners of engaging in unfair labor practices.

The announcement was first made in Montreal by NHL president Clarence Campbell and confirmed later in New York by Milton Mound, lawyer for the Players Association.

Campbell said advice of the withdrawal came from the New York regional director of the U.S. National Labor Relations Board.

Later Mound announced the NHLPA is filing before the U.S. board a petition for certification designating agent for NHL teams. The petitions are still being prepared.

SEEK STATUTES FOR CHARGE

Mound said the petition substitutes for the charge of unfair labor practices and the association is also filing a petition with provincial authorities for certification as bargaining agent for Montreal Canadiens.

An application is already pending in Ontario to have the Ontario labor relations board name the NHLPA as bargaining agent for Toronto Maple Leafs team. Filing of a petition in New York would ask the same for Detroit, Boston, Chicago and New York.

Detroit Red Wings last week dissociated themselves from the anti-trust action of the association and broke with the association but said the Detroit players were favorable to the original aims of the association.

The anti-trust action was for $2,000,000 damages on charges of unfair labor practices has no connection with it.

CHAMPION OUTPOINTED

LONDON (AP) — British welterweight champion Peter Waterman was outpointed Tuesday by Trinidad's Boswell Saint Louis in 10-round bout here. Waterman weighed 148, St. Louis 144¼.

The defeat was a big setback for the fistic ambitions of Waterman, a leading contender for the world title. He started the fight confidently, slowed as the West Indian's punches began crashing home and ended the contest in an all-out, two-fisted battle.

Sam Etcheverry To Become Canuck Citizen

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Etcheverry, star quarterback for Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union for the last six seasons, has decided to become a Canadian citizen.

Brought up from the United States in 1952, Etcheverry has been making business connections in Montreal and, it was learned Tuesday, hopes to settle here after his retirement from football.

Etcheverry, 27, intends to follow the lead of his teammate and old Denver University sidekick, Tom Hugo, in taking out Canadian citizenship papers.

For the last several years he has made his home with his family in Albuquerque, N.M.

Etcheverry is already under Alouette contract for next season. His decision probably means he will play out his career with Als.

Pembroke Player Suspended for Six Games

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Douglas of PembrokeLumber Kings of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern Division was suspended for six games by OHA president Lorne Cook.

The suspension was for boarding referee Gordon Feveveau in a game last Wednesday between Pembroke and Kingston CKLC's at Kingston.

Cook said Douglas was given a two-minute penalty and followed Feveveau into the referee's crease. Feveveau asserted a misconduct penalty, Douglas then boarded the official who fell to the ice. Feveveau then gave Douglas a match penalty.

Big Red Says Arenas and Artificial Ice Won't Bother Russian Club

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Indoor arenas and artificial ice won't bother the Russian hockey team in its seven-game swing through Ontario and Quebec, team officials said on arrival here early today. These conditions aren't new to them.

Moscow has had a 14,000-seat arena complete with artificial ice since 1956. So the Russians, who toppled Canada from its Olympic perch in Italy last year, aren't looking for any excuses against junior and senior teams.

"It won't be difficult to play under these conditions in this country," said Col. Pavel Korovkov, chairman of the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation, in an interview. The players might find it a little bothersome to adjust themselves to atmospheric conditions, but they are quietly confident they can hold their own on the ice.

ARRIVE BY AIR

Weary after more than two days in the air, the Russians headed for their downtown hotel and sleep almost after their arrival by plane at 5 a.m.

They left Moscow Monday morning and have practically been in the air since. They arrived at Gander, Nfld., early Tuesday and took advantage of a stopover to exercise. They took a milk-run journey to Montreal, stopping off at Sydney, N.S., and Halifax en route and their plane landed at suburban Malton airport nearly two hours late.

Col. Korolkov, who heads the 36-man party, readily admitted through an interpreter that this wasn't Russia's strongest team, Nor is it the team that will play in the world amateur championships at Oslo next Feb. 28-March 9.

"Some of this team will play in Oslo," he said. But personnel of the club for the world champion ships won't be decided until after the European tournament in Stockholm early in December.

GOES AGAINST WHITBY

The Russians, who brought along their own equipment as did Quebec, open their tour Friday night here against Whitby Dunlops, Canada's representatives in the world tourney. They then play in Windsor, Sudbury, Kitchener - Montreal, Toronto and Kingston before bowing for Stockholm Dec. 8.

Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials met them Montreal and Toronto. The CAHA is playing host to George 'Dudley' of Midland CAHA secretary - manager of the world's welcoming delegati at Toronto, estimated it wou cost the association $20,000 look after the Russian team, composite all-star club from Ontario, Soviet Wings and Central Sports Club of the minist of defence in Moscow.

The CAHA will pay all e penses, including air transport and hotel bills. It will also be easy to do because the Russians will play before red-cr crowds wherever they go. T rinks take 50 per cent of the g receipts and Dudley of the CAHA will receive abo $1,000 for his efforts. Cash is sent to Moscow next year.

A busy schedule has been lin up for the Russians.

They will practise at Mar Leaf Gardens between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. this afternoon, attend a press reception and tonight w the game between Toronto Nationl Hockey League game. tour of Hockey Hall of Fame and Naval Winter Fair in Toron have been arranged for Thursday.

HOW'S YOUR I.Q.?
TODAY'S INSURANCE PROBLEMS ANSWERED

QUESTION—
Suppose a driver hits his brakes so hard he wears flat spots on all his tires; causes a collision. Shouldn't the insurance company pay for the tire damage? After all, the driver has probably saved the company a big collision repair bill!

ANSWER—
The answer is "No". Tires are worn a little every time a car is made, and if insurance companies paid for that damage there would be a million arguments as to degree of damage and whether or not the damage was necessary in avoiding a collision.

McFarlands Remain Atop Eastern Loop With 5-1 Win Over Cornwall

Effective 2-Way Performance Stops Easterners in Tracks; Goalkeepers Are Standouts

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Unleashing another fine two-way performance the Belleville McFarlands established their top-spot position in the Eastern senior "A" League last night, defeating the Cornwall Chevies 5-1 before a mid-week crowd of nearly 1,600.

In a battle of goalkeepers the Macs took a two-goal lead in the first period, split a brace in the second and clinched the verdict with another pair in the final frame.

The Macs poured 41 shots at Frederick in the Chevies' nets, 17 in the final period. Orvelle Bell kicked out 31 of 32 shots. Both custodians sparked their teams' defensive efforts.

The first line of Minnie Menard, Paul Payette and Bep Guidolin turned in an outstanding effort for the McFarlands, scoring two goals and three assists. Menard and Payette each hit paydirt with Guidolin getting assists on a pair. Minnie also drew a helper.

Floyd Crawford and Barton Shradley accounted for a goal and an assist each with Eddie Marineau scoring the fifth and also a helper. Russ Kowalchuk had two assists and Gerry Goyer and Joe Hildebrand one each.

While the game was rugged hard-checking affair only nine minor penalties were handed out by referee Bill Balmer of Toronto, five of them to the McFarlands.

Moe Savard scored the Chevies' lone goal with assists going to Aitken and Lejba.

McFarland fans had a few anxious moments in the second period when Moe Benoit, hit by a severe body check by the Chevies Ron Muir, was carried off the ice on a stretcher. Later it was revealed the 5-foot, 9-inch pepper-pot Mac had received a knockout blow that had put him out for a few minutes. He had a swollen jaw to show for his injury but after a few minutes' rest returned to the ice and helped spark the Macs to their victory.

The first period was featured by outstanding play on the part of Frederick and Bell in the respective nets. It was fast hard-checking hockey with the vantage sweeping end to end.

Floyd Crawford's hard blast from inside the Chevies' blueline opened the scoring at 4:15. Gerry Goyer and Hildebrand got assists with the long pass going back to Crawford on the point.

Marineau and Henri got the only penalties of the period but the goalies rose to heights when the teams were shorthanded.

Bart Bradley scored the Macs second goal from the doorstep after Kowalchuk shot him a long pass. The Chevies raised a storm of protest, the goalie and coach Pat Leajba claiming the puck was iced by Kowalchuk.

However, there was no whistle on the play and the goal was counted. Cornwall outshot the Macs 16-14 in the period.

Bob Paul got the gate to start off the second period but no goals resulted. At 6:15 Moe Benoit was knocked cold by a heavy check from Hildebrand and was taken off on a stretcher. He returned minutes later to a big ovation from the crowd.

Seconds later the Chevies scored their only goal of the game when Savard slapped in Aitken's pass from outside the corner. Leajba credited the play.

Menard and St. Hilaire got the gate within minutes of each other, then Bep Guidolin scored a beauty from the flank but was ruled offside on the play.

Minnie Menard brought the crowd to its feet with a picture goal, hooking into the clear and racing in on Frederick to deke the beatly and put the Macs two up.

Play was fast and furious with both goalies again standing out with close-in saves, Cornwall outshot the Macs 13-10.

The Chevies drove hard opening the third period but fine defensive play by the Macs held them off the score sheet. Later the Macs took over and blasted Frederick from all angles, outshooting the riverside club 17-4 over the period.

After four minutes of play Payette, Guidolin and Menard swept goalwards driving in on Frederick who stopped two drives before Jean-Paul's low hard shot found a corner to give the Macs a 4-1 margin.

Benoit was released a few seconds later but the Macs held the puck, then Grigg got the gate with the Chevies coming up with a fine penalty-killing display.

He had time on the ice but two minutes when Eddie Marineau unleashed a drive with Kowalchuk and Bart Bradley, sinking the rubber to put the Chevies out of reach.

At 11.40 Muir got the heave-ho and the Macs poured on the pressure with Frederick kicking out everything they heaved at him. Menard was in on top of him twice but the goalie blocked the shots.

With five minutes to go Kowalchuk was sent to the sin-bin but the Macs successfully fended off the Chevies' efforts and they skated off with a well-earned victory. Neil Burke, Chevies defenceman, received a severe cut over the eye late in the period when struck by a hard shot. He did not return.

The Macs play in Kingston Friday night, entertain the Ottawa Hull Canadiens and pay their first visit to Hull on Sunday.

Lane Predicts Streamline Team For Cleveland

HAVANA (AP)—A streamlined baseball team with a new infield may be in store for Cleveland fans in December, general manager Frank Lane of Indians said Tuesday.

Lane, who has been conferring here with field manager Bobby Bragan of the Indians, said he hoped to announce by then a player lineup which might lead to an American League pennant.

Although Lane declined to say what decisions he and Bragan might have reached, the new Cleveland general manager and Bragan both will attend the week long meetings of the major and minor leagues at Colorado Spring Colo., starting Dec. 2. Any trades likely would be announced there.

"I am willing to give a little more than beyond reason in making trades if we get the key players that we want," Lane said. "The prime needs in rebuilding Cleveland are a shortstop and second baseman."

Chico Carrasquel played short, and Bobby Avila second last season, but Lane indicated they could be traded if it would aid the team.

Olympic Boss Defends Status Of British Star

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee says he does not think the amateur status of British equestrian star Pat Smythe is endangered by an advertising incident.

An international controversy flared when a photograph of the young rider, now appearing at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, was used in an advertisement of a Swiss watch manufacturer.

A spokesman for the company said Miss Smythe received no money but that money was paid to the British Equestrian Federation, which had approved the promotion stunt. Brundage said Tuesday:

"I don't believe there is any danger of her losing her amateur standing. It appears she was an innocent party in an idea approved by the equestrian association."

"We now know we're on the same level as the rest of Canada in football and we're ready," he added, referring to Flyers' 12-7 victory over defending champion Hamilton Tigers in the East for the Eastern title last Saturday.

Byars, a 25-year - old left hander, has a 16-5-1 record but has slipped of late. He defeated Sugar Hart last March but has since lost to Paddy DeMarco, Virgil Akins and Isaac Logart.

Bobby Simpson of Ottawa First Canadian in Five Years To Make Both All-Star Teams

By WILF GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Simpson of Ottawa Rough Riders, a superb pass receiver and blocker on offence and a deadly tackler on defence, today earned extra distinction in being picked for both the 1957 Canadian Press Big Four all-star football teams.

Simpson, an eight-year veteran with the Ottawa club, was selected as the flying wing on the offensive team and as the safety halfback on the defensive squad to mark the first time that a Canadian player has made both teams in the five years that two lineups have been listed.

The 27-year-old native of Windsor, Ont., was considered good enough with five imports for all-star ranking on both squads. It was the fifth time in his career he gained all-star rating. In 1956 he became the first Canadian in five seasons to beat out an import for one of the offensive end positions.

HONORS DIVIDED

The coaches, football writers and sportscasters in the four-team league cities who picked the teams for CP, spread the representation on the offensive side fairly equally among the four clubs. The first- place Hamilton Tiger - Cats placed four players on it, Ottawa and Montreal Alouettes three each and Toronto Argonauts two.

The Tiger-Cats, noted more for their outstanding defence than their scoring punch, grabbed off five positions on the defensive team. Ottawa, runner-up to Hamilton in the regular schedule and beaten by the third-place Alouettes in their semi - final playoff, landed three defensive berths. Montreal and Toronto got two each.

The voting was weighted to give equal balloting strength to each league city.

THE LINEUPS—

The offensive team:

Flying wing — Bob Simpson, Ottawa
Half (plunging)— Cookie Gilchrist, Hamilton
Half — Dick McDougall, Hamilton
Half — Dick Shatto, Toronto
Quarter—Sam Etcheverry, Montreal
Centre — Tom Hugo, Montreal
Guard — Larry Hayes, Ottawa
Guard — Dave Suminski, Hamilton
Tackle — Kaye Vaughan, Ottawa
Tackle — Jim Barrow, Hamilton
End—Hal Patterson, Montreal
End—Neman Schreiner, Toronto

The defensive team:

Safety—Bob Simpson, Ottawa
Half—Hal Patterson, Montreal
Half—Ralph Goldston, Hamilton
Half—Bobby Kuntz, Toronto
Secondary—Tony Curcillo, Hamilton
Secondary—Tom Hugo, Montreal
Guard—Vince Scott, Hamilton
Guard—Larry Vaughan, Ottawa
Tackle—Ken Ploen, Ottawa
Tackle—John Barrow, Hamilton
End—Pete Neumann, Hamilton
End—John Welton, Toronto

ETCHEVERRY AGAIN

Sam (The Rifle) Etcheverry of the Alouettes was returned as quarterback for the fifth straight year although Montreal had only a mediocre season in finishing third with six victories and eight defeats. Montreal's decline as the league's powerhouse club was reflected in the selection of only three players for the offensive team, after having had at least five named in the previous four years.

The number of homebrews on the offensive lineup was cut to one from two last season. Simpson being the only Canadian on it. But for the fourth successive year four native - born players made the defensive squad—Simpson, halfback Bobby Kuntz of Toronto and ends Neil Neumann of Hamilton and John Welton of Toronto.

The five imports who earned two-way all - star ranking with Simpson are Hal Patterson and Tom Hugo of Montreal, tackle Kaye Vaughan and Guard Larry Hayes of Ottawa, and tackle John Barrow of Hamilton.

The selectors saluted Patterson for his brilliant pass-catching and running by making him their only unanimous choice in naming him along with Menan Schreiner of Toronto as the offensive ends. Patterson also won one of the defensive halfback spots and with Vaughan was a double choice for the second year in a row.

GREAT LINEBACKERS

Hugo's selection as the offensive centre and a linebacker on defence added up to the fourth successive season he has made both teams. Like Tony Curcillo at linebacker, who nabbed the other linebacker berth, he is the key to his team's defence.

The offensive team backfield, with bulldozing Pat Abbruzzi of Montreal absent from it for the first time in three seasons, is packed with running power. It has Hamilton's Gerry McDougall, the league's leading ground gainer, teammate Cookie Gilchrist and rugged Dick Shatto of Toronto to complement Simpson's pass-catching ability from the flying wing position.

Gilchrist and Shatto are among the repeaters from last year's offensive team. First-year men to make it are Dave Suminski of Hamilton, picked as one of the halfback guards, McDougall and Barrow, who also is the only first - year player on the defensive lineup. Halfback Ralph Goldston of Hamilton is another repeater from last year's defensive squad and Neumann now has made it five straight seasons.

Defensive guard Vince Scott of Hamilton, a pass-rushing specialist, was named to his sixth straight all - star team and his eighth in the nine seasons he has played in the Big Four. He now is ranked as a non-import by McDougall, who became a Canadian part way through the season after affiliating his parents to born in this country.

AT THE PARK — Dauntless Frontier Scouts Fess Parker and Jeff York lead the wagon caravan onto Chimney Rock, dangerous Pawnee country, in this scene from Walt Disney's "Westward Ho The Wagons!", the roaring adventure epic, in CinemaScope and Technicolor, starting Thursday at the new Park Theatre. On the same program Burt Lancaster stars in "The Crimson Pirate" in color by Technicolor.

AT THE BELLE — Carolyn Jones portrays the irrepressible Julie in Warner Bros. presentation "Johnny Trouble", which stars Miss Ethel Barrymore, Cecil Kellaway. Miss Jones introduces to the screen, Stuart Whitman, who plays the title role, "Johnny Trouble". The major feature attraction on the same program, James Dean, one of the most talked about stars of our time, plays himself in "The James Dean Story", Warner-Bros. full-length feature attraction starting today at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY — Christmas in May — This heart-warming scene is one of the highlights of "God Is My Partner", a Regalscope picture opening on Thursday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Walter Brennan stars as the small-town gardener, teamsters Cookie Gilchrist and rugged Dick Shatto of Toronto to complement Simpson's pass-catching ability from the flying wing position.

Gilchrist and Shatto are among the repeaters from last year's offensive team. First-year men to make it are Dave Suminski of Hamilton, picked as one of the halfback guards, McDougall and Barrow, who also is the only first - year player on the defensive lineup. Halfback Ralph Goldston of Hamilton is another repeater from last year's defensive squad and Neumann now has made it five straight seasons.

General Motors Anniversary Show Enjoyed by Millions

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—At the very beginning of The General Motors 50th Anniversary Show (NBC-TV) I expressed uncomfortable when Kirk Douglas looked at me and said:

"There are some persons who are embarrassed by sentiment; there are those who do not like to be detected in the possession of a heart . . . I suggest that such persons . . . made the first sign of the twisted dial.

Well, heartless fellow that I am, I stuck out the program for its full two hours, admiring the beautiful production, the host of talented performers, and enjoying some of the sequences in the show's theme of the pursuit of happiness.

Yet I'm still baffled as to why I didn't thoroughly enjoy this program which brought ecstatic praise from many viewers. Certainly I'm a sentimentalist. Earlier on Sunday evening I passed 90 misty-eyed minutes thoroughly enjoying that highly sentimentalized study of death, On Borrowed Time, which was brilliantly produced and acted on Hall of Fame (NBC-TV).

EVERYONE LIKED IT

So what was wrong with the General Motors big show? Nothing, according to most viewers I've heard discussing it. The script by Helen Deutsch was excellent, the production by Jess Oppenheimer superb, the performances of virtually everyone tine" indeed.

The fault must lie in that I get my back up when the narrator of a television show comes on and says, in effect, "Look, we're going in for sentiment tonight and if you can't enjoy it you're a slob." That, of course, is a picayune criticism of the program and a big criticism of me.

Before I turn in my reviewer's badge, however, I'd like to say that I believe there is genuine happiness to be found in a solid marriage; in parenthood, in remembering the past, in listening to a singer like Dinah Shore and hearing Helen Hayes speak in verse.

But the show was pressing me into hard in its pursuit of all forms of simple happiness. I don't know when I've been so statistically happy for two solid hours. So credit the show for trying—and me for failing again to grin for two hours.

Hollywood Finds Abbe Lane More Than a Band Singer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Abbe Lane swore she wouldn't return to Hollywood until the combined studio heads bore her through the streets like an Egyptian princess, with the lesser officials strewing rose petals in her path.

Well, she's back, and no such demonstration occurred.

However, there are indications that Hollywood is coming around to her way of thinking about Abbe Lane.

"Hollywood!" she exclaimed, seething. "Don't mention Hollywood to me!"

"I left here two years ago because nobody in Hollywood could see me as anything but a band singer. I went to Italy, where they have imagination about a person's talent. When they see a girl sing, they realize she could be able to act, too."

The more perceptive Italians made good use of her talents. In two years, she did a total of eight pictures, appearing opposite such stars as Vittorio de Sica, Toto and Peter Ustinov.

ITALIAN TICKLE

"I went to Italy at a very good time," she reported. "The other female stars were on the wane. Sophia Loren was away doing American pictures. They needed a sider her almost an American star now. Besides, she is in real trouble because of her marriage.

"Gina Lollobrigida was out because of her baby, and she was in trouble in popularity. The Italians are very fickle about their screen favorites."

So Abbe stepped in. Now she's back here to play in Columbia's Marseilles with Cornel Wilde, who is also producing and directing.

"I didn't quite get carried through the streets when I returned," she smiled, "but they did make concessions to have me do the picture. Because I have to start play rehearsals right away, they started the picture earlier than they expected. And they're getting all of my scenes out of the way in 10 days so I can leave."

Abbe is returning to New York to start on Captain's Paradise. Jose Ferrer is putting on the broadway musical version of the English movie with Tony Randall playing the Alec-Guinness role.

Crock-Eyed Cops Will Look for 'Boozum' Pals

HAMILTON (CP) — Police Chief Leonard G. Lawrence today scored the use of liquor in Hamilton Big Four football games and promised that commencing this coming season police coverage would be increased.

Chief Lawrence said that at the last home game on Nov. 9, there were many unruly fans, a number of them drinking intoxicants. Following the game three persons were charged with intoxicated driving.

He also said that any fan interfering entering the field of play or interfering with players or officials will be arrested.

Marlies Whip St. Mike's 5-1

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros outshot and outplayed St. Michael's Majors Tuesday night to take a 5-1 victory and sole possession of second place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The win gave them 13 points and broke a second-place deadlock with Hamilton Tiger-Cubs. St. Michael's is in sixth place.

Gord Haughton, Bob Nevin, Wallie Boyer, Bill Kennedy and Sonny Meeker scored for Marlboros. Bob McKnight was the lone St. Mike's marksman.

Pep Kelly Named Trapper Coach; Sign Kotanen

NORTH BAY (CP) — Regis (Pep) Kelly, who once played for Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, has been appointed coach of North Bay Trappers of the OHA-NOHA Senior A loop, until he returns to Chuck Scherza.

Scherza is still recuperating from a hockey accident in which he lost the sight of his left eye. He hopes to be able to resume his coaching job this weekend but his exact return is indefinite.

Kelly will function as coach on a full-time basis, starting today when Trappers play Wolves at Sudbury.

Trappers also announced the release of John Kotanen and the signing of defenceman Dick Kotanen. Kotanen has played for Windsor Bulldogs, Chatham Maroons, Kingston CKLCs and Pembroke Lumber Kings.

WINS CLOSE FINISH

TORONTO (CP) — John A. Martin's Teddy's Road, a trim little daughter of the renowned Alsab out of Best Yet, cut the corner at the turn for the wire to win the Isabel Purse at a mile and 70 yards in gusty, overcast weather at New Woodbine park Tuesday.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars Impel . . . they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) An unexpected occurrence with someone you believed personal could easily upset your equilibrium. A.M. is the sure time to make unwise investments. Selfless moves, P.M. friend. Signs blend: regular abundance.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) If you are not the soul of diplomacy, this A.M. a furious battle with could ensue between a family member and outsider. After-noon you are then able to be with person vital to welfare, close agreement.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Take care to drive carefully and avoid well-known words or a mate. Conflict could take place, only in this fashion will you be able to accomplish all that you set out to do, get rid of odd jobs.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Be wise and do not permit high-power salesmanship to influence you in buying at high price something of little value. Later in afternoon you will have free time and ease of mind to enjoy pleasures with dearest friends.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Refrain from exercising too much authority with those within your household today. Use this dynamism in business, if necessary. Get fixtures in good order. Be positive. Planetary forces want to test you.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Be calm and kind this A.M. or many of your little secrets will be exposed to your detriment. Then the afternoon is fine for great accomplishment with associates, relations, neighbors. Labor diligently.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Your goals are far greater than your present meager savings can envision of realization, yet if you show your admiration and devotion to right parties, you will get help that will bring them closer. Get clothes cleaned.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Morning is touchy, since you would dearly love to berate a higher up, or an executive will try to do this to you. Sidestep quickly and you will then be able to make great strides towards success. Be clever.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Get your hours wisely set up so that you will be able to perform tasks that are a must, yet also have time for association with that fascinating person. P.M. make an impression in private on admired personality.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A run-of-the-mill advisor today hands you a humdrum, dull service which you should quickly forget. Determine to solve own problems by use of the good sense God gave you and see clearly that which is true or false.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Avoid pitched battle between good associate and some wily, angling higher up. Then it will be possible for you to know best way to advance by following the most ethical and high-principled ideals.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Since you are bored with daily grind, this would be a perfect day for enlarging your scope after doing only what is absolutely necessary. If you have no original ideas, look into your paper for best results.

If your child is born today: The high-powered little child born today will be a veritable dictator where his or her wishes are concerned. But force of any kind will only make matters worse, so it is your duty to correct your progeny by appealing to reason and through fines, literature, personal influences. Be an example yourself, have regular hours for everything and the child will then fine for the superlative executive.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this long-awaited announcement in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "positive shrinking treatment" was reported and verified by doctors' examinations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H. Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

NOTICE

Sealed tenders will be received by the undersigned up to 12 noon, Saturday, November 23rd, 1957, for the purchase of the property known as the Old Public School, Lot 1, Block 1, Plan 1, Township of Sidney, Village of Frankford.
Tenders must be accompanied by a certified cheque for 10% of the amount of the tender.
The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.
Dated at Frankford, November 18th, 1957.

INSURANCE PLAN

Mr. Disenbaker referred to hospital insurance only in passing. Most of his 30-minute address was given over to a sarcastic but good-humored attack on the Liberals and CCF which the opposition parties apparently took in good part.

He said the Liberals are "a party that barks but does not bite." The Liberals "talk like lions; they vote like lambs."

The CCF, he said, "pretend they are not afraid because they rely on the fact that the Liberal party is afraid" to defeat the minority government and force an election.

Of the Liberals, the prime minister said: "They criticize. They sneer. They sniff. And later tonight they'll be voting confidence in us.

"How do they follow this strange and tortuous course? Is it frustration? Is it mere opportunism at a low level? Everyone knows the answer. They're afraid of the against us. They wriggle in their own graveyard."

The CCF non-confidence motion was "the worst kind of red herring and political opportunism."

The CCF was "courageous" in its presenting the motion because Liberal Leader St." Laurent had already said his party wouldn't try to defeat the government.

"They can speak valorously because they know there's no risk."

Jake Schulz (CCF — Springfield) said the government would be doomed if it dared to call an election before putting hospital insurance into operation.

"Not even the showmanship of the prime minister would save this government," he said.

Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East), a surgeon, said the provision of more hospital beds should be an integral part of any hospital insurance plan. There was a crying need for more hospital space, and the present federal construction grants were inadequate.

Three Are Killed As Violent Blast Rips Italian Ship

Hundred Injured, Windows Broken Near Naples Port

NAPLES, Italy (Reuters)—At least three persons were killed and about 100 injured when a violent explosion ripped through the 2,285-ton Italian freighter Anna Maria Levoli today.

The ship, a large hole torn in her right side, sank an hour after the explosion. Only a part of the foreepeak remained above water.

The blast, in the ship's boiler room, caused panic and shattered hundreds of windows in the Naples port area.

A steel plate measuring about 35 by 16 feet was hurled by the force of the blast about 100 yards onto a city square, injuring people and tearing down streetcar wires. Most of the ship's crew were on board at the time. A few were seen jumping overboard while others were rescued by firemen before the vessel went down.

Eleven persons died in the violent explosion and fire on board the Italian freighter Bricoloc reached Hawk Island by lifeboat and Hawk Island by daylight. No trace of the missing men was found. Meanwhile, the search continued around the island.

The John C continued to circle the island and called to the Evelyn Rocks about 8 a.m. by an RCAF helicopter from Trenton, which had sighted the stranded tug. It picked up the two men and took them here where they were checked by a doctor.

Pearson Hopes NATO Nations Have A Weapons

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's former minister of external affairs says a new defence balance achieved by distribution of tactical atomic arms to western European nations could prevent the need for massive retaliation.

"It is my hope," Hon. Lester B. Pearson said Wednesday night, "that all NATO nations will have access to atomic weapons."

By this means the west could retain its capacity for total retaliation while finding another way to maintain the balance of deterrence "by a balance of terror, or, another level."

"The development and possession of tactical as opposed to strategic atomic weapons would neutralize the relative weakness of the West in conventional weapons and, above all, make strategic retaliation unnecessary."

HOPE FOR PEACE

"Along these lines, I think, lies our best possibility of defensive security, and therefore peace, in the military power field, alone on secure peace."

He told the McGill University student audience on world affairs Wednesday that the Atlantic alliance is facing a grave crisis, particularly since France's dispute with the United States and United Kingdom over arms shipments to Tunisia.

Unless there is a pooling of tactical nuclear weapons among the smaller European nations in NATO, he said, there is always the danger these countries will despair of keeping up their own conventional forces.

Flood Damage Claim Dismissed

GODERICH (CP)—The $375,000 flood damage claim by Dr. L. G. Hagmeier of Thedford and Virginia Hagmeier against municipalities has been dismissed by the arbitration board, Each party must pay his own costs.

The decision came in a report from Gordon Ross, who presided at the three-week hearing held here in July.

Dr. He action which lasted more than 11 years, Dr. Hagmeier claimed damages for crop losses against the townships of McGillivray, Biddulph, East and West Williams, Hay and Stephen and the Town of Parkhill.

Mr. Ford's statement said in part: "The evidence in this case did not charged the onus on them in that the damage would have resulted even if adequate work had been kept in repair."

TORONTO (CP) — Ice-coated highways in the outskirts of Toronto caused a score of accidents early today, including a 12-car pileup on Highway 401 north of the city.

MRS. FAIRCLOUGH PRESENTS BUDGET FOR DEPARTMENT

Five Billion Spending Program Considered

OTTAWA (CP)—It was largely the lady's day in the commons.

The House Wednesday launched detailed study of the $5,000,000,000 spending program left to the new Progressive Conservative government by the former Liberal administration.

As the only woman cabinet minister — and Canada's first— State Secretary Ellen Fairclough was the first to present her departmental spending plans.

The prime minister, Jean T. Richard (L—Ottawa East), referred to the fact Mrs. Fairclough was guiding her first estimates through the House.

"It is not unusual for a man to inquire into the budget of a woman at home," he said. But it was "a distinction" to be considering public spending under the "honorable lady's" departmental jurisdiction.

DIDN'T FORGET

The members did not forget, however, where they were.

Both Liberal J. W. Pickersgill, Bonavista-Twillingate, Nfld., since himself, and Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles also pointed questions about the department's spending program.

Mr. Knowles, Winnipeg North Centre, noted that Finance Minister Donald Fleming has said the new government would not necessarily seek approval for all of the estimates presented by the last spring for the fiscal year that started last April 1.

Mr. Pickersgill, MP for Bonavista-Twillingate, inquired:

"Could the honorable lady enumerate the examples of waste and extravagance which the minister of finance found in her department?"

Added Mr. Fleming claimed to have found many examples of Liberal government extravagance and waste.

ALREADY COMMITTED

Mrs Fairclough said she found when she took over last June that most of her department's estimates already had been committed.

"So that in this department, almost more than any other, leaving. I do not think I can pinpoint it to the extent of saying that the thousands of dollars on one vote or another.

But the former Hamilton accountant added: "I am keeping a close accountant's eye on the situation."

Knowles asked whether Mrs. Fairclough could indicate what spending items suggested by the Liberals she planned to change.

Suggested Sale of Royal Bloomers Causes Pants in London Show "Biz"

LONDON (Reuters)—A pair of Queen Victoria's bloomers has caused a rift in the ranks of Britain's show business world, a newspaper story revealed today.

Henry Fielding of The Daily Herald said celebrities are deeply divided over a plan to auction the royal undies at the Stars' Organization for Spastics annual fundraising ball here Monday.

An unnamed man in northern England sent the underwear to singstress Vera Lynn, SOS chief, Fielding said. Miss Lynn, SOS man, to aid the campaign. But with the bloomers is "a piece of underwear described as a 'shift'" Fielding said.

The shift is monogramed "VR" —Victoria Regina—and "experts say the claim for both pieces is befrilled underwear (that they belonged to England's 19th century monarch) is genuine," the report added.

The stars are "vociferously split" in the issue of whether or not to auction the clothing off. One star, demanding to remain anonymous, sent a £100 cheque to SOS with the note: "I'll buy the damn things or I'll boycott the show."

30 Hrs. Marooned on Rock Rescued Sailors Exhausted

NIPIGON, Ont. (CP) — Four exhausted lake seamen climbed stiffly ashore from an ice-encrusted rescue tug here Tuesday after "more than 20 hours marooned on a wave-battered rock in Lake Superior.

The men were stranded early Tuesday morning when the tug D and C, bound from Port Arthur to Collingwood was tossed on a rock by giant waves during a blizzard. They were picked up Wednesday morning by the tug John C.

Rescued were Captain John McKenzie, 46, of Fort William; MacKenzie, 46, of Fort William and Bryan Dreyer, 24, Fred H. Raymond, 60, and Ernest Bishop, 63, all of Collingwood. They were suffered only exhaustion, shock and stinging, reddened eyes caused by spray and wind.

Dreyer, part owner of the D and C, said the 1,000-ton Port Arthur late Monday intending to make as direct as trip as possible across the lake. However, snow started at dark and as the weather worsened, decided to sought shelter in the north-western shore of the lake, fringed with islands.

The ship was anchored. When an attempt was made to weigh anchors because the first was dragging, it was discovered the steering gear was broken. The ship drifted on to a bald rock, one of four known as the Evelyn Rocks about 20 miles southwest of Hawk Island and 60 miles east of the Lakehead.

The crew fled between breakers to the rock," about 100 feet long, at the tug tilted towards deep water.

"If it hadn't been for the way the tug was lying, we wouldn't be sitting here at all," Capt. MacKenzie said. "She broke the waves but the spray came right over us."

Mattresses and blankets dragged ashore by the men were soaked with spray and froze. The men returned to the tug later then they noticed the craft was leaning towards the rock.

Oil and other heating equipment aboard the vessel was knocked out by the grounding and the men tore fragments from the deckhouse to build a fire on deck. This ashore, they had burned the old tires used as fenders.

The men knew their S O S had been received by the freighter Hawk Island by lifeboat and FIVE CNS SHIPS LEAVE MONTREAL, DESTINATION?

Officials Won't Say Vessels Halifax-Bound

HALIFAXP (CP)—Canadian National Steamship officials here have refused to confirm that five CNS ships which sailed from Montreal Tuesday night are bound for this port.

The company announced last week it hopes to resume service between here and the Caribbean by the end of the month. Eight CNS ships which normally operate between Canada's east coast and Trinidad and British Guiana have been tied up since last June by a strike of the Seafarers' International Union.

The ships that slipped out of Montreal harbor Tuesday night, a scant few weeks ahead of the winter freeze-up on the St. Lawrence River, were the Canadian Victor, Canadian Highlander and Canadian Cruiser.

AT ANCHORAGE

The other three Canadian Conqueror, Canadian Leader and Canadian Challenger — have not moved from their anchorage in cold-harbor here. Shipping men date who sail these ships could not reach here before Friday, and the Canadian Victor and one ship which roared over the Gulf of St. Lawrence Wednesday night all be can to be here for the five Montreal ships came from was not known. Efforts to get a crew to sail the ships were not made.

Meanwhile, Canadian Seamen Union was ordered to turn their ships over to CNS officials this weekend on orders of the Commonwealth Conciliation Board. Wednesday Transport Minister Hees said CNS officials had assured him that crews were adequate for the work they would have to do.

The registry of the ships was changed recently from Canada to Trinidad. The Seafarers' International Union has charged that the transfer constitutes strike breaking.

ONLY BY OFFICERS

Shipping sources in Montreal understood the five freighters were manned only by officers when they left there and drizzling rain at dusk Tuesday. The officers were hurriedly rounded up in the face of a gale.

Under full strike for higher wages, the eight ships employed 360 men. They turned out to back demands for a 30-per-cent wage increase.

At the time of the strike able seamen were paid $204 a month and bosun and boatswain $230. Trinidad registry the basic rate will be between $55 and $60 a month.

Longshoremen's unions have refused to handle the ships under foreign registry, but the Canadian Supercargo still has a cargo of sugar that must be unloaded before she can sail.

Russia Pledges Financial Aid To Nasser's Plan

CAIRO (AP) — Russia's pledge of economic aid for Egypt is reported to mean a $175,000,000 boost for President Nasser's five-year industrialization plan.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency said Wednesday night the agreement announced in Moscow Tuesday calls for Russia to provide 700,000,000 rubles worth of aid. Egypt's official rate of exchange rate is four rubles to the dollar.

Neither a joint Russian-Egyptian communique nor the Egyptian news agency report said what form the aid will take. But it is assumed that in the case of Syria, the rubles will pay for and technical advisers.

IN RED PLANE

Maj.-Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, the Egyptian war minister who negotiated the agreement with the Kremlin, flew home from Moscow Wednesday in a Soviet jet-airliner. He gave Nasser a two-hour report on his visit.

Although Soviet Premier Bulganin has pledged full support to Egypt and other Middle East countries in "settling" the Suez canal issue said Amer and the Kremlinites had discussed "mutual interests" as well as economic co-operation and military questions. There was no elaboration of any of this.

The Middle East News Agency said that starting in five years Egypt will repay the loan during a 12-year period. It did not say what the interest rate will be. Syria is to pay 2.5 per cent on her Russian aid.

Sir Stanley Rous Dislikes Seeing Kissing Players

HARROGATE, England (Reuters)—Soccer players who hug and kiss their goal scorers like basketball players do have upset Britain's soccer association president.

Before kicking off at an army game here, Sir Stanley Rous told 500 cadets:

"These ideas have crept into football since we began to play continental teams. We have copied some of their emotional style as well.

"That is not the British method. I do not like to see footballers hugging and kissing a colleague who scores a goal."

Textiles Group Says Wool Tariff Is Essential

OTTAWA (CP) — The United Textile Workers of America Council of Canada (CLC) says higher tariff protection for Canada's wool cloth industry is essential if the latter is to maintain activity and security of textile workers.

In a submission to the tariff board, which earlier this week completed the first phase of the textile tariff structure, the union argued that the future prospects of the cloth industry is "apt to drive the affected people into the ranks of unemployed, thereby ruining their lives are destroyed."

The brief called for "stabilization of the industry as it has existed." A highly integrated cotton industry in textile centres, most of which had populations of less than 10,000.

The union called for measures which would preserve for the Canadian industry at least 65 per cent of the domestic market.

In cross examination following presentation of the brief, Canadian Director Roger Provost of the textile group would back a-move for increased tariffs even if this would result in higher consumer prices.

"But I don't think prices will rise," he added.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A man who collapsed and died of a heart attack on a bridge Tuesday was identified Wednesday as an American hero of the First World War. John J. Kelly, 59, won the Medal of Honor and a high French decoration for single handedly capturing a German machine-gun nest in France.

Radio sales rose to 486,780 units from 456,501 and record player sales increased to 148,031 units from 100,664. TV sales declined to 288,156 from 403,399.

Dulles Says NATO To Fight Without War Declaration

Decision Would Be Made On Spot by Commanders

CHICAGO (AP)—State Secretary Dulles says that forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would "almost certainly fight back" without waiting for a declaration of war, if attacked in the field.

Dulles, told reporters Wednesday night such a decision would be made on the spot by field commanders.

He said the attack "almost certainly would involve American troops because the NATO forces are so intermingled."

Fire certainly would be returned, he added, "if it were something complicated to Pearl Harbor, say."

The remarks arose from a question about the "time for decision" in the event of a possible atomic attack on NATO forces.

AS CONSULTANT

Adlai Stevenson, the two-time Democratic presidential candidate who became a consultant to the Eisenhower administration on Atlantic alliance problems, came to Chicago with Dulles. He told reporters after his talk he is to be back in his post as consultant to the Republican administration soon.

However, Stevenson added that he was "certainly not" offering to succeed Eisenhower's Cabinet team. He said he has not been invited to attend next December's NATO meeting in Paris with Eisenhower and Dulles. Neither of them will be a decision on that until later," he said.

Stevenson says that he will review and discuss U.S. plans to be placed before the NATO conference.

Dulles said Stevenson "will be on the federal payroll a long time" If the former Illinois governor approves of the NATO proposals, Dulles said, he has expressed a willingness to work for their adoption among the allies at home.

Dulles, in an extemporaneous speech before members of the Council on Foreign Relations Wednesday night, said the menace of Russian earth satellites will be a very good thing if it leads the free world to realize the magnitude of its peril.

The only reason for fear of meeting this threat, he said, is in co-operation with other free nations. Such co-operation, he said has been successful since 1950. There has been nothing like it in the days of Soviet domain since then, he said.

The Russians, Dulles said, are trying to make a deal with the United States under which the U.S. would drop all bans on the sale to them of strategic goods, acquiesce in the Soviet control over Eastern Europe and either demore or drop its Western alliances.

This is too heavy a price to pay, he said, "for something which ever made a deal with the Russians ever got what they promised.

Sixth Holdup Sparks Special Police Meeting

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Mayor Steven Pankow called a special meeting of police today after an armed bandit critically wounded a shopkeeper Wednesday night. It was the sixth holdup or attempted holdup in six days.

He said he wants "to see that this terrible situation is stopped."

Vincent Spinaci, 64, operator of a delicatessen, was in "very critical" condition today with wounds received when he was shot twice Wednesday night by a bandit who escaped with only "cold-blooded."

Police quoted Spinaci as saying: "He came in and asked me for the money. I didn't see any gun, but I had to be serious. Then he shot me."

Spinaci's survey of holdups began Saturday when a liquor store was robbed. Two more liquor stores and a candy store were robbed Monday. A woman fought off the armed robbery of a variety store Tuesday.

Macmillan, Lloyd In Paris-Bound For Arms Talks

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan announced today he will go to Paris Saturday to discuss Anglo-French relations—particularly the Tunisian arms crisis—with Premier Felix Gaillard.

Macmillan told the House of Commons he will be accompanied by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. He said:

"In the light of recent developments in Tunisia and the coming NATO meeting I have accepted the invitation to visit Paris 25th November to discuss with the French prime minister matters of common interest to our two governments."

NY Governor Orders Investigation Of Police Who Broke up Meeting

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York state police who broke up and investigated a meeting of subversives a week ago were under investigation themselves today.

Governor Averell Harriman disclosed Wednesday night that he has ordered a number of inquiries by state agencies into the mobster meeting. The governor also directed state police superintendent to submit "a complete report on the circumstances of the raid."

A spokesman said the governor wanted the report since criticism had been raised about the police actions.

Troopers flushed out 60 men last Thursday from Joseph Barbara's remote country mansion in the hamlet of Apalachin in south-central New York. Many underworld luminaries were netted.

Although no arrests were made, the first time any police had interfered with and broken up a meeting of such a group.

There has been criticism of the state police from some quarters over the prompt release of the participants in the meeting.

The police superintendent, Francis S. McGarvey, Wednesday ordered a number of inquiries by state agencies into the "conceiling for evil purposes," he added.

There has been speculation that the meeting was held to divide up the interests of mobster Albert Anastasia, who was slain last month while sitting in a barber's chair in New York City.

Frank Newman Zone Forester At Napanee

Frank Newman is 68 but still going strong. He's been in forestry work in Ontario most of his life and although reaching retirement age in 1954 he still keeps active as a consultant and right now he's filling in as zone forester at Napanee until a replacement can be named for William E. Edwards, who was recently transferred to Angus, Ont.

Mr. Newman, who is officially "forest consultant in reforestation," received his first appointment as assistant to Dr. E. J. Zavitz, then provincial forester, in 1913, shortly after he had graduated from forestry school.

Mr. Newman designed the first provincial forest station in Canada and with the exception of three years in service during the First World War, he remained as superintendent of the original forest station near St. Williams, in Norfolk County, until becoming district forester in Erie district at the time the Department of Game and Fisheries and the Department of Lands and Forests were combined. Subsequently he became regional Forester for South Western Ontario until his retirement.

For Frank Newman "retirement" means just going into a consultant capacity for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and he has been given all manner of jobs. Recently he planted 10 months in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Counties and now he's been transferred to the Trenton area of the department to serve Lennox and Addington, Hastings and Prince Edward counties, with headquarters in Napanee.

"My prime endeavor is to act as adviser to woodlot owners who are selling logs to mill men in general and pulpwood to pulp mills in particular. In short, to instill proper and more profitable methods of procedure in farm woodlot management," he says.

His services are available on request to the Napanee area for those wishing help and there is no charge. Mr. Newman has had years of experience in matters pertaining to reforestation, including the growing of Christmas trees, how to combat disease and infestation of insects and matters pertaining to reforestation.

"I'm here to help," is the way Frank Newman, of Simcoe, Ont., row of Napanee, puts it.

Kingston Organist Gives Talk on London Congress

The Bay of Quinte Centre of the Canadian College of Organists met at the home of Mrs. G. E. Rennie, Eleanor Gardens, on Saturday, November 16, to hear Mr. G. N. Maybee, organist and choirmaster of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, speak on his impressions of the London Congress held last summer.

The chairman, Mr. R. Bell, announced that Mrs. M. C. Stafford, President of the C. C. O., has promised to visit Belleville in the coming year. It is expected that she will give a lecture on choir training. The tentative spring agenda will include a recital on Sunday afternoon and a tea at Sargeant's on-the-Hill; a visit to Napanee; a recital in Picton United Church and a return visit to Peterborough.

As a result of the Hymn Festival held in St. George's United Church on Nov. 7, the Building Fund of the C. C. O. will receive $125.

Mr. A. A. Bennie introduced Mr. G. N. Maybee who in turn congratulated the Centre on its achievements to date. He spoke informally on the Congress of A. G. O., R. C. C. O. and C. C. O. members held in London last summer. Mr. Maybee arrived in London two days before the start of the Congress and as a result he was present at the graduation exercises of the Royal College of Organists at which two Honorary Fellowships were conferred.

Mr. Maybee spoke at length on the organ recitals, the lectures and the choir festival services and the concerts that were given during the Congress. He strongly recommended the recitals that he heard when copies are made available. He stated that the choir festival and service in Westminster Abbey set the keynote for the whole Congress. Mr. Maybee spoke particularly of the recitals in Temple Church, St. Paul's Cathedral, Southbridge; Westminster Cathedral; Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral. In Mr. Maybee's opinion the American organists gave the best recitals while the British organists were superior to everyone in choral and church music.

On the subject of small organs, he was impressed with the beautiful tonal organ in St. Sepulchre's Church which, because of the resonance of the building, sounded like a much larger organ. The delegates to the Congress were given the opportunity of attending a great variety of church services on the Sunday. The services in Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral were particularly impressive.

The Congress closed with a grand dinner which was highlighted by the presence of a real traditional Toast Master, Dr. Mann, who closed his talk by playing parts of a recent recording of "Evensong" sung in King's College Chapel, Cambridge.

Mrs. F. B. Henderson expressed the thanks of the gathering at the conclusion of Mr. Maybee's talk.

The hostess served light refreshments to conclude a very enjoyable evening.

Urge Merchants To Spread Help Aiding Jobless

George Whitman informed The Ontario Intelligencer today that the local committee for the winter employment campaign urges that part-time Christmas help be recruited through the National Employment Service.

It was pointed out that in past years, stores and other business enterprises requiring part-time help have given work to persons already employed but who are prepared to work extra hours in their off-time. It was pointed out by Mr. Whitman that such a practice does not spread the employment as far as it will go.

Instead of giving part - time work to housewives, whose husbands are working, or to those who are regularly employed in other employment, it is suggested that the employer communicate with the National Employment office., Woodland 6-5703.

There are many unemployed persons who would make suitable and valuable part-time employees and who are presently unemployed through no fault of their own. They are anxious to work, and possess skills and experience that would be matched with the job requirements of the employer.

was 79 years of age and had resided in Saskatchewan for 36 years returning to his home town of Tweed ten years ago, where he planned and built a nice home for the two of them.

Many floral tributes and Mass cards helped to show the high esteem in which the deceased was regarded in the district and town.

SEARCH FARM FOR MORE SKULLS, BONES

Edward Gein, 51-year-old farmer, is surrounded by officers and newsmen on his 160-acre farm near Plainfield, Wis., after discovery of the mutilated and headless body of a 58-year-old woman and 15 skulls on his property. It was the all-out search for Mrs. Bernie Worden, a hardware store owner, that led to the discovery of the decapitated body in a shed on Gein's farm.

Nomination Day Will Be Friday At City Hall

Nominations for the office of mayor, aldermen, public school trustees and public utility commissioner, will be held at the city hall tomorrow (Friday) as local citizens go through the preliminary motions of naming those whom they would like to hold office for 1957.

The municipal elections will be held Monday, December 2 with polls opening at 9 o'clock, remaining open until 7 in the evening.

So far there are all indications of a quiet election, with only one man, former Alderman Gerald B. Hyde, having thus far officially announced himself as being in the field for the mayoralty. Mayor Jane Forrester, now completing her second term as chief magistrate, has stated she will not contest the mayoralty.

However, there are still possibilities of a mayoralty contest with Ex-Alderman Don McNevin, for the Belleville Citizens reported to be considering running for mayor.

Contacted this morning by the Ontario Intelligencer, Mr. McNevin said he had been "toying with the idea, but has not definitely made up my mind."

In the aldermanic field there are seven seats to be filled, or possibly eight, depending on the decision of Ward 3 Coun. C. Anderson, who has been asked to interpret the Municipal Act to rule whether Mrs. Theo Wheeler is entitled to the seat of Gerald Hyde who resigned when council to run for mayor.

Mrs. Wheeler was next in line at last year's defeated candidates but her right to Mr. Hyde's seat was challenged.

Nominations will be held at the city hall tomorrow, starting at 11 a.m.

Two Break-ins Reported in Quinte District

Two break-ins were reported in Belleville and district last night.

In the City the Detlor and Hatfield Regent service station on Dundas Street was entered with a quantity of cigarets reported taken.

In Prince Edward County, west of Redmersville, the Marton service station was also said entered. In this instance provincial police at Picton are investigating.

City firemen had two runs, one a false alarm to the Bridge Street Hotel, and the other at six o'clock this morning to an apartment at 280 1-2 Front street where an egg in a frying pan burned up as it was being cooked for the morning breakfast.

SETTLERS' FOES

Motorists Asked Not to Use Lot For Few Days

City and district motorists have been requested by City Engineer Charles Mott to refrain from parking on the city-owned parking lot on Bridge street for the next few days to allow for painting of parking lines on the recently completed pavement. The lot will be barricaded until the painting is completed.

Parking meters for the lot have been ordered following authorization of their purchase by council on Monday and the meters will be installed as soon as they arrive.

British Empire Cheese Show Starts Nov. 27

The 30th annual convention and British Empire Dairy Show of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association is slated to get underway in Belleville November 27-28.

As in past years the show will be held in the market building.

Mrs. Lillian Matthews, secretary-manager of the sponsoring association, said today that for the first time cheeses will be exhibited from Wisconsin. Cheeses will also come from western Canada and parts of Ontario. She added that this year's show will entertain more cheese than have been seen in the past 10 years.

This show, which Belleville plays host to, is reputed to be about the largest annual cheese exhibit in Canada.

The show will get underway over the weekend when cheese are recorded in the market building. In past years a convention dinner on Wednesday night, but this year the dinner will be reserved until closing night and will be held in the Masonic Temple on Foster Ave.

In addition to regular classes of cheeses, this year will see the debut of a mature class, the prizes for which will be given by the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board. There will be three judges for the mature class.

Judging for the British Empire show starts Tuesday, with the judges being J. M. Bain, chief dairy inspector, London; R. and R. H. Gillan, grader in charge at Belleville.

'Without Incident' Flight Had Its Exciting Moments Writes Editor From London

By DICK PAYNE

Editor's note: Dick Payne, editor of the Ontario Intelligencer, left Sunday flew to London, England, as a guest of Trans-Canada Airlines. The occasion was the inaugural non-stop flight from Toronto to Prestwick, Scotland, and then on to London. Mr. Payne will return by TCA plane next weekend.

LONDON, England — "Without Incident"

That's probably how the TCA will officially record its first non-stop flight from Toronto to Prestwick.

But the fourteen Canadian and U.S. newspapermen — and gals — who took off from Malton at 2.35 p.m. Sunday are still gasping. They can't believe the flight was accomplished without casualties.

At least five people missed death by inches — as they scurried across in front of the bus carrying us from London airport to the May Fair Hotel in the heart of London's fashionable West End.

This caused an anguished cry from one of the passengers.

"Take me back to Yonge Street," gasped the packin of Niagara Falls.

Probably thought Yonge street traffic was the world's worst until seeing the folks scurry rabbit like in front of our southbound bus driver.

Obviously never been at the corner of Bridge and Front, Belleville, at 5 p.m. Friday afternoon.

Talking rabbits, they do scurry.

Talking of rabbits, they do scurry in the most unexpected places. One raced across the grass of what must be one of the world's busiest airports a few minutes after our Super-Connie landed here shortly before noon Monday.

The flight was uneventful. During the night, which seemed longer than any on record but was five hours shorter than normal thanks to the time difference, our Super-Connie's four engines roared a comforting song of power.

We had hoped for a clear dawn. It would have been romantic to be able to say that we ate breakfast 19,000 feet above the tip of the Emerald Isle as we flew into a rosy dawn. Instead, when the Northern Lights deserted us, the clouds rolled up to greet us.

DIFFERENT KIND OF BEAUTY

But they had a different kind of beauty to offer us. How they billowed fluffy, like wool, then spread out like a winter scene in Canada, far behind us.

Just before reaching Scotland they thinned. One caught glimpses of patchwork below. Hunting for landmarks was like trying to locate a snagged wire in the fast-running waters of some river while in a boat drifted rapidly with the current.

They said visibility at Prestwick was ten miles if it was the Scots are as thrifty about the number of words they put in a mile as they are in a number of other things we as sharp-eyed as the referee when your team is a little bit offside.

After landing Prestwick and crossing Tweed the weather grew better — naturally. (That's unkind to the TCA man at Prestwick who let us accept a gift of a sprig of heather in spite of the fact that I told him I was an Englishman).

The jets traced intricate patterns in a clear blue sky as we made drove the clouds into London.

Came the landing—as soft as thistledown floating to earth, to prove that the one at Prestwick was no fluke. Came the rabbit and the bus and the May Fair and a chance to bathe and sleep.

I'm paired with Ted Douglas of the Windsor Star. He thought a visit to the House of Commons would be fun. So he telephoned Canada House. Call you back, sir. A few moments later, "How about this afternoon?"

So out he goes half asleep.

BIG BATH TOWELS

Ted returns the door of the May Fair is a plaque saying: "On March 22, 1927, Their Majesties King George and Queen visited the May Fair Hotel and were graciously pleased to make a tour of inspection. This tablet commemorates the signal honor paid to this British Institution."

One wonders whether they are endeavoring to preserve the hotel as it was then.

But the water is piping hot and the towel big enough to cover an elephant. And then to bed.

Hmm — elderdown quilt — and the blankets tucked in so tight one needs a screwdriver to insert oneself. But how soft the bed—and how quiet the neighborhood—not a whisper of sound in the heart of the world's biggest city at the end of the week-end Monday. Quieter, much quieter than even Toronto on Sunday—Monday.

Eh, oh, what's that? Telephone. Discreet ring. Ted Douglas. Somebody suffering from snakebite in room 358, the abode of Gordon Cruse of the Peterborough Examiner and Joseph Collins of the Guelph Mercury.

Well—the Ontario Intelligencer to the rescue.

Chain-Reaction Crash Causes $450 Damage

Property damage amounting to approximately $450 resulted Wednesday evening in a three-vehicle chain-reaction collision on Bridge Street.

Police said that Allen E. Hinchliffe, Hillside Street, had stopped suddenly in the line of traffic. The vehicle following, driven by Eunice Rollins, of Greenlawn Avenue, got stopped in turn but a following McCall truck transport bumped into the rear of the Rollins vehicle, driving it ahead into the first car.

Damage to the Rollins vehicle amounted to about $400 and $50 to the Hinchliffe car.

Education Head Warned to Quit Or He Will Die

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) — Malaya's education minister was warned today to "resign or die" as student unrest continued throughout the country.

Government officials said Education Minister Inche Mohamed Khir Bin Johari received the threat in a letter from Penang, where police have arrested 30 suspected ringleaders of student riots.

A wave of protest demonstrations has swept the country following a government order restricting Chinese high schools to students 18 years old or under.

Seventy Homes Swamped in Italian Flood

ROVIGO, Italy (Reuters) — Peasants, police and troops early today battled relentless floodwaters driven into the farmlands which melts by unexpected tides from the Adriatic Sea.

The tides burst dikes and swamped 70 more homes in two villages during the last 24 hours. Some 6,000 acres were under water.

A new cycle of high tides neared its peak and during the night a fierce northeast wind made the fight against the floods now in its 10th day, a frantic struggle

Family Night at Mission Attracts Large Congregation

By GLADYS WARD

One of the largest congregations to date attended the mission on Wednesday night at Bridge Street United Church. It was family night and Dr. Ernest Thomas directed his talk to the family group.

The music was an inspirational part of the service as the congregation joined in singing the moving and glorious time-honored hymns. Again the hymn singing was directed by Mr. Linton Read, while Mr. Clifford Templer presided at the organ.

The choir from Holloway Street Church gave a fine rendition of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Rev. W. E. G. Dovey, minister of College Hill United Church, prayed for a blessing on the hearts of the listeners. His reading of the Scripture was one of St. Paul's epistles to the Ephesians.

The strength of the early Christian church was in the homes and it spread out from there," Dr. Thomas declared, as he spoke from the text in Acts 2:21 that "whosoever shall call" the gospel of Jesus Christ in the synagogues and homes.

"I feel strongly more that the final decision between darkness and light is going to be in the home," the speaker continued. The school has its place and the church has to do a great deal but with secularism and atheism rampant the home will have to be settled in the homes. The prayer that can be said in church is that every day we do not cease teaching and preaching Jesus Christ.

TENSE TIMES PREDOMINANT

"There are three words that are predominant in describing a Christian home. The first is companionship which is sharing life together as a family group. Ours is the kind of a civilization that divides families. Someone remarked that when he was at the club, mother was playing bridge, brother was at a movie and sister at a dance and not one of them cared where the other was. The Christian home makes sure that there are times when the family can be together, and share life. We have them at meals and days when we can be together.

"Then there is the love of husband for wife and wife for husband, and their love for their children. This tender love makes up for a lot that is missing in life. Sometimes we forget to say those words of affection and regret that mean so much. Some wives would be very much surprised if their husbands said, "I love you, darling," or if a son put his arms around his mother and said, "I love you"; but we need to take time to say them. Many a boy and girl has learned the love of God through a loving mother or father. If we are going to be a partner of God and know His matchless love, our love for each other is at the heart of it.

THIRD WORD FAITH

"The third word is faith. From the time of Christ a characteristic habit in a Christian home has been prayer before meals.

In the New Testament every time a meal is mentioned it says a prayer of thanks was given. Another habit is the custom of reading the Bible and praying together, having family devotions. It is a tragedy of the first moments in the United States and possibly in Canada, too, that so many never pray together or read the Bible as a family group. Have you neglected the vital and basic Christian experiences with daily devotions and prayer? Many families under the stress of today's living are making a new start and giving God a place in their homes. Civilization is taking a toll of youth in uncertainty and confusion, and they would welcome the opportunity to pray together. What a difference it makes when a family begins devotions together. Miracles are waiting wherever a family makes room for the Master in the family circle.

"What a tragedy when God is allowed to slip out of the family, when a family tries to live without God and what a contrast when God is there day after day, when we try not to live in our own strength, but dig deeply into the immeasurable love of God."

Thursday evening is laymen's night, but the women assured the women that they would be welcome too. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the place of the laity in the Christian life. Dr. Thomas is a noted preacher and author, and came early to Belleville from Corpus Christi in Texas where he was conducting a mission. He is a native of New Hampshire, but resides in Tennessee.

Mendes-France Winning Success In Leadership

STRASBOURG, France (Reuters) — Pierre Mendes-France, Socialist ex-premier who tried to make the French drink milk when he was in power in 1954, today won an initial success in his bid to regain the Radical Socialist party leadership.

At a meeting of party chiefs, he got the nomination of elder statesman Edouard Daladier, his supporter, as party chairman for the coming year.

This is a victory for the younger and more radical element in the party headed by Mendes-France over the older traditionalists, who have a majority in Parliament.

Today's move cut the ground from under the feet of Premier Felix Gaillard, who represents the more conservative wing. The conservative group has hoped to promote the young premier to the top party post.

Deaths of more than 2,000,000 soldiers have been confirmed. About 1,300,000 soldiers are missing. About 2,300,000 civilians were killed or are missing.

Tries Hold-Up, Finds Good Samaritan

TORONTO (CP)—Bread salesman Ernest Thornton, 42, handed $28 to the holdup man who entered his truck with hand in pocket Wednesday night.

But then a supervisor for the bread company drew alongside in a car Thornton suggested to the thief:

"You better give me the money back and I'll forget the whole thing."

The thief obliged but said he was desperately short of money. Thornton peeled off a $10 bill and gave it to him as he left.

MEMORY'S BUBBLE

A little heady with Sputnik and champagne, Russian overlord Nikita Khrushchev let his humor get a little too bubbly at a party in Moscow, comments The Hamilton Spectator.

In his jesting he revealed the Soviet estimation of com does a lot more to science than it does for the human memory. Taking a jab at Britain for the Suez dilemma of not so many months ago, Khrushchev had this to say about the British lion and Adolf Hitler: "He, (Hitler) was not frightened until we joined the fight in 1941. Before 1941 the British lion was hardly breathing."

The British lion at that date was still breathing, though it was due to a miracle of courage drawn from a source the Soviet caste system will never grasp. A handful of airmen and tens of thousands of brave British working people had withstood the bombs and flames from an air armada the like of which had never been seen on earth.

Holding out alone against totalitarian savagery, Britons were accustomed to facing black and ominous news. The blackest news of all had been some time before 1941. On August 21, 1939, England knew she stood virtually by herself against the massed might that soon would be hurled at the West.

Russia and Germany had announced a ten-year non-aggression pact. The road was cleared for the Nazis. Like Khrushchev on Wednesday, the Russians and the Germans were at the time quite bubbly about it; so were the toasts.

"To Hitler, to Stalin, to the continued friendship of Germany and Soviet Russia!" sang Hitler's wine merchant diplomat, Von Ribbentrop.

"No matter how the diplomats put it," declared Stalin, the Russian dictator, "it was England and France who declared war on Germany."

History is not high on the curriculum of Russia's educational index, and the Khrushchev could be forgiven for drinking this at a Moscow cocktail party. Only some of those who heard him had much element—and more significant—recollections.

A FEW PUZZLERS

Since the end of the Korean War the man on the street has been reading reports in the nation's press about guided missile projects in the United States and abroad. To him the names Terrier, Sparrow, Regulus and Atlas are becoming familiar ones. This, on the surface, indicates that although the United States government believes the public is entitled to know something of where their tax dollars go in defence production, that same government is not saying anything about other missiles which, although not necessarily in production, likely are on drafting boards.

Atlas is the latest missile to be introduced to the public and, although two flights to date on the engine in the International Ballistic Missile ended in its destruction, it is probable that even more terrifying missiles are in the offing.

Before the Korean War the public heard nothing about Atlas, yet it was on the drafting board then and it takes ten years to design and produce an ICBM of Atlas' calibre, what is the American defence department working on now. Certainly it is not limiting its studies to Atlas.

The Americans claim Atlas is a long-range guided missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead to Russia, a distance of several thousand miles. One astounding feature about any country's guided missile projects is the low margin of error they must calculate before they can claim a particular ICBM is quite capable of performing its function satisfactorily. Even now the Americans claim Atlas will be effective even if it crashes earthward many miles from its intended target.

SHOCKING TOMATOES

Remarkable yields of tomatoes by "shocking" the plants with high-frequency currents are claimed by Mr. H. G. Linfield, nurseryman of Worthing, with a conference of 30 pounds a plant from a single plant. The National Farmers' Union have asked the Electricity Research Association to investigate the claim. AROUND THE CORNER

You've passed around the corner, Pal,
Your bad luck's left behind;
The road ahead, where you may tread,
Is kind.
With joy is fairly lined.
Out of the darkness of despair
You've journeyed into light;
A heart that's true awaits for you
And peace is yours tonight.

You've passed around the corner, Pal,
Once more your star is nigh.
The grim, dark past we'll bury deep.
Before you lies the way
Where roses bend to greet you, friend,
And peace is yours today.

You've passed around the corner, Pal,
The smoother road is thine;
The struggle's done, the battle's won,
Come, place your hand in mine.
The storms that tossed your bark
Are o'er.
The sea of life's at play;
The God of love still reigns above,
And peace is yours for aye.

You've passed around the corner, Pal,
But others struggle still;
A world of cares and grief are theirs
And rough and steep the hill
They clamber up, so give a hand
And help them on today,
And God will smile on you the while
Who knows the bitter way.

To Observe and Preserve

By PIERRE VERNIER in UNESCO Features

"Whatever befalls in accordance with Nature should be accounted good", wrote Cicero in the first century B.C., while sixteen hundred years later Francis Bacon remarked that "Nature, to be commanded must be obeyed."

But throughout recorded history, and probably long before, man has been tampering with Nature, upsetting the delicate balance which governs all natural life by destroying useful plant and animal species without any forethought for compensating the upset by readjustment.

Often this destruction was unwanton: King Solomon, and many others after him, could not have known, for instance, that untimely deforestation causes erosion, and that by felling down the cedars of the Lebanon, the soil would be swept away and the hillops would eventually become bare rock.

And it is only in the ironies of Australian history that the first settlers in Botany Bay rejoiced that five rabbits had survived the long journey to Australia in 1788. Another is that in 1859 a man was fined £10 for shooting a rabbit on the property of one John Chandler, a Scot of Glen Iris, Victoria. Within a few years, the same Robertson had spent £5,000 in an unsuccessful effort to exterminate rabbits on his properties. In a few decades, the rabbits had invaded and "conquered" the whole Australian continent.

These and other examples were given by Mr. Jean Philippe, secretary - general of the International Union for the Conservation of nature and of its natural resources, as instances of man's unthinking or untimely interventions in the affairs of nature.

Mr. Philippe, who had come to Paris for the meeting of the International Advisory Committee on the School Curriculum sponsored by UNESCO, stressed that the problem of nature conservation had become increasingly serious and urgent since the development of modern industrial society.

"In the world's two temperate zones", he said, "in highly industrial and densely populated countries like Britain and Japan, whole new towns are necessarily being created, and houses and factories multiplied. Smoke and pollutions are invading nature and poisoning rivers, lakes and waters. In new surroundings and in new balances of life and nutrition, new parasites and new epidemics are coming into existence."

To combat unwanton destruction, Mr. Philippe stressed, people must be made aware of the interdependence of the problem. "They must be shown how the earth and the air, as well as the manufactured products of soil and water and forests are each part of the global whole, at the base of the balance of our nature, of our daily life, of our happiness and our health.

This can best be done by starting in the schools. It can be demonstrated by first-hand observations and by practical experiments as, for instance, the tree-planting projects now carried out by many schools in which each child plants and, so to speak, nurses his own tree. He is watching its nature, its role and its soil-and-water value for his own life and for that of his community.

"Our aim—and it has been one of the main aims of the Union since its foundation in 1948 on the initiative of the late Léon Blum, the French government — our aim is that the children should be made aware of the nature of his relations with his physical and natural environment from the sciences such a powerful influence on all living beings, including man. Every child should learn to recognize those elements in nature which are the most urgent and those which he should be afraid of. It is these simple things, things which he sees every day on his way to and from school, which should be included in the curriculum, where they tie up with lessons on hygiene and nutrition."

A basic lesson made in this direction, Mr. Philippe explained that some, though still inadequate, elements of this teaching have already been incorporated through the efforts of the Union and private initiative, in the school syllabuses of nearly thirty countries — from Mexico to the USSR, from Morocco to Malaya, from Germany to the United States and Venezuela. In most cases, material prepared by the Union in the form of picture panels and mimeographed "broadsheets" containing the outline of simple lessons, is distributed to the schools through the Union's member - societies in very varying countries, in agreement with the educational authorities.

But, as Mr. Philippe stressed, methods and content of the teaching programs must depend on the conditions prevailing in each country. "These conditions", he said, "vary enormously. For instance, they are very different in a tropical country, where nature often remains the prime energy, from, say, New York where most children are more familiar with automobiles and washing machines than with wild life and plants.

"Children need to know that such is the interring balance that the extermination of insect-eating birds or of poisoning bees or even of forms of life which superficially seem harmful, can strike back and weaken man, or expose him in the tropics to epidemic attack by his ever-threatening enemies, the denudation and impoverishment of soils by himself and floods and fires, and by increase of insects and viruses."

It is therefore left to the teachers in each country to give their own illustrations of basic principles in examples taken from local life and problems already familiar to children. In French West Africa, for example, a lesson-summary prepared by the local administrative authorities on the basis of the Union's directives explains that in many parts of the territory wind is a major enemy, "an enemy which drives off the soil-cover and carries it away to other regions, where it is buried or smothered or uprooted, and the desert takes over where once man lived fertile fields."

But this lesson is not a conservancy lesson. It is a lesson in international understanding, for the fact is that in Africa and many other peoples have solved the same problem. "To protect their fields from the wind", explains the Russians, the Hungarians and many other peoples have planted screens of trees which act as windbreaks."

Many other questions are put to the children, such as these: "Have you stopped to think what substances go into the making of the bread you eat every day? The bed you sleep in, the toys you play with, the house you live in, the clothes you wear, the food you eat?" And the answers bring home the lesson that nature provides all the raw materials, that natural resources are capital which must be carefully tended and preserved if the ever-growing human population is rapidly increasing.

Many other examples illustrate the need for maintaining the balance of Nature. Jamaica, for instance, was devastated by the mongoose—introduced with the object of destroying rats which were pilfering the sugarcane plantations; but the mongoose also attacks useful animals and destroys harvests. In Africa, the destruction of the leopard has led to the rise to enormous increase of baboons and wild pigs which do much destruction. In other countries, the eradication of the otter has upset the balance of populations of fish—for the otter destroyed diseased and weakened, more easily caught fish, thereby preventing the spread of epidemics.

On its part, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, the Union has just produced a booklet on techniques of nature conservancy for use in schools in the Middle and East Mediterranean area, bordering countries in the hinterland of these regions. There will be separate editions for each country, in local languages. The booklet—which has been asked for by FAO's international committee on Arid Land—is Arabic-speaking areas—will include an introduction to the principles contributed by UNESCO's Departments of Education and Social Sciences, which has had valuable experience in this field, particularly in the work of the Institute of the Fundamental Education Training Centre at Sirs-el-Layyan, operated by the Egyptian UNESCO and the Egyptian government.

Visual media are also used by the Union in its educational programs. For instance, a "see-and-glance" panels for schools are now touring Europe and have already been requested by the authorities and organizations in Czechoslovakia, Britain, the United States and Poland, while one of the Union's main pictorial exhibitions was prepared for the recent Youth Festival in Moscow.

And the Union's filmstrips—"Cherish the Hand That Feeds Us" and "Precarious Equilibrium"—produced with the aid of UNESCO, are being used increasingly by teachers in many lands as valuable aids to classroom instruction.

That such instruction, as well as adult education in nature conservation, and the diffusion of new knowledge and techniques in this field, is illustrated by the enormous extension in the work of the Union. "It is bringing in such an extraordinary harvest that we are finding it difficult to meet all the requests we receive for publications and assistance," Mr. Philippe reported. But he viewed the problem with optimism, confident that, in the long run, a solution would be found.

Army Makes Genius Clerk

Milwaukee Sunday Journal

They used to say it the army that soldiers who were cooks in private life were sure bets for assignment as kitchen police, truck drivers as foot soldiers, ditch-diggers as clerks, and coal heavers as cooks.

It was all an exaggeration of course, but there was enough truth to it to keep the Army claiming that it was improving its assignment system constantly — and in general doing a better job. But the system obviously isn't improved enough.

Dr. Carl Lindegren is now angry over what has happened to a former assistant of his. He is Ernest Shult, a biological technician and developer of a new theory of genetical analysis. He is, says Dr. Lindegren, a true mutical genius. The Army has him performing clerical chores at Fort Lee, Va. And this at a time when the cry is that the nation is in dire short of scientists.

As Dr. Lindegren says, "If that's the way the army is going to use its talents, it's no wonder we have fallen behind in our missile program." Perhaps, mathematical genius can be put to better use than clerking. If nothing else, the Army could at least let him figure out what the odds are now in the numbers game of predicting the right men in the right places.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is no longer much use, in several lines of business, to try to get in touch in our big cities, with anybody in the executive world after four p.m. in the afternoon. They have already left for home, to beat the traffic.

Not only is the five day week abolishing the four-and-a-half day week, as you can see on any holiday highway by Friday noon, but the eight hour day is shrinking to something less. A traffic problem that began in the days of the pre-five o'clock swarm vastly increased in the past few years by the post-nine a.m. traffic has also swelled out of proportion. This has largely to be due to intelligent staggering of work hours in many businesses. But he suspects that an increasing number of businessmen are working a seven or even six hour day. And finding it sufficient.

"Everything else," he says, "has been speeded up by technical advances in recent years. Why not the technique of business?"

One of the things that has not been speeded up by technical advances in recent years is the business of getting to the office in the car. Almost in inverse ratio to the increase of horse power, ease and comfort that the motor industry adds to its product, the efficiency of getting cars declines, due to traffic. We owe much to the motor car. Maybe the next thing we will owe it is a two or three hour day and a couple of days off.

That, or else we will all move into the country, and the centres of business will be scattered thinly across the far pastures, here and there.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Nutrition and Narcotics

Most of us would unhesitatingly condemn a person who spends a substantial sum for his or her daily or weekly supply of morphine, heroin, cocaine, barbiturate, dexedrine (amphetamine sulfate), or marijuana, and especially if the cost of the narcotic meant deprivation for his dependents.

Well, alcohol is a narcotic, in any quantity or dose.

You may deceive yourself or your companions that you take a drink because you feel a social stimulant or a bracer or a restorative or something to warm you up after exposure or to steady your nerves for some ordeal.

Of course this is all hooey. You crave the drink for precisely the same reason the addict craves his heroin or other narcotic — because you feel inadequate, rotten, incompetent, inferior in one way or another, guilty, ashamed, remorseful or unhappy. You know a drink or several drinks will make you less aware or unaware of your shortcomings, for an hour or so. That's the way a narcotic works. A stimulant would make you more aware of such feelings.

A person who has vite, that is, good nutritional condition and a good conscience, feels just fine and dandy and doesn't crave anything that would hide his awareness of his good health and fitness, even for a little while.

Discover that secret and make-believe and you will find that patrons of bars and night-clubs are unhappy people.

So it seems to me that good health and vote, more than anything else, protects young Americans from acquiring a liking for alcohol.

The purpose of this column is to build and preserve health. Symptoms, diseases and treatment would be discussed privately, at bedside or in the doctor's office. The very idea of a column in a newspaper is unethical.

Strength for The Day

TRUTH COME INTO ITS OWN

When Lincoln spoke his immortal words at Gettysburg, the main address was forgotten after two hours.— was given by a notable. The orators in the list reporting the occasion made very little mention of the fact that the speech preceded it at all. One said that "the President had also made a few remarks." Most newspapers said practically the same thing. At least one paper called Lincoln's words "silly remarks," declaring that the whole affair had been a farce and a burlesque.

But no one today remembers what the great orator said, and everybody knows what he said. Hardly no one would have remembered the words of Lincoln had it not been that an inconspicuous editor raised a shrill cry: "Listen main address was forgotten after to the President's words — here is greatness." And so we do. The answers in the box reporting the occasion made very little mention of the fact that the speech preceded it at all. One said that "the President had also made a few remarks." Most newspapers said practically the same thing. At least one paper called Lincoln's words "silly remarks," declaring that the whole affair had been a farce and a burlesque. The answers in the box destroyed by the President's trifling remarks.

So the passing of the years has insignificant so often becomes great and the great sinks into comparative oblivion. That which is humble is exhalted; that which is mighty is cast down.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FACE IT

All of us have personal problems, many that we often try to dodge. But as we do they take on significance and we find it is far better to face them, solving them the best we know how as we go along. They clutter up our life if we leave them, thinking that they will somehow solve themselves, by do.

Decisions are difficult to make at times, but we get nowhere if we neglect them. One by one we must face them or else we are not equipped to take courage, but every time we avoid one we weaken our enfeeble character. We often hear the expression that a person has "no backbone of character."

If difficulty or trouble comes to you face it. Your decision to do so is half the battle already won! An opportunity neglected is an opportunity lost. Face your problems, walk right up to them. Finish with them and go forward.

Do not be nervous, maligudgments, and accusations are made unconsciously. Admit them and profit by them. The longer we live the more we realize our frailties and shortcomings, and that it is possible to build from our mistakes and blunders and not watch them float down stream and out of sight!

Let us listen to this: If you have a problem to solve, or if years of trouble have piled up on you, face it and live it out as thousands of others do every day. Do not look back, be aware always of the race for we are one of it. Do not shirk the duties or emergency arises, if we face it with courage and confidence we have nothing to fear.

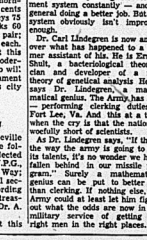
Windsor Star

It is strange to think that many modern children, reared as city folk, need an alarm clock to get them up early of a morning. Time was when a rooster did the job.

Many Ontario farmers, even if they keep a poultry, haven't a rooster about the place. They get their chicks ready-made from the hatchery, so a feathered sire is unnecessary on the farm.

Of all animals, the rooster was perhaps the most proud. And with reason. He might have a harem of 50 or more hens to command. He would strut around the barnyard, in apparent disdain, while the members of his harem scratch for worms.



Usually he had no competition but if another rooster appeared on the scene a fight was inevitable. No rooster worthy of his name would surrender his masculine privileges without a fight.

The rooster, however, was an early morning nuisance. His challenge crow at the break of dawn, would wake up the household and also the other inhabitants of the farm. Soon calves would be bawling and pigs squealing for their food, and no sound sleeper could endure this rural cacophony without awakening.

For the rooster it only meant he was alert and ready for another long and adventurous day.

Thousands of Bright Minds Steered From Science

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of tomorrow's potential scientists are dying on the vine.

A scientist needs an intelligent mind, special training — often years of rigorous training — and real interest. Talent in science, say leading scientists, is essentially intense interest.

But many bright young minds are being steered away from science. Educationists and scientists cite numerous reasons:

Science and mathematics courses are not emphasized enough in schools, including early enough and well enough.

ALGEBRA HORRID

Mathematics is a cornerstone of science, but many youngsters think algebra as a horrid word. Arithmetic often is taught boringly—pupils may spend hours on compound interest rates which they likely never will use—rather than being made alive and interesting.

"Any good student is irked to death by the memorization and formulas and routineness with which science is taught these days," says Dr. R. W. Leffler, professor of physics and education at Purdue University.

Numerous teen-agers, a Purdue survey finds, regard scientists as longhairs or squares, as unable or incapable of living a normal life, or of enjoying life.

DON'T GO BACK

Many students avoid science courses as hard, or for squares. If the science bug bites them later on in university, they find it would be necessary to go back, at extra time and expense, to make up what they had missed. So they turn to something else.

Students often avoid science because they see higher pay and rewards going to careers in selling, advertising, medicine, business, entertainment and other fields.

Some scientists make very good incomes. Some are notoriously underpaid, especially in teaching and basic research, and especially by standards of their contributions to human welfare and progress.

Money is not the sole reward for most scientists. They would like more, of course. Their rewards include doing what they like, being creative, learning more, finding values that carry no dollar sign.

Drowned Body Of Toronto Boy Found in Lake

WELLINGTON (Special) — The drowned battered body of a fifteen-year-old boy was found on the Lake Ontario shoreline at Pleasant Bay, 12 miles west of this Prince Edward county village late yesterday afternoon.

The body was identified later as being that of Wally Pepeana, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Janis Pepeana, 78 Beechview Crescent, Toronto. The identification was made by the dead boy's father.

The dead youth is one of two who have been missing for over a month after their overturned sailboat was found drifting in Toronto Bay.

The body was swollen beyond recognition. The head was badly battered by pounding on the rocky shore of Pleasant Bay. It was fully clothed even to shoes and a wristwatch.

It was through the clothing and watch that the dead boy's father was able to identify the body as that of his son.

Two pointed duckhunters made the gruesome discovery about 4.30 in the afternoon. They were George Craig, 20 of Consecon and Fred Thompson, 19, of Trenton.

The body, they said was lying on the rocky shoreline at the water's edge.

Chief of Police Earl Marvin and Coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson of this village were notified and immediately investigated the "find". They in turn notified provincial police.

The body was taken to Toronto for burial this morning.

Police believe the body must have drifted at least 100 miles straight down Lake Ontario from Toronto Bay to the Prince Edward county shoreline where it was washed ashore.

Blind for 18 Years, New 'Radar' Restores Vision

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—"Oh, I can see the light."

It was in these words that a woman blind for 18 years described her reaction to a new electronic device, her surgeons said.

The woman, Miss Betty Corstorphine, 35, underwent a series of tests in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Los Angeles, last month using a crude "radar" set connected to wires in her brain.

Reached at her home here Wednesday, she said:

"I saw flashes, at one time a bright flash like an electric light bulb, and at another time a greyness as though a light had just gone out."

Dr. John C. Button said the test showed that brain cells did not atrophy like unused muscle cells but could be stimulated.

Saying that the test "opens the door to the possibilities of electronic vision," he predicted that with adequate funds medical science could refine the apparatus so that within five years almost all blind people could "see" by means of electrical stimulus of the vision centres.

"Eventually," he said, "I'm sure we'll get real sight."

Miss Corstorphine expressed a cautious optimism about the experiments.

"I went out there knowing, of course, that I was not going to get my sight back," she said. "I knew it was only a test, that much more research will have to go into it. But someday—we're hoping it's soon—there may be vision aids for the blind like there are hearing aids."

Button, a 46-year-old neurologist, described the device that may eventually be developed as "something like a radarscope or television set."

Miss Corstorphine, who volunteered for the tests begun last Oct. 28, has been blind since 1939 because of the pressure of an inoperable, benign tumor on her optic nerve.

First, Button said, wires about half the thickness of a human hair were passed through drilled holes into Miss Corstorphine's brain. They were then pushed about two inches into the back of the brain to the centres of vision. The wires were attached to a transistor amplifier which, in turn, was connected to a small photoelectric cell.

Miss Corstorphine was given the cell and told to point it about a partially darkened room. As the cell was pointed toward lights placed about the room, she received flashes of light.

In further tests, Button said she was able to determine whether the light was to her left or right. She could pick up flashes from lights as dim as a 40-watt bulb, he said.

Ingrid Bergman Asks World To Judge Her as Actress

By EDDY GILMORE

(AP)—Ingrid Bergman Wednesday she wished would judge her as an and leave her private life

n starting a new life," she without a trace of bitterness, "and I do feel that I have some right to privacy."

The interview took place in a small restaurant near the studio where she is making a new movie — Indiscreet — with Cary Grant as co-star.

The twice-married mother of four children—three by Italian director Roberto Rossellini and one by her first husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom — spoke about her troubles only in answer to questions.

SILENT ON ROBERTO

As to Rossellini, from whom she legally separated Nov. 7, she politely refused to discuss him.

"People keep telling me that a million housewives would like to change places with me," she said. Then, after a pause, she added: "I wonder."

"But, are you happy?" she was asked.

There was only the slightest hesitation

"Yes. Yes. I'm happy."

NO PLANS FOR U.S.

Did she plan to return to the United States?

"No, I have no plans for that. I don't want to bring my children up there. I want to give them a European education. After all, I'm European."

The actress said that after she finishes Indiscreet she will go to Formosa—probably in February —to make another movie.

She said one of her toughest times was just after her recent separation from Rossellini, whom she married in 1950.

"I was feeling very upset. You hear hearing the children and all that, and they (Italian reporters) kept firing all those ugly questions at me."

She bit her lip.

"Some of the questions were. She shrugged her shoulders and added:

"But that's the way it goes.

Use of Narcotics Discussed at W.C.T.U. Meet

At the November meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the subject "Narcotics" was discussed. Many facts were revealed and a film on the subject was given.

"A narcotic is a drug or medicine, which deadens the nerves, and thus removes the consciousness of pain.

Narcotic addiction is a disease, not a habit. Habit is a change in call narcotic a habit then it would be the only habit which requires the services of a physician? A habit may be broken by will power, but the will of the addict till he has lost the power to cease the use of the drug.

DOPE" MENACE

The menace of dope is older than written history. Drastic measures have been taken in China to stamp out the menace. The United Nations Commission on Narcotic Drugs, tried to check the illegal traffic and to enforce international measures.

It is estimated there are 5,000 known drug addicts in Canada.

Narcotic drugs are sold legally, only on a doctor's prescription and smuggling of narcotic drugs seems to be an international racket of the underworld and is a big and growing business.

Narcotics attack the fatty sheath of the brain and destroy the physical basis of thought and character. The transformation of character, which may appear as avarice, self-respect, honor, truth, honesty of gentlemanly and womanly conduct lives only to get the daily supply of the drug. In order to get it he will lie, steal, rob and even commit deeds of violence.

DRUG ADDICTION DISEASE.

Drug addiction must be treated as a disease. But like other forms of addiction, is the most helpful cure.

Three provinces have serious problems in drug addiction, Britain, Columbia, Ontario and Quebec-there are about 1,00 known addicts in Toronto. Toronto has about 400 with Hamilton second and Windsor third.

A drug addict clinic has been opened adjacent to A. C. Brown Memorial Church, Los Angeles attended with accommodation for 25 patients where a patient is a special court, social agencies help him.

THESE WARNINGS FOR YOUTH

Never accept drugs from anyone, especially in powder form that may be smuffed up the nose; never accept drugs in pill, tablet or chocolate form; avoid cigarets, especially as a gift.

Mr., Mrs. Albert Stirland Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

Fifty years ago wedding bells pealed over Ameliasburg St. Saviour's Anglican Church, Nottingham, England, when Miss Christina Exton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Exton, became the bride of Albert Stirland, Jr., on October 31st, the bells pealed again, but this time for joy were golden, when friends and neighbors called to congratulate them and wish them health and happiness in the years ahead.

As there was serious illness in the immediate family, there was no honeymoon, but a reception was held at the bride's home in Nottingham. Mrs. Stirland still has as a keepsake, a fabric flower that decorated their wedding cake.

In July 1913 Mr. Stirland came to Canada to work on the old Grand Trunk Railway, and Mrs. Stirland and son Albert Frederick, came in November of the same year and took up residence on Moira Street in Belleville. In February of 1917 Mr. Stirland returned to England with a unit of the railway in the First World War, and came back to Canada to serve in military hospitals in France and Belgium, returning to Canada in July 1919, working again with the Canadian National Railways at Belleville until he retired ten years ago.

In 1946 they moved from their Moira Street home to 243 Albert Street where they have resided since.

Mrs. Stirland is a life member of the Methodist Church Auxiliary of the Eastern Star, and Mr. Stirland a member of the local Royal Canadian Legion, which he takes an active part. Prior to his retirement, he was a member of the Railway Association.

They had one son, Albert Frederick, who served with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengary Highlanders in the second World War as a lieutenant, and in Sept. 1942, paid the supreme sacrifice. Their daughter, Mrs. M. Gunsolus, resides at 74 Hastings Drive. There are two grandchildren, Barbara-Dee and Drew Gunsolus, the two outstanding interests in their grandparents' lives.

On the morning of their anniversary they were greatly surprised by Mrs. Harold Stott who, on behalf of their neighbors, presented them with an electric fry pan, and the Minerva Chapter a beautiful vase, on behalf of the chapter members. Telegrams were also received from friends and relatives; also one from Mr. and Mrs. John Diefenbaker, as well as greetings from the Province of Ontario over the signature of the provincial secretary.

A dinner for close friends and relatives was held in the evening, the bride's table was centred with a three-tier anniversary cake, prettily iced in yellow and white and decorated with chrysanthemums and a tiny, old-fashioned bride and groom. Buffet table, while golden candles added a further anniversary touch.

Yellow and white was set with golden-colored place mats with gold colored favors at each place.

Mr. and Mrs. Stirland both enjoy good health and until some time ago were active members of Bethel Methodist Church, Emmanuel Church, and later joined Bridge Street United Church, of which they now attend.

Jubilee Guilds Help Families Make Clothes

By IAN MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Frances Anderson of Channel, Nfld., has doctor and lawyer now than she's ever been, although she can't speak or hear what is going on around her.

"She's doing wonderfully well," says Miss Anna Templeton, organizing secretary of the Jubilee Guilds of Newfoundland. The thousands who saw Frances working on a loom at the Newfoundland Agricultural and Handicrafts Exhibition found it hard to believe that the girl is a deaf mute.

The guild's work started here after a disastrous tidal wave on the Burin Peninsula in 1929, Lady Anderson, wife of the governor, Sir David Murray Anderson, organized a small band of workers dedicated to help relieve suffering. The Service League, as it was called, collected and distributed clothing.

A permanent organization was launched in 1935, the year of the silver jubilee of King George V, hence the name Jubilee Guilds.

MANY MEMBERS

With "Confidence, Courage and Co-operation" as their motto the guild included men at first, but now is strictly a women's organization, with 3,000 members in 88 guilds in Newfoundland.

From the outset the Guild was a determined to encourage the education of their children. It continues to give instruction in domestic science to aid education in all branches, and encourages diligence and social welfare.

Because clothing is urgently needed in the outports, weaving became the first undertaking. And today at Grand Falls there's a test feature. Total production last year was valued at $100,000, including luncheon mats, table linens, towels, skirts, ties, handbags and stoles.

Sales through five Newfoundland outlets and 16 on the Canadian mainland totalled $31,000 last year, but profit is not the main aim. The guild's task is to teach women how to make clothes for their families, to keep them busy during the winter months, to put money into the pockets of those who formerly had no sources of income, and to help people like Frances.

Miss Templeton says the guild's sales are increasing each year. Residents like to send the articles away because the receipts are "a real touch of Newfoundland." Homecrafts have been sent all over Canada, to every province but Nova Scotia, and overseas.

The guild became a member of the Associated Country Women of the World in 1951.

Women Want Good Purses, Many Sweaters

NEW YORK (CP) — A poll of some 100 women's fashion and department stores suggests that most women don't get what they want for Christmas.

Most-bought gifts, according to the stores, are perfume, costume jewelry and blouses, in that order.

But the women surveyed listed as most-wanted good handbags, gloves and sweaters, in that order.

Most said they welcome presents of food, especially nuts, delicacies and records.

Some of the gripes against perfume are: "I don't have enough already." "It's a last-minute kind of gift, usually from men."

People usually buy the wrong scent — they haven't taken the trouble to find out what I prefer."

EVENING OUT

Costume jewelry and blouses were disliked because the giver's taste often clashed with that of the recipient.

Handkerchiefs, under wear, scarves and umbrellas were also missed by most of the women as "too practical."

Though wanted for two, baby-sitting service or an evening out is a big turn-off, as are popular gifts with married women.

Most voted against articles for the home, saying they usually were wrong in color and style. The women also disliked "large" pieces of decorative junk that are supposed to be on display when the donor comes to call."

CHRISTMAS CONES

Before the cold weather comes, gather Christmas decorations in the woods. Pine cones and dried twigs can be tipped with white paint and used to adorn gift packages or the Christmas tree.

DAINTY FIGURE

Bridge St. United Church W.A. Bazaar Radiant, Colorful

Scarlet, metallic stars, snowy bells backed by red satin bows, and frosty sprays of evergreens adorned the pillars and pale green walls of Bridge Street United Church Sunday School auditorium yesterday afternoon for the annual Christmas bazaar and tea sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary.

Everywhere the eye turned the spirit of Christmas was set forth in all its sublime beauty and glory. In the entrance hall and ladies' parlor lovely Christmas trees gleamed with rainbow colors, while in every window red poinsettias, backed by balsam sprays mingled with silver ropes, added their festive aside accent. A full-sized Santa Claus stood sentinel at one end of the red-brick fireplace topped by scampering little deers and other Christmas toys, while at the other was a tall Christmas tree decorated with gold, green, scarlet and silver lights.

But the highlight of this most festive season when a baby's festivity scene in full color depicting Mary and Joseph with the Babe of Bethlehem, and the approaching shepherds. Here the country fireplace was centred with its garland ropes of entwined greens, and a table of evergreen and platform were two tiny Christmas trees and tall, white candles in crystal sticks mingled with silver leaves.

The two tea tables, each with its own Christmas motif, linen cloth, were placed diagonally from either side of the country fireplace; the one centred by a tiny, white, frosty sleigh on a bed of evergreen surrounded by Scotch pines, was filled to overflowing with Christmas parcels, parcels gaily tied with gleaming red globes. Clustering around the sleigh stood a tall, white candles, prettily decorated with red holders, at either end were the silver services.

RED AND WHITE SYMPHONY

The other table was a symphony in red and white with its centre piece of chrysanthemums and red carnations, and sprays of white snapdragon centred with a miniature Santa Claus, flanked by tall white candelabra with flickering red and white candles.

The little guest tables seating four and five were pleasingly arranged in alcoves and decorated with white cloths and centred by a miniature Santa Claus, a cluster of frosted balsam sprays accented by colored globes in red, blue and green.

Receiving the shopping guests were Mrs. W. Manning, wife of the pastor, and Mrs. A. J. Clare, president of the Association, who graciously welcomed each, after which they were escorted to the tea hostesses, Mrs. H. Mott, Mrs. J. G. Demeza, Mrs. R. Bell, Mrs. W. Kennedy, Mrs. D. Stanton and Mrs. A. May.

Those who presided at the tea tables included: Mrs. H. J. Clarke, Mrs. A. E. MacKenzie, Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mrs. F. C. Adsett, Mrs. W. H. Hall, Mrs. H. Wray, Mrs. H. Rollins, Mrs. W. S. ICE BOOTHS

The various booths were situated in the various small committee rooms, while that of the Crafts and Arts and fancy work was near to the tea room. In charge of these were: Mrs. H. Seldon, Mrs. Easton, Mrs. Dallas and Mrs. Dodd. Here were some fine table centres and the Christmas corsages.

Table centres made by the Arts and Crafts were most attractive and were made from milk, dried flowers colored in gilt, and lovely poinsettias made from plastic, real leafing, which could be kept from year to year. There were also corsages for the toilette decorations gift.

Among the fancy work were tea cosies, dolls, aprons, baby sacques in all shades, little mitts, fancy handkerchiefs edged with lace, crochet lace and fine needlework; crocheted fascinators like mother used to wear; embroidered and lace-edged pillow slips and many other articles, all suitable for Christmas gifts.

The country store had a fine selection of potted African violets, jellies, honey, wedges of golden cheese, jars of luscious mincemeat, pickles, marmalades and relishes. These were convened by Mrs. James Nolles, under the auspices of the Canadian Girls in Training.

DELICIOUS HOMECOOKING

The homecooking, convened by Mrs. F. Countryman, assisted by Mrs. F. Shannon, Mrs. Ken Mullen and Mrs. C. Morgan, was, as usual, the magnet which drew the hungry shoppers to the delicious pies, cakes, tarts, buns, homemade bread and rolls, which were birdseye cake, angel cakes and short cakes. This booth was arranged in separate picnic plates on which were written the legend, "Home Cooking" in red letters on a gay evergreen.

The white elephant table was also a fine drawing card, and its costume jewellery necklaces, bracelets, rings, earrings, bridge cards, cups and saucers, plastic purses, silk handkerchiefs, bowls and metallic bedroom slippers, Mrs. C. Hyde and Mrs. Bird were in charge of selling and making change.

The white elephant was also well patronized, and had for sale nice boxes of mixed creams, chocolates, fudges, candies and walnuts, others, as well as cellophane bags of the same delicious sweetmeats. Mrs. Burr, Mrs. Mrs. Cathers presided over these.

A CUP OF TEA

On the apron booth, which was in charge of Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. Wotten, were some most attractive aprons, those of the cocktail variety especially, which for the price of a dollar bought up-to-the-minute aprons, and which were ready for the asking. What with a fine watch movement can be an expensive experience. The country store with kitchenware makes it his business to nurse "sick" watches back to health.

DIFFICULT TONGUE

Schoolchildren in Greenland are taught both Danish and Greenlandic, a difficult language deriving from the Eskimo tongue.

Seventy-Seven Laymen Plan Every Member Visitation Project

Seventy-seven laymen from Tamworth, Bath, Trenton, Centenary, Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Bethesda and Zion Tabernacle United met in the latter church Monday evening to receive instructions and plan for guidance in the Belleville section project which will culminate in every member visitation in these churches on Sunday, December 1st.

A series of training dinner-meetings have been completed and now these people will return to their own congregations and lead their visitation teams. It others to go out as the Lord Master has commissioned the seventy of many years ago by two-to visit every home in the local congregation, and tell the story of the church.

More people are talking about the church today than have been for a long time They may pot all be in harmony but that only proves that people are thinking as well as talking, which is educational, and the church is one of the greatest educational institutions in the world. "When we look at the program of the church we get a glimpse of not only where we want to go, but where Christ wants us to go, and by accepting His leadership and making Him take over wills and moulding our lives—by committing ourselves entirely to Him we find that He does lead us, He does undergird and gives courage in our weakness."

EVERY MEMBER VISITATION

The every member visitation is to ask the people to pray daily for God's work and kingdom, to attend church every Sunday and help revitalize the church, because out of every 100 enrolled members 20 never pray, 35 never read the Bible, 70 never give to the greater work of the church and 75 never do church work.

A demonstration of a home visit on stewardship Sunday was presented by Miss Dorothy Moorman as hostess; Mr. Ross Sands as host; Mr. Robert Percival portrayed the junior member of the family and Messrs. Thomas Slovell and A. D. Archibald were the visitors.

With consecrated lives you can have a praying church, a witnessing church, a sharing church, a praising church and a joyous church.

The Belleville sector project is being directed by Mr. F. W. Manning, Trenton, Ontario, and the Rev. W. G. Leck, of Grand Valley, is counsellor.

FINE DINNERS

AYLMER, Ont. (CP) — A Wednesday's ingenuity has created a fascinating farm business. Mrs. Al Sirois is raising pheasants for table birds, and recently prepared her first 200 pheasants for market.

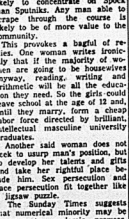
Women Steal Lion's Share Of Honors

LONDON (CP) — A brilliant class of women students has stolen the lion's share of honors at Oxford, according to a report today on the question of whether women should receive more education or less.

In the collective results for this year's Oxford examinations, women's colleges earned four of the first five places. Women now outnumbered 6 to 1 at British universities.

Britain's ardent feminists, whose predecessors won women the right to vote, were quick to point the moral: a larger share of the country's limited university enrolment should go to female students.

But a writer in The Star sees it differently. He notes that even the most intelligent women tend to get married and raise families.



"Plato thrown away with the other pedlings," he declaims, arguing that Britain can't afford to waste money training nuclear physics to future mothers, more likely to concentrate on Dutch and Spanish. Any man able to scrape through the course is bound to be of more value to the community.

This provoked a spiful of replies. One woman writes ironically that if the majority of women are going to be housewives anyway, reading, writing and arithmetic will be all the education they need. So the girls could leave school at the age of 12 and, with their pocket money, a cheap labor force directed by brilliant, intellectual masculine university graduates.

Another said women does not get an unfair education, but one to develop her talents and gifts and take her rightful place beside them. Another remembers race persecution fit together like a jigsaw puzzle.

The Sunday Times suggests that numerical minority may be to your to academic prowess, which accounts for the girls' showing.

"Certainly where there are far fewer places, there are likely to be better brains filling them. . . . Perhaps it is because men tried so diligently to prevent them getting there at all—you can never do that to a woman."

Watches Need Periodic Expert Check-Up

Too often the owner of a fine watch is apt to take his prized timepiece for granted — and forget to bring it to his good friend, the local jeweller, for a necessary periodical check-up and oiling.

A periodical cleaning of your watch is a "time" saver in two ways. The repairman not only removes dust or dirt that might have sifted into the movement, he also removes congealed, dirty oil.

Like any machine, the precious watch requires lubrication — and the right oil — to protect its moving parts against frictional wear. The lack of proper lubrication too often results in this wear, and ultimate inaccuracy or complete stoppage of the movement.

Avoid all possible shocks to a watch. Remember, many an automobile's shock absorbers have been broken when going over a deep rut in the road, and even a "shock-resistant" watch can take just so much out-of-the ordinary jolting. Gentle handling is insurance against broken parts.

LEAD CURES IT

When winding the stem of a watch, remember that lightness in mainspring and stores new energy needed to run the watch. Wind it gently with the thumb and finger and stop when it is felt that the tension is at the centre.

In brief: Jewellers give this advice to the owner of a quality watch which wants a well-maintained, accurate timepiece:

(1) Always have your watch to a quality watch-service department for any necessary adjustment, cleaning or repairs.

(2) Insist on genuine factory replacement parts.

(3) Wind it once a day, preferably in the morning. And when you do, take it out of the wrist.

(4) Try not to expose it to extreme hot or cold conditions.

(5) Keep it away from perfume, powder, or loose tobacco crumbs.

(6) And, above all, the watch should lose its accuracy or stop completely, don't try fixing it yourself with a fine watch movement can be an expensive experiment. The country watch-kitchenware makes it his business to nurse "sick" watches back to health.

WEE WOMEN

"I think we've covered the waterfront at last . . ."

Mrs. Haggerty, Napanee, Head Of Institutes

TORONTO (CP) — Leaders of Ontario's rural women want provincial government action on the study and encouragement of prenatal care.

A project whose purpose was called for Wednesday in a resolution passed by the annual board meeting of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario.

The resolution said Canada rates 13th in the world with a death rate of 22.1 for each 1,000 births.

Hospitals, doctors and nurses could be partly blamed but the Canadian woman "is called self-indulgent, careless and wilfully ignorant by people deeply concerned with infant mortality."

Other resolutions recommended support for the Canadian Association of Consumers in its efforts to stop the sale of trading stamps and support of the Lord's Day Act and a rise in basic income tax exemption to $1,500 from $1,000.

AWARD SCHOLARSHIPS

Mrs. John Craig of Osgoode reported the scholarship fund committee has invested $82,000 in FWIO funds in awards and scholarships for girls.

She said Heather Anne Hayward of Halton County and Isabel McEachern of Lambton are this year's winners of regional scholarships given by the Institute and the Dorothy Patcher Fund. Miss Hayward is taking a homemaking course at Macdonald Institute and Miss McEachern is entered teachers' college at London.

Mrs. James Haggerty of Napanee was re-elected president of the FWIO. Also elected to the executive were vice-presidents Mrs. Gordon MacPhatter, Owen Sound, and Helen McKercher, district; the home economics service, department of agriculture.

Regional vice - presidents are: Mrs. Harry Francis, Shelburne; Mrs. J. R. Russell, Embro; Mrs. W. J. Cooper, Mindemoya, and regional directors include Mrs. R. J. Penney, Kingston; Mrs. David Brown, Brigden; Mrs. J. P. Corson, Kirkfield.

PLANS TO FEATURE NEW CHEESEBOARD IN BUFFET SERVICE

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

I have just acquired a very good-looking and just-the-right-size cheeseboard, which I would like to put to use at once for our buffet parties. I'd like to feature a complete salad service on the buffet table, and use the quite large top of the nearby sideboard for the complete dessert service. Do you approve of this plan, or do you advise that the dessert course also be on the buffet table?

2. Also, should cheese which comes wrapped be entirely unwrapped?

3. Must only crackers be served with this salad service, or may also serve a bread or even two kinds of breads?

Inspiring Hostess

1. Your plan to "feature" the salad service on the buffet table, and to leave the complete dessert service on the sideboard is excellent . . . most convenient. And fortunately you have the nearby sideboard. Generally either the main course or the salad course, or both, must be removed to make way for the dessert course to be placed on the buffet table.

2. I suggest you place the salad service at one end of the buffet, salad bowl centered; plates, forks for the salad, butter knives for other small bowls for the cheese; on one side, "the" cheeseboard, cheese-equipped; nearby a large covered dish or a basket of crackers (heated, if preferred) and, if you wish, slices of French bread.

3. Usually cheeses served on a cheeseboard, are placed directly on the board, no doily underneath them. (If you're going to serve a very soft cheese, better serve it on a separate dish, with doily underneath, if you wish.)

4. Serve the cheese in the crock.

5. Yes.

6. As I have suggested above, you may serve bread as well as crackers, and this is usually done, for the main course, when bread rather than crackers, with salad-and-cheese. Slice of French bread, heated, maybe slightly toasted; perhaps garlic bread (easy to do); bowl of relishes and small rounds of salty rye. Very popular today! add a good supplementary taste; also, perhaps one or two kinds of melba toast or crisp-slices.

BRIDE'S CLERGYMAN-UNCLE TO STAND IN RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother died several years ago, and her brother, who is the clergyman in the church where both my fence and I are members, has been a wonderful uncle to me and a wonderful friend. At our church wedding, my dear father is to give me in marriage, and of course he will stand first in the receiving-line at the reception in our home immediately following the ceremony.

Last evening my father and I were talking over the wedding plans, and father suggested it would be a fine idea to invite my clergyman-uncle to stand in the receiving-line. I'd so much like this, but I've never seen it done or even heard of its being done. Would it be correct? And if so, where should the clergyman stand? — E.L.

Although this plan is indeed very fine indeed, it is entirely correct procedure, and in your case, since your clergyman is also your beloved uncle, it would be most appealing, a most graceful way to show your devotion and your appreciation. And to crown the plan is the important fact that your father was the one who proposed it. I suggest that with your father, at your left, first in the line, clergyman-uncle stand next to him.

AIR-MAIL PAPER BUT LETTER NOT FOR AIR-MAIL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other day I wrote a letter to a cousin of mine who lives in a suburb quite near here. I was in a hurry to get the note off to her, and took up the first piece of paper at hand, which happened to be an air-mail sheet and envelope. I didn't think it would make any difference. But now my sister tells me that my cousin criticized me for using air-mail paper for a letter that wasn't to go air-mail. Was this so incorrect? — Reader

No. It is quite all right to use air-mail letter-paper and envelopes for such informal correspondence, even though the letter isn't to go air-mail.

NOTES OF THANKS FOR SYMPATHY CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently there was a death in our family, and a member of the family was directed that flowers and Mass Cards should be acknowledged but not sympathy cards. I acknowledged the sympathy cards I received from my friends, because I believe this is the proper thing to do. Please tell me if I did right. — H.

Right you did . . . and right you are in your belief that it is a natural courtesy to acknowledge cards of sympathy just as one acknowledges all other gestures of sympathy. A card of sympathy shows a thought of sympathy, and for this kind thought we should write a few words of sincere appreciation.

Include Liver Somewhere In Every Week's Menus

By Mary Moore

Honestly there are a few ways I actually like liver: calves' liver, quickly pan-fried; chicken or duck or turkey livers in giblet gravy or as omelets; white liver-wurst sausage; pate de foie gras. But when cooking columnists or fancy food writers try to make me swallow broiled unadorned pork liver I balk.

But I did discover a way to prepare pork liver that is good. Oddly enough Gary led me to it. He habitually leaves in his plate most of a tin of baby food liver when we serve it to him, so we gave up on that wastefulness. But I ground some left-over liver baked with green pepper and onion and warmed it and he ate it down to the last crumb.

Encouraged, I made up the liver paste which you will find below for him, using pork liver and it was so good the adults ate it too, in sandwiches.

I persist with this liver talk because nutrition researchers keep repeating the importance of liver in the human diet. Don't be deaf to them. It pays long term dividends.

LIVER PASTE

(For sandwiches, canapes, and babies). Clip this for it will make a substantial and economical tidbit spread for your canape tray during the coming entertaining season.

Steam 1 lb. sliced pork liver 25 minutes. Cool. Fry 4 chopped onions in 4 tablespoons with ¼ cup each chopped onion and green pepper, until all are cooked but not brown at all. Put cooled liver, sauteed bacon and onion and peppers through fine cup knife of food chopper 3 times. Add to this ground mixture 2 tablespoons each mayonnaise and soft butter, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-16 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Taste. You may want to add more salt or a little celery salt. Mix or beat in beater until smooth. Store in little covered jars in refrigerator.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Chili Con Carne; Buttered Green Beans; Red and Green Cole Slaw with Sour Cream Dressing; Shredded Pineapple Chocolate Medallions (see Wednesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY

Baked Ham Steak with Pineapple Slices; Fluffy Rice; Broccoli Sprouts; Chinese Lettuce and Tomato Salad with French Dressing; Honey-Custard Pie (see Friday); Coffee.

BAKED LIVER WITH SOUR CREAM

Buy a 3-lb. piece of baby beef liver, wipe it with a damp cloth and dredge it all over with flour which has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Fasten to the entire upper surface thin slices of salt pork and bacon, using toothpicks. Place on trivet in covered small roaster, add 1-3 cup hot water to pan and bake covered at 350 deg. Fahr, 1 hour. Then cover with 3 large onions sliced, and 2 cups commercial sour cream. Cover, reduce heat to 275 deg. and bake 2 hours or until very tender. This roast is quite tasty and is delicious sliced hot but it is at its best sliced wafer thin when cold for salads or sandwiches or salad plates.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ralph D. — My parents criticize my wife.

Mrs. M.D. — I would like to help her.

Ralph D. — My wife and I are very happily married couple, or we would be if it weren't that my parents make trouble between us.

Don't get me wrong. I love my parents very much and think they're swell people, but because I am an only child, they dote on me a little too much and always seem to think that my wife can't take as good care of me as they can, or something like that. They constantly make little remarks about my not looking well and tell my wife what kind of food I should be eating and that she should not let me get more rest.

My parents feel they aren't getting enough of interference when they say these things, but I know my wife feels hurt, although she has never said a word about it

Mrs. M.D. — Ralph has hurt us deeply by saying we make trouble between him and his wife. Maybe we do dote on him but we love him too much to do anything to cause him unhappiness in his married life.

Just the same, parents can't help seeing things. We can see that Ralph's wife isn't really doing all a woman should to make him happy and comfortable. She doesn't seem to know a thing about diet and nutrition and Ralph has a tendency to be underweight and is rather tired.

I, personally, feel that Ralph's wife did not get the right training from her mother and I would like to help her if she would only give me the chance. I don't see how anyone can call that interference.

The Council: While "parents can't help seeing things," they often misinterpret what they see, pretend that they don't see them.

Mrs. M.D. may feel she is treading on fairly neutral ground when she discusses diet and homemaking with her daughter-in-law, but she is really in dangerous territory. Most women, consciously or unconsciously, consider cooking and homemaking as one of the most important ways in which they express love to their husbands and children. If they are wholehearted in their devotion, they will usually manage somehow to handle these jobs fairly well — even though they haven't gotten the training.

Criticism the way this job is handled implies an accusation of lack of care and affection. In this case, we don't know how the wife feels about this, but it is assumed that she gets the point. In any case, Ralph gets it, and if he has that sense of a lack of love in his marriage, the criticism may hurt him more than his wife.

The parents don't remedy the situation by calling attention to such matters. It may be something that Ralph and his wife will work out as time goes on. The parents can only sit tight and hope for the best. Someday Ralph's wife may surprise his mother by coming to her for help and advice. Then she should give it freely, but without any implied criticism.

During the business session a thank you note was read from the Stickle family.

It was found that, after paying the bills for the Harvest Home supper, there was a nice sum left. An invitation was received from both the Frankford W. A. and Centenary W. An invitation was received from Bridge St. Church, asking the W. A. to attend the Dr. Thomas preaching mission on Ladies' Day, November 18th.

It was decided to have the Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stickle and to send special invitations to Mrs. C. McLean and Mrs. M. Mrs. Clapp, who attended the South West Rally at Centenary, gave a fine report.

As Mrs. Puttenham was unable to be present at this W. A. meeting, she asked Mrs. A. Meyers to read her report of the WMS Presbyterial West Section held at the Stone Church on October 4th.

A few Remembrance poems were read: "The Lord is My Teacher", by Mrs. Bonisteel; "The Price of Freedom", by Mrs. Grant; "Somebody's Son", by Mrs. E. Stickle. The hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past", was sung, followed by the Benediction.

A contest was put on by Mrs. William S. Harry and won by Mrs. K. Stickle.

There was a baking table with goodies on it and all were sold. The wash money, dues and lunch money were collected.

The hostess and conveners provided refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The Best Care of Sterling Silverware

The busy life is the best life even for Sterling. Use it every day, every meal. And if you have more place settings than family, rotate all your pieces so they can have uniform use. Sterling won't wear out! Can't be used up! So it is no extravagance to use it "when there is just the family." The homemaker will be enhancing her simplest meals and giving her children the appreciation of fine things, and helping her Sterling to put on a patina it could never achieve locked in the darkness of a treasure chest.

Patina is to Sterling what character is to a fine face. The thousand tiny lines of use are all but invisible but they lend the quality that makes very old silver so hauntingly beautiful. A bride who worries over the first scratch will some day be proud of the lovely soft mellow surface of her silver! But it must be protected from harsh blows. Stainless steel knife-blades can wound the tines of a Sterling fork if carelessly used.

Sterling's Golden Rule is "Use it but don't abuse it." Wash Sterling immediately after meals in soapy water bubbling with suds from flakes, soap chips, powder, cake or liquid. Do not river first. Rinse in hot water. Dry with a soft towel.

The beauty treatment once a month is as simple as can be. The equipment: plenty of clean cloth or chamois, and one of the excellent cream or liquid polishes made expressly for Sterling; firm but gentle hands that remember to polish lengthwise, not in circles.

Never take a short-cut in polishing by giving ornamented pieces an aluminum and soda bath which chemically and blindly erases not only all tarnish but all the subtle shadows the designer has put there with careful oxidation, and invariably gives them an unattractive whitish hue. Do not scrub out the oxidation with a brush. Never fasten flannel cases with rubber bands which leave their black marks as magically as though there had been no cloth between! Never twist a candlestick or vase as it is polished. Stroke it lengthwise.

The simple routine for the care of Sterling is simply this . . . Use. Wash carefully and dry well. Polish when necessary. Store away from the air.

Quinte Secondary H-S Assoc. to Hold Panel Discussion

Due to the 'flu and other circumstances, there has been no news release so far this fall reporting the activities of Quinte Secondary Home and School Association. Belatedly, and with apology, the home work is being caught up, especially as it applies to the parents with boys and girls at Quinte Secondary School.

The first executive meeting was held at the school in September with a full agenda which was gone through. Plans were laid for the successful graduates' dinner and the commencement. A selection was made for committee conveners whose responsibility it is to look after different activities throughout the school year 1957-58, as follows: programs: F. Beeby; publicity: Mr. and Mrs. J. Haig; membership: Mrs. P. Gelsthorpe; bulletins: Mr. R. Mitas; social: Mrs. Green; school dances: Mrs. Regenaberg. It was apparent that the president, Mrs. Cliff Brown, had devoted much time and thought during the summer to the coming activities of her group. The Q.S. H-S is aspiring to the progressive development of this fine school through the co-operation of parents, teachers and students. The next executive meeting was held in October at the school and final plans were arranged for the first general meeting on the evening of October 24 at the school.

STUDENT-PARENT

For this meeting, emphasis were laid on the grade IX student and parent. The president spoke briefly, outlining the aims and objectives of a Home and School group. She expressed the hope and desire that Quinte Secondary H-S would receive the whole-hearted support of all the parents.

Later, the meeting broke up into ten groups for a discussion on extra-curricular activities. After a half-hour discussion the groups came together for a general discussion. Mr. G. Lockhin, representing the staff, spoke on what is being done at the present time regarding extra-curricular activities.

Mr. Reid, the principal, spoke briefly to welcome and thank the H-S Association. His introduced his staff to the members.

Mrs. Brown passed evaluation sheets around with the request that they be filled out before the members left. Subsequent tabulation showed that the evaluation sheets proved revealing. One thing definitely indicated was that the parents from Batawa and Frankford are, by their numbers and interest, strong supporters of school and the H-S Association. An indication and a sign of a successful year is recognized when it is realized that 81 members joined the H-S at the first general meeting of the year.

HIGH STANDARDS PANEL

On November 14th the executive met to prepare for what they believe will prove to be one of the most important general meetings ever held in Belleville in the interest of high standards in secondary and pre-university education. On the evening of November 28 the teachers and H-S of Q.S.S. have invited from Queen's University, Miss Jean Boyes, registrar; Dr. Jeffery, head of mathematics; Dean Earl of the arts faculty; Dean Conn, head of faculty of applied science to form a panel at the school with Mr. Reid, the principal, will chair the panel, whose theme will be the necessity of having high standards for admission to university and for the successful completion of a university course. Albert College staff and grade 13 students, along with their associates from B.C.I.V.S. and St. Michael's, have been asked to join in this important discussion.

Mrs. Brown and Mr. Reid explained that everyone interested in education is welcome. The Quinte Secondary H-S president concluded the interview by saying that with the panel for the panel discussion at the school on Thursday evening, November 28, parents and readers have been brought up to date on the association's activities.

MADOC

Veterans Hold Remembrance Day Service

MADOC — Remembrance Day service was held in Madoc Armouries the morning of November 11 with only a fair representation of the village and community attending.

Headed by the High School Cadet Band, Veterans and Legion members No. 363 marched from the Veterans hall to the Armouries for service. President of the Legion, John Howard, was chairman for the service with Rev. J. F. Lane offering the prayer. Music was provided by the Madoc Band under the leadership of Mr. Brintnell.

The guest speaker Squadron Leader R. P. Condon, of Trenton, gave a vivid picture of a young soldier of World War I who, in a dream, pictured the years ahead of World War I which was to have ended all wars; but alas wakes up to the fact that World War II is upon the world and on down through the years finds it heading for what? At present a restless world, and what is to be the outcome.

Sq. Ld. Condon's address left plenty of food for thought with his audience.

Following the two minutes of silence, Last Post and Reveille were sounded by four young men of the Cadet Band.

Following the close, a parade was formed and marched to the Cenotaph in the Thompson Memorial Park where many wreaths were placed in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

Parade Marshal was Lieut. H.D. Sears.

Liberal Senators Advocate Free Trade With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—With a youthful enthusiasm, a pair of beyond retirement-age Liberal senators have advocated free trade among Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom.

One of them would like to see such an area extended to all 15 Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Both suggested some such arrangement eventually must be concluded among Western nations if they are to meet the threat of Russia's growing industrial might to their own international trade.

The proposal was made in the Senate Tuesday night by Senator Wishart Robertson (L. — Nova Scotia), 66-year-old former upper house speaker. His suggestion won swift and enthusiastic support from 79-year-old Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario).

But Senator W. R. Brunt (PC—Ontario), appointed to the Senate this year, asked with some incredulity whether Senator Robertson would make his proposal despite "the fact that the administration in the United States is today doing nothing but conducting fire sales on wheat and dumping it here on us."

"TO REFORM THEM"

Senator Robertson: "We will mingle with them to reform them."

Senator Brunt: "Do you think 17,000,000 people can reform 175,000,000?"

Senator Robertson: "If the conscience is clear."

Senator Robertson said he can see "nothing but advantage" coming to Canadian primary producers from gaining free access to such a huge market by means of a free-trade agreement worked out carefully over the next 10 to 15 years.

"It may well be that our secondary industries — largely located in Ontario and Quebec — would be the greatest beneficiaries of such a change in policy . . .

"Arrangements with both the U.S. and U.K. for progressive removal of trade restriction offers the secondary industries of Canada the opportunity to gradually change from low-volume, high-cost producers to high-volume, low-cost producers instead."

SEES NEW CHALLENGE

Senator Robertson added that "a new and serious challenge may well come" from Russia in future. Recently she had offered aluminum in London markets at rates than world prices.

"In due course she will probably produce anything we do and is in a position to sell it at whatever price she sees fit."

He said he had always hoped Canada's trading problems would be solved by adoption of economic co-operation among NATO countries. He still believed this would come eventually, but it was not feasible at present.

Senator Roebuck said the time "must come" if the West is to compete successfully with Russia's growing industrial might when "we must abolish these that hamper trade.

SHOULD MOVE

Even if the U.S. would not agree—if it maintained trade restrictions now imposed on American business people — Canada should gradually move toward wide-open trade.

"We would undersell the U.S. in the foreign markets—we would beat their heads off in the matter of competition."

Those manufacturers who think only of present conditions and see nothing but disaster as a result of free trade should appreciate that "a reduction on the articles they make would be offset by a reduction on the goods they buy."

Senator Robertson said a Canada-U.S.-U.K. free - trade area would give Canadian farmers, fishermen, miners and lumbermen "preferred markets, free from duty — day threats and worries—a definite advantage."

Premier Breeder At Winter Fair An Argentinian

TORONTO (CP)—An Argentine cattle breeder has been named premier breeder and exhibitor of Holstein cattle at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

It was not a new experience for Hector L. Astengo of Buenos Aires, who had previously won the honor—based on total points collected in showing of cattle—at both the Royal and the Canadian National Exhibition here.

Mr. Astengo spend four months a year, in the spring and fall, at his Holstein Rosafe Farm, in Brampton about 25 miles northwest of Toronto. The rest of the year he spends in the southern hemisphere where he breeds and exports beef shorthorns.

Mr. Astengo is one of several South American breeders keenly interested in Canadian cattle. Their primary interest is usually in Holsteins, although several Ayrshires were bought by a Venezuelan buyer in Tuesday night's auction sale of Ayrshires entered in the fair.

OTHER COUNTRIES

Other South American countries represented by breeders and buyers this year are Colombia and Brazil.

Emphasizing the international character of this year's fair has been the winning of the world wheat championship by a British farmer, Andrew Davidson of Essex, England, who Tuesday night met and chatted with Governor - General Vincent Massey during the Governor - General's visit to the Horse Show.

Mr. Massey also reviewed a colorful honor guard of cadets from the Royal Military College, Kingston, and presented the Governor-General's Cup — for the three-year-old Canadian - bred horse which shows the most promise as a hunter—to George Elliott of Todmorden, Ont.

The winning horse was Bigg Quill, a grey gelding.

Tweed

TWEED — Sorry to report Eric Nowell, who has been on the staff of the Trudeau Motor Sales in town, and who resides at Marble Lake Lodge, Cloyne, met the misfortune to suffer an eye injury recently while working on his car on his off-hours. A sliver of steel penetrated, and after operation was performed at the Belleville General Hospital reports were that the sight of the eye might be lost. All hope for a complete recovery.

Although Rev. M. W. Heslip, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Tweed, and St. Peter's Madoc, had been critically ill for some weeks, his passing came as a great shock to his many friends and to members of his congregation. He passed away on Sunday, November 17, in the Belleville General Hospital in his 71st year.

The winner of the $5.00 merchandise prize which is drawn each Saturday, at the store of Kerr and Company, was Christy Frizzell, McGowan street, Tweed.

The annual meeting of the Hungerford Progressive Conservative association was held in the Municipal Hall, Tweed, on Saturday evening, November 16. The election of officers took place and other business was transacted. The attendance was encouraging to all members and officers of the association. Guest speakers present were: Roscoe Robson, M.P.P., Lee Grills and Mac Smith, president of the Belleville Conservative association.

They each spoke efficiently and Mr. Grills spoke at length of his many experiences and "doings" in the House of Parliament, and gave the members and the public a great insight into what is and what will be done in the future. Since this was his first year he enjoyed telling the particulars as much as the persons enjoyed listening to his interesting talk.

The following officers were elected: president, Harold Varty; vice president, Dave Turkington, Marlbank; and the poll - chairmen of the nine polls are as follows: poll 1, R. Morton, Thomasburg; poll 2, B. Coulter, Thomasburg; poll 3, Don. Bateman, Victoria; poll 4, Roy Young, Marlbank; poll 5, Harold Varty, Hogarth; poll 6, Ira Henderson, Stoco; poll 7, George Young, Gaffney; poll 8, W. J. Johnson, Moneymore; poll 9, Harold Luffman, Sulphide.

There will be a Nursery school meeting on Tuesday, November 26 at the Anglican Church, Tweed, and all mothers of pre-school age children are cordially invited to attend. The success of your Nursery school depends on the attendance at the general membership meeting. There will be speakers from Belleville, and the meeting starts at 8.30 p.m.

On Friday, November 22, free of charge, a film "The Light of the World" will be shown at the Actinolite Hall at 8 p.m.

The Rev. Douglas Loule, newly-inducted pastor of the United Church, Tweed, Actinolite and Sulphide charges was present and was welcomed by the president, Ken Credicott. Rev. Loule responded briefly and said he enjoyed his wonderful meal and meeting the members, and wished them good luck.

Economic Boycotts Aimed At Negroes Result of Many Incidents in Deep South

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The echoes of Little Rock are still thundering through the southern states today and authorities everywhere see three major effects on the anguished question of desegregating the schools.

They are:

1. A definite hardening of the determination of many southerners to resist the Supreme Court order. People tell you they were prepared, reluctantly, to accept integration before but now are ready to battle to the bitter end to avoid it. Teenagers are edgy. A judge in one city said, "I'm really afraid people would be killed here if they try to push integration at this time."

TIME TO COOL OFF

2. As a result, there is widespread talk of a "cooling off" period. Southerners believe—perhaps wishfully—that Little Rock will cause proponents of integration to postpone petitions for court orders to enrol Negro children in all-white schools.

3. Prior to Little Rock, most of the pronouncements from the South came from moderate voices. The North—hearing little else—took this as representative of southern opinion.

Today, other points of view are emerging.

Along with this, there are reports of economic pressures aimed at the Negro, new state laws to preserve segregation, and much discussion, pro and con, of the desirability of deserting the Democratic party and forming a new one.

The events that swirled around a single high school here from last September are reflected across the South today in these dissimilar forms:

In Decatur, Ga., a printed leaflet, unsigned, addresses itself to all whites, including doctors and housewives as well as business men. It says:

"If you continue to employ Negroes, you shall also be labelled a renegade white. The whites shall buy elsewhere and all friendships shall cease. As we succeed, your business shall fail."

But in Atlanta, 20 prominent clergymen sign and publish a clear-cut manifesto:

"We believe that all Americans, whether black or white, have a right to the full privileges of first class citizenship . . . God is no respecter of persons . . . any policy which seeks to keep any man from developing every capacity of body and mind and of the spirit can be justified in the sight of God."

In Birmingham, Ala., a Negro is emasculated. In Concord, N.C., an Ku Klux Klan beats up a woman reporter and a male photographer, both white. In Jacksonville, Fla., on the steps of a church where a Negro woman is making a speech, they find a package — a brown doll with a crushed skull, drenched in red ink to simulate blood.

In Augusta, Ga., the segregationist newspaper, Augusta Courier, tells its readers:

"We should have a plan of operation in case we are occupied by the armed forces of the United States as Little Rock was occupied by federal troops . . . U.S. forces can exterminate southerners if they will never be able to force mixing of races."

But a Mississippi-boosy rural paper man, Bicknell Eubanks, writes from Dallas:

"Last summer I spent a reputation of Little Rock and Nashville. Both cities were the scene of discussion and make a career of fostering suspicion and hatred of other communities want more of the violence which has marked the capitals of Arkansas and Tennessee."

So, in many ways, the shadow of Little Rock—basically the use of federal troops to enforce integration—still lies heavily over the Deep South.

What is the future of the public schools there?

Georgia's Governor Marvin Griffin—who called out troops in Little Rock just before Governor Orval Faubus put the National Guard around Central High School last September—told this reporter:

"The next general assembly (legislature) is absolutely adamant that there will be no integration in Georgia. State law permits us to close the schools. They (the federal government) know they can't make us levy a tax to operate a school. There's no necessity for sending troops to a school where the doors are closed."

Segregationist organizations appear to have been given a big lift by Little Rock. Their leaders, in some cases, candidly admit that membership had been dropping off before. Roy V. Harris, president of the State Rights Council in Georgia, claims money and new members are rolling in now. He gave no precise figures.

US Newspaper Says Sex Complex Motivated Gein

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune says today it has learned the previously undisclosed story behind Edward Gein, admitted slayer of two women, in which the "strange, tragic sex complex that motivated his sadistic rampage digged up two and more horrifying details of his ghoulish activities."

In a dispatch from Madison, Wis., The Tribune says it learned that Gein, "a shy, sly, mild-mannered bachelor, had wanted to be a woman and that he said this compulsion prompted him to kill women and steal other bodies from graves to get parts to wear upon his own body." A collection of human skulls has been found in his farm home.

The Tribune says "this most appalling denouement of the entire case" came from Coroner Wilson, head of the state crime laboratory, reported that Gein had told him and Sheriff Dr. Mark Hogan, 54, at his farm near Plainfield, in central Wisconsin.

Mrs. Hogan, a tavern operator at Bancroft, Wis., had been missing since Dec. 8, 1954. Earlier Gein had admitted killing and mutilating Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58-year-old hardware store owner of Plainfield last Saturday.

RETURNS TO JAIL

Gein was returned to the Waushara County jail at Wautoma Wednesday from Madison to await arraignment on a charge of first-degree murder.

The Tribune says it obtained its latest information in the case from an investigator, who was not identified.

"Gein had been extremely close to his mother throughout his life, so close, in fact, that he apparently acquired a feminine complex. . . . Some years ago at the height of his mother devotion, he wished he had been a woman instead of a man. He bought medical books and studied anatomy. He wondered whether it would be possible to change his sex. . . .

"After his mother's death, he brooded for a long time. From this disconsolate period emerged the compulsion to visit cemeteries. After a few nocturnal trips to graveyards, he began digging into fresh graves.

"He said he took the bodies to his home and cut them up. He removed only the heads, the skin, and some other parts. He insisted he disposed of the remainder of the bodies by burning them in small pieces in his kitchen cook stove.

"Gein said he kept all of the faces of his victims. He was particularly intrigued by the women's hair. He removed the skin of some of them and used it for making belts, a drum fashioned by stretching skin over the ends of a large tin can, and other items. He stripped the skin from the entire upper part of one woman's body and made a vest. . . .

"On occasions, he said, he would don one of the masks, slip into the torso skin vest, and attach to himself other parts he had removed from a woman's body and parade around by himself in his lonely farm house. He said this gave him great satisfaction."

Romanians May Play

OSLO (AP)—Organizers of the 1958 world hockey championships said today they received a provisional entry from Romania.

The championships take place Feb. 28-March 9 next year.

Earlier, the organizers said countries they expect to participate are Canada, Sweden, Russia, the United States, Czechoslovakia, Poland, East Germany, Finland and Norway.

Government May Have to Go To Deficit Financing to Meet All of the Election Promises

OTTAWA (CP)—Some federal authorities suggest that federal plans to provide the provinces with increased tax revenues will leave their impact on tax-collecting plans for the general public. But they believe also that timing is on the side of the taxpayer.

The Progressive Conservatives, in the 1957 election campaign, promised to do both things — increase revenues to provinces and reduce "unnecessary" taxes for they would attempt to do these the general public. They said things through a balanced budget —that is, without going into further debt.

The previous Liberal administration estimated the bill it would show a surplus of $152,000,000 for the current fiscal year which ends March 31. However, because of defence and other economies planned by the Conservatives, the surplus may actually run about $300,000,000 or so.

MORE FOR PENSIONS

Of this possible amount, some $345,000,000 will be taken up this year through the $9-a-month boost in old age pensions and higher payments to the needy aged, the blind, disabled, widows and veterans.

Aside from other unforeseen factors, that could leave about $150,000,000 or so for tax cuts or higher payments to the provinces. A federal - provincial conference to revise the existing tax-sharing plan is to be held here Nov. 25-26.

If immediate steps were taken to boost payments to provinces, there would be little or nothing left for the general taxpayer. However, it appears that any move to revise existing tax-sharing machinery would take some time and perhaps the changes would not go into effect until the next fiscal year in April.

Finance Minister Fleming has already indicated that he intends to make tax changes into effect at the current session of Parliament and these undoubtedly would become effective immediately.

"MAY AFFECT BUDGET

Thus, it appears likely that a good chunk of cash will be available in the treasury for immediate tax-cutting. But the cumulative effect of tax-cutting, higher pension payments and higher civil service salaries as well as increased payments to provinces may have a tremendous impact on the budget for the next fiscal year.

There are some signs of a dip in the economy — a decline that undoubtedly would have its effect on the government's tax revenues. If such a decline continued at a time when the government was taking in less money—and such are the indications for the next fiscal year — then it would appear the government would have to go in for deficit financing.

However, there is no great concern in federal financial circles over this possibility. The current public debt is about $11,000,000,000, the largest in 13 years. Nine post-war years of surpluses have reduced the debt from its peak of some $13,000,000,000 in 1957.

SOUND FOUNDATION

Authorities feel even if the government had to borrow as much as $500,000,000 in any one year, the administration's financial structure would be considered sound. Canada has been a large borrower in the past and parties bar debt while the United States, for example, has been increasing hers. The U. S. debt now is about $275,000,000,000 or more.

New Governor Named for Newfoundland

OTTAWA (CP) — A St. John's businessman, Campbell L. Macpherson, is Newfoundland's new lieutenant-governor.

Appointment of the 59-year-old department store managing director was announced Wednesday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. He succeeds Sir Leonard Outerbridge, 69, who had been the Queen's representative in the province from the time Newfoundland entered Confederation in 1949 until his retirement because of poor health Nov. 15.

The prime minister is expected to announce soon new lieutenant-governors for Ontario and Nova Scotia. Prominently mentioned are Mr. Justice John Keiller MacKay of Toronto, for Ontario, and Maj.-Gen. E. C. Plow, chief of the army's Eastern Command, for Nova Scotia.

Votes Favor Liquor

PORT PERRY (CP) — This village of 2,180 persons, dry since 1916, voted wet by a slim margin Wednesday. Both beer and liquor sales in government stores were approved in the fourth plebiscite held in this Lake Scugog village. Beer stores won a 62.5-per-cent majority, liquor stores a 61.5-per-cent majority. The requirement is 60 per cent.

Thus the government's timetable may appear somewhat like this:

1. Tax cuts in the current fiscal year along with the higher pension payments.

2. A larger share of the national tax pie for the provinces, perhaps effective in the new fiscal year.

3. Further general tax cuts in the new fiscal year perhaps along with some deficit financing and an increase in the public debt.

France Reaches Crossroads In Struggle With Algeria

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

France has reached a crossroads in her anguished struggle with Algerian rebels.

There are many indications that if settlement is not reached—and soon — enormous pressures will fall on France, not from her enemies alone, but from her Western allies.

For one thing, the summit NATO meeting, which is less than a month away, could well be a crashing failure if the U.S. and Britain cannot find a way to work with France on the Middle East and North African situations.

A sort of pro-Russian bloc, small but significant, already has been formed in the Middle East. Egypt and Syria have announced their determination to go through with a federation plan. At about the same time, Moscow announced new aid to Egypt.

IDLE DREAM

Western leaders are convinced that Canada will never be content by extending its influence to only those two countries, and the trend in the Algerian fiasco a clear and even inevitable opportunity for the Communists.

Instead, the West would like to see a grouping of Arab countries friendly to the West. Informants say London and Washington hope such an alliance can be meshed with NATO.

This will certainly be an idle dream as long as France, a key NATO member, is fighting Arabs.

BRITISH MOVE

Even apart from these aspects of the cold war, the U.S. and Britain are profoundly concerned that what the crushing burden of the long North African war is doing to France herself.

They have difficulty in seeing what France hopes to gain, especially when the French at home cannot agree among themselves on a formula of settlement of the war that is draining their country of treasure and ragging 200,000 men constantly.

Britain, which understands well the loss of colonies, has been forced to go against the wishes of her old friend and imperial partner by joining the U.S. in arms shipments to Tunisia, which the French mistrust.

PATRIOTIC SPIRIT

Tunisia's role thus appears to be gaining in importance. President Habib Bourguiba has flown to Rabat for talks with the Moroccan king, apparently aiming for a Tunisian - Moroccan - Algerian conference to prepare new peace proposals for the French.

The U.S. - British arms shipments have strengthened the hand of the faltering new French premier, Felix Gaillard, in the latest by-election skirmish.

Gaillard reiterated the French belief that Algeria is an integral part of France—and he won a resounding vote of confidence on a wave of patriotic sentiment.

Prime Minister Macmillan Showing Signs of Strain

LONDON (CP)—For the first time, observers are detecting signs of strain and tension in Prime Minister Macmillan.

The 63-year-old premier, now in his 10th month of office, has been portrayed previously as jauntily enjoying his job, delegating authority and giving ministers their heads.

Now The Daily Telegraph, Daily Express and News Chronicle all take the talk in Westminster more fervently has concentrated on the "strain" Macmillan is feeling.

His testy remark in the House of Common Tuesday to Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell—"Only you would make such a foolish suggestion" — is regarded as symptomatic. The comment is in contrast with Macmillan's usual Edwardian urbanity.

The prime minister has been suffering from a heavy cold since last Wednesday. Official sources, while admitting the premier has been working hard lately, firmly reject there is nothing psychically wrong. In fact, one associate expresses the opinion that Macmillan has been in better form than in recent weeks, despite his cold.

If Macmillan is in fact overworked, parliamentary commentators would agree that he is following a familiar precedent. He is believed to be concentrating much of his attention on foreign affairs, a thing long his wish. It seems to be an occupational hazard of this job that it often does get ahead of spending too much time "looking over the shoulder" of his foreign secretary.

Macmillan has enjoyed considerable popularity among Conservatives in Westminster, but it has become a commonplace to say that this has not been reflected in the country. Today The News Chronicle, reporting on the findings of an opinion survey, classes Macmillan as the "most unpopular Conservative since Neville Chamberlain," Conservative leader at the time of Munich.

Canada Soon Opens Drive To Divert More Trade to U.K.

LONDON (AP) — Against a background of official optimism, last newspaper reception, Canada this week opens a drive to divert a greater portion of her trade to the United Kingdom.

Reversing the normal role between buyer and seller, a massive Canadian trade mission will arrive in London Friday, not to sell Canadian goods but to encourage British manufacturers to pay more attention to Canadian market.

Although the purpose of the government-appointed 50 - man mission is primarily exploratory, official circles in both Canada and the United Kingdom appear confident that the visit will help the Canadian government achieve its announced objective of shifting it the United Kingdom upwards of 15 per cent of the imports now obtained from the United States.

GUARDIAN WARY

Newspaper scepticism ranges from doubts about the willingness of British manufacturers to engage in keen competition with United States firms now selling to Canada to a warning by the Manchester Guardian that the trade mission is more interested in selling Canadian goods to the United Kingdom than in buying British goods.

Last year the United Kingdom exported only $684,679,970 worth of goods to Canada — less than one-eighth of the value of United States shipments over the border. At the same time the United worth of Canadian goods.

The most formidable obstacle facing the trade mission is that this disparity in trade is not, in the main, due to any reluctance on the part of Canadians to "buy British."

The chief reason is what The Observer describes as the apparent unwillingness of all but a minority of British manufacturers "to divert business away from domestic and European buyers and to take the long-term capital risk of setting up an efficient attack on markets across the Atlantic."

BIGGEST IN U.S.

Sir Roy Dobson, chairman of A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd., and head of the Hawker Siddeley group's vast Canadian interests, is one British businessman with personal knowledge of the interest in Canada, or lack of it, shown by some firms. One of his Canadian companies recently decided to re - equip with modern machinery.

"It represented an expenditure of several million dollars and I gave orders that as much as possible was to be spent in the United Kingdom," Sir Roy told a reporter.

"In the end, most of the machinery came from the United States and Germany because we wanted the equipment inside 18 months and most British manufacturers said they couldn't meet that deadline."

Sir Roy, whose Canadian connection accounts for half of Hawker Siddley's annual group turnover of about £200,000,000, said he is convinced that, if the trade mission encouraged British manufacturers to take a more realistic view" of the Canadian market, most of our troubles would be over."

The Economist reflected much the same view. "If 5,000 Japanese iron and steel workers brought the ninth in a series of strikes launched since early October for higher wages, most of the strikers walked off their jobs for 48 hours.

Decorating Ideas by DORIS LOVE

Well known Canadian Colour Consultant

We live in an age of colour . . . coloured fixtures, coloured tile, coloured walls, coloured floors, coloured counters and coloured accessories. It is but natural then that a pleasing colour creation evolves but it is often the "accent" colour which controls the overall atmosphere of the room.

For instance in the modern bathroom, with considerable counter space to incorporate the plan, if it is brilliantly coloured in pumpkin, peacock, or perhaps coral, it would be safe to select deep-pile shower curtain, towels and tissue in a softly contrasting colour. For instance, Colour-Styled White Swan Tissue in Sea Spray Green goes beautifully with pumpkin . . . delicate Dawn Pink tissue is exquisite with peacock tones . . . and Azure Blue Tissue is a wonderful accent for coral. Now, if your counter top is linen-textured, choose a delicate colour like Marigold Yellow White Swan Tissue. It will blend with any tiling and fixture colour—and it's so very pretty looking.

Marble topped tables and counters . . . are very popular these days. If you have such an area in your bathroom, feature its colouring by introducing Sea Spray Green or Dawn Pink tissue.

"Bright" is right for fall . . . Don't reserve your "extra" decorating touches for the summer months, bridge club. Let the entire family enjoy interesting colour accents every day of the week—bright towels and all. Add to add individual touch which every bathroom needs. White Swan Pink and Marigold tissues are warm, cheerful decorative colours for this time of year.

The cost of living is up . . . no one needs to tell the homemaker. Naturally you're watching for happy shortcuts to protect your shopping budget. Why not consider coloured tissue for a dainty cleansing tissue, for blotting lipstick, for personal comfort in the bathroom?

And of course . . . no bottom can afford to be without White Swan serviettes. They're really wonderful—firm, in spacious size, and excellently patterned. Whether it's one or two plys, white or coloured, White Swan serviettes are a shopping bargain.

A handy bewitching companion . . . White Swan towels go travel-ling because many people have found them invaluable in a car—helpful on mudflaps and muddy windshields; for cleaning shoes or drying hands. If you've saved a roll of White Swan now—toss one in the car—you won't want to be without it! This is merely one more use to be added to the many uses for White Swan Towels in the home.

White Swan Paper Products, towels, tissue and many others are an essential commodity for daily comfort. They're practical, decorative and economical. In fact, no modern homemaker should be without these fine products.

RAWDON

Mt. Pleasant Rawdon WMS Elects Officers

RAWDON — The November meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday at Rawdon parsonage with Mrs. W. G. Fletcher as hostess, and 17 in attendance.

Mrs. Milford Wrightman opened with a message on "Peace." The third part of the W.M.S. worship service entitled "There is the Glory," was used.

The devotional was based on "Unto Him Every Knee Shall Bow" and all sang "Father of Peace."

Mrs. Earl McAdam read the Bible lesson from Philippians. Mrs. Ross Hoard read the meditation based on the words of St. Paul. Mrs. Percy MacMullen read the prayer from the October Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver outlined the study, entitled "Rebuilding on Old Foundations." Christ said: "On this rock I will build My church," and in 1940 a huge Christian rally was held in Tokyo, Japan, and in 1941 "The Church of Christ in Japan" was formed.

In April 1941 a deputation was sent by the Japanese churches to the United States for fellowship and conference. During the war years the North American boards assisted by way of relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction and by 1945 the churches were freed of wartime regulations.

The Protestant Church of Christ in Japan is a more adequate instrument in the hands of God and today there is a promise of greater fulfillment of witnessing for Christ.

The president voiced thanks for hospitality. Twelve members answered roll call.

Karen Summers gathered the offering which was dedicated with a hymn. The treasurer reported $49.15 for October.

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher gave a message on "The Parable of the Rich Farmer," and Mrs. Frank Jeffs read items from "The Temperance Advocate."

Mrs. Will Potts recorded over 30 calls in homes and hospitals.

Mrs. Ross Jeffs conducted the program based on "Remembrance," and read an appropriate poem. All sang "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind," and Mrs. Herbert Smith offered prayer.

Mrs. Ernest Spencer read the Bible lesson and Mrs. Will McAdam read a selection on "Peace." Mrs. Eric Summers sang "My Own Dear Land," and Mrs. Will Potts read a paper which she had prepared on that theme.

Brazil Scientist Claims He Has Isolated Virus

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil's National Cancer Institute said Monday a Brazilian scientist reports he has isolated a virus causing cancer.

The scientist, Dr. Paulo Bueno of the Sao Paulo Biological Institute, said he is testing a serum made from the virus on Brazilian cancer victims.

The institute and Dr. Bueno emphasized no claim is being made for discovery of a cancer cure.

The national institute said Dr. Bueno reported that, after working on the problem since 1951, he isolated a filterable virus from a woman's breast infected with cancer Bueno said he tested the serum from the virus culture on a cancer-ridden mouse, with successful results. He since has begun tests on human beings.

In New York a spokesman for the American Cancer Society declined to comment on the Brazilian report, but noted that there has been considerable research in the United States based on the possibility that cancer is caused by a virus. U.S. cancer experts have described it as one of the most hopeful lines of research today.

There have been reports previously of isolation of such viruses, the spokesman said, but none of these claims have been proved.

DESERONTO

Councillor Again Requested to Leave Chamber

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the town council was held in the town hall Monday night with all members present except Councillor J. Neal.

Before the council turned to the business of the meeting Mayor McVicker asked Councillor George Knight if he intended to apologize. Councillor Knight replied that he had no-one to apologize for and was asked to vacate his seat. Councillor Stubbs interrupted the exchange to voice his approval of the stand that Councillor Knight had taken and advised him to remain in his seat. Stubbs was called to order by the mayor, who read the rules of order and instructed Councillor G. Knight that if he did not vacate his seat he could be removed forcibly by Chief Constable McTaggart. As he retired from the council table Councillor Knight said, "Now I see why you have Chief McTaggart present tonight when he ordinarily does not attend council meetings."

Councillor P. Knight asked the mayor if the expulsion order did not apply to one particular meeting and was advised that it was in effect until the apology was made according to the motion passed by the council.

APPROVE RENTAL

The minutes of the previous meeting and a special meeting were read by the clerk and approved. The special meeting was held to approve the rental of the lower part of Mill Street to the Dravo Co. for a period of ten years at a rental of $50 yearly.

Included in the correspondence was a letter from the town solicitor advising that the town was not responsible for damages due to the flooding of basements that had been hooked onto the town street drains. He also advised that the town would not be held liable for damage if a building should collapse on the Shawalla. In accordance with the practice of previous councils, a grant of $50 was made to the local hockey team. There was also some correspondence from solicitors regarding the Kelly fire last summer.

A by-law amending the building by-law was passed. According to the revision repairs can now be ordered by the building inspector if not carried out within the specified time, the building inspector can have the work done and the costs are collected in the same manner as taxes.

The Medical Officer of Health also came under fire when it was charged that he was negligent in carrying out his duties. The clerk was instructed to advise the medical officer that a meeting was to be held next Wednesday afternoon when some of the complaints would be aired. It was also suggested that he be asked for his resignation.

After some discussion the honorariums for the year were set at $150 for the mayor and $100 for each councillor. A further $85.25 was granted to Councillor P. Knight for his work on the fire department for which he had drawn no remuneration.

Before council adjourned, Councillor S. S. Walker spoke regarding the very satisfactory work during the year of Councillor G. Knight and suggested that Knight might apologize and the council could end the year in harmony. The mayor then asked Councillor Knight if he would apologize and was strongly given a negative reply.

Council then adjourned.

Radar Capable Of Probing Space Now Developed

NEW YORK (AP)—A radar capable of probing space to give advance warning of ballistic missiles has been developed and is being studied by Canadian and United States defence scientists, it was announced Monday.

Lincoln Laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, builder of the giant radar, also said as part of Canadian-U.S. co - operation in ballistic missile defence a large radar installation is to be built near Prince Albert, Sask.

It did not specify that the Saskatchewan set is to be the same as the giant one the lab said has been put into operation at Westford, Mass.

TRACKED SPUTNIK II

The giant set, weighing 90 tons and shaped like a bowl 84 feet in diameter, has been used successfully to track Russia's second space satellite, the announcement said.

The laboratory, calling it "a new tool for research in problems of ballistic missile defence," said scientists from Canada's Defence Research Board's telecommunications staff are working closely with the laboratory staff.

The announcement said the new instrument will provide valuable information on the operation and applications of high-power, long-range radar and also will be of assistance in gaining better understandings of the radio effects of meteors and aurora.

HAS ELECTRONIC BRAIN

Dr. Julius A. Stratton, chancellor and acting president of Mit, said coupled with the radar is an electronic "brain which supplies data on trajectories at a rate of thousands of characters a second. A trajectory is the curved path followed by an object in space—such as a satellite, or a n.issile passing from its point of discharge to its target.

Turned on Sputnik II Nov. 7, in midnight darkness, the radar's observations resulted in measurements of range, elevation, bearing and other factors. At that time the satellite was at a height of 152 miles.

Leafs, Hawks Show Visiting Russ How Hockey Should Not Be Played

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THE MAN SPEAKS!

Frank Orr, sports editor of the Cornwall Standard Freeholder, who could make any basketball team with his six-foot sports knight, and easy debating society with his gift of argument and comment, was a guest in the press box the other night.

Mr. Orr of literature authors "Tales out of Belleville, Pembroke, Kingston, Whitby" when the mood suits him and the majority of them come under the new famous, or it is captivation, of Wren Blair's "Unfounded Stories."

Mr. Orr was fidgeting uneasily in the seats of the press mighty, and rightly so, because his beloved Chevies, or are they, were being given a smart two-way hockey lesson by "Ike" and his cohorts of the McFarlands.

As the score slowly mounted, Mr. Orr endeavored to hide his chagrin and disappointment under the guise of questions aimed at this department and its good yeoman-Friday, Master Alexander. He was mighty curious as to the reaction of Belleville fans to Sonny Kowalchuk for had he not written in his column a day or so ago that the "one thing a lot of Belleville fans wanted to see was Russ leave town." Perhaps his unspoken thought was that the big winger would head east.

Then in an outburst of magnanimity he followed this with: "But I guess he is the type of player Belleville wants so we guess the rest of the league will have to tolerate him."

He admitted in his column that the "Macs are about the best home club in the league." He was a little short on territorial fact statement. But he adds: "It is little wonder. They have the fanatical (there's that word again) support of the fans there and when every one in the rink starts to chant 'More, Macs, More' they really fire."

Mr. Orr during the course of what must have been a terribly disappointing evening, was a bit critical of his more or less beloved Chevies. When it was drawn to his attention after goalie Frederick Carl Sawchuk was particularly brilliant saves and he stopped all but five out of 41. Mr. Orr's somewhat satirical comment was "It's about time he did something good."

He should remember that none other than Long John Henderson of the Allan Cup champions from Whitby went through the same experience last Friday night. We'll bet a plugged nickel that Wren Blair himself would admit his club was beaten by a better one on the night's play. (Oops, an 'unfounded statement!')

And when this remark was made by another press-box occupant that the Chevies' Moe Savard was leading the league in scoring and that he was, perhaps one of the better centres in the loop, Mr. Orr shook this one off with the comment, "He has more talent than any other player in the league but he doesn't use it too much." And that is not an unfounded statement.

But Mr. Orr was apparently thoroughly determined, as he watched his Chevies going down before the mounting score and their offensive efforts very definitely nullified by one Gordie Bell and his able assistants behind the blue line, not to mention the hard back-checking of the up-front hockey troops, and that is the term of Mr. Orr, were being defeated by the better club on the evening's performance.

Instead he charged the Cornwall defence was not the best in the league, in fact he strongly insinuated it was the worst, then adding quickly "but they proved that the McFarlands into the ice the last time they played in Cornwall."

Perhaps Mr. Orr can take some consolation from the fact that to date the Eastern Ontario senior "A" circuit has all the earmarkings of being a "homer" league. The records show that up to and including Tuesday night's games only four out of 29 played have been won on "away" ice.

Meanwhile the Macs, who have won three of their last four starts, meet their ancient foemen from Kingston on Friday night in the Roddenville Community Centre. They entertain the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens here Saturday and make their first visit to the beautiful new Hull Arena on Sunday. The Baby Habs finish out a game and as they collect three points for a win, and average a one-and--one-half points for a tie, a few victories on their home ice, or anywhere, would send them scuttling rapidly upwards.

Incidentally the Montreal Canadiens' management has turned a flat thumbs-down on Wren Blair's efforts to borrow Ralph Backstrom for his Allan Cuppers. The parent club already hard hit by injuries wants the smooth centre available if Coach Toe Blake sends out a call for reinforcements.

Kings Defeat Kingston 6-2 Leap-Frog Into Third Place

By The Canadian Press

The cellar dwellers of Ontario's Senior A hockey leagues scored easy victories Wednesday night.

Pembroke Lumber Kings dumped Kingston CKLC's 6-2 to jump past Kingston and the idle Cornwall Chevies into third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division.

Sudbury Wolves snapped a 10-game winless streak by whipping the slumping North Bay Trappers 5-2 in OHA-NOHA Senior A hockey action.

Ralph Buchanan paced the Pembroke win with three goals against his former teammates—he scored 26 goals in 27 games for Kingston last season. Ken Campbell, Nobby Clarke and Bert Giesbrecht scored the other Pembroke goals.

Roy Partridge banged in both Sudbury goals.

Pembroke leads the OHA by two points over Whitby, which is two points ahead of Pembroke.

At Sudbury, North Bay Trappers had their losing streak extended to seven as Sudbury snipped in a skein of nine losses and one tie.

Defenceman Norm Guimond, a former Sudbury Tramper, scored two goals to lead the Sudbury attack. The others went to Lennie Speck, Jimmy Logan and Yacker Flynn. Gail St. James and Jerry Cobana got a goal each for the Trappers.

The win still left Sudbury low men in the OHA-NOHA standings, two points behind Windsor. Sault Ste. Marie, Kitchener, Chatham and North Bay remained in the first four places.

Toronto Shades Chicago 2-1 In Rough Bruising Battle; Wings, Rangers Play 1-1 Tie

By The Canadian Press

Big George Armstrong, who has been finding goals a scarce commodity this season, counted No. 3 Wednesday night and gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 2-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks in the first Toronto win in six starts.

Armstrong, hailed by Leaf officials when they signed him eight years ago as one of the greatest junior players they had seen, has seldom lived up to his advance billing. Last year was his best in goals production in the National Hockey League—a modest 18.

At his present rate of production, the bruising right winger will be lucky if he hit half that number.

In the only other NHL action Wednesday night, New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings battled 1-1. The results lifted the Rangers to two points ahead of the idle second-place Montreal Canadiens and left Toronto and Detroit tied for last place, five points behind Boston Bruins and Chicago who are deadlocked for third.

KELLY SCORES GOAL

Shaking up the Red Wings in hopes of restoring their former power, coach Jimmy Skinner shifted all-star defenceman Red Kelly to left wing, replacing Johnny Wilson, and Kelly notched the tying goal.

Ranger rearguard Larry Cahan opened the scoring at 11:36 of the first period and Kelly counted just 37 seconds later on a slap shot.

In Toronto, the Leafs and Hawks showed the visiting Russian hockey team some rough checking, but few of the fine points of the game.

Armstrong got the winner at 18.25 when he banged Dick Duff's rebound off the end boards behind Chicago goaltender Glenn Hall.

Hall's play was spectacular at times, especially, in the second period, when Leafs fired 19 shots. He made 33 saves compared to 19 by Ed Chadwick.

Friday in Chicago the Black Hawks take on the Rangers.

Tigers Got 'Better of Deal' In 13-Player Swap With A's

By Dave Diles

DETROIT (AP) — "They're all the better of the deal. We had to get them go. But we never did much with them while they were here. We're going to go place —and you can't go any place standing still."

Jack Tighe made that comment, discussing the 13-player deal that was announced Wednesday by Detroit Tigers and Kansas City Athletics.

There's little room for sentiment in baseball. The Tigers have admitted they have been too cautious in the past, too reluctant to say frankly "we are going to do this player."

General manager John J. McHale says he is ready and willing to make more trades. The Tigers would like to get back Vic Wertz, the heavy-hitting first baseman they traded to the old St. Louis Browns in 1952.

The Tigers look to Bill Tuttle, Frank Bolling, Duke Maas, Jim Small and John Tsitouris and two minor league players to be named later. They received Billy Martin, Gus Zernial, Mary Throneberry, Lou Skizas, Tom Morgan and Tim Thompson.

Pierce seemed to feel the Tigers got the better of the deal. Tighe said "we did real well." The trade provoked a free-swinging attack on baseball's trading system from the dealhey figure, Martin.

Martin, who batter eight years with the champion New York Yankees has been traded twice in a year, tells reporters he'll demand a cash settlement from Kansas City. He indicated he might be a holdout if his demands are rejected.

"They just can't throw us around from one club to another without us having a say-so," said Martin.

But McHale said there would be no trouble. "He's going to fit right into our organization."

The five Tigers named in the deal average 34½ years in age. The six players coming to Detroit have an average age of 29½. The Tigers elected not to wait two or three years for players who might become frontline major leaguers.

Tighe gave a brief appraisal of the players who'll work under him for the first time in 1958:

Billy Martin—"He's a pro. He's a fighter, a versatile guy who doesn't want to do anything but win and doesn't like ball players who doesn't have the same spirit. He'll pep some of our boys up and make better players out of them."

Leafs Vote Players Body As Agent

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team have again indicated they want the National Hockey League Players' Association certified as their bargaining agent.

A secret ballot vote was held Wednesday at a meeting of players prior to today's annual meeting at before the Ontario Labor Relations Board of an application by the association to represent the players.

The vote was held because some players were confused by withdrawal Tuesday of the association's charges of anti-labor practices against the NHL and Toronto clubs.

Milton Mound of New York, lawyer for the Players' Association, is due in Toronto to represent them at today's board hearing.

Eskimos Rally Twice To Shade Bombers 5-4; Western Finals Squared

Jackie Parker Sensational On Defence in Last Minutes; Third Game in Edmonton Sat.

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — The ball bounced right for Edmonton Eskimos Wednesday night and they came out a point ahead of Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a heaving 5-4 battle that tied the Western Interprovincial Football Union final at one win apiece.

Jackie Parker, sparkling in three straight Grey Cup championships for Eskimos, did it again as Edmonton twice came from behind, then held off a last-ditch and offensive that left Bombers a yard from victory.

The contest sent the best-of-three final into a third contest here Saturday night. Bombers won the opener 19-7 at Winnipeg.

The more than 19,000 fans in chilly Clarke Stadium will remember best were the last two plays of the game.

Parker, who took over at quarter in the second half, was sensational on defence in the dying minutes.

PUNT AVERTS TIE

He punted the ball 50 yards out of the end zone on the second-last play to prevent the tying point. And on the final play of the game he caught a Bomber punt at the Edmonton one-yard line and ran back 12 yards.

Placement - kicking end Joe Mobra was the only Eskimo who got credit for any points, booting a field goal with less than four minutes left in the game to bring Esks from behind 4-2 to ahead [illegible] other Edmonton points came on a safety touch credited to no one in particular.

Fullback Charlie Shepard, head-hunting Eskimo pick kept fanning Eskimos deep into their own end before he was injured in the third quarter, kicked a single point for Bombers in the second quarter and fullback Gerry James added the other three points on a field goal.

James was less than two yards wide of the goal posts on a second-half goal attempt from outside the 35-yard line and that one by Parker's punt on the second-last play — would have given Bombers to the Grey Cup [illegible] if it had been good.

BOMBERS LOSE PATH

The hard-hitting game, played on a frozen turf and in 20-degree weather, saw Bombers suffer at least two serious injuries and both sides pick up a number of painful bruises.

The first quarter was scoreless and Bombers were ahead 1-0 at the half. Edmonton led 2-1 after the third and the clubs exchanged field goals in the fourth.

Eskimos showed superiority in the yardstick story. They got 19 first downs on 283 yards rushing, most of it by fullbacks Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright and halfback Ken Hall, and 40 yards passing. Parker and Don Getty made good on four of seven pass attempts.

Bombers got 10 first downs on 149 yards rushing and 86 yards passing. Shepard, James and Leo Lewis were the main ball carriers and end Ernie Pitts the favorite target of quarterback Kenny Ploen, who completed five of 10 tosses.

COACHES' COMMENTS

The margin of victory didn't matter to Eskimos' head coach Pop Ivy.

"I don't care how close they are," he said later, "just so long as we win them."

Coach Bud Grant of Bombers was disappointed — "the difference was less than two yards twice," he said—but he promised the third game will be no easy road for Eskimos.

Eskimos reported assorted bruises after the game, but the medical staff said none looked like major injuries. Bombers on the other hand, saw defensive half Pete Mangum suffer a sprained ankle in the second quarter and Shepard reinjure his hip in the third. Both are doubtful starters Saturday.

Shepard's punt from the Edmonton 35-yard line early in the second went to Oscar Kruger 10 yards behind the goal line and Kruger stepped out of bounds to concede the single.

TWO-POINT RULING

A fumble by fullback Normie Kwong after a pass completion resulted in Edmonton's safety touch Kwong took a 15-yard pass from Parker on the Winnipeg 12, fumbled the ball and watched Gordie Rowland of Winnipeg bobble it over the goal line as he tried to recover. Rowland grabbed the ball two yards inside the end zone, dived out and was nailed. The referee ruled the ball had been grounded behind the goal line and therefore was dead, giving Edmonton two points.

The explosive fourth quarter had the crowd in an frenzy.

Bombers had the ball on the Edmonton 35-yard line after Eskimo Bill Smith, the last man back, made a spectacular diving tackle from behind to stop James on a 35-yard burst around end.

Winnipeg went ahead 4-2 when on third down and with four yards to go for a first down, James kicked a field goal from Edmonton's 30-yard line.

Eskimos took possession on their 35-yard stripe and moved to the Winnipeg seven.

MOBRA DOES HONORS

Bombers held Kwong and Parker in two plays for five yards and Mobra booted a field goal from 13 yards out at 12:16.

Bombers took the ball at their 35 On the first play, Ploen passed his wide end Lewis, punted back to the Edmonton 35.

On the last play, Vincent's punt for the tying point went to Parker at the Edmonton 35.

Cats' McDougall Made Grade The Tough Way

TORONTO (CP) — Gerry McDougall of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, chosen as halfback on The Canadian Press offensive Big Four football team, made the grade the tough way.

Two years ago, when he was 22, McDougall, along with several other players, was kicked off the UCLA football team for accepting money under the table.

Gerry explains that the evicition police came because he and several other players accepted $40 a month from the college's alumni association.

This $40 was illegal. Legal was the $75 a month that came from the Pacific Coast conference, of which UCLA was a member.

So Gerry stayed out of football last year and concentrated on his business and geology course at college.

Last fall he tried his luck in Canada. Shortly after he arrived at the Ticat camp the football pundits predicted Gerry would soon be out on his ear because coach Trimble was overstocked with worthwhile U.S. imports.

Gerry, doubtless feeling the axe was about to descend, said that his parents were born in Canada. As a Canadian Gerry was valuable material and easily made the club.

Gerry knows he got a break but thinks he gets a bigger break by playing only on offence. "If I had to go both ways like some of those guys do, I might not have so much gallop," he said.

TWO TITLES TO JAPAN

TOKYO (AP) — Two slugging, aggressive Japanese fighters upset two Thailanders Wednesday night to win featherweight and welter-weight crowns in the Oriental Boxing Federation's third annual carnival of championships.

Only classy Leo Espinosa of the Philippines, 118, retained his bantamweight title in the three championship bouts.

Japan's Hiroshi Okawa, 133½, decisioned Omsap Haemlaphan, 134½, of Thailand for the light-weight championship and Kenji Fukuchi, 143¾, Japan, upset Somdet Yontrakiit, 146½, to take the welter title.

Team Five took a 3-1 victory over Team One. L. Mavety scored twice and B. Durrant once with D. Vance and Stu Mulhead picking up helpers. Jim Sherlock potted the Team One goal unassisted.

GAVILAN EDGES BYARS

CHICAGO (AP) — Former welterweight champion Eli Gavilan, 151, cut loose with a pressing body attack Wednesday night to hammer out a unanimous 10-round decision over left-hooking Walt Byars, 146.

The decision brought a mixture of boos and cheers from the Chicago Stadium crowd.

In the sixth round, Byars complained of a low blow and then looked as if he would tear into the Cuban in a frenzy of anger. After the bell he pushed the former 31-year-old titlist away in a gesture of disgust.

All officials favored Gavilan 47-45 under the five-point-must system.

Have Stamina, Charm

Writers Hoist Storm Signals, Impressed by Russ Ability

TORONTO (CP)—A platoon of bug - eyed reporters, doggedly tracking the Russian hockey team through its first hours in Canada, have hoisted storm signals for the visitors' exhibition opponents

The usually - cynical sports writers were impressed by the Soviet team's skill, stamina, appetites and charm.

Many appeared startled that the Moscow Selects — as they have been dubbed because they are drawn from three Russian teams — know their hockey as well as or better than most Canadian teams.

For the 26-man Russian party —including 20 players—it was a rough day.

They arrived at Malton airport at 5 a.m. Wednesday, edged through their first press assault, snatched six hours' sleep at their fancy uptown hotel, whisked through a two-hour workout that left about 200 spectators groaning in sympathy, smiled through a reception in their honor, ignored stares and flashbulbs at a National Hockey League game and returned to their hotel around midnight.

Today they scheduled a training soccer game, having turned down a visit to Niagara Falls.

Friday the Russian players, whose average age is 24 and weight 165, go into the first of their seven exhibition games against Ontario and Quebec amateur teams They meet the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops, who will represent Canada in the international hockey champion-ships in Oslo next February, in Maple Leaf Gardens.

The Ruriians issued guarded comments on Wednesday night's professional scramble between Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks. Team manager Col. Pavelev Kovzkov told reporters after the 2-1 Toronto victory:

"The technique is very high."

He disapproved of evidence that "players use their sticks to push other boys into the boards." His own players were as fast or faster than the pros but the pace was stiffer in the NHL match.

LIKES DUFF, MORTSON

He praised the "well-executed plays" of Leafs forward Dick Duff and defenceman Gus Mortson of the Hawks.

The Russians appeared appalled by skirmishes on the ice. One recalled that a Soviet player was banned for life after he cut an opponent's lip with his stick.

During their afternoon workout the visitors hopped on one foot and stickhandled backwards while the goalkeepers put on speed displays.

Tiger Coach Raps Back At Critics

HAMILTON (CP)—Jim Trimble, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, has answered criticism of the non-passing offence of his Big Four football team and, more specifically, its quarterback, Bernie Faloney.

Trimble told a Quarterback Club luncheon Wednesday:

"Poor receiving has made the difference between Bernie's being a 45-per-cent passer and a 50-per-cent passer.

"With our style of game—and I'll admit I don't prefer it—a 50-50 mark is adequate to complement a power-running game.

"We're playing ball control football because I'm convinced it's the only way to stop Montreal."

The Tiger - Cats go against Montreal Alouettes here Saturday in the final game of a two-game total-point series for the Big Four championship. Ticats won the first 17-10 in Montreal last Saturday.

Faloney, who has led his team to its best won-lost mark (10-4) since 1952, quarterbacked the Tiger-Cats into a Big Four rushing record of 2,902 yards this season.

Said Trimble:

"Everything Bernie has, or has not done, has been at my instruction . . . He has carried out instructions as well as any quarterback I've had."

TV Play Didn't Revive Religious Revivalism-Flop

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Last week it could be said that a searching examination of religious revivalism never had been attempted on television.

This week, now that The Seven Lively Arts (CBS-TV) has presented The Revivalists, it still can be said that a searching examination of revivalism never has been attempted on television.

The program was a disappointment to anyone having faith in the future of The Seven Lively Arts as stimulating entertainment. The Revivalists stood in need of at least one and possibly two theologians to give viewers a better understanding of this form of religious experience.

GOOD FILM ACTION

There were some excellent filmed portions of contemporary revivalists in action—all the way from the Holiness People to Rev. Billy Graham, and back to the days of Billy Sunday and Aimee Semple McPherson. Special attention was focused on Graham, but one's knowledge of his work was not substantially increased.

Narrator John Crosby and the creators of the program failed to raise questions about the nature of revivalism—and so, naturally, there were no answers.

A little history of the astonishing influence of revivalists in North America since the 18th century would have helped one better understand the movement as it is today.

NATURAL QUESTIONS

Is revivalism gaining or losing ground? Does it have lasting influence on the lives it affects or is it temporary emotionalism? Does it appeal to members of particular social groups or does it exercise a universal human appeal?

Nearly every viewer interested in watching a TV program on television revivalism has such questions or opinions in mind. The program did not attempt to answer them.

Als Confident Of Victory Says 'Peahead'

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Doug (Peahead) Walker of Montreal Alouettes says his club is confident it can overcome a seven-point deficit in the second game of the Big Four final against the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Saturday.

"It's only a converted touchdown," said Walker Wednesday night after running his team through a two - hour practice. "Our boys figure they can make it."

Walker said he thought Montreal was "a better scoring club" than Hamilton, but he added the Tiger-Cats were stronger defensively and "probably the toughest defensive club we've faced all year."

He also said the Montreal defensive unit will have to tighten up to keep from being fooled on Tiger-Cat offensive trap plays, resulting in long runs on bursts through the line.

Montreal supporters feel the Alouette line will be strengthened considerably Saturday with the return of Canadian tackle Ted Elsby, who missed the first game to attend his father's funeral in Galt.

But halfback Joel Wells, one of the Alouettes' two big rushing threats, is not expected to play. Wells suffered a cracked rib in a semi-final playoff.

On the Tracks

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Pimlico Futurity Saturday will be like a poker game with six players, for a pot of $182,350 put up mostly by khitzers.

The $115,347 first prize waiting for one of the six is the third highest in horse racing.

It will cost each of the six owners figuring at this time to enter the Futurity $1,500 in installments, and the winner will get only the bulk of the prize money. A $10 nominating fee was pitched in by 2,024 owners three years ago to provide $70,240.

The second fee of $35 was paid by 620 still interested and added $21,700 to the pile. With the fee at $100, 374 paid up. The last payment was $200 and there still were 122 owners standing to pay.

Pimlico, sponsor of the race threw in $50,000.

The six likely participants in the mile and sixteenth Futurity are Maine Chance Farm with Jewel's Reward, Wheatley Stable with Misty Flight, Hemisphere with Nala, Christiana Stable with Staysail, Pine Tree Stable with Amber Tide and Mill River with Washington.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cain Hoy Stable of Allie Lilyran off and on from a handy band of fillies and mares in the first-running of the $22,000 American Beauty Handicap at Jamaica Wednesday.

Pink Velvet, owned by Toronto sportsman Bill Beasley, was third.

Nile Lily won by six lengths over Poll-o-Mine, the 5-to-3 favorite.

Nile Lily paid $30.90, $8.50 and $4.40.

Helipat, a New- England bred and owned filly, won the $31,740 Misty Dyer Stakes at Narragansett.

TOONTO (CP) — Real Cute, overlooked by the bettors, scored her third win in 12 starts this season to take the featured Christmas Purse for two-year-olds at New Woodbine Wednesday.

Real Cute, owned by Mrs. Churchill Mann of Toronto, paid $22.40 in the easy victory.

Birchwood finished second, barely ahead of Knuckle Duster.

New Woodbine meeting closes today to end the longest season in Canadian thoroughbred racing. It opened April 12 at Fort Erie.

Grey Cup Day Could Be Cloudy, Snow

TORONTO (CP) — What are weather prospects for the Grey Cup football game Saturday, Nov. 30?

Ten days ahead is too early even to guess, says Fred Turnbull, the Dominion public weather office's chief forecaster for Ontario.

However, to get at the prospects on the basis of averages, Turnbull checked 30 years of records for Nov. 30 in Toronto, back to 1921, and came up with this possible picture:

"Cloudy, no measurable snow or rain, a skiff of snow on the ground and an afternoon temperature near 40."

Has Talent, Will Travel Says Broadway Sensation

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ben Gazzara is in town, and he isn't the least bit surly.

The Broadway sensation is here for a rare TV appearance on CBS' Playhouse 90 tonight. I found him courteous, considerate and constructive. He even had kind things to say about Hollywood. What a disappointment.

One could expect more fireworks from Gazzara. After all, he was a prime portrayer of Angry Young Men in stage hits Cat on a Hot Tin Roof and A Hatful of Rain.

"I go where the material is," he explained. "The reason I won't sign with a studio is because I won't let myself get involved with about.

PAYS OFF

"But I realize that it pays to have certain ties to one studio. After all, you can't expect producers to give you good roles if they can't count on you for something in return."

For that reason, he may finally succumb to Hollywood. His only picture so far has been The Strange One, in which he played a strange one indeed, a fraternity cadet in a southern U.S. military academy. Taken from the play he starred in, End as a Man, it was filmed in Florida by independent producer Sam Spiegel. No hit here, the film is doing big business abroad, Gazzara said.

Now MGM wants him to recreate his role in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof opposite Elizabeth Taylor. He may allow himself to be lured.

TOO HIGH

The had been reports that Gazzara has held out for a lot of loot from the film studios. Figures as high as $150,000 a picture have been mentioned.

"Ridiculous!" he commented. "I'm not so unrealistic to think I'm worth that. After all, I'm an unproven commodity at the box office."

The mention of $100,000 appeared to be a truer neighborhood. That's still a lot of money for an actor who has never made a Hollywood film.

Gazzara's new York actors who grab the money and flee with scorn, Gazzara had kind words to say about the film town.

"I don't think you can look down at Hollywood," he said. "I think there are just as many good writers, directors and actors here as there are in New York."

Petes Score Overtime Win

BARRIE (CP) — Peterborough Petes continued their amazing pace in the OHA Junior A League by scoring a 3-2 overtime win over Barrie Flyers Wednesday night.

The win came on a screened shot at 4:11 by Dave Besse, a chunky rearguard who hasn't seen too much action in his six NHL games. It was the third overtime game Flyers have dropped this year.

Bob Blackburn gave the Flyers the lead at 18:28 of the first period on a long drive along the ice on which goalie Jacques Caron fanned.

Gerry Brisson put the Petes back on even terms after 28 seconds of the second period.

A solo dash by George Montador gave Petes a 2-1 edge early in the third period. Murray Davidson scored on a blueline shot at 8:30 to send the game into overtime.

Peterborough outshot Barrie 37 to 25.

TWO-WAY FIGHT FOR MAYORALTY SEEN

Nuclear Energy May Produce 2pc Of Power By 1980

Royal Commission Study Indicates 6-Fold Gas Jump

Two CNS Ships Reach Halifax To Join Others

HALIFAX (CP)—Two of five Canadian National Steamships icebreakers which left Montreal Tuesday for unknown destinations slipped into Halifax harbor early this morning.

The Canadian Cruiser and Canadian Challenger joined three other CNS ships already tied up here.

CNS officials here said only two of the two ships had arrived. It was rumored the remaining three ships, Canadian Observer, Canadian Victor and Canadian Highlander would join the others here later today.

The ships presumably are manned by a skeleton crew of officers. The officers are not involved in the strike called last June by the Seafarers International Union to back contract demands.

Destination of the fleet has been in question since the ships left Montreal. A reliable source in Montreal said Thursday night the fleet was bound here, but some reports suggested the ships might sail directly to their new home port in Trinidad, or rendezvous at sea with a ship carrying crews from the West Indies.

Airliner Hits Downdraft, 16 People Hurt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A West coast Air Lines plane carrying 34 persons bounced violently during a fair test of here Thursday night after hitting a downdraft. Fourteen passengers and two stewardesses were injured.

The stewardesses and some of the passengers were thrown against the roof of the 10-seat airliner when it was suddenly downward by the draft, then pitched up by a reverse draft, and came down momentarily jerked down again by still another draft.

The cabin filled with flying luggage as passengers were hurled from their seats. Four passengers were still unconscious when the plane landed but none of the injuries was believed to be serious condition.

Identify Man's Body

TORONTO (CP) — A man's body found in a cardboard shack he had built beside steam pipes in the downtown harbor area was identified as James Davidson, 63.

Chief Coroner Dr. Gordon Larmon said "It is an awful thing when a city as great as Toronto cannot take care of a poor, elderly man whose only fault is that he has no money."

Today's Chuckle

It may be true that George Washington never told a lie. But there were no income taxes then.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:
Ontario weather continued generally cloudy and moderately cold, with brisk westerly winds and scattered light snowfalls during the night. Temperatures in Southern Ontario dr. upped to about 30 degrees. In Northeastern Ontario temperatures ranged between 10 and 20 degrees. In extreme Northwestern Ontario another surge of cold weather dropped temperatures to near zero. The new surge of cold weather is likely to visit Southern Ontario briefly tonight and Saturday.

OTTAWA (CP) — Nuclear power may produce two per cent of Canada's energy output by 1980, according to a study made for the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects.

The study indicated a six-fold jump in the share of natural gas and lesser increases for petroleum and hydro power. There would be a slump in the percentage of coal used, though actual consumption might be up by about one-third.

The 800-page study, made public today by the commission, was prepared under the supervision of Dr. Kenneth Davis, former trade department energy specialist who now is with British Columbia Electric Company.

NATURAL GAS TO GAIN

It calculated that by 1980 coal would have slumped from its present 28 per cent to 16 and wood from seven per cent to one while natural gas would have gone from four to 25 per cent, petroleum from 42 to 45 per cent, and hydro power eight to nine per cent.

"Expressed in terms of quantity, a somewhat different picture emerges," the study said. "The contribution of natural gas may rise 18-fold, water power three times, oil more than three times and coal, though down relatively may still be up by as much as one-third on an absolute basis.

"This was because of expected continuing expansion of the Canadian economy over the next quarter century.

"Of Canada's growing coal needs, well over half will be required for the generation of electricity in Southern Ontario," the document said. "This additional energy will have to come from the United States.

"On the other hand, most if not all of the nation's increased consumption of natural gas and hydro-electric power will be met from sources indigenous to this country."

"Nuclear energy, meanwhile, may appear as a commercially scale," the report said.

SOLAR ENERGY POSSIBLE

The study says solar energy may also make a significant contribution in supplying heating requirements and driving transportation equipment.

This would come either directly from the sun or through chemicals produced from sectric energy, the report said.

Summarizing its findings on nuclear energy, the report said: "Fifty or more medium-to-large plants of around 100,000 kilowatts may be required in Canada by the late 1970s or early 1980s.

"The majority of these would be located in industrialized Southern Ontario.

Possible for White Man to Sleep Outside in Nude in Cold Weather

OTTAWA (CP) — A 41-year-old Canadian biologist has proved it's possible for a white man to sleep outside in the nude—with sleeping bag, bedclothes—in subzero temperatures.

Dr. Hart, Hart, head of the animal physiology section of the division of applied biology of the National Research Council, performed the feat as a member of an international physiological expedition which visited remote central Australia last summer.

Members of the expedition spent July and August, winter in Australia, with the area's aborigines who are able to live without clothes throughout the year. The object was to seek information on the range of climatic adjustment of which the human species, particularly whites, is capable.

The experiments were conducted in weather just below the freezing point.

Dr. Hart said in an interview Thursday that he and other members of the expedition found it possible to sleep outside in the nude without shivering at below-freezing temperatures provided they were sheltered by a windbreak and flanked by two small fires.

But Dr. Hart and his colleagues didn't relish their experience. They found they were exceedingly uncomfortable before falling asleep and even more uncomfortable after awakening.

It was a different story when the fires were removed and each subject was given only a single blanket for covering.

"Under these conditions," Dr. Hart said, "we shivered and thrashed about all night. Sleep for us became impossible, while the natives slept as soundly as babies who had their fires to keep them warm.

MAY LENGTHEN PAYMENT PERIOD FOR UNEMPLOYED

Decision on Extension Expected in Few Days

OTTAWA (CP) — The government may announce early next week, in the face of rising unemployment, to lengthen the period for payment of special wintertime unemployment insurance benefits.

Labor Minister Starr said in the Commons Thursday that a decision on the extension question may be made known "in a matter of days."

The special seasonal benefits now may be paid in 15-week periods, from Dec. 1 to April 15. Informed sources said the period likely will be lengthened, before and after, by a total of eight weeks, with legislation to be introduced early next week.

Mr. Starr also reported a 17-per-cent rise, during the three weeks up to Nov. 7, in the numbers of unfilled job applications at National Employment Service offices. The total rose to 327,368 from 279,698 at Oct. 17.

OFFICIAL FIGURES LOWER

The minister emphasized that these job-registration figures are not the "official" record of unemployment. The authoritative figures are those of the bureau's statistics survey which last Wednesday counted 214,000 Canadians were without jobs and seeking work at Oct. 19, a rise of 14,000 in a month.

The seasonal insurance payments are considered separately from regular insurance benefits. Government sources said there is no present plan to increase the period for payment of regular benefits, which is geared to a full year as requested by president Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress.

The seasonal benefits range between $6 a week for a person with no dependents who earned between $9 and $15 weekly during the qualifying weeks, and a top benefit of $30 a week for a person with a dependent who earned $57 or more a week.

POLITICAL ISSUE

The political controversy between the two surround the issue of unemployment was demonstrated in a series of questions at the start of Thursday's sitting.

In one exchange, Maurice Bourget (L—Lotbiniere) suggested a general program of new federal public works to provide jobs.

Works Minister Howard Green replied this was impossible. He said the former government had left no "shelf" full of works programmes and public works to be taken promptly. But the Conservative government has "every intention to do everything we can possibly be done" in view of the Liberal legacy.

CHEST FALLS SHORT

SARNIA (CP) — The Sarnia Community Chest campaign for funds is more than $13,000 short of its $147,000 goal. The 1957 campaign chairman George W. Parker pointed out hope that, although the drive officially ended some weeks ago, more pledges will be returned.

NATO Leaders Ponder Plan To Judge Aggression

LONDON (AP)—The Atlantic Allies are reported pondering plans for an "aggression thermometer" to measure the scale by which NATO's commander would get powers to decide on the scale of retaliation he would be entitled to use of atomic and hydrogen weapons against any Red aggression.

Informed Western diplomats said the Soviet Communist attacks might take place and be followed by a limited war, make nuclear retaliation instantly unrealistic.

The plan at the same time were said to be engaged in the Paris talks designed to clarify and define "grades" of aggression. This, informants said, is to determine what limited retaliation might take.

Conclusions are being prepared for discussion and possible decision in mid - December, when NATO heads of government meet in Paris.

Informants said the sort of thing that is being weighed takes account of these considerations:

1. An attack on Germany by the Russians would be met with all-out massive retaliation by the Allies.

2. A nibbling attack by Red troops on one of NATO's outposts in Europe—Turkey, West Germany, Italy, Scandinavia—would be repulsed by means proportionate to the seriousness of the aggression. The attack would presumably would be dealt with by conventional forces. A tactical atomic attack perhaps would be countered by similar weapons.

3. An all-out NATO forces, as State Secretary Dulles said in Canada, goes much as he resisted automatically even without a declaration of war. The nature of the resistance would clearly depend on the nature of the attack.

The United States and Britain were said meanwhile to have decided on a basic revision of their own ideas about nuclear retaliation—they have agreed to accept the concept of limited atomic retaliation.

PINPOINT ICBM LAUNCHING SITE IN WYOMING

Work Will Start By Middle of 1958

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. defence department appears to have pinpointed the first major launching site for the United States intercontinental ballistic missile.

The announcement Thursday night that work will start by mid-1958 on a multi - million dollar missile site near Cheyenne, Wyo., capped these other developments in the drive to obtain and tell about U.S. progress in new weapons, following Russia's Sputnik launchings:

1. U.S. military experts convinced chairman George Mahon (Dem. Tex.) of the House of Representatives defence appropriation sub - committee that the United States has progressed to the point where it is high time to start producing shooting hardware for the intermediate ballistic missile variety. Mahon, who for years had said the U.S. is "seriously behind" the Russians, commented: "I look for very rapid progress in the very soon."

2. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy stepped up his search for a manager to take over full charge of the Army's missile warfare weapons as the anti-ballistic fields on which the Army and the air force are bickering.

BIG EXPENDITURE

The defence department announced that $65,000,000 will be spent to transform Warren air force base, two miles west of Cheyenne, into a missile site.

Officials let it be known that an intercontinental missile was the only logical weapon that would require such an expensive outlay and could be effectively operated from the Wyoming location.

No ICBM's are yet available for use, but the USAF has two types under development. One is an 5,000-mile missile is at the testing stage. Development of the Titan is somewhat less advanced.

Mahon emerged from a secret hearing Thursday "highly satisfied and encouraged." He told reporters that the Russians are "certainly have not fallen on their faces" in their missile work.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

The subcommittee which Mahon headed in the hearings which would give first consideration in Congress to any appropriations needed to step up the missile program. Asked if any of public hearings, beginning Monday, into the missile program, Mahon said no decision will be taken behind closed doors.

Science to Create Many Thrills During Next Hundred Years

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight foremost scientists predicted today that science will create these thrills during the next 100 years:

We'll be able to control the size, shape and function of your body. You'll talk with your mind, never moving your lips.

We'll never get mentally or emotionally sick. Personality quirks and impulses will be controlled by drugs or pills.

There'll be lavish excursion hotels at scenic spots on the moon. The lunar colonists will be privileged among nations.

There'll be more than 7,000,000,000 people in the world. But some of them will go hungry. Our mail will come in the form of radio signals carried by satellites high above the earth.

These were just some of the remarkable developments for the future dreamed up by eight scientific experts at a symposium here on The Next Hundred Years. It marked the centennial of the Industrial Arts of Design of Seagrams and Sons, Inc.

Among the scientists were Dr. Vannevar Bush, director of development operations for the U.S. Army ballistic missile agency at Huntsville, Ala.

The creator of the German V-2 rocket, Wernher Von Braun, surpass Russia in conquering space. He said the Russians launched their Sputniks as the beginning of an attempt to control the world.

A hundred years from now, he said, we'll be mining and tunneling under the surface of the moon.

Dr. John Weir, associate professor of psychology at the California Institute of Technology, said man should be able to learn to control the substance that governs the size of organs and systems.

By this means, he said, man could alter himself, make himself more efficient. He should be able to transmit thought to another person, without using words and gestures, he added.

G. Hyde, McNevin Intend To Qualify; Four Nominated

31 Nominated for Council, No Race for P.S. Trustees

At least a two-way fight for the mayoralty and a wide open field for both two and one-year terms in city council seemed assured today as a near record number of nominations was submitted at the nomination meeting held at city hall.

Four candidates were nominated for the office of mayor with two already having signified their intention of running. Nominees for the office of first magistrate were: Alderman William A. Argue; Alderman Gerald B. Hyde, who resigned his council post to run for mayor, and ex-Aldermen Arthur Keegan and Donald McNevin.

Both Mr. Hyde and Mr. McNevin have already qualified.

SEVEN VACANCIES

There were 31 nominations for the two-year term of council, seven of whom are to be elected.

For the one-year term of office to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman G. B. Hyde, there were six nominations.

It appears there will be an acclamation for public school trustees with only one nominee for each of the various wards in the city.

There could be an election for Separate School Trustee as there are more nominations than posts to be filled. However again it is expected only the necessary number to fill the post will qualify, thus eliminating the need for an election for trustees.

Judge J.C. Anderson Rules Mrs. Theo Wheeler Cannot Claim Vacant Council Seat

Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson in a court decision Thursday ruled that Mrs. Theo Wheeler, high defeated candidate in last year's municipal election is not entitled to the vacant aldermanic seat of Gerald B. Hyde who two weeks ago resigned to seek high municipal office.

Following Alderman Hyde's resignation Mrs. Wheeler claimed the seat on council, was duly sworn in, and took her place at Monday's meeting.

Mayor Jane Forrester, however, indicated she would challenge Mrs. Wheeler's right to sit on council and City Manager Drury S. Denyes made application to Judge Anderson for an interpretation of the Municipal Act which seemed to conflict with a private bill passed in Belleville in 1945.

On three previous occasions in the past eight years when an alderman resigned to run for high-

Thurlow and Parkdale Ratepayers Reach Many Points of Agreement

A special meeting was held Thursday night at the Parkdale Community Centre, at which Thurlow council and the Parkdale Ratepayers' Association discussed the problem of College Street West.

Reeve Wickett explained in detail the situation of the township in regard to each point in the submission that the ratepayers had sent in, and what they appeared as a delegation on November 4.

First with regards to the request for properly widening College street from Dufferin Ave. in a manner as recommended by Gene and Stuart, Mr. Wickett reported the council had been to College street and had studied the situation there. However, due to the time of year and other complications, it was unable to give any detailed indications as to when and if such a program could be started.

In answer to those points which were of a more immediate nature, Mr. Wickett stated that he had contacted the Ontario Provincial Police and had a lengthy discussion with Inspector McDougall and was advised that the police will patrol the street regularly, and as much as possible will have this patrol occur during the height of traffic which occurs at the time when children are let out of and from school and when people are going to and from their place of work. However it was pointed out that since the provincial police force is relatively large area and have many other responsibilities there would be no assurance there would be a patrol each and every day, or even during the time of the maximum traffic.

With reference to the question of erecting a large sign stating "School Area Drive Slowly With Extreme Caution," there were questions whether this would be effective in any manner in controlling the traffic on this road.

COSTS BEING STUDIED

The reeve stated that in regard to the installation of stop signs on College and Kenwith streets, making this a four-way stop, the council had obtained a quotation on the cost of a blinker, which would finish up to be four directions. This matter is to be studied at the next council meeting. It was suggested that a blinker could be more effective than the stop-signs, as there would be no question that the traffic would not see this, and would not in any way be considered at fault in assuming she was entitled to the office.

Bulldozing of the knoll northwest of the Quinte Secondary School and cutting it back on the north side can be done, although there is a pole which would prevent this being done effectively and council is investigating this point further to determine if the pole could be moved.

WILL EXTEND WALK

The council reported that a crushed stone walk will be extended from Lemoine Street to Sidney Street, running along the north side of the road and north of the existing ditch and the transfer of the land to the north reeve also said that he felt no move could be made to build a shoulder on the north side of the road until further investigations were made through other government bodies.

There was a lengthy discussion on the Parkdale Station, in which there was a general exchange of views on the part of the council and the ratepayers. Mr. Charlie Keeble, president of the Association, thanked the reeve and the members of the council for being willing to attend the meeting and to discuss this whole problem in so much detail. The reeve, speaking on his own behalf and on behalf of the council, stated that he always welcomed the opportunity of coming to Parkdale to talk over the problems that exist.

Don McNevin To Be Candidate

Yesterday's rumor of the possibility of a contest for the mayoralty was confirmed this yesterday afternoon when former alderman Don McNiven, owner of the Glen Roy Creameries in Bellville, announced that he would be in the field.

DON McNIVEN

When contacted Thursday morning, Mr. McNiven declined to say definitely whether he would contest the election but said he had been "toying with the idea."

The other candidate in the field for the mayor's chair is Gerald B. Hyde, who resigned from council to run for the seat.

Mr. McNiven was member of city council in 1952 and 1953, retiring as alderman at the end of his first term.

Panel Discussion Held by Society

On Monday evening, members and students of The Society of Industrial & Cost Accountants of Ontario, Bay of Quinte chapter, met at the Quonset Hut Motel in Trenton. The highlight of the evening was a panel discussion on the subject, "Municipal Budgets Work."

The panel was composed of three sections. Mr. R. W. Van Middlesworth, vice - president, secretary and head cashier of Canada, expressed the views of a typical sales organization. Mr. S. Sillitoe, production superintendent of Northern Electric Co. followed up and presented the problems in connection with production. Mr. Gerald Hamilton, controller of Stewart-Warner Corp., spoke from the point of view of overall controls and the finance division's responsibility in connection with "Making Budgets Work." Mr. William Macadam, president and general manager of Central Bridge Company, acted as moderator of the panel.

During the business portion of the meeting, it was learned that Mr. R. A. Farrell will not be longer residing in Belleville, had tendered his resignation as treasurer of the society and had left the district.

By unanimous vote of the board of directors, Mr. C. J. Hagyard was elected to fill this position. A report from the CICACO regional conference at Ottawa, held on Nov. 1st and 2nd, was given by Mr. D. D. Thomson.

Mr. Hickson reported that the conference, based on the topic of "Profit Improvement," was well handled and a benefit to those members attending.

Three Trials Before Flaherty Finally Cleared

The third trial became necessary when the first jury to hear the case several months ago was unable to agree upon a verdict. In the second trial defence attorney Harold Stafford, K.C., of St. Thomas, became ill and unable to continue.

Flaherty had been accused of violently robbing 76-year-old farmer Harvey Robb of Rev. G. Hunter of Toronto Speaker at Laymen's Night

By GLADYS WARD

Since Thursday was Laymen's night at the mission being conducted at Bridge Street United church, the service was in charge of representative laymen from the different churches which are sponsoring the mission.

The Scripture lesson was from Romans 12 and was read by Mr. Les Digby. Mr. T. K. Franklin welcomed the visitors and explained the work of the planning committee who had arranged the mission, thanking all those who had taken part.

Mr. James Bankier was soloist singing a composition titled, "Calling Canada to Christ" in keeping with the spirit of the meetings. He was accompanied at the organ by Mr. S. Alan Gordon, who also played the hymns which were used at the opening of the service. The choir of Bridge Street church was in attendance to lead the music.

Mr. Franklin explained that Dr. Truebloood was in Cincinnati to attend a special meeting there and introduce Rev. Gordon Hunter, minister of Bloor St. United church. Mr. Hunter led in prayer with the supplication that men's minds would be quickened and enlightened, their hearts and wills linked to God's.

Mr. Harvey Sparling, a member of Mr. Hunter's congregation spoke on Christianity in man, who was happy to witness for Christ. Mr. Sparling briefly stated that everyone had a marked date in his life, and since becoming a Christian he had never had a day like the one when he gave his life to Christ. He had begun to see how the great truths of the Bible could apply to everyday living, and he found that to allise the tremendous need in his life to become more like Jesus. It had lifted him into a new exciting area of life never tried before, and he had found the reapeace that truly passes understanding. God's plan of salvation was revealed clearly to be heard of His word.

Mr. Sparling as a Study God's word I find life becoming one great anticipation to live another day for God's way." said Mr. Sparling. He thanked God for the opportunity of being in the church, and thanked God for his life and the chance to pay back to God for His goodness.

Rev. Gordon Hunter comes from a line of evangelistic clergymen; and is a grandson of Dr. Hunter of the Crossley and Hunter.

IN HANDS OF PEOPLE

Mr. Hunter is a forceful speaker who opened his address by saying that the future of the world is in the hands of the people. He said that Christianity can be by the church was to rouse people to a sense of responsibility witness in the community, thus stimulating the whole church.

Because he was a man who was out of their pews and go among the people, the interest level will begin to move. Dr. Truebloood had expressed it by saying that when God's people get on fire, and into prominence in the work of the church, souls are saved.

"I want to say it forcibly," Mr. Hunter emphasized, "that you are the church. Christianity began as a lay movement. Christ was essentially a lay man. He passed by the ecclesiastical types when He chose His disciples, preferring men of reformation in all history have been the men drawn by ordinary layman. One of the functions of the layman is to work in the church with the help of the minister, but more important is to have the minister make sure the laity are getting help. All are one in the body of Christ.

Of all the terms used for the clergy I like the word minister best, because that is his job, to minister to and assist the people.

"If you are the church then you have a ministry. You should be trained by the problem of communicating the gospel to the man who walks past the church but never goes in. The layman has contacts that the minister never has. Some people are afraid of clergymen regarding them as professionally religious, but a man or a woman with deep true inner convictions can make people feel the church is the lake notice. By their convictions, their moral conduct and their stewardship of possessions their religion takes hold.

"You cannot be a part-time Christian. You are a Christian every hour of every day and night. The layman needs to translate the gospel into life. People who have been going to church for years are just beginning to wake up. For the ladies, your home life is your opportunity to be made your ministry.

"If you are the church I plead with you to take the steps of being a steward. One of the purposes of evangelistic missions is to promote people to grow, and if you do not grow you die. Make a witness of your stewardship. Use your talent and profession. You have a strategic place of contact as no one else has. You alone can make a witness in your own surroundings, and I believe it is desperately necessary.

GOD INTERESTED

"Business and religion are one. God is interested in every phase life in all its phases, not just a Sunday hour. People are asked to make a pledge which is a covenant that is renewed at the communion table. Love, honor and stewardship are what God wants of us. You must do what you can with that is God at your opportunities.

"You as a lay person must respond. Let your light so shine that others seeing your good works may glorify your father in heaven."

When you become a Christian you do not turn into a pasture to graze, you are on a busy highway that is going somewhere. You have a ministry, the ministry of your stewardship of your whole life."

Following the closing hymn and benediction, a question period was held and several problems relating to the Christian life were discussed.

IN MEMORIAM

BAILEY. — In loving memory of our grandfather, who died November 21st, 1955.

Dear is our hearts in a silent shrine
It's loved one held to rest;
No one knows but those who have lost
A dear one what a gap it must be.
Sadly missed by Granddaughter Joan.

—Ever remembered by granddaughter Mary, Mark, Brian and Ronald.

REEVES. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Agnes Florence Forrester, who passed away November 21st, 1948.

Sweet is the day when I awoke that morn
The sky was blue
The day would bring
No cloud to shade
No storm severe,
To part with one I loved so dear,
Sometimes it's hard to understand,
In God's wise plan
His wisdom God has planned.
—Ever remembered by daughter Ora.

REEVES. — In loving memory of our dear father, Jesse Forrester Reeves, who passed away November 21st, 1956.

In a garden there grows a flower
Please God just let her know,
That we think of her dearly,
We love and miss her so.
—Forever remembered by daughter Betty, son-in-law Art and grandson Ronnie.

Dog Leads Police to Wanted Couple

MANIWAKI, Que. (CP)—Police today were holding a man and woman who, they said, are wanted in connection with the break in the Timmins, and Val d'Or, Que., areas.

They picked up the couple at a camp in the bush near the community of Montcerf.

The couple fled in a panel truck at the approach of Quebec provincial police, later ditching the truck and escaping on foot in the woods. However, police found a small dog in the truck and put a leash on it. The dog led them to the couple's camp

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — The general quality of the steer offering at the Ontario public stockyards this week was below the previous week's standard with the result that buyers sought the top quality and readily paid strong prices.

Veal calf prices were strong and receipts for top quality veal insufficient for the demand. Hogs advanced $1 from last week to close at $27.50 for grade A. Lambs closed $1 higher. Feeder yearlings, cows and bulls sold steady.

Cattle receipts were about 700 below last week and down more than 200 from a year ago. Receipts from western Canada included 277 head, 118 more than last week. Stock calves were up 33 and 437 head. Two carloads were shipped east and three sent to the United States.

JEWELER ROBBED OF $500,000 DIAMONDS

Max Monderer, jewelry salesman from New York City, is dry-eyed here, but he had plenty of reason to weep earlier in the day. Monderer was held up by a bandit in the lobby of a Detroit office building. He was carrying a briefcase containing $500,000 worth of diamonds. The robber squirted tear gas in Monderer's eyes, grabbed the briefcase and fled in a blue car.

Hurricane Hits Southern Calif., Fans Forest Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Devastating winds dashed out of the desert with hurricane speed Thursday, whistled through Los Angeles on a wrecking spree and fanned a monstrous forest fire that was still running wild today.

The forest service said the fire, burning northeast of here in the Angeles national forest, might cover as much as 25,000 acres. It had burned over 18,000 acres today.

Police and sheriff's switchboards around Los Angeles and in many other parts of Southern California were jammed with reports of damage caused by the shrieking winds.

Houses were wrecked, hundreds of trees were blown down, power lines were knocked out and a number of injuries were reported. There were no known deaths.

The forest fire started when a camp fire got away from a prison crew working on a highway. It was fanned by winds that hit 100-mile-an-hour gusts.

The famous observatory atop Mount Wilson was in "serious danger," as were a half dozen other Los Angeles television transmitters on the mountain top. The crews manning these facilities were placed on the alert for possible evacuation.

Israel, Jordan Forces Clash In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli and Jordanian military detachments clashed today for the first time in months. Each side accused the other of shooting first.

Jordan charged that Israeli forces opened fire in the Arab sector of Jerusalem before noon and that, an hour later, a three-man patrol kidnapped a Jordanian field worker near the village of Faroun.

A military spokesman in Amman, Jordan's capital, said the man must be returned within 24 hours or Jordan will "take the necessary steps to safeguard her full rights."

A spokesman for Israel's army said nothing of the alleged abduction He reported an Israeli patrol was attacked by heavy machine gun fire from across the armistice line near Talbe village. He said the Israelis returned the fire and emerged unscathed

Crown Counsel Asks Maximum Penalty for Firms

TORONTO (CP)—Crown counsel W. D. Mundell Thursday asked the maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine against five of seven companies that pleaded guilty to operating a country-wide combine in the conveyance and transmission industry.

He told Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven of the Ontario Supreme Court the firms controlled the industry for more than 20 years, discouraging competition and fixing prices.

The firms, which all entered guilty pleas when the trial opened Monday, are Webster-Smallwood Limited, Bond Engineering Works Limited, Link-Belt Limited and United Steel Corporation Limited, all of Toronto, Jeffrey Manufacturing Company Limited of Montreal and Focano Limited of Preston, Ont.

Mr. Mundell said the judge might consider mitigating circumstances concerning Webster-Smallwood and Bond Engineering Works. They were small businesses and had not participated in the combine's activities as much as the other companies.

Mr. Justice Treleaven is expected to pass sentence after today.

NUCLEAR ENERGY

3. Stations of intermediate size might be useful for industries such as pulp and paper manufacture. New mill locations that could benefit from this might eventually be found in Labrador, Ungava, on the east and west coasts and islands in some of the more northerly and remote parts of Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

4. Small nuclear power plants of 1,000 to 2,000 kilowatts might be of use in Canada's far north.

HUGE FUTURE FOR GAS

Discovery of huge gas, the study said the period between 1960 and 1980 seem in perspective to have been difficult but a prelude to much greater things.

"Demand through North America will remain strong, distinct and self-reliant natural gas industry is likely to achieve major status in this country."

OIL, OUTLOOK

The report said Canada's requirements for petroleum will continue to increase up to 1980 and that fields in Western Canada can be counted on to fill a substantial part of these needs.

To provide the maximum financial return on Canadian production, a major export market of this country's output of crude petroleum will have to be reported to the U.S. in coming years, the report adds.

It was estimated that Canadian demand for petroleum products would exceed 1,150,000 barrels a day by 1980. This is about three times the present demand

CRUSHED BY TRUCK

BRANTFORD (CP) — Cheryl Williams, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams of Burford district, was killed Thursday when she was crushed beneath the rear wheels of a truck driven by her father.

Given Watches

BRANTFORD (CP)—The Bank of Montreal has presented gold watches to four St. George men in recognition of their efforts at the time of a $3,800 holdup of the St. George branch Oct. 7.

Michael Farmanik, 59, grappled with a gunman leaving the bank and needed hospital treatment after being struck on the head twice with a pistol. Ray Whiting was cited for prompt action in calling police when an alarm touched off from the bank sounded in his service station Frank Pledge tried to stop the bandits by firing two shots at their fleeing car. Fred Wheat chased the bandits in his own car, but lost them.

SAFE AFTER 30 HOURS MAROONED ON ROCK

"That's the worst I've been through in 23 years of sailing," says Capt. John McKenzie, left, as he tells one of his rescuers, Capt. Harold Dampier, of the 30 hours he and three other Ontario fishermen spent marooned on a wave-battered rock in Lake Superior. The men were stranded when their fishing tug, D. and C. was wrecked in a blizzard. Drenched, hungry and covered with ice the quartet were finally rescued by Captain Dampier and his crew of the tug John C. They were first sighted by an RCAF rescue plane.

Yugoslavia Fails to Sign Declaration Against West

By VINCENT BUIST

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Yugoslavia has abstained from a Communist declaration which attacks the West and which sets the limits on "independent roads to socialism."

Western observers said the significant thing about the declaration, issued today after a meeting of Communist delegates, was that it did not bear the Yugoslav signature.

The preamble to the declaration merely said: "Brother parties which did not participate in the conference will themselves decide on their attitude to the ideas expressed in the declaration."

Party representatives of Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, North Viet Nam, North Korea, Mongolia, China and Russia took part and signed the communique.

REAL HOPE OF PEACE

The declaration said the forces in favor of peace now have grown so strong that there is a real possibility of averting wars. Much of the declaration was directed against "the aggressive imperialist forces and their stooges . . . West German imperialism . . . the notorious Eisenhower-Dulles doctrine . . . the SEATO aggressive bloc."

The Communist leaders predicted capitalism's ultimate doom and maintained world-wide conditions are becoming "increasingly favorable" for the inevitable victory of communism.

But the declaration stressed that the "Leninist principle of peaceful coexistence of the two systems . . . is the sound basis of the foreign policy of the zocialist countries and of the possible pillar of peace and friendship among the peoples."

A significantly large portion is devoted to the question of Communists coming to power in countries which are at present not Communist.

While it is stated that peaceful parliamentary methods of obtaining power would be preferable, it is also laid down that "in conditions where the exploiting classes resort to force against the people, the other possibility must be borne in mind" of peaceful transition to socialism."

Former Lands, Forests Minister On $7,500 Bail

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert E. Sommers was released on $7,500 bail Thursday night after spending more than 12 hours in custody on a charge of conspiring to accept bribes while British Columbia's minister of lands and forests.

Property bail was posted for the 46-year-old legislature member following a morning appearance in magistrate's court with the presidents of two forest management firms with whom he is jointly charged. The three were arrested at their homes at breakfast time.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner disclosed further persons may be arrested in connection with allegations against the former minister, first made almost two years ago.

Sommers left jail several hours after High W. Gray, 45, and Charles D. Schultz, 53, charged as co-conspirators in a plan to give Sommers "loans, rewards, advantages and benefits" in return for consideration in the granting of forest management licences for Crown timber.

Gray and Schultz were remanded until 2:00 p.m. each to appear with Sommers Nov. 28.

The arrests brought indefinite postponement of a royal commission hearing into the allegations and a demand by the NDP opposition that the province's social credit government resign.

Fireman Dies When Pumper Topples on Him

TORONTO (CP) — A routine trip turned into tragedy Thursday night for a young Toronto fireman, father of five children, when the pumper he was driving hurt to a minor blaze careered into three cars and rolled on top of him.

Alexander Budd, 29, was dead on arrival at hospital. Two tow trucks worked for nearly 30 minutes to lift the heavy truck from his body.

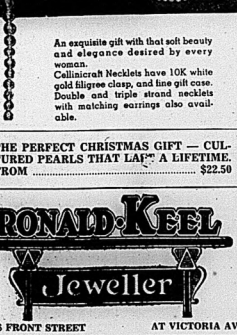
Five other firemen were on the pumper when it toppled over. Two escaped injury and the others suffered only bruises.

Budd had no time to jump from his seat at the wheel and was crushed under the vehicle. "All we could see were his boots," a fireman at the scene said.

ON FURNACE CALL

The pumper was called out to check a smoking furnace, a slight fire which was easily handled by other trucks. Fire department officials said Budd was in no hurry.

He swerved his truck to avoid a car ahead of him making a left turn. Passing on the right, the pumper clipped the other vehicle's bumper and struck two others waiting for a stop light before it overturned.



None of the car drivers was hurt.

PUBLIC DEMANDS LARGE CARS

Automobile manufacturers are producing some of the most beautiful - - and the largest - - cars ever to flash over a highway. Judging by the public response, some when auto manufacturers can persuade the automotive public to buy cars which will have more modest proportions than those now available.

Since 1947, we think it safe to say, car builders have been valiantly trying to outdo each other in a race to put a longer and more powerful car before the consumer. Surely the need for that race has ended by now.

Next year people interested in buying a new car will likely be able to choose a model that has up to four hundred horsepower. They may, if they have sufficient money, even buy an auto that almost surely will take up about two parking spaces. Or, if they wish, they can acquire a smaller imported car for city driving.

All the blame for larger and more powerful cars cannot be laid on the manufacturers. If the public does not like certain car models then the buyers can turn to another make which appeals more to them. Car manufacturers say that buyers today prefer a vehicle in the middle price bracket and it must have the luxury extras all the way of automatic gadgets - - all of which add to the price.

The popularity of some European small cars in the American and Canadian markets is causing some concern in Detroit, but whether or not anything will be done to produce smaller cars soon is a secret the Big Three of the motor world are not divulging. It is our guess that for a long time the public continues to demand and accept cars with longer wheelbases and more powerful engines each year, we can hardly expect the manufacturer to go to the huge expense of designing and putting into production a car which has many sensible advantages.

ATTENTION, PARENTS!

There is a burning need in this wonderful country of Canada to educate children in the proper handling of matches and the dangers of fire.

To bring the subject closer, a few paragraphs from The Canadian Press the other day told of a four-year-old child admitting to setting a fire in his parents' home. He and a group of other children had somehow obtained matches and were using them as toys when the fire started in a clothes closet. Fortunately no one was hurt and damage to the house was light.

This story is an excellent example of a child's short memory. No more than a year ago the same child burned himself severely, the aftermath of playing with matches.

Children of four years are at an impressionable age. Though their memories may be short-lived, they have a peculiar knack of forgetting something and a little while later recalling it.

We can keep telling four-year-olds to leave matches alone until we blue in the face and still they persist in playing with them. The best way to prevent children from getting hold of matches is to store them in a safe place, well out of the way of curious little people.

Was it not the German propaganda minister, Goebels, who said, "Give me all the Germany children between the ages of four and seven years and I will make them masters for life?"

We might digress from Goebel's thinking and apply our own thoughts. Teach children the dangers of playing with fire, if you can, but wait until they are well past the baby age before allowing them to strike even ten feet of a match. A lot of burned little bodies could be spared this way.

THE TOY AGE

This, in a child's language, is quite likely the toy age and one must think twice before discounting this big of enlightenment. Never before in history have children had such wonderful selections of toys as are now available in almost every department store.

Slower cleverly created, these toys, though, in the like main, are not built quite as strong as the ones we used to play with in childhood. Today children can buy, at reasonable price, toy Sputniks, space suits, rockets-controlled airplanes and tanks, scale-sized working models of construction equipment, and all kinds of other things.

Quality in toy production has had to move over to make room for quantity and variations in design. Color is not of paramount importance these days and it is not uncommon to pass by a toy counter and spot flaming red lead soldiers or multi-colored dump trucks. Whatever their color, though, toys have certainly taken on realistic appearances.

Children are not too interested in playing with the kind of toys their predecessors had. Although we older folk may tend to look suspiciously at the almost revolutionary toys available now, we believe that the complexity of such things as little Sputniks and space suits put our tots into a frame of mind fitting the birth of the Space Age in the adult world. After all, when the children of today are ready to take their places in adulthood, real earth satellites will probably be old stuff in the pages of history.

So, whether consciously or otherwise, toy makers today are apparently striving to alter the play things of youth to prepare children for a new kind of life a few years from now.

Meet Desert's Challenge

By Haim Gunner in UNESCO Features

From Beersheba, the Negev desert stretches southwards for more than a hundred miles, each yard unrolling its barren wastes under the glaring sun. These arid tracts comprise more than half the total land mass of Israel. They are vitally important for the country's development and, from the very first, they have loomed large in its development projects.

Not only is it vital to turn the desert wastes into productive land which could provide a livelihood for new settlements and food resources for the country, but here, too, under the sand and stones of the Negev, lie Israel's major mineral resources. And, at the desert's southernmost apex is the port of Eilat, Israel's sea link with Africa and the Indian Ocean.

In recent years Israel's various research institutes have diverted more and more of their efforts to the problems of arid-zone cultivation schemes. Within the past decade, specialists in the different spheres of science have scoured the Negev, contributing valuable information on its archaeology, geology, mineralogy, hydrology, ecology, climatology, etc.

But as these investigations proceeded it became increasingly evident that research of this nature must stem from a single co-ordinated group operating from a unified research centre, based as close as possible on the scene of its labors. It was this realization which inspired the establishment of the Arid Zone Research Institute at Beersheba, on the threshold of the Negev, as the Israel Research Council with support from Unesco. The institute is one of several of a similar nature receiving special assistance from Unesco, under the major project for arid zone research. Another such centre is the Egyptian Desert Institute in Cairo, and also the institutes in other countries which are starting in Pakistan and India.

Today, work is proceeding apace in Beersheba where the first trim laboratory building, set in a neatly landscaped frame, has already been completed. Around it, a workshop, a storage building and a meteorological station are in various stages of construction. Also in the near-by fields a tractor may be seen preparing the irrigated experimental plots and, bordering on these, a desert botanical garden. Fifteen living quarters have been completed for a library, additional research facilities and staff amenities. Within five years it is expected that the centre will be fully equipped to cope with all the challenging problems posed by the development of the Negev and the Arava Valley.

Meanwhile, a number of investigations are already under way. Professor M. Zohary, of the Hebrew University, in Jerusalem, is undertaking an ongoing vegetational studies, and his extensive herbarium has already been transferred to the Institute. His studies on plant environment and behavior in arid zones and their growth will provide indices of the agricultural possibilities of the region.

Closely with this work is the research being led by Professor Michael Evenari on the physiological characteristics of desert plants, water regime studies and salt tolerance. The latter subject is connected in turn with one of the Institute's most important projects — the desalinization of brackish desert waters.

Water, it need hardly be said, is the critical element for all desert development, and an intense effort will be made by the Institute to apply the latest methods of electrodialysis in "sweetening" brackish desert water for agricultural and industrial purposes. Local authorities have already been encouraged by the fact that it appears possible to treat the saline content of water at a cost of about ten cents, and there is good ground to believe that this will be reduced in the near future.

The harnessing of the vast potential energy of the sun may also contribute to the transformation of the desert. Within the framework of the Institute, an experimental laboratory is to be established in which systems of utilizing the sun's energy for solar energy coupled with absorption type refrigerators will be investigated. The laboratory will also devote itself to building solar engines to produce steam for domestic use in settlement and for industrial projects. A small solar energy engine and water pumping will also be experimented with, the possibility of removing salt from water with the help of solar energy will be examined.

But it is not enough to provide water, energy sources, and data for agricultural planning. The challenge of the arid Negev will not be met until the necessary conditions are achieved within them men and animals can live and thrive in the desert.

With this aim in view two groups have been established at the Institute for investigating the physiological and climatological aspects of life in the barren wastes.

The physiologists will study the impact of the desert on the men engaged in different kinds of work; how they respond to rest; what are the optimum variation in conditions; the best type of clothing, and proper kind of nutrition. Special emphasis will be placed on water and energy balance. And parallel studies will be undertaken on the desert animals.

The climatologists, for their part, will be undertaking many measurements, and those of evaporation will be of particular importance to the plant physiologists of the Institute who will observe the oasis effect, the change in desert conditions as irrigation and vegetational development. They will also investigate microclimates and designs best suited to arid zone construction, and will study living organisms as factors of temperatures, radiation effects and ventilation.

The problems of reclaiming the desert are by no means confined to Israel. Throughout the world, vast regions are covered with the same arid, desert conditions. Their reclamation can only be brought about through the concerted efforts of nations, the international pooling of new knowledge and technique. With this in mind the authorities at Beersheba have laid down as a cardinal principle that the facilities of the Institute should be made available to any qualified scientist from any country who may wish to study desert conditions.

Symposia and meetings among scientists connected with desert problems will also be organized and, at the local level, a committee is being set up to provide assistance to keep the general public informed of the results of the Institute's work.

Thus through joint efforts in which all the world's communities will participate, through international co-operation and the interchange of knowledge and techniques with other countries facing similar problems, the Arid Zone Institute hopes to meet the challenge of the desert and play a useful part in helping to reclaim the world's arid lands.

That Big "Eel" Stirs Talk

St. John Telegraph-Journal

Legend says a French fisherman caught his first telegraph cable submerged between England and France in 1850. Mistaking it for a big eel, he clouted it with a hatchet and dragged it in 20 yards or so before prudently cut off what he had hauled in and made for shore to display his catch.

Already stretched across the floor of the oceans and seas of the world are some 400,000 miles of telegraph cables, in continuous lines links. Laying the underwater cables for telegraph and telephone services is a difficult task.

Keeping them from harm can be so too. These networks of copper wire have been subject to numerous outrages of fate, including piracy.

DAME RUMOR

Dame Rumor is a busy jade
And gossip is her stock in trade.
She travels east and travels west
And never pauses for a rest.
No one has ever seen her face,
And yet she's known in every place.
No woman can describe her gown,
And yet she's known in every town.

Dame Rumor calls nobody friend;
She's heartless, cruel to the end.
No reputation does she spare
That is intrusted to her care.

She whispers scandal far and near
And always finds a ready ear;
And next, a willing tongue to bear.

Her harmful tale and do it well.

Dame Rumor, mother of the lie,
Spares neither humble man nor high.
Her record is as black as jet,
But, strangely, man believes her, yet.
Untruthful though she's known to be,
Man still puts on her livery
And does her work with ghoulish glee.
Instead of thrusting her aside,

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The greatest chaplain I knew in the two wars conducted his services with the strictest ritual; Buried us, in our time, with a kind of Wagnerian farewell; risked his life often enough to rescue what remained of those who fell in perilous land. But it would shock I don't know how many of his brethren of the cloth to know how he sat up late, talking with us, over mess at the room or in the orks tent, the was a RCAF), or in the officers' canteen with us, laughing with us, condoning us.

How else would he have known who amongst us was scared, at last? How could he tell who had had letters from home?

We used to think it was his psychic. We had only to have the blues to find the padre there sitting beside us, group (captain or humbled joe, looking at us out of the corner of his eye with another in conversation, and his message was for all men; and he never let it sound the same.

Text for one.

When the last gin rummy game was ended, and the last bids for tomorrow would be taking the one more chance rose and he said he was going to bed; the chaplain would offer us his familiar benediction.

"Say your prayers, boys!" he would cry. "If any of you young fellows don't know what a prayer is, just say — 'Good night, God. I'm off to bed.'"

Time and again I remonstrated with him over his grammar.

He ignored me.

"It's me," he would quote, "Pron follows like you, at this time. He does not expect humility. He expects only recognition. Same day. He will expect more. But tonight, b o y s, say your prayers."

And we went out into the dark of the foreign lands with prayers only in our hearts, but in our minds.

Personal Health Talks

More About Bell's Palsy

Bell's palsy is paralysis of muscles of one side of the face, due to injury, inflammation or (I hate to say this, but even I haven't the nerve to maintain that everybody's wrong but Brady) exposure to cold.

The cold thinkers ascribed it to a draft blowing on one side of the face from a car or truck, driving against one side of the face of a person riding in car or other vehicle. Later they claimed the victim froze or refrigerated his left facial (7th cranial) nerve driving an automobile with the window down. Nevertheless some neurologists regarded exposure to cold as merely a contributing factor and said the primary cause was injury, extension of inflammation from middle ear disease, operations on ear or mastoid, pressure of forceps during labor, etc.

Recently, I said that vitamin B-12 has proved very helpful in the treatment of Bell's palsy, and so far the best of my knowledge on vitamin B-12 by mouth is as effective as vitamin B-12 by injection.

A reader writes about his wife's case:

"She contracted Bell's palsy two years and seven months ago. Physician who is a gastroenterologist. He advised her to go to an eye, nose, throat specialist and he told her to suggest that he try cortisone.

I (Brady) can't see any rhyme or reason in this, so far.

He said he had read about some fine results of cortisone treatment in a recent medical journal. "The eye, ear, nose and throat man seemed quite surprised, as he had not heard of the use of cortisone for Bell's palsy. "Within seven days my wife was fully recovered.

Accordingly I suggest that you look into the results cortisone has given in Bell's palsy.

(Signed .....)"

Seven days seems a wonderfully short time for recovery from Bell's palsy.

The reader's description of the case seems ambiguous.—His wife contracted the palsy, called her physician, who sent her to an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist who gave her cortisone presumably — and within seven days she had fully recovered.

Now, see here, we can't just can't write off two years like that.

Cortisone is one of the miracle or wonder drugs. At this writing, as I see it, the wonder is why so many doctors use it for so many complaints.

In this column this week, I described the test made by a committee in the British Medical Research Council and Nuffield two groups of patients to determine whether cortisone or aspirin gives the greater satisfaction in rheumatoid arthritis. The conclusion was that aspirin is as good or maybe a better remedy than cortisone.

You pays your money and takes your choice.

"REDEEMING THE TIME"

Jesus had called Himself the light of the world (John 8:22). Also He had called His followers the light of the world (Matt. 5:14). Jesus loved to employ the figure of light to describe things spiritual and the figure of darkness to describe things Satanic. Paul encouraged his Christian comrades to go through life bearing witness to the truth, shining like lights in a dark world, proclaiming not only by persuasive word but also of all by a consistent attitude of loyalty to everything high and noble, what was "well pleasing unto the Lord."

The demands of two thousand years ago are the demands of Christ today. "Look therefore carefully how ye walk . . redeeming the time, because the days are evil."

When Romans Were in Britain

Milwaukee Journal

England is talking about flying up Hadrian's wall.

The massive stone wall, from 15 to 20 feet high and from eight to 10 feet wide, stretches across Northern England for 73 1-8 miles, following a nath from the Tyne to Solway Firth, at Carlisle's northernmost tip. It was built in the five years after 122 A.D. its purpose was to keep out Picts who lived in Scotland.

Its builder, Hadrian, was a Spanish-born emperor who had ordered England from the south and was properly indignant at the Picts for seeking to come in from the north.

The wall protected on the north by a trench 30 feet wide and 15 feet deep. The base of the wall was an earthwork 20 feet wide with mounds 80 feet apart. While the latter served a "valhum." Historians today describe it as a "transport." Military roads led to it from the south.

Guarding this wall for almost 300 years were the Imperial legions moved out of Britain in the year 407, and the Roman legionaires recruited in Belgium, Spain, Germany, Greece, Africa and Gaul. They left behind auxiliaries under three 'crack Roman legions — the 2nd, 6th and 20th—all kept in Britain.

The Roman army had quartered on its large forts along the wall, interspersed with "milecastles" and smaller turrets every 1,620 feet. The towered forts had barracks and stables, granaries, stables and storehouses.

SUBSTITUTES

When I go into a store and ask for a certain article and the clerk tells me they do not have it but "this is the same as" or "just as good," I am disappointed. That substitute may be the best one, but I had my mind made up for the original or the one about which I had learned and wanted to buy.

Our entire life is cluttered up with substitutes! People substitute for honesty, religion, faith, intelligence and any number of foods. They have a hankering for a substitute friend there is no substitute. Such a one is unique.

A friend of mine lost his pet dog that had been such a joy and companion to him. It was killed by a careless driver. The occasion brought sorrow, and even tears, for where could he get another dog he loved as the one so brutally slain? His affection for dogs he purchased another that looked like his lost pet, a dog of the same breed — but he knew the substitute could never make up for the one gone. Love is a difficult thing to get a substitute for!

The first book I read as a boy so delighted me I could not convince myself there could ever be such a book that would take its place, but I soon learned there were thousands of other books, that while they might never give the thrill that first one did, there were many that could match the first I had for first one.

It is a good plan to have a personal code, one that many serve as a guide for many affairs of our lives. A code for excellence, for honor, integrity, good taste. A love of all nature, friends, and good will. There are no substitutes for the best!

Ants Chocolate-Coated

New York Herald Tribune

The "agi king" of Japan is Yoichi Ishikawa, head of the Alps Provision Co., ant exporters. He is a conservative type who believes red ants should be eaten just plain fried.

Bowing to modernism, however, he is now chocolate-coating his fried ants in a pan, factory. This is for the United States trade. They are being sold in the Americas stores like deal in rattlesnake meat, roasted bumble-bees and other unusual delicacies.

These oversize ants come from highlands around Nagano, where they have plagued residents for generations.

HEAVY SEAS PREVENT RESCUE OF STRANDED CREW

Run aground 200 yards off Erieau, Ont., this 3,000-ton freighter, Alexander Leslie, is being pounded by 20-foot waves as 70-mph gales continue on Lake Erie. Heavy seas have made rescue impossible, but the 30-man crew is reported in no "immediate danger." The freighter is carrying a cargo of 4,000 tons of coal from Toledo, Ohio.

Radio Message Trying to Save Trapped Doctor

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A message for a missionary surrounded by savages in the jungles in Ecuador was broadcast from Kansas City Thursday night in hopes it may save his life—if he is still alive.

The missionary is Dr. Winnifred Tidmarsh, an Englishman. Wednesday, the savage Auca Indians surrounded his shack and indicated they were going to attack.

Not since January, 1956, has anyone tried to Christianize the Aucas. That month five North Americans who had flown into the jungle were killed by needle-pointed spears nine feet long.

A few weeks ago Dr. Tidmarsh, a missionary for the Christian Missions in Many Lands, set up his shack on the Oglan River in Auca territory.

CLOSED IN ON HIM

Wednesday, the savages closed in on him. Friendly Indians got the word back to the missionary camp.

When his plight became known to the Summer Institute of Linguistics in Arkansas, an Auca girl there made a recording pleading with her people not to slay the white man.

The recording was broadcast Thursday to Quito, capital of Ecuador, where it was picked up and taped.

Today a plane will attempt to drop the tape to Dr. Tidmarsh who has a recorder with him and could play it back for the Indians to hear. If the tape cannot be dropped the plane may broadcast its message by loudspeaker over the Auca country.

Welcome to View Operation Of ICBM Says Khrushchev

CAIRO (Reuters) — Nikita Khrushchev says anyone who still doubts Russia has a workable intercontinental ballistic missile is welcome to watch a "practical demonstration" of the ultimate weapon.

As for reaching the moon, Khrushchev says he could not say how long it will take the Russians but when the first rocket is ready it wouldn't be a bad idea if such "desperate" men like U.S. State Secretary Dulles were placed aboard.

An interview with the Soviet Communist party secretary, published today in Al Ahram, also quotes Khrushchev as claiming Russian warnings this fall stopped a Turkish - American attack on Syria.

Of Russia's claim on the ICBM, he said: "If there is anyone who doubts that we possess the intercontinental missile, we are ready to carry out a practical demonstration."

READY FOR MOON?

Hassanein Heykal, editor - in-chief of the newspaper, asked whether the Russians hoped to reach the moon shortly. Khrushchev replied: "I do not know exactly, but I hope we shall solve the problems of earth before we reach the moon."

When Heykal offered to be the first newspaper man to volunteer for a space trip, Khrushchev said: "Not in the first rocket. Leave this for those men who are desperate. There are many others who should go before you."

Yeykal: "Dulles for instance?"

Khrushchev: "That's an idea. Could you convince him?"

"PROOF" OF PLOT

Khrushchev renewed charges first hammered out early last month that the U.S. plotted to back a Turkish attack on Syria. He told the Egyptian editor the Russians have "inconirovertible proofs" of the Turkish-American plan.

Khrushchev said that before the Turkish-American plot, the U.S. planned to create an inter-Arab war by pushing Jordan and Iraq into an attack on Syria, but this "proved impossible."

Boy, 13, Refuses Transfusion, Against Beliefs

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Doctors still are trying to persuade an ailing, 13-year-old Jehovah's Witness to receive a blood transfusion after a court overruled his father's religious objections.

Juvenile court Judge Sam Davis Tatum ruled Thursday that Baptist Hospital could administer the blood recommended by a doctor even though the boy's father, James O'Dell Graves, objected that transfusions are against his religious beliefs.

But young Bonnie Graves, injured when his schoolroom ceiling fell in during a windstorm here Monday, demonstrated his beliefs by folding his arms and saying, "I'm not going to take it."

After Bonnie refused, his physician, Dr. Don L. Ryler, said: "I'm not going to force anyone to take blood. After all, the boy is 13 years old."

P.T.A. Entertains New Canadians

A successful and enjoyable party was held on Sunday evening at St. Michael's auditorium in honor of the new Canadians belonging to the St. Michael's, Holy Rosary and Saint Joseph's parishes, sponsored by St. Michael's High School Parent Teacher Association.

President Ernie Cook welcomed the guests and called upon the Very Reverend Dean Garvin and the Rev. Father Body who spoke briefly.

Mrs. Helen Gaffney rendered several xylophone numbers which were enthusiastically received, by an appreciative audience. Mrs. Gaffney was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. William Grant.

Reverend Peter Murphy was called upon to introduce the Regis Club's Harmony Band. Their numbers were also well received.

Bob Burke gave a pleasing vocal number.

Two of the new Canadians added to the entertainment and demonstrated that Canada has gained much valuable talent in having these people settle in the country.

Mr. Mendritsky played a medley of tunes on the piano; Mr. John Molnar gave a vocal Hungarian solo.

PICTURES DONATED

Several pictures donated by Mrs. Frank Deacon for door prizes, were raffled and won by lucky winners among the guests.

Mrs. William Grant and Herbert Brown provided dance music, after which the members of the Parent Teacher Association, assisted by Regis Club members, served sandwiches, cakes and coffee.

The party concluded with a social get-together.

The new Canadian friends would now know many more Belleville people, which it is hoped will help to make them feel more at home.

Former Residents Mark Anniversary

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jennings Tennant, of Kingston, formerly of Belleville, will be pleased to note that they recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

One-time employee of the CNR express in this city, Mr. Tennant married Miss Noreen Davidson, of Belleville, whose father was a prominent auctioneer here. They were married in 1907 in Rochester, N.Y.

The couple have the distinction of being among the first to take up residence in the Kingston Kinsmen Club's new housing project for senior citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. Tennant resided in Belleville until three years ago. They have one daughter, Mrs. J. C. (Keitha) Stephenson, of Kingston, and two grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert George Schamerhorn are shown following their recent marriage in Centre Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Edith Marguerite Pearson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Pearson of Belleville, R.R. 8, and her bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. H. (Winnifred) Schamerhorn of Belleville R.R. 1, and the late Mr. Schamerhorn. (Photo by D. Riordan, Belleville.)

Cecile Dionne Now at Corbeil For Marriage

By GEORGE FRAJKOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CORBEIL (CP)—Cecile Dionne, as quiet as the Dionne quintuplets always were, slipped into Ontario from Montreal early this week to prepare for her marriage here Saturday to Philippe Langlois, a television technician.

Mr. Langlois, 26, and Cecile, 23, will be married in the Sacre Coueur de Jesu Church in the Roman Catholic parish where the quints grew up and were educated, and where one of them, Emilie, is buried.

The couple will return after a three - week honeymoon somewhere in California to their rented seven-room home on the lakefront of Lachine, a Montreal suburb.

They spent their last few days in Montreal decorating and painting the home before leaving separately, Cecile for her parents' home in nearby Callander and Philippe for North Bay.

SECOND TO WED

Although the first to be engaged, Cecile will be the second of the four surviving quints to wed.

Annette married loan company executive Germain Allard in a surprise ceremony in Montreal Oct. 11.

Annette, Marie and Yvonne are to attend the wedding, but not as bridesmaids.

Yvonne was released from Notre Dame de l'Esperance Hospital in the Montreal suburb of St. Laurent—the hospital where she and Cecile took nurse's training—in time for the wedding. A severe bout of influenza and complications kept her from attending Annette's.

Philippe and Cecile were formally engaged in September after a three-year courtship.

PAINTING TOO LARGE

They moved their drapes, furniture and cutlery into their future home last week. Cecile's souvenirs of her childhood in Callander include one that is causing a problem.

It is a six-by-10-foot painting of the quints, then three years old, at play in their Callander garden. The painting, by Jonas N. Tomosco, hung in a Montreal flower shop run briefly by Marie. Cecile is having trouble finding space for it, but is reluctant to give it up.

The wedding, in contrast to Annette's, will be formal and lavish. Some 100 guests have been invited.

Philippe will wear a dark jacket and striped trousers while Cecile will wear a long white gown and veil.

ONE SISTER AWAY

All the members of the Dionne family expect to be present except a sister, Pauline, one year older than the quints, who is currently studying art in New Brunswick.

Members of Cecile's family who will attend include two married sisters: Mrs. Maurice Giroard (Rosemarie), Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mrs. Thomas Callahan (Therese) of North Bay.

Upon leaving the church, Cecile will wear around her shoulders a mink stole valued at $2,000.

Following the wedding a reception will be held at a restaurant in West Ferris.

Members were reminded of the forthcoming mission to St. Margaret's Church, to be held the first week in December. The missioner is the Rev. Dick Rees, Rev. L. A. Page pronounced the benediction.

The Experts Say

African Violets Best House Plants and Most Popular

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—African violets are among the best all round house plants and the most popular.

Fortunately you don't have to be an expert to grow them yet they're still tricky enough to give you a feeling of accomplishment when you do succeed.

In growing African violets they should maintain growth and be in bud or bloom all year round, says Jillian Foley of Chapleau, Ont., one of Canada's experts on the culture of this dainty plant.

Mrs. Foley says that soil is the least important part of growing good violets. She recommends soil should be coarse enough to allow air to recirculate between the particles. This will also allow the roots to travel freely.

She prefers a good clay loam base, with enough sand for drainage, and peat moss to supply humus. Her suggested mixture is: 3 parts loam, 1 part peat and 1 part sand.

Too much water is the biggest enemy of the African violet. Water from the top, covering the top soil generously and make sure it penetrates to the roots. Cold water is the next big spots. The first sign of over-watering is the yellowing of lower leaves.

Good light is a "must" if your plants are to bloom. They will grow in any exposure as long as the light intensity is strong enough.

To keep the plants growing evenly give the pots a quarter turn once a week. Also if you grow them in windows shift them around occasionally so that they all get a turn in the best light.

African violets do best in a temperature range of 68-74 degrees. Draughts will cause premature flower drop and handicap growth. Too much heat or dryness will develop flower buds too rapidly. The plants need humidity.

To feed plants, Mrs. Foley recommends a mixture of hy-min at the rate of ½ teaspoonful to a pint of lukewarm water. Feed by covering the top soil.

Single blooms require feed every second week. All double-blooming varieties and singles and singles with thick hairy leaves should be fed weekly.

If the whole plant is wilting, it means that crown rot has set in. Cut through the main stem with a razor blade well above the rotted areas, remove the lower leaves and insert the stem in a clean pot of fresh soil or sand. In a month or so the plant will be off to a new start.

A well-fed, carefully watered and adequately - lighted African violet, potted in suitable soil in a red clay pot requires little extra care, says Mrs. Foley. In fact, so little that once you have mastered these few simple points you'll find the plants bloom all year around.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

BRIDE AT RIGHT OF GROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please tell me the correct way for the bride and groom to stand in the receiving line at the wedding reception — the bride at the groom's left or right?

2. Also the correct way they should sit at the Bride's Table? The bride at the groom's left or right?

3. Regardless of whether the bride sits at the groom's left or right while they are eating at the Bride's Table, should she sit at the groom's left when they are cutting the cake together, in order to avoid awkwardness while the photographs are being taken?

Reader

1. It is a must that in the receiving line the bride should be at the groom's right. And the location of the receiving-line should be chosen with this essential in mind.

2. At the Bride's Table too the bride should sit at the right of the groom.

3. The bride and groom do not sit as they are cutting the cake together . . . they stand, side by side. And the best form here too is for the bride to be at the right of the groom. And this is usually possible for the photographer who knows what's what. A very effective and frequent placing is to put the cake directly in the front of the picture, the groom facing the camera, and at his right, the bride: then he is in a convenient position to put his right hand over her right hand, and so they cut the cake togethjer.

WHO SUGGESTS GOING IN TO DINNER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For the first time my husband and I are going to entertain some guests at dinner in our very pleasant local hotel. Our guests will be from out-of-town, business friends (with their wives) attending a company conference. This hotel has a very attractive bar-lounge, and we plan to ask our guests to meet us there. We will have the table reserved in the restaurant and the dinner all ordered. My husband thinks that, when we have finished our cocktails in the bar he is the one who should suggest going in to the dining room. I think that perhaps it is my place, as hostess, to do this. Which should do this?

— Hostess-to-be

It is you, the hostess, you should suggest going into the dining room . . . just as when you entertain in your own home.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and five writers. Each article is a summary of an actual history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Genevive R. — Rosalind ought to adopt a child.

Rosalind F. — Maybe we ought to agree Genevive.

Genevive R. — My sister has been married five years to a man who has not proven to be a very good husband. He makes a living, but is not an especially good provider and my sister has been working since the day of her marriage.

Besides, Charles is not a sociable person and he is often depressed and sarcastic with my sister and our family. Recently he learned he is unable to have children and this has made him even worse than ever.

I can't see much happiness ahead for my sister unless she has children, so I think she should see about adopting a child. It might even help to bring about a change in Charles.

Rosalind F. — It is hard to think in terms of adopting a child when I am really wondering whether I can keep my marriage together at all.

I am 33 and Charles is 36 and I don't suppose either of us will ever be very much any more. How much difference can a child make? My family and friends say it makes all the difference in the world, but I can't help having some doubts about this. Even though we could afford a child on Charles' income, we would not be able to provide for the child or ourselves as we would like to — and I hate being poor.

My family and friends are putting a lot of pressure on us to adopt a child, but I think maybe we ought to separate instead.

The Council: — Rosalind's family and friends should leave off the pressure at once because, as things now stand, there isn't the slightest chance of this couple's getting a child from an accredited agency. If they choose to try to get a child illegally, they run the risk of getting into serious trouble. Even if they could manage to evade this legal trouble, they run an even more terrible risk of creating more unhappiness for themselves and an innocent child.

An accredited adoption agency is interested, first of all, in the motive for wanting a child. The only acceptable one is the desire to have a child and to create a happy home for him. Even if they said the right words on this subject, Rosalind and Charles could never convince a social worker that this was their motive.

An accredited adoption agency looks for couples who are happily married. A large-sized income is not important, but it is important that the couple should not feel poor or underprivileged.

An accredited adoption agency looks for maturity of outlook and the courage and flexibility to handle problems. It looks for couples who get along well with the world at large.

Rosalind and Charles would do well to measure themselves and their marriage by these agency standards. If they do, they may begin to see the enormous selfishness involved in their even considering to try to adopt a child for the purpose of saving their marriage.

We have a rather large-sized suspicion that Rosalind is very much more at fault in this relationship than Charles. His depression and sarcasm are likely reactions to a wife who shows so much dissatisfaction with him.

Despite Rosalind's doubts about her ability and that of her husband to change at this time of their lives, she should recognize that they must change in order to save themselves from total despair and tragedy. The self-centeredness and immaturity that now undermines their marriage would prevent their finding any more happiness apart than they have found together.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Question: I clip many of your splendid recipes. My problem now is for a recipe for Vegetable Marrow Jam or Marmalade. Also a Rhubarb Marmalade recipe even if it is not seasonable . . . Mrs. K. G.

Answer: The following amount makes about 8 to 10 jars of jam.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

—FRIDAY

Broiled Halibut with Sweet-Sour Barbecue Sauce (see Monday); Baked Zucchini; Broccoli with Grated Cheese; Shredded Carrots and Sliced Cucumber Salad; Hungarian Apple Pudding with Spiced Hard Sauce (see Monday); Coffee.

VEGETABLE MARROW MARMALADE

Twelve cups marrow, diced, 8 cups sugar, 1 lemon, 1 orange. Pare the marrow, remove seeds and grind through food chopper. Add sugar, mix together and let stand overnight. Remove seeds from orange and lemon and grind pulp and rind. Add to marrow and cook until fruit becomes clear. Pour into jars and seal.

RHUBARB MARMALADE

Ten cups diced rhubarb, 8 cups sugar, 1 lemon, 3 oranges, 1 cup chopped walnuts or almonds, 1 1-2 cups seedless raisins (optional). Wash and clean rhubarb and cut into small pieces. Add sugar, juice of lemon and oranges. Grind rind of lemon and 1 orange and add to mixture. Cook slowly stirring occasionally. When thick, add chopped nuts (and raisins if used) and remove from heat. Pour into glasses and seal. Makes 12 8-ounce jars.

Question: We recently formed a Natural Food Association with the main aim and object to locate and purchase pure natural food for our members. We all use a great number of your recipes and through them have learned to make really good whole wheat bread. We'd like your help and ideas to make this association grow. Do you have a pamphlet on use of 100 per cent whole wheat flour? We would appreciate it very much. Also any other recipes that would be helpful . . . Mrs. D.K.

Answer: I'm a health fiend too, but you have to bait the trap with a little honey, you know. Don't get a reputation at home or abroad for being too strict for you can take the joy out of eating. (End of lecture). We have discovered a honey of a pie calling for whole wheat pastry and honey in the custard filling. Maybe you and your group would like to add it to your files.

HONEY CUSTARD PIE

(With Whole Wheat pastry). Pastry: Two cups sifted pastry flour, 1 1-2 cups sifted whole wheat flour, 1 1-2 tsp. salt, 1 cup chilled shortening, about 1-3 cup cold water. Combine as you would for regular pastry.

Filling: To 3 cups scalded milk add 4 tablespoons honey and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Add mixture to 3 slightly beaten eggs and 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. Strain into unbaked whole wheat pie shell. Sprinkle with few grains nutmeg. Bake in 450 deg. Fahr. oven 25 minutes or until knife inserted in centre comes out clean.

Points to remember: Save and use vegetable waters; undercook vegetables; prepare salads and fresh fruits just before serving; vary grains for cooked cereals and cold cereals; wheat germ to them. If mailed to you the name and address of firm handling health foods.

Rings and Birthstones—Symbols Of Romance and Tradition

Rings come into being as the one sure way of keeping on hand personal reals of office, title and ownership of property. Wearing a ring plainly meant achievement, property ownership, distinction. Modern rings, while still implying achievement and distinction, have acquired additional meaning. A ring can mean close identification with a family or a group, such as a fraternal, military or religious organization, thus becoming a symbol of comradeship and belonging. Always, as gifts, rings are symbols and proof of someone's warm affection.

Birthstone rings, as a distinct class among stone rings, had their origin in the ancient lore of gems. Each gem had its own attributes and its own relationship to recurrent movements of planets and their influence on men.

Those early beliefs have persisted over the years. So, too, have beliefs that birthstones are symbols of good fortune, and that there is a personal meaning and bond between the giver of the ring and the wearer.

OTHER GEMS

There are many stones, other than those that symbolize a birthday, and each of them has a high place in the cultural history of mankind, as well as a fascinating story of its own.

Among these stones are natural and synthetic Star Sapphires and Star Rubies, which may or may not be worn as birthstones; Cat's-eye and Tiger's-eye; such familiar and ancient stones as Hematite, Jade and Agate. There are also the attractive, if seldom seen, Spinels, and the amazing color varieties to be found in Beryl. Finally there are rare Kunzite, Black Onyx; and various cameos of different shades worn in rings. Alone, or in combination with traditional birthstones, these gems and cameos permit an almost limitless variety in the color range available in rings and jewellery today.

BIRTHSTONE RINGS

The many individual beliefs that have grown up with respect to birthstones have, quite naturally, evoked a distinct personal interests in the color, shape, size and setting of the birthstone. Because of this fact — the fact that individual tastes in color, size and shape vary greatly — your jeweller offers a wide variety of styles, designs and settings.

If You Were Born In: Your Birthstone Is:

January.....Garnet
February.....Amethyst
April.....Diamond
May.....Emerald
July.....Ruby
September...Sapphire
October.....Opal or Tourmaline
November....Topaz
December....Turquoise or Zircon

MEMORABLE GIFTS

It can be realized, that the ring originally conceived, as a symbol of achievement and distinction, has gradually inherited new beauties and additional meanings for the one who wears it. And, seeing this, it can be seen why rings today mark "memorable milestones" with individual beauty and meaning for everyone from the charming new baby, on through childhood and into full maturity

KINETTE HIGHLIGHTS FOR NOVEMBER

TWEED — The regular meeting of the Tweed Kinette Club was held at the Hotel Tweedsmuir on Monday, November 18, with a dinner.

The president thanked Elaine LeDage, head convener, for her work on the canvas for the blind, the amount of which previously appeared in this paper. Muriel Wood was also thanked for her work regarding the rummage sale held recently which netted a large amount for welfare work. These two projects involved a great deal of work and much credit is due these conveners and their helpers.

It was decided the Kinettes would make a Santa Claus suit soon, which will be available for rental by other persons or clubs. The cook books are selling rapidly and can be purchased from a Kinette member or at Spencer's Fashion Shoppe.

A white elephant sale was conducted, under auctioneer Myrt Quinn and her assistant, Ruth Anderson. A substantial amount was collected and many useful articles were sold.

The program convener, Jean Belch introduced a new club activity. One or more members each meeting are to bring something very old and highly valued and relate the history of the article. This may prove to be a popular part of the program.

Sunday School Lesson

This Is a Two-Way Problem

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the most serious criticisms that can be levelled at any minister of the gospel is the charge that he is "preaching for the money there is in it." As though it were a mortal sin for a man to be concerned about the question of food, clothing, and shelter.

Greed is a despicable trait no matter where you find it, whether it be displayed by a preacher or by a layman. But it is rather odd that the same quality which attracts honors for a leading citizen of the community attracts criticism for the preacher who stands in the pulpit on Sunday.

All of this is to say, of course, that the sin of avarice is the same, whether it is found in the clergy or in the laity. If to be overly concerned about money is destructive of spirituality on the part of a preacher, it can hardly be expected to have any other effect on a layman.

ANTIDOTE FOR AVARICE

It is worthy of note that Jesus talked more about money than any other subject. Certainly He discussed the question of a man's attitude toward his possessions more frequently than any popular theological doctrine of the day.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 24: "Christian Giving." I Corinthians 16.

In one way and another He undertook to lay upon men's consciences the fact that they were responsible for the way they handled their money. This idea of responsibility has come down in the church as the doctrine of stewardship.

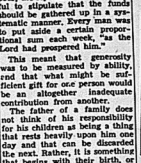
Let any man accept the fact that he is in possession of money as being a responsibility, for which he is answerable to man and God, and he will discover that a long list of problems solve themselves.

There is no sin more shameful, or more contemptible, than that of greed, and there is no other known cure than the doctrine of stewardship.

The Apostle Paul put the whole idea of responsibility into action when he insisted that the Gentile churches should organize systematically for the purpose of raising funds which would rescue the Christians of Jerusalem from the terrors of starvation. The world had never seen anything like it. In all the annals of the historians there is no record of any great outpouring of practical sympathy in behalf of any nation, or community, of sufferers.

It is highly significant that the only great movements in behalf of feeding the hungry and clothing the naked have had their origins in Christian impulses. In this connection it is worthy of note that there has never been even the slightest evidence of any such generosity on the part of the communists. The reason is not far to seek. The communist philosophy insists upon obedience; but not upon sympathy; it demands instant compliance on the part of all subjects, but requires no expression of compassion.

The non-Christian religions of the world pay tribute to the generous man, but none of them teach the doctrine of responsibility as it is expressed in stewardship.



In instructing his churches in the matter of taking the collection in behalf of the Jerusalem poor, the Apostle Paul was careful to stipulate that the funds should be gathered up in a systematic manner. Every man was to put aside a certain proportional sum each week, "as the Lord had prospered him."

This meant that generosity was to be measured by ability, and that what might be sufficient gift for one person would be an altogether inadequate contribution from another.

The father of a family does not think of his responsibility for his children as being a thing that rests heavily upon him one day and that can be discarded the next. Rather, it is something that begins with their birth, or even before, and continues to the last hour of life. It changes form and expression from time to time, but it can never be laid aside.

Similarly, each man's responsibility for the administration of his possessions becomes a lifetime assignment. He who has much carries a heavy responsibility, and he who has little carries a lesser obligation. But every man who owns even the clothes on his back is responsible for at least that much.

Let the doctrine of stewardship be dominated by the spirit of Christian love throughout the earth, and the world's problems would evaporate, like the morning mist.

Schefflera, the "counting plant," is a fairly recent introduction among house plants, said to be the perfect one because of its freedom from diseases and insects. Foliage grows in unusual way, starting with one leaf at base of stalk and increasing to two, and so on up to seven leaves on single stem at top of plant. Foliage is shiny, handsome.

MELROSE

Women in Japan Topic at WMS

MELROSE — The November meeting of the Melrose Women's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sherry Demille with a good attendance.

Miss Bailey, 1st vice-president, conducted the meeting, with Mrs. Demille as pianist. Miss Bailey led in the worship service, the theme being, "Thine is the Glory."

A letter was read on the Dr. Thomas' Preaching Mission being held in Bridge Street United Church. All are urged to attend these special meetings.

Mrs. E. M. Badgley gave a reading on a "W.C.T.U. Talk on Alcoholism."

Business period was conducted.

The tea and bazaar which was postponed, is to be held the last Wednesday in November.

A nominating committee, Mrs. R. MacFarlane and Mrs. Ken McKenzie, was appointed to bring in a slate of officers to the December meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr.

Mrs. John Milligan, group leader, presented the following program. She spoke briefly on Armistice Day and gave a reading "Reflections on Remembrance Day" by Rev. E. L. Hebden Taylor, rector of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Tenkanning.

Mrs. E. Embury, Mrs. E. M. Badgley and Mrs. C. Osborn gave the story of "Women in Japan."

"Traditionally, the home has been the women's orbit. During the last 30 years the Japanese woman would seem to have undergone a revolutionary change. Her attitude, her behavior and even her appearance are totally different. Under the new constitution she is given equal status with men. She works with the men in offices, in factories and in professional life.

"Not only are women working on the labor and industrial front but they are making an important contribution to the nation's cultural life as reporters, as authors as artists and as musicians. The church pioneered in the field and set a high standard of education for Japanese girls and women, so that now they are giving leadership in the church. Christian work in Japan in advance of some other fields calls for the skills and experiences of women.

Mrs. Milligan gave some of the highlights of the W.M.S. sectional rally.

Miss Bailey closed the meeting, after which a social hour was spent when Mrs. Demille served refreshments.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was looking at the picture in the living room wall, and she said to pop, Really, Willum, it seem actually, you'd be serprized at the way the price of the wall paper has shot up.

I've got over my serprize at the way the price of everything else has shot up, I am not probably like wall paper in my stride, pop said, and ma said, Papering this room would cost dubble what it cost last time.

I'll would, hah? pop said. Let's worry about that bridge when we come to it, he said, and ma said, Why William, what a coincidents. Do you meen the bridge in that picture? she said.

Where does that come in, for shot sake? pop said, and ma said it comes in perfectly. It's been at least years since you bought a picture for less of cost, and at least once a year ever since I've reminded you that you ring it too high, she said.

Yes yes, go on, pop said, and ma said, Well, I wont ever have to remind you again if we get wore wall paper because then you will simply have to take it down and rehang it right. It will be like stitching 2 herds with one stone, she said to myself when I saw some simply stunning imported paper at the Ultra Modern shop this afternoon, she said.

My dear, one is enough, we've come to the bridge, let's cross, pop said.

Listening the picture, and he got the kitchen ladder and a hammer and kept on the picture different places and ma kept on telling that it was almost right but not quite, till pop got down and leened the picure against the bottom of the wall and told ma to see it with Mr. Columbo when she comes to clean the house tomorrow.

U.S. Air Force Takes Exception To Army's Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says today the U.S. Air Force has placed a policy paper before the joint chiefs of staff "taking exception to army proposals for a major program to develop anti-missile missiles."

A Washington dispatch adds that "the air force disputes the arguments for a contra-missile advanced by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, army chief of staff."

The story says the air force presentation—made at the same time as the army's—questions whether army development of a weapon to destroy enemy missiles is advanced enough to warrant huge expenditures.

One army estimate was that it would cost about $6,000,000,000 to develop a ballistic missile "killer" by 1961. The army's advocacy of this program was prompted by reported Soviet advances in ballistic missiles.

French Press Not Pleased With Visit

PARIS (AP)—All sections of the French press today express disappointment over the results of Foreign Minister Christian Pineau's visit to Washington to protest the American arms delivery to Tunisia. Pineau conferred with U.S. State Secretary Dulles.

"Slim results of Pineau-Dulles talks," headlines the Conservative Aurore talks of "the disappointing trip of Pineau to the land of Dulles."

"Pineau, after meeting Dulles, left with empty hands," comments Aurore. "The evidence is that, in Washington as in London, one must reckon on an aggravated North African situation, and one is busy making it worse."

Liberation frontpages a cartoon showing Dulles patting Pineau on the head and saying:

"Macmillan gave arms to the Tunisians? That's very naughty. But it's naughty, too, to tell tales. Run away and play and don't let me catch you at it again."

CONTROVERSIAL STATIONS

Rev. R. J. O'Neill, Roman Catholic pastor of an Edmonton church, is shown here in front of one of the modernistic, stained glass Stations of the Cross in the church. The Stations, which have been removed from his church as "distracting." He told his congregation at Our Lady of the Assumption Church that the 14 stations in the $3,000 series are "grotesque" and not as suitable as previous stations he had purchased. The series depicts incidents in Christ's tortuous walk to the crucifixion and death. The one shown here is the third station, showing Christ's first fall. The series was designed and executed in Austria and installed in the church three years ago. Father O'Neill says his parishioners still find them confusing and that he has the support of the Roman Catholic Church's supreme council on art in Rome in his decision to have them removed. Modernistic Stained Glass 'Stations of the Cross' Not Satisfactory to Church Priest

By LORNE BRUCE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — A Roman Catholic priest plans to remove from the main body of his church —because they are "distracting" —the modernistic stained glass Stations of the Cross installed three years ago.

Rev. J. R. O'Neill, pastor of the church of Our Lady of the Assumption, told his congregation that the $3,000 series of 14 depicted incidents of Christ's torturous walk to crucifixion are "grotesque" and not as suitable as preliminary sketches had indicated.

The situation has aroused an Eastern national controversy in which Father O'Neill, a pastor for 20 years, is supported by the Roman Catholic church's supreme council on art in Rome.

WORK OF MONKS

Both the architect of his modern glass-walled church and the designer of the Stations say that the pieces are "works of art."

Father O'Neill says his parishioners still find the three - foot - square designs confusing. But he feels the support by Rome proves the Roman Catholic Church does not dictate to its members or force them to accept any and all forms of art.

W. E. Lauer, about 30, of Vancouver, architect of the church built in 1953-54, ordered the stations—designed by Lydia Rappoldi of Vienna and executed by Benedictine monks at the Clerical Monastery at Schlierbach, Austria.

Brilliant colors with blue-toned backgrounds, swirling sleeved figures and Christ, mother and His persecutors, tell the story of the day of His death.

First is His condemnation by death by Pontius Pilate. The fifth shows His crucifixion, and the 14th is the placing of the body in the tomb.

It is a Roman Catholic devotion to pray before the stations ranged along the walls of the church. The devotion may be practised any day, but most often during Lent and Easter. The idea of the number who "say the stations" at Assumption church.

Father O'Neill describes the stations as "fifth century Gothic in modern clothing." They arrived in 1954 after he and his building committee had authorized their purchase; after seeing sketches which the pastor said were "quite comprehensible."

CANDID OPINION

After some parish consternation, Father O'Neill allowed installation of the stations. But in consultation with Most Rev. John Hugh MacDonald of Edmonton archdiocese, his immediate superior, it was decided to send photos of the Stations to Rome with a request for a candid opinion.

In due course a letter from the Pontifical Congregation of Sacred Arts said the figures in the Stations were "too far from the natural, with evident exaggeration in the artistic representation" and does not speak to the soul and cannot therefore exercise a salutary influence on the devotion of the people as sacred art is supposed to do. Indeed in the sensitive pieces which we have studied the figures can easily be an occasion of real distraction."

Whereas the Stations should be "calculated to foster devotion to the passion of Our Lord," the letter says, "it is now very clear that the Stations of the Cross delivered to the parish do not achieve this purpose.

"Our is pastoral therefore to the conclusion that the figures of the Way of the Cross do not correspond to the religious ends envisioned by sacred art."

Father O'Neill, who came to the West from Charlottetown, P.E.I., says the Stations are grotesque, horrible, impossible, repellent" with their stunned figures.

OPPOSING VIEWS

Mr. Ussner called the Stations "a masterpiece," adding: "I never would be a lot of criticism but the parishioners needed to be educated.

Mrs. Roppoli said that in designing the Stations she had followed the modern method but met with appreciation throughout Europe. Father O'Neill's criticism of Mrs. Roppoli in all her correspondence had been "confidential and civil."

Father O'Neill estimates suitable replacements will cost between $1,500 and $1,200. A total of $1,500 already has been paid and the pastor emphasizes that the parish never tried to avoid paying the balance but he was insisting on a "little civility" from Mr. Ussner.

Father O'Neill says that the stained-glass Stations, when removed from the walls of the church, will be used for ornamental purposes elsewhere in the building.

ILLUMINATED WORKS

The translucent pictures, each about 3 by 4 feet, in vertical bands are illuminated from the back by day by light from the church's glass outside walls, by night from electric bulbs.

The church, built at a cost of $190,000, is two miles from the centres of the city and seats 700 persons. The parish contains 700 families.

Some parishioners, generally, have difficulty making out the pictures but some, especially those who admire modern art, like them.

One of the latter is Miss Margaret Prchenitchnig, president of the young peoples' group.

"They're not as bad as people make out," she said. "I care for modern art. I am quite fond of them. I would hate to see them go."

Another view came from Mrs. Fred Timperley, president of the Fate of Missing Couple Still North Bay Mystery

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—Long fingers of ice are spreading out from the shores of Trout Lake, ready to lock in for another winter the answer to a riddle which has mystified this North Bay area city for 18 months.

Somewhere in the eight - mile - long mountain lake, a 10 - metre drive east of here, may lie clues to the disappearance of Mabel and Allan Campbell.

The Campbells, a middle-aged North Bay couple, have not been seen since May 29, 1956 when they left their city home for a hunting, fishing trip with them in a small Pomeranian pet dog and an "unsinkable" 14-foot boat.

Provincial police admit they are still baffled. There only clues are a pan of half-cooked hamburger and a broken pocket watch.

The Campbells were reported to be in their usual spirits that last May 29. At breakfast they told their teen - age daughters June and Joan they were planning a day at the family cottage. It was Campbell's day off at the Canadian Pacific railway yard where he worked as a stationary engineer.

When the couple failed to return that day the girls thought they had decided to spend the night at the cottage. But when they did not appear next morning the girls called police who found the Campbell car parked in the driveway and the cottage padlocked.

They found a table set for two and a pan of half-cooked hamburger on the cold wood stove.

A fiberglass boat was missing. So was a five - horsepower outboard motor.

A child's bag which had settled down into the previous afternoon was still cloaked the lake. Police assumed the Campbells had become lost and decided to sit it out somewhere along the shore. Next day the fog lifted and a full-scale search by boat and plane was started. It should have been easy. The missing boat was equipped with built-in air tanks to keep it afloat even with the motor attached. There were no natural places of recognizable equipment known to be in the boat. The gas can, oars, oil can — which would not sink if an accident overturned the craft. And there was the Campbells' dog which had gone along.

Two people on one of the most intensive searches in North Bay district history — at one time more than 200 men took part — one of these things was found. Canadian Pacific brothers and relatives dragged the bay in front of the cottage without success. Pontoon dragging crews joined them and also checked other parts of the deep, twisting lake.

Leo Dugas, a carpenter, said he saw an empty green boat in the Campbell bay and later heard a scream and paused to listen. It didn't come again. Dugas was sure this was about o'clock, the same time Campbell had seen a green boat in a different section of the lake. The conflicting stories only added to the puzzle.

On two occasions in the summer a group of North Bay skin-divers searched Campbell bay but found nothing.

Dr. J. E. Brennan, North Bay coroner, says he is surprised that the bodies have not come to the surface, presumably as the Campbells drowned. He said it usually took nine to 20 days for bodies to float and this time could be speeded by storms.

North Bay residents are starting to compare the mystery with the Kirk disappearance. Kirk's body vanished on a holiday trip between North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie in 1941. Not a trace was found of them until the summer of 1956 when a diver accidentally discovered their car in the St. Mary's River just off the edge of the Sault Ste. Marie shipping dock. The couple's skeletons were in the front seat.

Gold Mining May Be Studied By Government

OTTAWA (CP) — Establishment of a Commons committee to go into all aspects of the gold mining industry was proposed Thursday night by Murdo Martin (CCF—Timmins).

He said in the Commons that an anti-union attitude by the mine owners is one of the most pressing problems.

Mr. Martin and Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming), both former gold miners, spoke in the mining debate as the Commons debated spending estimates of the mines department.

Mr. Peters said additional federal aid should be given to gold mining as it is some of it would be used to benefit the mining communities, the miners and their families.

SAME FIRM

Mr. Martin said that five of the seven operating mines in the Timmins area are owned by the same firm which has two copper mines at Murdochville, Que., scene of a bitter labor dispute last year.

The attitude toward unions shown at Murdochville probably would be carried into current labor negotiations at Timmins.

"The problem should be solved by hearing only the management or by the union. There should set up a committee representing federal, provincial and municipal authorities, together with management and union representatives, to proceed in this matter."

This was disclosed by Indian Deputy Defence Minister Surjit Singh Majithia today. He gave no reason for the Iraqi decision.

parish branch of the Catholic Women's League.

"I'm not at the question to expect children to understand them when grownups can't," she said. "As children they would be beautiful."

William Maday said "we don't like them."

"You can't explain them to your kids when you can't make out the picture. They look like rag dolls. You can't make out the bodies."

John Kenan said whoever put them up could have put the first picture in the last position and nobody would know the difference. As art, they're fine though."

Skilful Diplomacy, Ironclad Repression See Tito Through

For eight years President Tito has stood Yugoslav foreign policy through a perilous and unpredictable course.

His chances of survival seemed slim when he first broke with the Russians in 1949. A Communist dictator cut off from the spoils-spring of communism, he was in imminent danger from subversion at home and hostility abroad.

Skilful diplomacy and ironclad repression saw him through the early years. Russian agents found the Yugoslav people wedded to Titoism's nationalism than ideology and failed to shake Tito's rule. And the West, intent on exploiting any division within the Communist bloc, was ready with military and economic aid.

While denunciations of the vengeful Kremlin flowed in number of Moscow, Tito settled his differences with Italy over Trieste and signed a friendship and defence treaty with Greece and Turkey. Much as the West disliked communism, it was prepared to live with its new ally.

Tito's next round of difficulties began when Stalin died and his successors began wooing Yugoslavia back to the fold. While Western suspicions mounted, he exchanged convivial visits with Khrushchev and began supporting Russia on some international issues.

Yugoslavia's first open clash with the West occurred last allied month when Tito announced his recognition of the East German government. The Kremlin remains long and tortuous. But Tito is still finding room to manoeuvre. And he remains as example to Russia's unsatisfactory satellites as long as he stays in power.

Trade Mission To Study British Wares

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker bid good speed to Canada's 24-man trade mission as it left by air Thursday night for a month's look at British wares.

The mission's task is to try to supplement as much as possible of Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal at last July that Canada should divert Britain 15 per cent of its purchases from the United States to Canada. Britain is the top business group, the prime minister warned, and Canada's huge trade deficit with the U.S.—a $1,300,000,000 imbalance between 1950 and 1956—must be cut across the border—enthusiasm and "ultimate danger" to this country.

"This is an economic danger," he added, when pressed by reporters for elaboration.

For this reason, he said, the mission's main was so important.

The mission, led by Trade Minister Churchill, is composed chiefly of Canadian businessmen whose main purpose will be to "stimulate the flow of United Kingdom products to Canada," in a statement, Mr. Churchill said:

It is probable that our efforts will have a long-term influence on trade relations between Great Britain and Canada . . . we believe that, through the development of a favourable climate, it will be possible to arouse the interest of British exporters in this country as a market."

NEW STAMP

This black-and-white, five-cent stamp, a tribute to the contribution of newspapers to the development of Canada, will be issued by the post office next January 22. In its announcement of the stamp, the post office mentioned specially the contribution of The Canadian Press, the national co-operative newsgathering and distributing organization which this year marks its fortieth anniversary. The stamp is designed by A. H. Pollock of Toronto. The columns of two newspapers—marked differently "A Free Press"—blend into a background scene symbolizing rural and urban Canada: a grain elevator, telephone and power poles, a bridge, a ship, a factory smokestack, a church, tall buildings and a broadcasting tower. New Five-Cent Stamp Will be Issued on January 22nd, As Salute to Press of Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — A new five-cent stamp, a salute to the press of Canada, will be issued by the post office Jan. 22.

Postmaster - General William Hamilton said today the stamp is intended to emphasize the significant influence of the printed word in the life of Canadians.

The announcement also pays tribute to The Canadian Press, the national co - operative newsgathering and - distributing organization which this year marks its 40th anniversary.

Mr. Hamilton said in a statement that The Canadian Press "in its day-to-day dissemination of news material has played an important part in bringing the people of Canada closer together and in helping to create the Canada of today."

SALUTE TO PRESS

The black-and-white stamp was designed by Alan Pollock of Toronto. The columns of two newspapers—titled bilingually A Free Press — blend into a background scene symbolizing rural and urban Canada: A grain elevator, telephone and power poles, a bridge, a ship, a factory smokestack, a church, tall buildings and a broadcasting tower.

"The new stamp is a salute to the fourth estate of this country and at present and in the Canadian Press as an institution," the post office said in a background note. It added:

"From early days the press in Canada has played a great role in proclaiming the viewpoint of the people and in building the democracy. It has proved both a strong influence for national unity and for world understanding."

PIONEER JOURNALS

The history of the press in what is now Canada goes back to 1752 with establishment of the Halifax Gazette, it was observed. After the fall of Quebec, a weekly paper, La Gazette de Quebec, was published in 1764 by two English printers, William Brown and Thomas Gilmore, one French and English.

The Montreal Gazette, 1778, the first newspaper in the French language and was founded by Fleury Mesplet, a French printer, and friend of Benjamin Franklin to Montreal.

Le Canadien was founded early in the 19th century in Quebec City by T. J. J. Loranger, Pierre Bedard, Jean Thomas Taschereau and, like the colonial advocate in Toronto, William Mackenzie, lately expressed its views on the cause of the people.

The Upper Canada Gazette and American Oracle was Upper Canada's first newspaper, appearing in 1793 at Niagara and being published later at York. Over there were 1807, newspaper publishers in the West founded the Western Associated Press for co-operative news-gathering. M. E. Nichols of the old Winnipeg Telegram was the first president. He now lives in retirement in Vancouver.

In 1910, the Eastern Press Association was incorporated and in Ontario and Quebec there were similar organizations for morning and evening papers. In 1917, the Canadian Press Limited was incorporated under federal charter as a national holding company for the Associated Press rights.

NATION-WIDE SYSTEM

In September, 1917, there was a grand merger of the western, eastern and central organizations into Canadian Press Limited and news - gathering and news exchange were established on a large scale.

Lastly, in 1923, Canadian Press Limited was incorporated by act

STAMP DESIGNER

Alan L. Pollock, 38-year-old art designer with a Toronto printing firm, designed the new five-cent stamp to be issued in Canada next Jan. 22. The stamp is a tribute to the contribution of newspapers to the development of Canada. Mr. Pollock came to Canada from Scotland in 1950 and now has designed four Canadian stamps. His previous works commemorated the forestry, textile and chemical industries. He has also designed a stamp for the United Nations, the first Canadian to do so. (CP Photo) 1957.

Imperial Bank of Canada Opens Handsome Branch

Mayor Forrester to Officiate At Opening Ceremonies

An "Open House" is being held at the new branch of Imperial Bank of Canada, 286 Front Street on Saturday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. to mark the occasion of the official opening of this new banking office.

This should prove to be an interesting gathering as a large attendance is expected. Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, has consented to officiate at the opening ceremonies during the afternoon, and H. W. Thomson, Assistant General Manager of the bank will be visiting Belleville from head office to welcome the guests with Manager R. W. G. Freestone. It is expected that Paul S. Peak, Imperial Bank's Advertising and Public Relations Manager will also be present.

Visitors to the "Open House" will have an opportunity of inspecting the many features and facilities of this modern office, and light refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Speaking about the arrangements for the "Open House" the Branch Manager, R. W. G. Freestone said today, "We have had many successful and interesting open houses in Canada and they have always been very well attended. We always do our best to make these occasions enjoyable for our guests and we unreservedly invite a women's association of a church to look after the catering for us as we have done on this occasion. I extend a very cordial invitation to residents and business people of Belleville to be our guests at the "Open House," to meet the Mayor of Belleville and my senior executives from head office. I am sure that those of your readers who accept this invitation to be with us on Saturday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 5 will have a very enjoyable time. I look forward to the pleasure of welcoming our many guests."

Ultra-Modern Architecture Blends the Building's Many Features in Pleasing Design

The builders and decorators have now completed their work on the new branch office at 286 Front Street which Imperial Bank of Canada will open for business on Saturday.

The Belleville architects, Watson and Wiegand, working in association with John Rankin, Imperial Bank's own architect, have designed an office in contemporary style with many novel features. One of these features is the plate glass window with a height of 35 feet and a width of 24 feet which fronts the building and which is recessed into the side walls giving an open, bright and cheerful atmosphere to this modern banking office.

The ceiling is split-level, 35 feet high at the front of the building and 17 feet above the remainder of the office, a sloping wall separating these two levels. On this sloping wall a large and colorful mural design will be visible through the expansive window at the front of the office. The theme of this is Canada geese and ducks, each of the birds being about six feet in height.

Another feature of this office is the novel use of buff brick as part of the interior decorative theme, the same brick being used on the outside and parts of the inside walls. The other wall areas are painted in cheerful harmonizing colors which add an air of brightness to the light-filled banking room.

The ceilings are acoustically treated to give quiet working conditions, and the ceilings have been painted snow-white which again add to the brightness. Specially designed lights, inside the big front window, shine upwards and downwards when lighted, and will give the office a pleasing appearance during the hours of darkness displaying the large mural measuring 24 feet by 15 feet.

Light red-oak counters, with taupe turquoise blue tops, and matching furniture will make the banking room comfortable and efficient for customers and staff. The floor area of some 80 feet in depth and 24 feet in width provides ample space for a well designed office suitably furnished for customers' convenience. The floor is of vinyl-tile malayan-brown covering, and comfortable private booths are available for customers who wish to inspect the contents of their safety deposit boxes. A night depository, installed in the front of the building, is also available for customers who wish to make deposits when the bank is closed.

It is the policy of Imperial Bank of Canada when building new branches to use local firms and materials wherever possible, and the contractors on this occasion have been The Tatham Co., Ltd., of Belleville who have built an office which will enhance this business section of Belleville's busy Front Street.

Imperial Bank's Top Executive Has Confidence in City's Future

E. J. FRIESEN, General Manager Imperial Bank of Canada.

Imperial Bank of Canada is opening a modern branch office at 286 Front Street which E. J. Friesen, general manager, considers to be an important part of the bank's planned program of development.

Interviewed recently in Toronto, Mr. Friesen stated that it might be wondered why Imperial Bank had not opened a branch in Belleville before the present time, considering that the bank has been in operation since 1875 and now has some three hundred branches from coast to coast in Canada.

"It will be appreciated," said Mr. Friesen, "that all banks cannot expand and develop in the same areas at the same time and while we are developing in Northern Ontario or Western Ontario, other banks are perhaps developing in Eastern Ontario. Conversely, when we decide to expand in Eastern Ontario other banks may be expanding in other areas in this country.

SURVEYS MADE

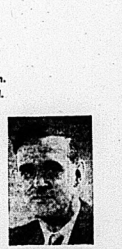
Before entering a new area we always make surveys to ascertain what the business potential is likely to be and I am indeed happy to be able to say that the confidence we have in the future of your city certainly justifies the opening of this modern branch. I think that the city of Belleville can look to a bright future and there is no doubt that the industrial growth of your city and the St. Lawrence Seaway Development are going to play a very important part in your economy during the years to come."

"The fact that we are not opening a temporary office in rented premises, but have built a truly modern office shows that we are quite confident that this additional banking service is required in Belleville, and we are sure that many of the residents of your city and business firms alike will wish to do business with Imperial Bank."

"We pride ourselves on our service, in fact we have as our slogan the bank that service built and we endeavor to every thing in our power to live up to this slogan. This slogan happens be very true, as we have grown to our present position entirely through the service we have been able to render to our many thousands of customers. We look forward very much to having the opportunity of serving new friends and customers in Belleville, and we look forward also to a long and happy association with your city."

Speaking about Imperial Bank as a whole, Mr. Friesen had this to say. "We offer banking service in almost three hundred branches from Halifax on the Atlantic Coast to Victoria on the Pacific Coast, and we have some one hundred and sixty - five branches in the Province of Ontario alone. We are strengthening our chain of branches all the time across Canada in order to be able to improve our service to our many customers, and apart from opening new branches in fine, modern, buildings such as will be seen in your city, we are also modernizing many of our older buildings and in some cases building new offices to house branches which have been in old buildings and which now prove inadequate for the business of such branches."

EXPERIENCED MANAGER



"The manager of our new Belleville branch, Mr. R. W. G. Freestone," continued Mr. Friesen, "is a man of wide experience and he has worked with the Imperial Bank for the past twenty-two years. Before making this appointment we considered the importance of this branch very carefully, as we do consider the opening of this Belleville branch as a big step in our planned program of development and expansion, and I am confident that our many customers whom we hope to have the pleasure of serving before very long, will find Mr. Freestone a congenial and helpful individual with whom to discuss their banking business. Mr. Freestone is coming to Belleville from one of our busiest branches in St. Catharines, and I know that he is looking forward to his new duties with keen anticipation and with a great deal of pleasure."

Record of 80 Years Service Enjoyed By Imperial Bank

Continual Growth Marks Bank's Progress in Canada

The contractors have now put the finishing touches to the new and modern building at 286 Front Street, which Imperial Bank of Canada will open on Saturday as their first Belleville branch.

Although new to the city, Imperial Bank has a long record of service extending over eighty years as it was in 1875 that the doors first opened in Toronto on what was destined to become one of Canada's great banks. The first head office was established in the Masonic hall in Toronto, and a year after its formal opening it was moved to the corner of Wellington Street and Leader Lane, where it remained until 1938 when the office was transferred to its present location on the southeast corner of King and Bay Streets.

In 1875, the year of its formation, Imperial Bank gained branches at St. Catharines, Ingersoll and Port Colborne through the amalgamation with the small Niagara District Bank and by so doing, also increased its staff by fourteen members. During the early years the bank expanded gradually in Western Ontario, opening branches in St. Thomas, Welland, Fergus, and Woodstock and by the time that the transcontinental railroad began to wend its long and tortuous journey into Western Canada, Imperial Bank had established eight branches.

R. W. G. FREESTONE, Manager Imperial Bank Branch, Belleville.

OPEN BRANCH IN MANITOBA

Interest in business activity in the West began about 1880. The Province of Manitoba had been formed out of Hudson Bay Territory as early as 1870, but delay in building a railroad retarded enterprise. Incorporation of the Canadian Pacific Railway altered this situation and speculators immediately viewed the possibilities of new business in the Prairies. So impressed was the board of directors of Imperial Bank that they sent the President, H. S. Howland, and Vice-President Merritt, on a survey trip to Manitoba. Before these men returned to Toronto arrangements had been made to establish a branch in Winnipeg.

This branch was opened just ahead of the arrival of the railroad in January 1881, which marked the beginning of Imperial Bank's expansion in Western Canada and the continuing development in Ontario. Additional branches were opened in Brandon in 1882; Calgary in 1886; Portage la Prairie in 1888; Prince Albert and Edmonton in 1891, and as the railway reached Vancouver, a branch of the bank was established in that city in December 1895 by which time Imperial Bank was operating twenty-two branches in Ontario and the West.

With the discovery of silver in Cobalt, Ontario in 1903, Imperial Bank's second pioneering venture commenced and a branch was established in this mining centre, and the bank followed the opening of the new and developing mining areas in Northern Ontario eastwards into Quebec, establishing branches in such well-known centres as Porcupine, Cochrane, Timmins, Kirkland Lake, Rouyn, and Noranda. During these months and years of Canada's expanding business and economy, Imperial Bank continued to develop its network of branches in Eastern and Western Canada until at the time of the first world war ninety-three branches of the bank had been established.

Today the name Imperial Bank has become so synonymous with the mining industry that it is often referred to as Canada's mining bank.

Through good years and difficult years, Imperial Bank continued to grow, to prosper, and to expand. Imperial Bank has paid a dividend to its shareholders every year without fail since its formation, and today with some three hundred branches operating from Halifax to Victoria, and with assets exceeding $850,000,000, the bank is one of the great financial institutions of this land.

The opening of the Belleville Branch is part of a planned program of development and helps to strengthen the chain of branches which the bank operates along the banks of the St. Lawrence River. Conscious of the importance of the St. Lawrence Seaway development, the present executive of the bank wished to add to the service already being given in Kingston and Cornwall, and bring additional banking service to the prosperous and growing city of Belleville. Confident of this city's business and economic future, Imperial Bank will give banking service in an office of contemporary design which will offer every banking facility.

The first manager of this new branch will be Mr. R. W. G. Freestone, who comes to Belleville from St. Catharines, Ontario.

IAPA Safety Drive Pays Off

TORONTO—The Industrial Accident prevention Associations of Ontario reported this year's October safety drive was the most successful ever conducted in their history. Over 85 percent of firms reporting had no compensation cases throughout the entire month, and even though an additional 870 firms reported, the number reporting injuries was decreased to 718 from 746.

The October safety drive is one phase of the year-round program of accident prevention promoted through the IAPA. The result of their effectiveness is that Ontario has fewer serious work injuries per employee than most other parts of North America.

Further Credit Easing Boosts Bond Prices

TORONTO — Word of further credit easing sent bond prices climbing here this week in active trading. Long term high grade issues advanced across the board.

Government of Canada bonds led the parade, with long terms adding up-to 50 cents. Some provincials shared similar gains, and the general municipal and corporation list joined in the advance.

Inching up for the past month as indications of credit-easing here, Canadian bonds spurted ahead late last week when four Federal Reserve banks in the U.S. cut the discount rate from 3½ % to 3%. They started up again yesterday when Boston Federal Reserve Bank also cut its rate, and the president of the U. S. Federal Reserve Bank said further easing of credit is likely.

C.S.B. SALES RISE

Sales of Canada Savings Bonds have broken all records, according to finance minister Fleming, and the final total should exceed $1 billion for the first time.

To November 15 — after one month of the Series Twelve campaign — sales totalled $941 million. Previous high was $900 million four years ago.

The general public bought $734 million and payroll deduction plans took the others $207 million.

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Falls Sharply

OTTAWA—The Bank of Canada interest rate fell sharply to 3.76 per cent this week from 3.99 last week, the Central Bank reported yesterday. The record rate was 4.33 per cent established Aug. 26, 1957.

The rate is fixed at one-quarter of one per cent above the week's average yield for Treasury Bills, which was 3.51 per cent.

The drop in the discount rate yesterday was the largest since the present system of regulating the rate, was established just over a year ago.

The discount rate at 3.76 per cent declined 23/100ths of one per cent. This follows announcement a week ago by the United States Federal Reserve Board, of reduction of 1/2 of one per cent in the U.S. discount rate in several Federal Reserve districts, including New York City.

Fulton States Tight Money Being Eased

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton has blamed Canada's mounting unemployment largely on tight money policies of the former Liberal Government.

He told University of British Columbia students the Conservative Government is relaxing the tight money restrictions to counter unemployment, but said it would be some months before effects of the move would be noticed.

He said it would be folly to minimize the employment situation, but did not see things as "disastrous."

Asked by a student why the government had not eased money restrictions earlier, he indicated the government had trouble getting its policies through the Bank of Canada.

"The governor of the bank of Canada enjoys a considerable measure of autonomy under the statutes, and any changes come about after consultation.

"It sometimes takes a little longer to persuade people to come to our point of view."

Mr. Fulton said the worst dangers of inflation have disappeared, but the time is not yet ripe for complete release of credit restrictions.

Larks Were Chirping Gaily, Tigers Are Licking Chops

MONTREAL (CP)—Les Alouettes leave today for Hamilton and the windup of the Big Four Football Union final with an upsurge of morale in keeping with their name.

From a dressing room deep in Westmount Stadium after Thursday's practice came carefree bursts of song. Assorted—not the Larks—were whooping things up in as gay a fashion as if they and not Hamilton Tiger Cats, carried a seven - point margin into Saturday's all - important game.

The practice itself was a serious affair. It was behind locked gates and doors at the Als' practice field.

The players left the stadium, Pat Abbruzzi, burly fullback, was asked what went on at the practice.

"What would you expect?" countered Pat. "We've played Hamilton six times this season and we certainly should know their weaknesses by now."

That might have been a tip-off on what coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker has been aiming at in practices all week—exploit every possible Hamilton weakness.

Als will have to do that if they hope to make up those seven points in this second game of the total-point, two-game final. They lost the first game in Montreal last Saturday 17-10.

Offensively, Als will have to improve their blocking as quarterback Sam Etcheverry can shoot rifle passes at his receivers without finding himself buried under Tiger-Cats before he can lift his arm.

Defensively, if last Saturday's game can be taken as a criterion, Als will have to stop the Hamilton backfield from breaking loose for long gains. Gerry McDougall all but ruined Als with his ground excursions, one of them a 30-yard touchdown sprint.

Als will be in only fair condition in the backfield, with the loss of Joel Wells, who also missed last Saturday's game also because of two broken ribs. The ball - carrying burden will fall largely on Abbruzzi and Avatus Stone.

Als are under-dogs in the betting quotes in Montreal—the Tigers to win by 5½ points. The same figure was quoted for last Saturday's game, only the Als were favored then.

Trimble System 'Not So Hot' But Brought Honors to Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Ask Coach Jim Trimble what he looked for when he built this season's Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the answer would be: A team that could keep the ball.

He had half the job done with last year's team—a strong defence that could stop the other team and get the ball for Ticats.

The other half he built into this year's team—an offense featuring a strong running attack which can grind out yards and hold onto the ball.

This aggressive organization goes on display here Saturday when Ticats conclude their two-game total-point Big Four Football Union final against Montreal Alouettes. Ticats won last week's opener 17-10.

NO FAN ACCLAIM

The Trimble system hasn't brought acclaim from the fans but it did bring first place in the Big Four final standings for the first time in four years.

The fans have responded joyously to the victories but there have been mutterings of displeasure at the lackluster way some of them have been accomplished. Bernie Faloney when he starred with the 1954 Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos. That year he was outstanding as a ball-handler and often ran himself. This year he usually hands off to the first runner and runs little himself.

The fans heard of Eddie Macon's outside speed while he was with Calgary Stampeders and of Ralph Goldston's ability as a broken - field runner. But all they've seen is Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist and Gerry McDougall running up the centre.

RECKLESSNESS IS MISSING

Last year the fans saw Tony Curcillo as a better-than-average passer who mixed his plays in a delightfully reckless way. This year they've seen Curcillo as one of the league's best line-backers and more recently as a hard-running halfback from Gilchrist's spot—also up the middle.

Trimble admits he wanted a change in style. He told a quarterback Club meeting recently:

"After last season, when we played it wide open, I knew Montreal would again be the team to beat. To beat them I knew a team would have to have a strong defence and a good running attack capable of controlling the ball."

Trimble has built his club and it's doing what he wants. He's also sure of one thing: The fans would rather have it this way and the number one than the old way and anything else.

Forts' Coach Doesn't Expect 'Official' Trouble

HALIFAX (CP)—Coach Jack James, whose Fort William Redskins meet Shearwater Flyers for the Canadian intermediate football title here Saturday, says he doesn't anticipate any trouble with the refereeing. But he reserves comment until the game is played.

James arrived here by plane Thursday night with 12 Redskin players. Twenty-one more were scheduled to arrive later.

In an interview James said he talked to Brantford Tiger-Cats' coach Bob Garside, who was "quite displeased" with the handling of last Saturday's Brantford-Shearwater Eastern Canada final here. Shearwater downed the Ticats 12-7.

Garside said after the game that the officiating was the "most pitiful" he'd ever seen, and added that he will never bring another team here.

The Redskins' coach said: "We'll just have to wait and see."

James will put his team through a light drill today.

Backstrom Paces Baby Habs To 7-4 Win Over Cornwall

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Soo Greyhounds, a so-so club last season, are the hottest team in the Ontario Hockey Association - Northern OHA Senior A loop right now.

Greyhounds, who finished a poor third in the old NOHA last spring, are at the top of the new combined league, with 10 wins in their last 11 starts.

The 10th came Thursday night as Greyhounds waltzed to a 6-3 win at home over North Bay Trappers, last season's powerhouse but a bad fourth today.

In the OHA Senior A Eastern Division, Ottawa-Hull Canadiens swept to a 7-4 win over Cornwall Chevies in Cornwall while in the only other senior game, South Porcupine Porkies edged Timmins Flyers 5-3 in a Porcupine Mines League game at Timmins Memorial Gardens.

Greyhounds, who were playing without three of their regulars, got three goals from winger John Lumley, and singles from John Vena, Mike Ratchford, and John Bailey. Jerry Cabana, Ken Gribbons, and Gary Edwards accounted for North Bay's goals.

At Cornwall, starry centre Ralph Backstrom scored two goals for Canadiens and Gilles Tremblay, Claude Ruel, Bob Boucher, Rob Rousseau and Ron Ingram each scored one. Guy Henry has two for Chevies and Pete Payette and Doug Macpherson one each.

At Timmins, Boyd Prentice, Eddie Kulik, Roy MacKay, Bill Pirie and Frank Buller scored for the winners; Mike Narduzzi had two for Flyers and Denny Morello the third.

Tonight in the OHA - NOHA Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen are host to Sudbury Wolves and Chatham Maroons are at home to Windsor Bulldogs while in the Eastern Division, Belleville McFarlands play in Kingston against CKLC's.

MOOSE-SHOOTING CHARGE

NEWMARKET (CP) — Joseph Dales, former reeve of Newmarket, has been charged with shooting three moose out of season and with giving false information to investigating officers, it was reported Wednesday. The charges, laid in North Bay, followed investigations by conservation officers of the Ontario department of game and fisheries of the shooting a week ago of a bull moose and two calves between North Bay and Sudbury.

REDS' RUGGED PRACTICE AMAZES ONLOOKERS

Coach of the visiting Russian hockey team, Anatol Tarasov, briefs two of his players during a two-hour practice at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto. The Russians startled the contingent of NHL players, coaches and scouts who watched their warm-up session, by cheerfully undergoing rugged calisthenics. Even the goalie jumped high in the air and sped the length of the ice on one foot. After watching the smooth-skating, hard-shooting Muscovites, Staff Symthe of the cellar-dwelling Maple Leafs was heard to mutter: "We could use some of those fellows."

Petes Shade Marlies 4-3; Tied for Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ted Kennedy's first coaching venture is shaping up as a resounding success.

The former National Hockey League star this year took over Peterborough Petes, last season's soft touches in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, and has turned them into league-leaders.

Petes jumped into a tie for top spot with St. Catharines Teepees as they squeezed past the powerful Toronto Marlboros 4-3 in overtime before 2,629 Peterborough fans Thursday night.

At Hamilton the Cubs drew into a third-place tie with Marlboros by downing last year's champs, Guelph Biltmores, 5-4.

MONTAGUE THE HERO

Petes took a 2-1 first-period lead, held it through a scoreless second, then were outscored 2-1 in the third. George Montague was the overtime hero, getting the tie-breaker at 2:02.

Gary Darling, Jerry Brisson and Wayne Connolly fired the other Peterborough goals while Bob Nevin, Don Currie and Bill Kennedy scored for Marlboros.

The star for Hamilton was Gerry Sullivan who scored three goals, one in the second period and two in the third.

Brian Smith and Gary Luyden scored the others. Biltmores, who have lost their last five games by one goal, took a 2-1 first-period lead on goals by George Lutalo and Don Grosso. Mike Mahoney and Joe Ethier added third period scores after Hamilton had taken a 3-2 lead.

Toniest Teepees, who have three games in hand over Peterborough, play at Guelph while Marlboros are in Barrie against the Flyers.

HALIFAX (CP)—The first big storm of the fall season battered the Atlantic coast with gales and rain Wednesday.

Windsor Gets Mickey Roth

TORONTO (CP)—The services of high-scoring forward Mickey Roth were won Thursday by Windsor Bulldogs in a special draw at the Ontario Hockey Association offices.

Roth became the subject of an argument between Bulldogs and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, both in the OHA-NOHA Senior A league, when Whitby Dunlops traded him and Billy Flick to Kitchener for Jack McKenzie last week.

Flick and Roth were Dutchmen stars last season. Last fall they went to Whitby in a move to strengthen the team which will represent Canada in the world championships at Oslo in February.

In a special draft held Sept. 12, Hoth's services in the 1956-57 season were won by Windsor and when he left Whitby they contended he was their property, but Dutchmen insisted he was theirs for this season.

After consulting minutes of the Sept. 12 meeting, OHA officials decided Roth's status was ambiguous and held the new draw.

Spokesmen for Dutchmen said they may now try to arrange a cash settlement for McKenzie with Dunlops.

MUST WIN THIS ONE!

The Kingston CKLC's faced with one of those tough schedule grinds and defeated in three of their last four starts, won't be in any Damon-Pythias mood when they tangle with the McFarlands in Reddenville tonight.

The prospect ahead doesn't look too rosy for the Dick Allan-Bun Cook crew for after getting off on the wrong foot by a 6-3 score with the Pembroke Lumber Kings they face six games in eight nights, four of them on the road. And their record on the road is not much to write home about. They have won one and lost three in four starts on foreign ice.

So it looks as though desperation will ride on the sticks and skates of the CKLC's tonight. And if this year's edition of a Kingston senior hockey club is no different to those of former seasons there is no team in the loop they would like better to send home with their tails adroop than a squad wearing Belleville colors.

And by the same token with the same arch-rivalry between these squads still rampant in McFarland breasts, whether player or fan, manna from hockey heaven to the guys and dolls from the banks of the Moira is a win over Kingston, especially in the igloo of the foemen from east of here.

The Macs have to win tonight's tilt if they want to hang on to their perch atop the loop ladder. Whitby is hitting its stride and riding herd on our side, one point in arrears. As a matter of fact the standing to date reveals only a four-point spread between the first-place Macs and the fifth-place Cornwall Cherries. At the moment the Macs have 14 points, Whitby 13, Pembroke, who plays-hosted over Cornwall and Kingston into third place, has 11, Kingston 10 and the Cherries the same number.

And those Ottawa Canadiens can turn the standing into a topsy-turvy situation if they rack up a few wins and ties. They get three games for a start with two on home ice and will send them zooming up the ladder. They will be the guests of the Macs Saturday night and will entertain them in their beautiful new arena in Hull on Sunday.

Off on another track, one of the reasons the Macs are on top of the heap with seven wins and four defeats is their more or less equal distribution of power among the front-line shock troops.

A quick glance at the official records reveals that the front lines have scored 33 of the total 40 goals for the Macs to date. The individual points race graduates down easily from Ike Hildebrand's top spot with 13 points to Keith Montgomery's 13th place three points.

Equality of distribution is seen in the fact that four forwards have scored four goals, five have scored three and four have scored two. In the total points column Hildebrand leads with 13, followed by Bert Bradley with 10. Brown and Goyer have nine each, Marineau and Kowalchuk eight apiece. Menard and Benoit each have six. The same close graduation exists in the assist department.

The points race, if one can call it a race, is so close that almost any player with a quick surge of points can catapult to the top.

The defence corps has scored seven goals and are credited with ten assists. Gordie Bell who has whittled his goals-against average right smartly the last four games, is now second in the circuit with an average of 3.36 for eleven games. The Macs have had 37 goals scored against them.

And so for a tough weekend hockey wise. Kingston tonight, Ottawa here tomorrow and to Hull with the hockey come Sunday.

THE LAUGH OF THE WEEK

Monsieur Francois Orr, of the Cornwall Standard Freeholder, who apparently enjoys columnar jousting and doesn't care how he starts it, had this to say after the Macs flat-tired the Cherries the other night. Referring to that behind-the-back bodycheck Muir handed to Benoit, the ruffly moustache writes before putting his heir above his eyes: " . . . However, despite the fact it was a clean check about all we heard was 'Get Muir'. Several tried. Bob Paul tried to clip the raunchy winger and he ended up on his pants on the ice. (Note, Monsieur: Who got the penalty for smashing Paul into the boards?) Ike Hildebrand tried it and he limped off. Minnie Menard and Kowalchuk tried it and both ended up in the penalty box." Tsk, Tsk, such drollery.

Had Mr. Paul got near Muir after the deliberate charge into the boards, the Monsieur would have been lifting "That's all there is, there ain't no Muir."

Jerry Coleman Now Executive Of Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Coleman, after nine years as an infielder with New York Yankees, has retired as an active player and joined the organization as a front office man.

Yankee general manager George Weiss, who made the announcement Thursday, said no specific title has been given the 33-year-old player. He will work under Lee Macphail, director of player personnel, and Johnny Johnson, assistant farm director.

Coleman, a veteran of all nine of Casey Stengel's Yankee teams, expressed happiness over his new job.

Coleman, who led all the Yankees in the recent world series with a .364 batting average, said he already had decided to play with no team other than the Yankees.

Jerry's retirement leaves Bobby Richardson as the likely candidate for the regular second base job.

Bionda's injury cuts the Bruins' defence down to five men. Leo Boivin has been sidelined since last month.

Even the Toronto Smythes Admit Robert Is Above Par; 'Overshadowing Mahovlich'

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Young hockey players who never reach the peaks predicted for them by National Hockey League scouts are common, but Chicago Black Hawks have a youngster who has surpassed even the hopes of his most ardent supporter.

He is Bobby Hull, a husky blond 17-year-old who might be expected to be rocking and rolling in music and not the bone-rattling bodychecks of NHL defencemen.

Three years ago the Point Anne, Ont., product was spoited by a Black Hawk scout who enthusiastically predicted he would be in the NHL at 18. He's there now and he won't be 19 till Jan. 3.

YOUNGEST HAWK EVER

The 190-pound centre is the youngest player in Hawk history and probably one of the youngest to ever play in the NHL, rivalling the ages of some of the fuzzy-cheeked Jr. B boys who were brought up during the lean war years.

Tonight he will be trying to add to his three-goal, nine-assist record as the Hawks invade the Maple Leaf Gardens hosts to league - leading New York Rangers.

Hull's performance over the early part of the season, centring Ed Litzenberger and Murphy and taking the pivot position on power plays, makes him a hot candidate for the Calder Trophy as the league's outstanding rookie.

All his boosters aren't in the Chicago camp.

Stafford Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs, never an easy man with praise, is one of them.

OVERSHADOWS MAHOVLICH

"He's a lot of hockey player," Smythe says, and adds "he's also overshadowing our Frank Mahovlich, isn't he?"

Smythe has rueful memories of Hull. Last year Leafs' Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team, Toronto Marlboros, had Hull's squad, St. Catharines Teepees, seven to a game while without Hull. He returned to the team and Teepees knocked Marlboros out of the semi-finals.

Smythe figures Hull has a good shot at the Calder unless another prospect Marcel Paille, keeps sticking them out in the fashion to which Rangers' have become accustomed.

"Goalies get more' attention," Smythe says. Hawks probably don't care as long as Hull keeps knocking them in and setting them up in his present style.

Letter To The Sports Editor

On Thursday, November 7th, 1957, there appeared a so-called sports item, running down the Belleville Booster Club, and also the Belleville "Macs." In response to this sports item, we would say the best definition would be, "Cornwall is green with envy." For "not being on the ice at all," we would say both Minnie Menard with his 50 goals and Jean Payette with his 80 points, did a remarkable job. Also "He is on the ice a large part of the time." We think that should be left up to him and to no one else. After all, he does happen to be the coach.

We are sure if the Cornwall paper was interested only in the sports news and not more gossip, such hog-wash about our team never would have appeared. We personally don't think that the paper is the proper place for gossip and especially in the sports column.

As for the Belleville Booster Club becoming very strong, we are sure that the whole Belleville population, along with the Belleville Macs are sorry that we cane enough to support our team who has been shoddy. As for the Booster Club becoming so-o-o strong that we are telling the Mac management how to run things, we are sure that is a little far fetched. We think we know our job, (supporting our team), and like knows his job, (running the team).

As for the high priced players we think that concerns Belleville, and only Belleville, not Cornwall nor any other team in the same grouping.

In closing, we are sure Belleville and its hockey team can take care of themselves without the help of outside intruders. If such people are going to run down our team, we wish they would "sweep their own steps first." So go, Macs, "More, more, more."

Mickey Mantle Named MVP American League

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees was voted the American League's most valuable player of the 1957 season today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

It was the second consecutive MVP award for the star centre fielder but, unlike 1956 when he polled the maximum 336 points, Mantle barely beat runner-up Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox and Roy Sievers of Washington Senators, who finished third. Mantle had 233 points, Williams 209 and Sievers 205.

Nellie Fox of Chicago White Sox finished fourth with 132 points and Gil McDougald of Yankees was fifth with 165.

It was the fourth time in his brilliant career with the Red Sox that Williams finished second in the most valuable player balloting. The great slugger won the award in 1946 and 1949.

Others named in the voting this year were Nir Wertz, slugging Cleveland first baseman, Frank Malzone, Red Sox third baseman, Minnie Minoso, Chicago outfielder, Jim Bunning, Detroit pitcher, and Al Kaline, Detroit outfielder.

Mantle enjoyed a banner season although it did not measure up to his sensational power hitting of the previous year when he led in batting, runs batted in and home runs. His .365 batting average was the fourth highest average, although 12 point higher than his '56 mark, was not good enough for the championship. Neither were his 34 home runs and 94 runs batted in. Mantle missed much of the final three weeks of the season, however, because of injuries cost in shin splints.

Williams, at 39, captured his fifth batting title with a mark of .388, his highest since his .406 in 1941. He hammered 38 home runs although he, too, missed three weeks of the season.

Sievers, in his ninth year in the majors, finally came into his own as the 31-pound outfielder hit 42 home runs and drove in 114 runs for the title in both departments.

One Slug Costs You Ten In New Rule

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association has taken steps to end brawls among players during hockey games.

An OHA executive meeting Wednesday night passed a new regulation which will impose a $10 fine or a one-game suspension on any player joining in fisticuffs involving two other players.

The new regulation goes into effect Dec. 1 and will be in addition to any other penalties already in the book.

OHA business manager Bill Hanley said for any subsequent violation the player will be reported to the OHA president for his ruling.

Players' Association Future May Hinge on Toronto Meet

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The future of the National Hockey League Players Association may well rest in the hands of its current Toronto hearing.

Members of Toronto Maple Leafs have applied to the Ontario labor relations board to have the association certified as bargaining agent. The hearing started Thursday and continues Saturday before chairman Jacob Finkelman and a four-man board.

The association was formed last February, formally sought recognition from the owners June 14 when a list of proposals was sent to the teams.

When the owners replied Sept. 23 that they did not study the proposals because they could not deal with the teams collectively, the association filed a $3,000,000 anti-trust law suit in the United States.

TO FORCE RECOGNITION

It was a move, said association counsel Milton N. Mound of New York, aimed at forcing recognition by the owners.

Similarly, applications for certification—already filed here and to be submitted soon in Quebec and in the United States—are further steps toward recognition, Mound said.

The key to success in other league centres — New York (Rangers), Montreal (Canadiens) Boston (Bruins), Chicago (Black Hawks) and Detroit (Red Wings) may be what happens in Toronto.

It is here, Mound says, that the centre of operations lies.

Maple Leaf Gardens Limited is opposing the application for certification.

WINGS PULL OUT

Detroit players recently dissociated themselves from the association and said they had had prior knowledge of the association's law suit. They also said they had information about the association generally.

Mound said the association "quite definitely has made specific proposals"—the main ones concerning the NHL's pension plan, now in operation 10 years, control over veteran players and minimum salary.

Pension funds come from $900 a year contributed by each player, two-thirds of the proceeds from the annual all-star game and 25 cents from each Stanley Cup playoff ticket.

ASK MORE CONTRIBUTIONS

The association wants to have the base of contributions broadened. It suggests either contributions from the owners or a share in the revenue from television rights.

The association also asked for more representation on the plan's board of governors. The present five-man board is chosen by the owners and includes two players.

Most important, Mound said, is to have an analysis of the pension plan.

The association proposes that players after a certain number of years in the league should be free agents—able to make a deal for themselves—if waived out of the league.

STILL TEAM'S PROPERTY

Under present conditions, a player waived out remains the property of his team and can be assigned to a minor league team.

The association proposes a minimum wage of $7,000—$100 a game. The owners say the minimum now is $6,500.

Said Mound:

"Who guarantees it? It a team doesn't pay that much, who's going to do anything about it?"

Other proposals include contract arbitration, the right to make personal appearances and endorse products and several "playing conditions."

Ted Workman Stamped Rebel By Suggestion As Join WIFU

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Sports observers have been saying for years that Canadian pro football needs a league. One lacked it to a million-dollar mansion operating with gaslight.

Those observations have been borne out time and again in recent years although it must be pointed out that they haven't been aimed at the players. There have been some rollicking characters in uniform but club and league executives, particularly in the Big Four union, have shown a remarkable ability to muff situations.

Thus, it wasn't too surprising the other day when Ted Workman made flattering passes at the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Workman, co-owner and vice - president of Montreal Alouettes, is said the Als are right bolt the Big Four and explore the possibility of joining the six-team WIFU.

COMING AT BIG FOUR

That immediately stamped Workman a rebel. But you must consider that he's a level-headed fellow and the Als have possibly the most effectively run club in the country. The Als's front office has functioned in big league style, a model for other Big Four clubs and some in the WIFU.

Just about every football observer got that Workman was kidding about bidding adieu to the Big Four and joining the West in the newly-fledged schedule. We have a hunch he was because western clubs, particularly Regina and Calgary, have a tough time fighting off the ballit every year as it is.

His reason for broaching such a thought: "It's a question of league administration, he said. "The Big Four sorely needs a commissioner given the power to do a necessary job."

That, probably, is the clue to Workman's outburst. He wants the Big Four to operate as any big league should. As for the commissioner's power, it's our bet that the Als didn't go along with it when it was ruled that Judge Allan Fraser of Ottawa should be allowed to fine players and paid club officials only, when he was appointed a couple of years ago.

TIMES CHANGE

Workman probably wants to bring this whole question of Big Four administration into the open. He, along with President Leo Dandurand of the Als, should know that the Als didn't get Orlando Cecile out of nowhere. It wasn't too long ago that easterners looked upon their western cousins as poor relatives—in a football sense, that is.

Two years after the westerners came East in vain bids to Dandurand's big prize, they tolerated them until 1935 when Winnipeg upset Hamilton Tigers. Now, with three straight titles in their credit, the westerners are the top dogs in senior football.

Their house is in order, too—something the East can't boast about.

Ivy Clings to Victory Wall Says Eskys Can Whip Pegs

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Head coach Frank Ivy says his Edmonton Eskimos can defeat Winnipeg Blue Bombers Saturday night in the deciding game of the Western Year as it is Inter-Provincial Football Union final.

"If," he added Thursday night, "we can hold them to four points.

"Of course, they can just as easily beat us if they can hold us to five points.

That's about as far as Ivy will go at any time in predicting the football game, especially when it's the third game of the best-of-three series in which his club has lost 19-7 and won 5-4.

"Grant keeps crying about injuries," Ivy said, referring to Bomber head coach Harry (Bud) Grant. "Well, we've got twice as many and they're twice as bad and we have held them all along.

NOT HURT BAD

"They're not hurtin' as much as they make the statement after his club had worked out for 70 minutes in the all - weather Stadium, where the deciding game of the final will be played Saturday at 8:30 p.m. MST.

His medical staff reported defensive end Frank Anderson and fullback Mike Lashuk still out with knee- and ankle injuries.

Halfback-quarter Jackie Parker and tackle Reed Henderson were unable to run in the workout. They stood around on sore legs and watched their teammates work.

Halfback Rollie Miles was still nursing knee troubles. Linebacker Ted Tully has a sore back; fullback Normie Kwong, a bruised wrist; and most of the other assorted bruises and ailments.

HOLD LIGHT DRILL

Grant rested Bombers Thursday morning for sessions with the Whirlpool baths, the rubbing tables and the medics. In the afternoon, the players ran through exercises and light running for 35 minutes.

Fullback Charlie Shepard, who reinjured his hip Wednesday night, and halfback Pete Manigun, who suffered a sprained ankle, were not running in the workout.

Grant said Shepard and Manigun will be the most questionable, but every player on the club was suffering from some injuries, but every player on the club was also in good shape and the only bad news was that import guard Herb Gray will not play Edmonton Friday night to take part in the Saturday game. He missed Wednesday's game to visit his father's funeral in Texas.

HAS SORE SHOULDER

Said Frank Gilliam, with a shoulder injury, was the only other Bomber not expected to stand up in the exercising period. He was running well, however.

Bombers remain the underdogs in betting, with bookers giving Winnipeg an 14-point favorite Edmonton as 10-point favorites. If you bet Edmonton, you would give 14 points. If you bet slightly niftier weather than that Wednesday when the temperature was 20 degrees. No snow is in prospect between now and the game and the field may throw a little, improving the footing.

IN NON-TITLE BOUT

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore has agreed to meet Luis Ignacio, the Brazilian 175-pound titleholder, in a non-title 10-round bout here Dec. 13. Promoters here said Moore will receive a $5,000 guarantee.

VETERAN GOALIE

Long John Henderson, goalie for the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops, is only 24 years old but already a veteran playoff performer. The six-foot-one netminder has also tended goal for Pittsburgh, Sportsfield, Syracuse and Hershey in the American Hockey League and with Boston in the National Hockey League. He will be with Whitby Dunlops at the International hockey championship in Oslo next year. He may not play tonight against Russia because of an injured knee.

SUSPEND TRAINER

TORONTO (CP) — Trainer William Thurner, a leading trainer in the race meeting at New Woodbine track, was suspended Thursday by the stewards of the Ontario Jockey Club. The meet ended Thursday.

Officials said he had a hypodermic needle and a syringe in his possession. The case was referred to the Ontario Racing Commission for further investigation.

SET WAGERING MARK

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's longest racing season closed Thursday on a record note.

Pari-mutuel wagering at Fort Erie and Toronto tracks of the Ontario Jockey Club totalled $80,412,999 in 226 days of running and harness racing. The previous high was $73,958,972, a year ago in 222 days.

Double Steak-Eating Russ May Make Meal of Dunlops

TORONTO (CP) — The members of the visiting Russian hockey team, who are reportedly eating two large steaks each at one sitting, will be a meal for Whitby Dunlops tonight.

Both hockey bigwigs in Chicago, Black Hawks' scout Bob Wilson, Sr., and Tommy Ivan, and Ken Reardon, vice-president of Montreal Canadiens, and Bobby Bauer, former Boston Bruins great, among others, have expressed surprise and admiration for the hockey excellence displayed by the Moscow team in their workouts.

Bauer and Reardon watched Thursday's hour-long drill at Maple Leaf Gardens and Bauer praised the Russian shooting. Reardon was astonished by their passing.

CHOREOGRAPHIC GOALIES

The acrobatics of the two Russian goalies have won as much praise as their skating! It has been said all Russian hockey players must pass speed skating tests before they are eligible for serious hockey.

The Chicago scout's contribution to the praise is to point out the 15-year-old goalie star for the Russians, Benaimin Alexandrov, on the National Hockey League negotiation list.

Though Alexandrov is rated a fine player, he has a much chance of entering the NHL as he has of skating from Moscow to Montreal. The Russian coach say there is no chance of the Chicago organization signing him for his Russian team.

If th chokey pundits are right the Russian team should outskate, outshoot, and outpass Dunlops, Canada's entry in the world hockey championships at Oslo later this winter.

SOME RESERVATIONS

But there are some reservations. Nobody has seen the Russians do any bodychecking.

Under international amateur hockey rules, players may bodycheck in their own half of the ice and, though the Russians can be expected to have practised body contact, it isn't expected that they have mastered Canadian players develop at an early age.

Dunlops' bodychecking may do something to put off the Russian passing game.

The Moscow team is said to be a collection of stars, selected shortly before their series-game excursion to Canada, who have seldom played together. What ever advantage this may be to Whitby may be wiped out by the Canadian team's loss of their regular goaltender.

HENDERSON MAY BE OUT

Dunlop officials announced they have arranged for the services of Carl Weitzel, with Hamilton Red Wings' Intermediate hockey association Junior A series to replace John Henderson, injured in exhibition play.

Officials said there is still a "faint possibility" Henderson, former netminder with the NHL Boston Bruins, may play with his injured knee frozen. It was struck by a puck shot by defenceman Bob Turner.

The game begins at 8:30 p.m. EST before a sellout crowd of 3,500 fans and will be seen by television viewers between Montreal and Winnipeg starting at 9:30.

Bob Hope Returns to TV After Rift With Sponsors

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope returns to NBC-TV Sunday (7 p.m. EST) after a delay caused by the sensitive natures of sponsors.

Persons in the industry say that Taffaire Hope scarcely caused the lifting of a brow; they claim that they struggle with bigger problems every day.

There never was any question about Hope returning. The question was when.

The difficulties began last month when Hope appeared on the initial ABC-TV regular program of his good friend Frank Sinatra. Hope's NBC sponsor was a watch company. One of Sinatra's ABC sponsors was another watch company.

LEFT NBC IN LURCH

Immediately after the Sinatra show Hope's sponsor cancelled its TV contract with him because it figured he'd been working for a competitive watch company. This left NBC-TV holding a $1,000,000 bag—temporarily.

Several sponsors, aware of Hope's high audience ratings, were interested — especially an auto manufacturer who was willing to pick up the contract for his filmed show scheduled on NBC-TV Nov. 7.

Then somebody realized that the show would fall to pieces by tween programs sponsored by two other auto manufacturers—a violation of a network ruling that competing sponsors cannot follow one another.

So the Nov. 7 show was cancelled and the previously preempted programs — Dragnet and The People's Choice—were reinstated in the time spot. The nearest time that could be found in which to place the Hope show was next Sunday. To make this slot available the times of Ted Mack's Amateur Hour and Sally were pre-empted. Every TV contract contains the provision that a show can be pre-empted twice a year on adequate notice.

The cast of Hope's show Sunday includes Sheree North, Rhonda Fleming, Francis X. Buhman and Danny Thomas. During the Christmas season, by the way, Hope will tour military installations in the Pacific making the film for his January television program.

Safety Parley Tries to Stop Blood-Letting on Highways

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — As head of the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, W. Arch Bryce is trying to stop "the blood-letting on the highways."

The one - time Toronto high school teacher and university professor said in an interview: "Traffic accidents in the last three years killed 8,600 persons in Canada. This works out to about nine persons a day. Let's just kill six persons a day in Canada."

The safety conference, backed by federal and provincial governments and working with provincial associations in the safety field, is out to cut the accident rate through education and safety programs on a national scale.

The conference has been operating a permanent co-ordinating headquarters in Ottawa for little more than a year, but Mr. Bryce has been in the field most of his life. He came here as general manager of the conference from the University of Toronto, where he was director of the division of public safety for 10 years.

BLAMES APATHY

Mr. Bryce said that 3,205 persons died in traffic accidents last year, and 1,014 during the three-month period of June, July and August this year.

The big problem, said Mr. Bryce, is that "the average man on the street couldn't care less (about accidents) as long as he doesn't get involved in one.

"And even if you are generous and blame 10 per cent of the cause of accidents on vehicle defects and five per cent on road and weather conditions—you still have 85 per cent of accidents caused by human error of pedestrians or drivers.

"Most accidents happen when a motorist does something he knows is wrong but thinks he can get away with."

Mr. Bryce said 99 times of 100, people involved in accidents will ray afterwards they could have avoided them.

"Most of us know how to avoid accidents—we just don't try hard enough."

LONG-TERM ANSWER

Mr. Bryce said education is a long-term answer but the quickest solution is law enforcement to make motorists and pedestrians behave."

He listed these as the four main causes of accidents: improper attitude; lack of knowledge and skill; physical inabilities; improper physical environment, such as roads and vehicles.

People realize, said Mr. Bryce, that it takes hundreds of hours to learn how to play a piano or play golf but nearly everybody thinks he can drive a car like an expert in very little time.

"No one of us knows how to drive or walk as well as he should drive or walk, and until we do we will have accidents."

Ethel Barrymore Wanted To Be Pianist, Not Actress

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I never really wanted to be an actress. I always hoped to be a pianist. But I had to eat, and acting seemed like the natural thing to do, since the family was already in it."

This was Ethel Barrymore's reflection on her career on the eve of a birthday her 66 years as queen of the theatre. Friday night, NBC will televise a "command performance" in her honor. Saluting her will be Tallulah Bankhead, Joseph Cotten, Hoagy Carmichael, daughter Ethel Barrymore Colt, plus baseball great Leo Durocher, Fred Haney, Casey Stengel and Roy Campanella.

This week Miss Barrymore gave one of her rare interviews in the Beverly Hills apartment where she lives with her son, Sammy Colt. At 78, she doesn't get around as much as she used to. But as she spoke, she demonstrated she still has the Barrymore fire and the ability to impale an interviewer on his own questions.

What does she think about all this fuss over her on TV?

"Why, I think it's very complimentary," she snapped. "Why wouldn't I think it's splendid? What a strange question!"

The bedroom was dominated by the great eye of a TV set and I asked if she watched it much.

"Yes, I watch it," she replied. "I have seen some of my old pictures lately. It's the first time I've seen myself on the screen."

Her classic reply as to why she never saw her pictures but always been: "I never saw myself on the stage."

So what does she think of Ethel Barrymore the actress now that she has seen herself?

"I wasn't too greatly upset," she said.

Does she agree with some observers that America is undergoing a revolution in entertainment and recreation patterns?

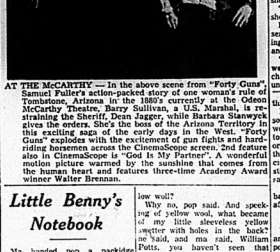
"Perhaps so," she said. "But we are undergoing every great changes that too many people are unaware of. It is frightening."

thing, she said.

I'm delighted to hear you say so, my dear, because now it would be very inconsistent of you to inform me that I have a memory like a sivy when I tell you that owing to a combination of circumstances your yellow wool is still in my overcoat pocket, pop said.

Meening he forgot to take it back to the Bon Ton Knit Shop after all.

MORE PAY FOR POLICE



TORONTO (CP)—Salary raises announced Thursday for Toronto politan Toronto police constables by an arbitration board will increase the salaries of first-class constables by $200 to $4,400 a year. Salaries of other members of the police department will go up by $78 per cent.

AT THE PARK—Burt Lancaster stars in "The Crimson Pirate" Warner Bros. swashbuckling adventure in color by Technicolor. On the same program with "The Crimson Pirate" will be "The Weapon", starring Fess Parker and Hillary Brooke, showing Friday and Saturday at the Park Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Cat-and-Mouse Game. John Wayne, as an American jet ace, and Janet Leigh, as a Soviet girl pilot, try to deceive each other in Howard Hughes' "Jet Pilot", Big Technicolor drama which has been years in the making, also stars U.S. Air Force. The newly film is hailed as the greatest air epic since "Hell's Angels", and is now playing at the Belle Theatre.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma handed pop a packidge while he was eating breakfast, saying, There are 4 skanes of yellow wool in here, William.

Thank you, dear, but I would not know what to do with it, pop said, and ma said, Then I will tell you, silly. I want you to leave it at the Bon Ton Knit Shop and get credit for it. It's the wrong shade, she said.

Suppose they ask me what's wrong about it? pop said, and ma said, They wont. Now what are you going to do to remember? she said.

That's easy, I'll simply fail to forget, pop said, and after dinner ma said, William, I hope the Knit Shop didn't make a fuss about giving credit for that yellow wool?

Why no, pop said. And speaking of yellow wool, what became of my light blue sleeveless yellow sweater with holes in the back? he said, and ma said, William Potts, you haven't seen that sweater for 3 years.

Why haven't I, where is it? pop said, and ma said, It's in the Never Never Land of thrown out rubbige for the sakes. My goodness you never forget anything.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Author of the new "Astrology and You")

"The Stars Impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Your mind is filled with so many inspirational thoughts this A. M. that you scarcely know which to follow first. Choose those that will bring the greatest success quickly and proceed with enthusiasm.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — There is one very great way to take best steps toward success: Seek advice of real experts, most ethical financiers, and follow. Quit lolling around. Spirit and action are much more fun.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — By breaking down and asking questions of your good associates, you gain much information that will prove invaluable, that had never occurred to you. Put in motion immediately and cash in as you should.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — A very fine day for diligent labor that will set you all those things you want and can have by intelligent application, what you most love to do vacationwise. Let other persons see how well you can keep order, too.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You are under very fine influences to impress others with your varied special aptitudes and really marvelous gifts; be appreciated to the full for a change. P.M. is just wonderful for the love of your life.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — The day is here when you can begin an uptrend in all affairs, beginning at home, but know the goals and ideals exactly. Be sure you know you can do a thing before you attempt it. Then let neither hell nog high water stop you.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Here is a day when for once you have your own way with all your contacts, even the upper hand with beloved mate. Take full advantage and get signatures on the dotted line before that benignant beam changes.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Begin today to think and operate for greater possibilities instead of considering how to pinch the pennies harder. It is the day that could change your whole life to one where gracious living will free your soul.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be tailormade day for Sagittarius! Nothing to do but dress with perfect elegance, be with those fine artistic people who inspire, and remain long into the night to inspire and redeem an suitors.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Here is a fine day in which you can toss aside all those petty little everyday tasks and get your hands on something really big and worthwhile, a chance to express your repressed self wonderfully. Build on what you now have.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It may be that the fundamental, straightforward ideas one pounded today by true and public friends may at first hurt your sensitive soul, but you are wise enough to know they are right, so put in motion right away.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Ah! Here is the day to board the ship of action in his den and get that extra money in pay envelope you deserve, or step into now vacant position, or get that political job you want. Be alert, tactful, altruistic.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today is the kind who will be rarely gifted to serve in foreign lands, understand the culture of other races, the love of far-off cousins, and do his or her best work among these, but (alas!) away from home. So be prepared to give the finest education in foreign tongues, prepare your gifted child for the kind of professions that will help bring about a better world order.

DREAMING OF AN UNDERWATER CHRISTMAS

Desire for an unusual vacation prompted members of the Underwater Research group of Toronto to plan an exciting 14-day Christmas holiday probing the underground lakes and rivers of Yucatan, Central America. Led by Peter Robinson, left, Murray Yokes and Ken Reynolds, the 12 skin divers hope to discover more about the mysterious Mayan civilization in Yucatan. Northern Yucatan is riddled with caves and waterways, as no rivers run on the surface in that limestone formations. The group hopes to find ancient stonework, steps and a reputed under-water house.

Eight Die In B.C. Landslide As Nature Rampages

Prince Rupert Cut Off From Outside World

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) A 300-foot landslide swept three homes into a creek on the edge of this northern British Columbia coastal city Friday.

Reports from several sources correlated in Vancouver indicated eight persons, including two children, were killed.

The slide, which followed 24 hours of heavy rainfall and stormy weather, tore a 1,000-foot-long swath out of Mount Hays and buried the homes in the rain-swollen creek beneath hundreds of tons of mud, rock and trees.

NO COMMUNICATIONS

Telephone, Telegraph road and rail communications from this city of 10,000 to the outside world were cut off.

(This report from Dick Ayres, managing editor of the Prince Rupert Daily News, was broadcast by the Digby Island radio station a few miles from Prince Rupert.)

The slide occurred after 3.9 inches of rain accompanied by 60-mile-an-hour winds struck Prince Rupert.

An unidentified 18-month-old girl was snatched from the creek by rescuers and now is in hospital in fair condition, suffering from abrasions.

CHILD DEAD IN MUD

Another little girl, also unidentified, died dead when her crushed body was dug out of the mud.

The buried houses were reported to belong to Mr. and Mrs. John Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perry and George Henderson. Other reports said the victims were believed to have included these five, a Mr. Vandall and two children.

When darkness fell Coroner George Dawes visited the scene and said it was too risky for rescue work to be continued before dawn. It would result in another landslide. He said anyone under the slide could be presumed dead.

First Seaway Lock Passes Initial Test

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP) — First finished lock in the St. Lawrence seaway — a $16,000,000 waterfilled concrete canyon near here — was tested Friday.

"Everything went like clockwork," reported Transport Minister Hees after he pressed a button to set in motion the complicated lock mechanism.

A squat river buoy tender, the 160 - foot Greenville, hooted her horn and passed into the lock chamber to inaugurate the first navigation structure to be completed in the Canadian - United States waterway.

Six other locks in the 135-mile stretch of river between here and Montreal are to be completed early in 1959 so the Queen is to officially open the seaway.

Seaway Authority President Charles Gavsie told reporters at Friday's ceremonies that the seaway as a whole is 70-per-cent complete.

ON SCHEDULE

"We are on schedule and expect to be ready for the opening of navigation in 1959," he said. "It is possible there will be some dredging to do then. However, it will not interfere with navigation."

The long Iroquois lock, started in early 1955, was finished and tested on schedule. It is the most westerly of the seaway's seven locks—two of which are being built in U.S. territory of the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall.

With concrete approach walls at each end, the lock structure is longer than a city block. The lock chamber itself is only 758 feet long, 80 feet wide, with 30 feet depth over the sills.

It will accommodate ocean ships with a draught of 27 feet, almost twice as deep as vessels using the old 14-foot Canadian canal system. The seven - lock seaway will replace this system, a slow-moving waterway with 15 locks.

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home—especially the original estimated cost by at least 50 per cent.

In Southern Ontario early wind and partly cloudy weather, with some showers tonight. Is expected from this storm. Behind the storm, colder weather will return to Northern Ontario today and will likely reach Southern Ontario Sunday afternoon.

Ford Lays Off 2,400 Workers At Two Plants

TORONTO (CP) — The Ford Motor Company of Canada announced Friday it will lay off 2,400 men at its Oakville plant Dec. 2 and indefinitely more than 1,000 at its Windsor plant the same week.

Theodore Emmert, executive vice-president, said the layoffs, caused by the Canadian economy, will affect about 17 per cent of the company's 14,300 employees.

Mr. Emmert said the company could not predict how long the layoffs would last, but "will be no longer than we can help."

The Ford firm manufactures 34.5 per cent of the Canadian market for passenger cars. Nevertheless, it is manufacture last month, but even though this was higher than in October, 1956, the total sales were lower.

Russia May Try to Shoot Rocket Around Moon Before Next Satellite

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia may try to shoot a rocket around the moon before it launches another Sputnik, a survey of Soviet scientific developments indicates.

Available evidence suggests that while a Soviet moon rocket is still in the formative stage, Russian scientists intend to make the attempt before the end of the year. The end of the International Geophysical Year in December. Top Communists are being made for a rocket flight to the moon on the 40th anniversary of the October Revolution, Prof. Anatoli Blagonravov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

He adds: "We are absolutely confident the program will be carried out if we don't want to be late."

Russia's next goal in the Geophysical Year work, say some observers, is almost certainly the safe return of a man-made object from outer space—bringing nearer the era of human space travel.

About 70 Soviet space rockets are reported in preparation in Russia, the survey indicates.

Available evidence suggests that the next Soviet moon rocket launching rocket and possibly Sputnik 3 should be visible over most of North America next week on successive passes in the evening twilight.

The following week the rocket should be visible for a few days in the morning before sunrise.

The passes all will be from the northwest to the southeast.

GOVT. TREASURY RUNNING AHEAD OF EXPENDITURES

$25,700,000 Budget Surplus in October

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal treasury is running ahead of its expenditures, but at a slower pace than last year.

The finance department's monthly statement Friday showed a continuing decline in the budgetary surplus as it slipped to $25,700,000 in October from $68,200,000 a years earlier, $57,200,000 from $341,100,000 in the seven months, April-October.

Despite a rise in revenues from personal income tax in October total revenue dropped to $467,900,000 from $437,000,000. Expenditures in the month were $407,200,000 compared to $368,800,000.

In the seven months since the start of the fiscal year last April 1, revenue advanced to $2,909,000,000 compared to $2,809,000,000 but the gain was more than offset by a boost in spending to $2,683,800,000 against $2,468,700,000. The rise in expenditures came despite a drop of $19,500,000 in defence spending.

FLUFFY OWL

Unusual find at this time of year is this four-week-old barn owl, taken from a nest on Lulu Island near Vancouver. The fluffy bird has become tame enough to eat from the hand of eight-year-old Robin Best, son of Stanley Park Zoo curator Alan Best. (CP Photo).

Supply of Lake Trout Eggs Shows Steady Decline

TORONTO (CP)—A provincial government fisheries official said Friday the supply of lake trout eggs in Lake Superior continued a steady decline this year.

W. J. Harkness, chief of the wildlife division of the Ontario department of lands and forests, said the decrease is due to further inroads by killer lamprey.

Lampreys are eel-like parasites that have already virtually wiped out the trout populations in Lakes Michigan and Huron.

Mr. Harkness said fishermen have been unable to turn up any eggs at all in the eastern part of Lake Superior. A few are expected from along the north shore.

SUPPLY FROM NORTH

The provincial fish hatchery at Port Arthur will continue to operate with the few eggs from Lake Superior along with an additional supply from more northerly lakes.

A second hatchery in Wiarton, 13 miles northwest of Owen Sound on Georgian Bay, will get its supply from Lake Simcoe.

The shortage of lake - trout eggs in Lake Superior has forced the department to close two trout hatcheries in the last five years. They are at Sault Ste. Marie and Southampton, on Lake Huron, and one on Lake Huron.

Dr. Harkness said the department, which is waging a full-scale war against the lamprey, may even build a new supply of trout eggs from Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories, to the finest trout lake in North America," he said.

DIES AFTER FALL

OSHAWA (CP)—Leon Robson, 4, died of a broken neck after falling through the roof of a greenhouse Friday. The youngster, who was playing at the time of the accident, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Verdun Robson.

Not Dictate To Provinces At Conference

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Finance Minister Donald Fleming says the federal government must make no attempt to dictate to the provinces at the federal-provincial fiscal conference here Monday and Tuesday.

He told the London Chamber of Commerce Friday night that the two-day meeting will give the federal and provincial governments an opportunity to discuss inter-governmental problems and seek solution in a true Canadian spirit.

Mr. Fleming reiterated a statement made earlier in the day in Toronto that there is no emergency in Canada's unemployment situation.

"While we have some unemployment and the government will do everything with it, there is no emergency," he said.

It was no time for gloom. It was a time for sober optimism and for constructive measures to meet winter unemployment, which, he said, is the largest in three years.

The number of persons working in Canada, however, also was at a record 5,800,000, up 123,000 over the corresponding date last year.

Mission Not to Offer Tariff Concessions for Orders

LONDON (CP) — Canada's trade mission may place "substantial orders" for British goods but it has not been done through any special Canadian tariff concessions for the United Kingdom.

Trade Minister Gordon Churchill of Canada Friday told a press conference of some 50 United Kingdom reporters he may know in three weeks just how many orders are placed.

But when asked would Canada would provide special tariff concessions to encourage deals, he emphasized that this was not the mission's purpose. Tariffs were a matter of government policy. The 50-man mission would have to deal through "normal commercial channels."

The mission, made up mostly of leading Canadian industrialists, was warmly greeted by the British government. But some reporters expressed skepticism and suspicion of the mission's job.

One report questioned whether the mission was not in fact in Britain to "bury" the controversial Anglo-Canadian free trade proposal made by the British government last month.

Another asked how the Canadian government reconciled its expressed aim to buy more from Britain when current Canadian moves which might result in discrimination against British goods.

Still another asked whether in fact the mission was mainly interested, not in buying, but in selling Canadian surpluses—such as wheat—to Britain.

Churchill, facing the questioners calmly, denied that the mission had any intention other than to increase sources of supply in Britain, to buy more from Britain by diverting imports from the United States.

Asked if this would not lead to retaliations, the minister said he doubted this "very much." Canada annually imported about $4,000,000,000 worth of American goods. A diversion of 15 per cent of those imports—the figure suggested by Prime Minister Diefenbaker—would not "seriously inconvenience" the Americans.

Canada had a record deficit of some $1,500,000,000 in American trade. If the U.S. was interested in preserving the Canadian market, the Canadian government would be fain as willing to talk "business" with that country as with Britain. The U.S. would have to buy more from Canada.

When Britain proposed the free trade venture, the Canadian government was not asked to make any "hasty decision." It was not something to aim at, though there were differences of opinion on it in Canada just as there was in Britain.

A reporter observed that a Canadian government statement indicated that the mission is not expected to place many orders immediately, but Churchill argued that it was too early to say.

Four Missing Men May Be on Overdue Plane

TRENTON, Ont. (CP)—RCAF officials said today they are afraid four men, a pilot and three hunters, may be aboard a private aircraft missing on a flight between Lake Nipigon in the Caribou district north of Ottawa.

The plane pilot G. Deshaies of Montreal's suburban Rosemount have not been heard from since they left Lake Seyer to pick up three hunters on Lake Bubble, 100 miles northeast of Ottawa.

The RCAF spokesman said today a search plane has sighted the hunting camp on Lake Seyer where the men were supposed to have been and there were no signs that they had been there for some time. He said it now appears likely the plane became lost after it picked up the three hunters who have not been named.

Deshaies took off to ferry the hunters Thursday afternoon. The RCAF said his plane carried only had a battery radio. The hunters were reported without food.

There was a possibility the plane may have come down near Lake Blais also in that vicinity where an RCAF search plane spotted signs of the early today in a camp along the lake.

The spokesman said the missing aircraft is owned by G. Deshaies of Rosemount.

FOREIGN POLICY AND EMPLOYMENT TO BE DEBATED

Estimates Unchanged For All Departments

OTTAWA (CP) — External affairs and employment will occupy Commons attention next week.

As the House Friday wound up a week devoted largely to consideration of parts of the government's $5,000,000,000 spending plans, Works Minister Howard Green, government House leader, announced that those topics will be on the agenda.

The external affairs debate on Tuesday likely will centre mainly on the Canadian relationship of NATO in Paris and the joint United States - Canada Air Defence Command.

The NATO meeting it is to attend Monday of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other heads of the 15 member-countries as they seek to bring about a greater degree of co-operation, especially in the scientific field.

The one-day external affairs debate is also expected to produce discussion about establishment of the joint Air Defence Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., under command of an American general.

DEBATE EMPLOYMENT

An opportunity to discuss the employment situation will come next Wednesday when Labor Minister Starr said the government then will present legislation to lengthen the period for which seasonal unemployment insurance benefits may be paid. He said the new legislation could be carried through all its stages to final approval in one day.

The government is reported aiming to increase benefits in the 8-week period to 24 weeks. The period now runs from Jan. 1 to April 1. It may be extended four weeks at either end.

Mr. Diefenbaker said on the $26,000,000 estimates of the mines department, opposition parties would not oppose, as the government is to produce examples of the waste and extravagance its members charged existed under the former Liberal administration.

Mines Minister Paul Comtois said there would be no change in the estimates brought from Parliament by his department. Thursday, State Secretary Ellen Fairclough said there was no statement as her department's $3,600,000 estimates would be presented.

Transport Minister George Hees also indicated there would be no change in the $162,000,000 estimates for his department.

George Hamer (Liberal—St. Antoine-Westmount) said the Progressive Conservatives made "glowing" in the election campaign of alleged Liberal waste and extravagance but now they couldn't find any.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said despite the Conservatives' talk of waste and extravagance the estimates of mine and state secretary's departments were unchanged from those proposed by the Liberals.

U.S. Scientist Claims Man's Breakthrough to Outer Space

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Man's first breakthrough into outer space could be achieved by a 30-year-old civilian scientist of the United States Air Force.

Physicist Maurice Dubin said two fragments of aluminum could be rocketed against the pull of the earth's gravity. They now may be hitting other planets, or be drawn towards a flaming death in the sun, he said.

The two fragments — meteors in reverse—were exploded above Bedford, Mass., research base. This is what Dubin said an Aerobee rocket had been used to hurl them at a speed of 5,000 miles an hour at 50 miles.

The explosives, known as "shaped charges," funnelled the blast so that aluminum fragments shot out at a velocity of 40,000 miles an hour or about 11 miles a second. This is well above the seven - mile-a-second velocity needed to escape the earth's pull.

Dubin is on the staff of the air force Cambridge research centre at suburban Boston. He said announcement of the breakthrough had been delayed until the results of two rocket firings of eras had been analyzed. These showed conclusively that at least two fragments of unknown size but probably less than an ounce may be hitting other planets, or space after the mid-air explosions.

The three shaped charges were mounted in the nose of the rocket. Dubin said each had been device separated the nose and its explosives from the main rocket at an altitude of 35 miles.

Since the tip had no fins it lost directional stability and tumbled as it hurtled upwards to the 54-mile point where the charges exploded.

Travelling at an average speed of 20,000 miles an hour the fragments could have shot over 26,000,000 miles since Oct. 16, or something less than one-third the 93,000,000 miles to the sun.

National Hospital Insurance Plan Near Realization

Some of Hurdles May Be Overcome at Ottawa

By ROBERT PHILLIPS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A national hospital insurance plan, political issue in parts of Canada for nearly 40 years, finally appears near realization despite a number of obstacles yet to be surmounted.

Some of the hurdles may be overcome in Ottawa Nov. 25-26 when the provinces meet the federal government at the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

Legislation for the national plan was approved by the House of Commons last April 10, before the general election, setting up a scheme to be financed on a 50-50 basis with the provinces. The House voted 165-0.

NO SPECIFIC DATE

There was at the time, however, no date mentioned when it might begin. One date most frequently mentioned since has been Jan. 1, 1959 when a proposed Ontario scheme is scheduled to begin.

In the commons Nov. 18, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he proposes to discuss the national plan at the Ottawa fiscal conference with the premiers of provinces that have indicated approval. He said if there is a "reasonably unanimous" agreement among the provinces, the plan would start "as a fair chance" that it has been anticipated."

He also said his government will introduce at this or the next parliamentary session any changes in the plan that experience act needed to bring the plan into effect at the earliest possibility.

Later the House divided 142-32 to defeat a CCF non - confidence motion urging immediate federal payments under the hospital insurance plan to provinces with hospital care plans now in effect.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the debate the CCF motion was the worst kind of red herring and political opportunism" and that the CCF would try to put over was the motion which forced the government to call the House. Health Minister Monteith had repeatedly said the government is committed to putting the hospital plan into effect.

The federal conciliation brought that the Liberals last April said the federal government would pay half the cost of standard ward hospital care and diagnostic services when six provinces representing a majority of Canada's population have legislation in force authorizing their participation.

Since then seven with the required population have agreed to enter.

Fire Raging Out of Control In California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A windspurred brush and timber fire that already has burned through 15,000 acres in the San Gabriel Mountains burned out of control for the third day today.

Fanned by winds of hurricane force, the blaze broke out Thursday near Deer Flat Camp, 14 miles above the suburban communities of Monrovia and Azusa.

In three hours, the fire raged eight miles south to Big Dalton's wooded and brush-covered slopes, and in six hours it had advanced 12 miles on a four-mile front.

Winds slackened, however, and a forest service spokesman said control is expected tonight or Sunday.

Meanwhile, some 1,400 men, including Indian experts, battled the blaze along a 36-mile perimeter. The specially trained Indian firefighters were brought in from Windlow, Ariz., and Gallup, N.M.

No homes were threatened, but the fire burned within a mile along out along the foothills to protect communities in case a sudden wind change should whip the flames in their direction.

Papa Withdraws Charges Against Young Groom

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Charges that Gordon Black, 18, of Keswick unlawfully abducted his 15-year-old bride of two weeks were withdrawn Friday at the request of the girl's father.

The father said he did not want to "interfere in the boy's future", by pressing the charge.

Black, a G.I. baby, was brought back Thursday from his home of Elliot Lake where he and the girl had been living since they ran away from home Oct. 2.

Pay Roll Deductions For Community Chest Planned

The East-Central regional office, the Ontario Hydro Commission, Belleville, last January 1 offered the facilities of voluntary pay roll deductions to employees for subscription to the annual Community Chest appeal here.

Manager of the office, E. G. Gurnett, today said he did not know how much money will be turned over to the Chest this year, but the deduction scheme was instrumented "at the last minute" and ended in May. Next year, though, if the plan is continued, he expects the employees' collective contribution will be greater.

It is believed the regional office of the hydro commission is the first body in this city to subscribe to pay roll deductions. Others, now are considering this method of donating to the United Appeal.

The president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer were chosen as delegates to attend the provincial conference at R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, April 11th and 12th.

With indications of a very busy year the following calendar of major events was approved:

Dec. 7th and 8th, 1957, presidents' and commissioners' conferences (tentative); Feb. 21st, local association get-together at McNeely's for executive committee men; May 10th, Cubaree; May 16th to 19th, Canadian Jamboree; May 25th, Sunday service for all Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies; Aug. 9th to 16th, Cub Camp at Quin-Mo-Lac; Oct. 17th and 18th, Apple Day.

MANY ACTIVITIES PLANNED

The 1st Belleville Group Committee, in a joint effort with their Scout Troop and Cub Pack, held a very successful salvage drive picking up bottles, coat hangers and scrap metal.

The 3rd Belleville former group committee chairman, W. E. Jarvah, has now joined the Belleville Group Committee Scoutmaster. The troop very efficiently carried out the requirement for the Community Chest officials in affixing posters, lamp standards along the main street.

The 5th Belleville Scout Troop is awaiting completion of school building repairs before commencing regular meetings. Mrs. Allison Ashley, reports that some eye-opening news! The very popular Cub Pack of the 5th, Mrs. Allison Ashley, reports that three Cubs, Dyson, Stewart, Gilbert and George Gill, recently passed their 12th Cub test, a remarkable feat. Cubbing admitting them to the ranks of the Exclusive Order of the Wolf. Seven Cubs have passed six 13-badge Cubs which qualifies to be a second Ontario. This very active pack held an investiture during the regular Cub Pack meeting. The second group of the Cubs, to receive their Cub Pack Leaping Wolf badge, the investiture which can be carried into the Scout Troop. The proud parents were there to share in this achievement of their boys' lives.

The 14th Belleville have now had an organized Cub Pack with Cubmaster Bob McMullin. The 16th Cub Pack now has as Assistant Cubmaster, Mr. A. Vader, one of the teaching staff of the O.D.S.

Avondale Cub Pack is rightfully proud of Cub Keith Hammond, who received his 13th badge on Nov. 18. and also joins the ranks of the Exclusive Order of the Wolf.

It is hoped that the village of Stirling may soon form part of the area serviced by the Belleville Boy Scouts Association.

A final closing thought — the movement which Robert Baden-Powell started 50 years ago now includes seven-and-a-half million Scouts throughout the world. Here, surely, is the only real hope of international understanding.

HEART DISEASE PROBABLY HAS NOT INCREASED . . .
The increasing number of reports of heart disorders as a cause of death has been brought about by the swing of medicine. Many persons who formerly might have died of other diseases now live long and useful lives—eventually to succumb to a failing heart which has performed its lifetime of duty.
Therefore—as we grow older, the care of the heart must be considered in our every activity. Have regular check-ups by your Doctor, and follow his guidance carefully. He probably can also help to keep your heart functioning for many extra years of buoyant and happy life. Whenever medication is required, we will be happy to have you bring your prescriptions to this Pharmacy.

A Lift for Living

We Must Control Our Fears

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

As America's national Thanksgiving Day approaches my mind recalls something John Ruskin once said about nations. He declared that in their history the nations often parallel the record of a volcano. A volcano begins in an eruption of molten lava from the hot heart of the earth. Then the lava cools and hardens and the crater eventually becomes extinct.

So, said Ruskin, it often is with nations. They are born in a burning heat of patriotic fervor, they rise in a glow of moving zeal, and then cool down into encrusted institutionalism and harden into lifeless forms. And I wondered if such a change could happen in America.

Of course, it could happen. America could go the way of the powerful nations which once dazzled the world.

Therefore at this Thanksgiving season I desire to address some words to us as individuals. And may I number our Canadian friends that I always think of your nation and ours as sharing the same general traditions and ideals.

The words which I wish to use were spoken by a veteran of life's most trying experiences whose volcanic energy and glowing zeal had not died down. He was writing to a young man who apparently was in danger of losing heart and nerve. Here are the words of Saint Paul to young Timothy: "I remind you to rekindle the gift of God that is within you through the laying on of my hands; for God did not give us a spirit of timidity but a spirit of power and love and self-control."

Like Timothy, this land and people have within them the gift of God through the laying on of ordaining hands. To be sure, this country has not been consecrated in any such spiritual fashion as Saint Paul had ordained Timothy. Nevertheless, the blessings of this North American continent are to be thought of as the gift of God through the material resources of our good earth and the spiritual resources of the people, who developed it.

I need hardly recount to you the religious influences at work in developing the culture of this North American continent. If we would follow the story of New England, we must walk in the footsteps of her preachers. In Pennsylvania the formative influence was the Quakers; in Maryland it was the Roman Catholics; in Virginia, the Church of England; in the Carolinas, the Huguenots; and leading the advance over the Alleghenies were the Methodist "circuit riders," sharing the hardships of the pioneers, shuttling in and out of new settlements, weaving the softer threads of the spirit into the coarse fabric of the rough frontier life. It was the slender spires of the churches which kept the settlers from surrendering to the wildness of the wilderness.

And just as Saint Paul felt young Timothy needed to rekindle his zeal by remembering the faith that was in his mother and grandmother, so now it is time to rekindle the gift of God in us by reminding ourselves of the faith that was in our forefathers.

First of all, said Paul, "God did not give us a spirit of timidity." He did give us an instinct of fear which is an essential part of our nature. Fear, like pain, is an excellent warning us of danger. But when fear, which is good as a sentinel, moves into headquarters and becomes chief of staff, then it plays havoc with our lives.

There was nothing which Jesus felt called upon to challenge more frequently than fear. He saw its devastating effects. How frequently we see men betray themselves and others through fear. When we get scared, we lose our heads and do things out of character. We do foolish things which heighten the danger. Fear may loosen our tongues and make us talk too much, giving ourselves away. Fear may drive us into panic transforming us from men into beasts.

I am thinking about the fears aroused by the sputniks which have been whirling over our heads. To be sure, these satellites sent up by the Soviet Union are the portent of possible peril. They should shake us out of our complacency but not pitch us into a spirit of defeatism.

Let us unite the forces of the Pentagon and catch up with the rocket program of the Russians. But let us not in panic start a "crash" program which would devalue the American and Canadian dollars and narrow all-round education into the single channel of science.

Edison is reported to have said that what man's genius can create, man's character can control. That is our hope and prayer. Our challenge is to develop the character to control our inventions.

INTERESTING FIGURES

The Bank of Montreal's Business Review, which summarizes a 161-page study prepared for the Royal Commission on Canada's economic prospects, states that more Canadians are being employed in "service industries" in proportion to those working in production fields.

Today, the review says, 45 per cent of the labor force is employed in service industries, "generally regarded as comprising all those sections of the economy that do not produce goods but do provide a service of some kind." This proportion, which continues to increase, steadily, compares with 18.5 per cent in 1881, 28 per cent in 1901 and 38 per cent in 1931.

In retail trade, largest of the service industries, employment is expected to rise to 1,610,000 by 1980, more than two-and-a-half times the 1950 figure. It is already foreseen that there will be fewer individually operated stores in the future, with more retail business in the hands of corporations and partnerships.

But the Bank of Montreal study does not see trade necessarily more concentrated in chain or department stores in the future. However, it does forecast "a continuing problem for all types of stores in respect to profit margins, as the effects of rising wage rates and shortening hours of work are unlikely to be offset by increases in productivity."

Government employment, especially, has occupied an increasing proportion of the labor force, and by 1980 this figure may total 665,000, or 2.5 per cent of the forecast population, compared with 1.6 per cent of the 1951 population.

Women workers figure prominently in the service industries, where, for at least the past 25 years, more than 70 per cent of all working women have been employed, despite the marked decline in the number employed as domestics.

Generally speaking, however, the study shows service industries are not "large users of capital equipment in relation to man-power," adding that this feature is mainly responsible for the steady increase in the relative importance of the service industries from the point of view of employment.

In mining and manufacturing, there has been a significant expansion of output with a much smaller increase in employment, while in the case of agriculture higher output has been accompanied by an actual decline in the number of workers.

On the other hand, the rise in output of the service industries has entailed a proportionate, and in some cases more than proportionate, rise in the number of people employed.

Thus it may be seen that a persistent shift in the overall pattern of the labor force has evolved, and with the trend expected to continue, the service industries prior to 1980 employ more people in Canada than all other sectors combined - - a situation that has already been reached in the United States."

SPEECHES ARE SHORTER

The present session of Parliament is destined to be a short one, its chief purpose being to permit the government to put its legislative form a number of pledges made prior to the general election of June 10.

The shorter session has brought with it shorter speeches on the part of MP's of all parties. Some of the "old pros" of the House take up the full 40 minutes allotted them, but many others cut down their speeches to 25, 20, 15 or even ten minutes.

This self-denying, this paring off the fat from speeching, is all to the good. There has always been a lot of unnecessary preamble, of circumlocution, using 100 words where 50 would be ample, and it is to be hoped the new practice will continue.

As the Journal pointed out once when a young member took less than 20 minutes to move the Address in Reply when he could have taken 40, "He said what he had to say and he sat down." When MP's do this they get better attention from their colleagues of the Chamber and are read more carefully in the printed Hansard. (Ottawa Journal.)

JUST FOLKS

LUCK AND SKILL

Luck and Skill were rivals old;
Luck was ever over-bold;
Skill just plodded on his way,
Doing something every day;
Luck by leaps and bounds would fly—
Down today, tomorrow high.

Luck and Skill both chanced to meet
Journeying along the street.
Luck said unto Skill: "Let's race,
Just to see who wins first place."
Skill agreed. Away Luck sped,
In an hour a mile ahead.

Skill seemed, oh, so slow until
Luck approached a mighty hill;
Luck knew not which way to turn;
He had had no time to learn.
Skill, though, seemed the road to know;
Knowledge told him where to go.

Skill looked back at Luck and said:
"Those who trust to you must tread
Many weary miles each day.
I'm the one who knows the way."
Obstacles affright you, Luck.
Skill gets there by brain and pluck."

Russia Is a Vast Sputnik

St. Thomas Times-Journal

On November 7, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, otherwise simply Russia, celebrated the 40th anniversary of its political establishment. The masses have not much cause for rejoicing, but the leaders kid them that they have escaped by a hair's breadth from the yoke in comparison with the people in Capitalist countries.

Soviet leaders, however, can survey the world with satisfaction, and see what enormous progress they have made so far as domination of people and control of territory are concerned. Entire nations have been swallowed up within the Russian orbit without asking for consent, and one dare not have the courage to seek restoration of their independence — Poland, Hungary, East Germany for example. Even the military of Red Russia crushed the risings.

Russia has enslaved millions, including the people of Russia themselves, have been held in subjection by the secret police. Forty years ago the Communist bosses, the Bolsheviks, publicly proclaimed that they would establish the world's greatest democracy, in which all people would be equal and all would be happy. Instead, it is the world's greatest tyranny. In which nobody has freedom to do anything but what the rulers dictate, and where the people are treated worse than the lowest form of Government they want.

There has been a great deal of bloodshed in the building-up of the Soviet empire, but almost entirely the blood of suppressed peoples. So far as Russia herself is concerned she has conquered entire nations and added millions of square miles to her area, much of it fertile. Yet within Russia the population of more than 200,000,000 souls is in such a miserable state.

And look at their economic situation. Working men are not allowed to strike. Neither are the peasants, who are forced to work that is only done in non-Communist countries by men. They can not ask for a raise in wages, they can only work for what they get, even if they may have. They have the lowest food standards in Europe. Except in a few showplaces which outsiders are taken by guides who point to them as perfect, the vast majority of the people live two families to one room.

That is the result of 40 years of Communism. •

Right now — and it was probably carefully timed for this anniversary — Soviet Russia is high on the achievement of its "Sputniks." True, it is a wonderful achievement that has rocked the scientists of other countries back on their heels. In one of them is a little dog heroically sealed in a metal box to die, and Russia relied on no freedom of movement.

The situation of the little dog may be compared to the situation of the people within Communist countries. There is no freedom of any kind; no freedom of movement; no freedom to choose their own employment; no freedom to choose their own employer; no freedom to choose their own home; no freedom to choose their own food; THE GOLDEN YEARS

Retirement Follows Life's Pattern, Does Not Offer Ironclad Security

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here is the case history of a United States man who thinks he doesn't have enough money to retire on.

His name is Clark. He is 66 and is still holding his job a year beyond his company's normal retirement date. He probably can hold it for two more years or so.

Mrs. Clark wants him to retire, and when he does she wants two things: to travel around the country for a while and to trade their old house in for a small, neat new one. Mr. Clark says he can't risk giving up his salary, and even if he did they would have to hoard everything they get as a safeguard against old age.

This, if he retired tomorrow, is what he would get: a total of $133 in Social Security for the two of them, a company pension that will pay him $82 a month as long as he lives but provides nothing for a widow, and interest on an investment that averages $34 a month. That all totals $250.

This is what he and his wife own: an old house they probably could sell for $14,000 net, a 1956 car, $3,800 in U.S. Savings Bonds, and the investment cited above which, since it's paying $34 a month, must be worth about $9,000.

Can they retire with safety?

NO SAFE RETIREMENT

The answer, of course, is no. And that's the place for the Clarks to start as they try to make up their minds. You can't retire with safety on any amount of money, ever. And it's a peculiar fact that the man assured of $10,000 a year after retirement can be much more apprehensive than the one with $3,000.

But the Clarks should realize they can't work with safety either. Or even get out of bed with safety in the morning. They could have been paralyzed in a car wreck last year, or had a $10,000 surgery bill in 1953.

You have to take your chance on reasonable odds. The Clarks' odds are better than reasonable.

Owning their home, the Clarks can live well on their $269 a month. They could get by on $150. But if Mr. Clark dies, Mrs. Clark will have only three-fourths of Mr. Clark's $102 a month Social Security, or $79 a month. The investment would add $34 for a total of $113. That's not enough.

So if Mr. Clark would make arrangements at his company for $46 a month of his pension to be paid to his widow until she dies, she would be assured a total of $159 and be reasonably safe. If this cut his monthly pension down to $43 they would still get $229 while both are living.

Now for Mrs. Clark's travelling. If they took $1,500 of their savings bonds — why save it? You can't see the world from a cemetery — they could live in luxury on the road for two months. And see this whole country. Most likely they'd never want to see a road map again after they got home.

BUY RETIREMENT HOME

And the small neat house. The Clarks have no business taking on another mortgage. But in Arizona, California and Florida there are some charming retirement homes for $10,000 or so. This would leave $4,000 from the sale of the old house. Invested at 4½ per cent it would mean $15 a month more income.

With Mrs. Clark's future provided for Mr. Clark has no need to maintain a life insurance policy beyond the cost of his funeral and some clean-up expenses. He should get hospitalization and surgery insurance for the two of them. He can afford it. He can't afford not to afford it.

With $9,000, plus $4,000 from the old house, plus $10,000 in a new house, plus $1,300 still in savings bonds, the Clarks would be wealthy people. They should want a lawyer, make a will, put their cares in the washing machine, and go have some Golden Years.

Wedding

PROVOST — LUCAS

St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was the setting on Saturday, November 2nd, at 3 p.m. for a pretty fall wedding when the Rev. F. E. Madden, pastor of the church, united in a double-ring ceremony Ila Mae Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lucas, of Lucas, of Actinolite, to Leo Joseph Provost, Marmora, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Provost.

The traditional wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mrs. Robert Sanderson.

The bride was attractively attired in a two-piece ensemble of light beige wool, with brown fleck; autumn brown accessories and brown feather hat. She wore a corsage of yellow roses shingled with fern.

Her attendant was Miss Helen Holgate of Eldorado, who chose a pale blue wool ensemble, with white fleck, navy hat and gloves and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Joe Johnson, of Eldorado, performed the duties of groomsman.

A reception followed with the bride's table daintily appointed in three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, a pink candelabra in silver holders added a nuptial note.

The bride's mother received, wearing slate blue acetate and viscose lace dress with accessories and corsage of pink roses and white 'mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy blue lace over taffeta, with accessories and corsage of pink roses and white 'mums.

Following the reception the young couple left for Ottawa and Hull, Quebec. The bride travelled in her wedding ensemble. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Provost will reside in Marmora.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a presentation given by the girls of the Madoc branch of the Bell Telephone Company, where she was employed; also a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Floyd Lucas, of Actinolite, sister-in-law of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paul Ryan are pictured leaving the Church of St. Michael the Archangel following their recent marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edward Royall of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Ryan, also of Belleville. RYAN — ROYALL

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 9th., at 10.00 a.m., in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when the Reverend F. O'Neil, of Stirling, united in marriage Margaret Elizabeth Royall, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edward Royall, of Belleville, to Joseph Paul Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Ryan. Tall standards, white chrysanthemums and ferns adorned the sanctuary and the altar and pulpit rails bows designated the guest pews. Masters Bill Ryan, brother of the bridegroom, and Murray McMahon, brother, cousin of the bride, were acolytes.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, who sang "Ave Maria," before the ceremony, and "Panis Angelicus" during the Offertory, and whilst the nuptial vows were being exchanged.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a ballerina-length bridal gown of heavy white nylon net over taffeta, fashioned with strapless, sweetheart bodice, having a rayon jacket of Sweetheart lace, with long, sheath-like sleeves, and Peter Pan collar. The bouffant skirt was accented by three panniers of rayon lace and nylon net. Her lace-edged French tulle veil of illusion, in shoulder length, was held by a tiara encrusted with mother-of-pearl and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of white Bridal rosebuds and tiny pink Sweetheart rosettes, knotted with white satin and tulle.

Miss Joan Pershick of Renfrew, as maid of honor, and Miss Barbara Ireland of Belleville, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in pale blue nylon and rayon in ballerina-lengths, with lace cap-sleeved bolero, and standup collars. They wore matching mitts and feathered headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of carnations and blue 'mums.

Mr. John Bohan of Belleville was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Michael Ryan of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Gerald O'Shea, also of Belleville, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Queen's Motel, Kingston Road, where the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with white Pinocchio 'mums and pink Sweetheart rosettes, and clouded about the base with white net with flecks of rainbow satin ribbon. The bridal bouquets also added their nuptial accent.

The bride's mother received, wearing navy blue lace over taffeta with dusty rose accessories and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's mother who was attired also in navy blue lace over nylon with winter-white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, Hamilton, London and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a rust wool suit with cream-colored accessories, fur shorties coat and corsage of bronze and yellow 'mums. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will reside at 83 Grier Street, Belleville.

Guests attended from Renfrew, Stirling, Tweed, Gananoque, Picton and St. Patrick and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a coffee party at the home of Mrs. Harold Ireland, Belleville, when she was the recipient of an aluminum canister set and luncheon set. She was also entertained at two private functions from the Deloro-Stellite Company of co-workers.

First Woman Magistrate Was Not Afraid

EDMONTON (CP)—Demolition crews this winter will tear down the building housing the court room in which Mrs. Emily Murphy, the Commonwealth's first woman magistrate, presided for 15 years.

Mrs. Murphy became known as Janey Canuck in her crusade against the drug traffic, and her leadership in the women's suffrage movement helped win legal rights of women to become members of the Senate at Ottawa.

When she died in 1933, two years after giving up her post, women she had sentenced to prison came to lay a single rose on her coffin. Her husband, Rev. George Murphy, died in Vancouver in 1949 at 93, oldest Anglican clergyman in Canada.

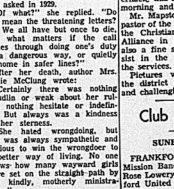
Mrs. Murphy's part in the "persons" case is history. After two years of litigation, she and women won a decision from the judicial committee of the privy council in London that women are persons in the language of the British North America Act.

STAUNCH CAMPAIGNER

She is perhaps best remembered however for her fight against narcotics addiction. In the old Edmonton police station she handled many cases, from which she drew material for her book, The Black Candle.

In 1923, two men charged with narcotics offences argued that her book proved she was prejudiced against drug addicts and peddlers, but they were unsuccessful in having her barred from the case.

Because of her book and the investigation which led up to it, Mrs. Murphy's life was threatened. "Are you not afraid?" she was asked in 1929.



"Of what?" she replied. "Do you mean the threatening letters? No. We all have but once to die, and what matters it when, or how, or through being one's duty in a dangerous way, or quietly in one's home in safer limes?"

After her death, author Mrs Nellie McClung wrote:

"Certainly there was nothing maudlin or weak about her ruthless attack on drugs or indefinite. But always was a kindness in her sternness.

She had a wrongdoing, but she was always sympathetic and anxious to win the wrongdoer to a better way of living. No one knows how many wayward girls were set on the straight path by her kindly, motherly ministrations."

Mrs. Murphy's daughter, Evelyn recently presented the city archives with some of her mother's books and many press clippings.
